That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones, call around and see us.

Open Evenings until after Christmas

Cough-Stop

That is what Edmison's Cough-Stop says to those suffering from the prevailing colds—with that wearing, irritating cough.

It will give you relief when nothing else will.

If it does not do you good ask for your money back. You will get it cheerfully.

It will be a pleasure to measure you, and finish and deliver your garments promptly, minus the high price.

JAPANESE SAY REPORT ABSURD

Do Not Credit Report of Kuroki's Death.

Russians Cannonading the Jap Fortifications from Mukden—Sixty Shells Per Hour.

REPORT ABSURD.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Tokio, Nov. 15.—The Japanese Army staff pronounces the report of Gen. Kuroki's death to be absurd.

HEAVY CANNONADING.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Mukden, Nov. 15.—Via Tien Tsin.—An unbroken cannonade of siege guns throwing fifty or sixty shells per hour against the Japanese position in the region of Shakhe Station, begun early this morning, ended only at night fall when more than have a thousand big contact shells had been thrown into the Japanese Army's strongest position in the Plain for the purpose of demoralizing the work of fortification proceeding at that point for the last four weeks.

The distress of the natives has increased, twenty thousand refugees are being fed daily at Mukden.

THE HOME PAPER.

If Well Supported It Is of Great Benefit to the Town.

This is an age of advertising. Publicity is the watchword. It is the most enlightened age the old world has ever known. Only a small percentage of the people do not read, and it is in fact a rare thing to find an illiterate person in any community. In every farmer's house can be found from one to a dozen newspapers and periodicals.

The old style farmer is fast passing, and there is a general admission that intelligence is needed on the farm as well as in the business house and factory, says The Home Trade Advocate. With telephones, daily rural delivery service and every innovation of civilization farmers are fast becoming noted as among the educated and advanced citizens of the land. They are readers. Growing generations in agricultural communities have all the advantages that the youth of cities have and a few of the disadvantages and surely breathe a healthier moral atmosphere.

The farmer is the main support of the country press. He feels interested in all local affairs, and his home paper is the means of keeping him informed of things going on immediately about him. If the average merchant would give as substantial support to the home paper as does the farmer the editor would not only be enabled to give the farmer a better paper, represent his interests better, but the merchant would receive a benefit in seeing his town improve and its business increased.

Hard Day in School.

Father — What are you crying about, Bobby? Bobby (between sobs)—I don't want to go to school today. Father—Why not? Bobby—Sister jilted the teacher last night.—Melbourne Weekly Times.

Stubborn Skin Diseases.

Nothing is more discouraging than a case of eczema or salt rheum which refuses to heal. By using Dr. Chase's Ointment, however, you soon see that new skin is forming, and the sore part is becoming smaller and smaller. The itching is entirely overcome after a few applications, and you are given satisfactory evidence that a continuation of the treatment will bring a thorough cure.

SEVERE STORM PASSED US BY.

Nine Inches of Snow Reported From New Brunswick, New York and Pennsylvania—Terrible Havoc to Wires.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—The big storm which began Sunday in Florida and swept up the New England States will not be felt here, says the weather man. Instead it is by this time heading across the Atlantic or spreading itself in the vicinity of Newfoundland. Having traveled with great rapidity northward, it was yesterday raging over the Maritime Provinces.

Such storms as this generally travel along the Gulf stream, which follows the eastern coast till it reaches the Bay of Fundy, where it branches and crosses the Atlantic in the direction of the British Isles.

Nine Inches of Snow.

The storm took the proportions of almost a hurricane, accompanied by snow and rain, and yesterday was at its height. About nine inches of snow has been reported from New Brunswick, New York and Pennsylvania. As far west as Erie on Lake Erie heavy snow falls took place and there was a light fall in the high lands of Bruce and Huron Counties. The local effect was evidenced in the strong northerly gale. In the Northwest Territories the barometer is low and they are enjoying mild weather, which will likely prevail in Ontario also.

Never Worse.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Albany has never had a worse demoralization of wire communication than that which isolated it yesterday, as a result of Sunday night's storm. For nearly 24 hours neither by telegraph nor telephone was communication possible, with any point further than Cohoes, eight miles outside the city. Wires are down all over the city.

Wires Weighed Down.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Nov. 15.—The worst wire conditions ever known in this city resulted from the storm of Sunday night. Beginning with rain the downpour turned into snow and the wires were soon weighted down, causing the poles and wires to fall all over the city and in the country. The trunk lines of the Postal, Western Union Telegraph and the Long Distance Telephone Co. are all down, with the exception of one Western Union wire which was used all night, to despatch New York Central trains, the movement of which was but slightly delayed by the storm. The streets are full of live wires and during the night Mayor Hims ordered all power shut off so that the city was in darkness and the trolley cars were stalled. Policemen warned citizens to keep off the streets and linemen refused to send out cabs. Linemen worked all night, and cars were running yesterday, but all lines of communication were still crippled. Similar conditions are reported throughout the State.

Wind Blews Women Over.

New York, Nov. 15.—The wind all Sunday afternoon played havoc with passengers who got on and off the trolley cars at Broadway and Seventh avenue. The vortex of a whirlwind seemed to have its abiding place there, and it did stunts to women's clothing that the Flatiron breeze never dreamed of doing. It blew Miss Emily Trevelyan of Boston, right down in a mud puddle and scratched her face badly. She was just stepping off a Seventh avenue car when the wind caught her. She fell on the tracks behind the car. Her head hit the pavement and she was unconscious for a few minutes. She was carried to a nearby drug store and revived.

"Trustee" Lost in Storm.

Three prisoners from among several hundred confined on an island in the East River for petty offences are thought to have lost their lives in Sunday's storm. They were "trustees" and had rowed a party of visitors back to the city. In the face of the storm the men started back to the island, but their boat was caught in the high seas which swept them out of sight.

Feet of Snow Falls.

York, Pa., Nov. 15.—Nearly twelve inches of snow fell here Sunday. The heavy weight of the snow broke down electric wires all over the city, and both power plants here were compelled to close to protect life and property.

Driven Insane By Weather.

New York, Nov. 15.—Twelve patients had been committed Sunday to the psychopathic ward in Bellevue Hospital up to 10 o'clock p.m. for examination as to their sanity. Dr. Menas Gregory, the chief alienist, is of the opinion that the weather is responsible for the increase in this class of patents, which he says is unprecedented.

NEWS OF TO-DAY.

All Barber Shops will be closed all Thanksgiving Day.

$1,000 Damages For a Death.

Woodstock, Nov. 14.—The suit of Margaret Snowden v. the G.T.R. was set down for the Stratford assizes, but has been settled out of court. This suit was for unstated damages for the death of the plaintiff's son, Fireman Snowden, who was killed on the Grand Trunk in the Trainor's Cut collision, near Guelph, last April. The settlement, it is understood, gives the plaintiff $1,200 and costs.

Booth's Retort.

In the days of his management at the Winter garden in New York Edwin Booth received a letter from a clergyman saying that he wished to see Booth in his principal parts, but desired, if possible, to be admitted into the theater by a side door, as he did not care to run any risk of being seen by his parishioners entering from the front. Edwin Booth made answer in these words: "Sir, there is no door in my theater through which God cannot see."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Pleasant to Take.

The finest quality of granulated loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavour similar to maple syrup, making it quite pleasant to take. Mr. W. L. Roderick, of Poolesville, Md., in speaking of this remedy, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with my children for several years and can truthfully say it is the best preparation of the kind I know of. The children like to take it and it has no injurious after effect. For sale by all druggists.

THE LIBERAL PARTY AND THE CONVENTION.

The younger men of the Liberal party have heard with gratification of the call for a convention in Toronto on November 23rd, as it will give the party an opportunity to discover and assert what its purposes are to be in the next few years. Neither party in Ontario stands pledged to anything in particular that concerns the younger electors. They are left to choose sides on the old issues that determined their fathers in their choice of sides. It will be, we believe, a distinct strengthening of the party if the present is made to furnish issues on which the coming elections shall be fought.

There is not to-day on the horizon any question so important to the average man as that of establishing the right of municipalities to look after their own welfare. Toronto, for instance, is confronted with problems that do not arise in the experience of smaller communities. A small town may have a problem which may seem trival to larger places, but which is all-important to itself. When the Dominion Parliament or the Provincial Legislature has to deal with a local interest that seems to be devoid of general importance, it too often happens that representatives from far and near have no inclination to apply themselves to a study of it. Toronto has difficulty in impressing the Legislature with the importance to her of retaining the control of her streets. Complications of the future which our experts in city affairs see arising, and aim to avert, are not visible to members of the Legislature who are not versed at all in the complex interests of a big city. Situations wholly new arise as a city grows large under modern conditions, and by nobody can these be so well dealt with as the greatest good of the greatest number, as by those who are most closely interested. Nor is the argument one that concerns big cities alone, but touches all municipalities. What we would like to see the Liberals do is to recognize the rights of municipalities to enlarged self-control. Nothing will so fully meet the desires of the age; nothing could be sounder in policy. During recent sessions of the Legislature both political parties were found agreed on denying to municipalities permission to do new and enterprising things which the spirit of the times prompted them to do. We have reached a turning point, and we hope to see the Liberal party come out with a programme showing it to be the party of reform.

Not only should the powers of municipalities be enlarged and their tendency to introduce municipal ownership sanctioned by a declaration of policy on the part of the Liberal party, but in our opinion the Liberal organization should declare for, what its followers believe in and could grow enthusiastic over, the Provincial control and operation of such utilities as are in the hands of the Province. There are water powers in Ontario that should not pass out of public control. Where a town will develop its own power the preference should be given the town, rather than a company. Where several towns could be served together, the province could lend its co-operation, so far as advisable, for the production and transmission of energy.

On the taxation of railways, the Liberal Convention could make a declaration that would much gratify the supporters of the party all over the province. The opinion is widespread that in Ontario and Canada generally the people get no return whatever from their forbearance in the taxing of railways, and that, in every way, the principle so far followed is unsound.

There is a minority in the Liberal party who believe that voting should be made compulsory—thereby doing away with house-to-house canvassing and placing on the elector the necessity of bringing out his own vote. The advocates of this claim that nearly all the evils that arise in elections would thus be removed. They should speak up at the convention and compel a consideration of the proposal.

At this convention the men who advocate new and advanced ideas should be given the floor. We speak the simple truth when we say that to-day the people of Ontario are in advance of both political parties, as their policies have been put forward in the Legislature. The time is ripe for new measures—Toronto Star.

SERVED THEM RIGHT.

The Ottawa Free Press draws attention to the disastrous result to the Conservatives of the Dundonald agitation. In Ottawa, the centre of the agitation, both Liberals were elected. In Glengarry, where the Highlanders were expected to avenge His Lordship's dismissal, the Government supporter was elected by a large majority. In the Eastern Townships, where the Pickell affair had its storm centre, Hon. Sydney Fisher secured a magnificent triumph. In Nova Scotia, the Minister of Militia received a majority of votes three times in excess of any previous majority. At Halifax Hon. Mr. Borden was defeated. In Victoria and Haliburton, Col. Hughes, Dundonald's champion, received a smaller number of votes than ever before, and in Montreal the only Liberal to meet defeat was the man who organized the Dundonald demonstration in that city. It may be added that in West Hamilton, where an effort was made to make political capital of the Dundonald affair, the Tory candidate was defeated. The Dundonald issue is now good and dead.

THE BANKS AND THE G. T. P. R.

Mr. E. S. Clouston, who has been attending the annual meeting of the Bankers' Association in Toronto, is reported to have told a newspaper man that the Canadian banks will be ready to assist the Grand Trunk Pacific financially should such assistance be required. Canadian banks are never unwilling to aid national enterprises, he said, and he might have pointed out that the Bank of Montreal did a good deal to back up the Canadian Pacific Railway enterprise; and that quite recently the Bank of Montreal, the Royal Bank and others, have been indispensable friends of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company's enterprises. Whether, however, the Grand Trunk Pacific will be able or willing to borrow much money here, depends a good deal upon the price. The credit of the Canadian Government is very high in London now, and, although the present time is not the most propitious for going into the market to raise a big loan, still, when the bulk of the money is presently required, the Government guaranteed bonds would probably fetch a good deal better price in London than in Montreal or Toronto. The most significant remark that Mr. Clouston is reported to have made is that there are now too many banks in the country, and that there are many indications that point to amalgamation in certain quarters. Already we have seen the Bank of Commerce absorb the Bank of British Columbia, and a Halifax Bank, to the advantage, no doubt, of the Bank of Commerce, and the banking strength of the country. Such a union, however, was a small matter to what the amalgamation of, say, the Bank of Montreal, Bank of Commerce, and Merchants Bank, would be. The combined capital of these three banks is twenty-nine million dollars, at par, and the combined rest is sixteen million, two hundred thousand dollars. —Montreal Witness.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hurry up, there somebody! Mr. Borden is getting tired standing.

The United States Government has found out that it costs more to construct battleships in the Government naval yards than by contract. Another case of "Government ownership" found unproductive.

The Ottawa Citizen persists in its opinion that in the event of Mr. Borden's declining the leadership the Conservative Opposition in the House of Commons "should accept the public dictum and efface itself as an organised opposition."

It is refreshing to hear the Tory papers admit that Hon. Mr. Stratton's department has been excellently managed. Now if they will go on and admit that the campaign of slander and vilification conducted against him is a disgrace to the Conservative party of Ontario they will show a spirit of repentance that may work good in the party.—Hamilton Times.

The following are the majorities by which the parties were elected to power since 1867:

1867—Conservative... 22
1872—Conservative... 6
1873—Liberal... 50
1878—Conservative 68
1887—Conservative... 29
1891—Conservative... 21
1896—Liberal... 35
1900—Liberal... 51

It will be seen that twice the Conservatives were put in office with a majority of 68. When all the elections are held and the ballots counted the Liberal Government's majority will b elarger than that figure—probably 70.

TRAVELLERS ARE GREAT SUFFERERS

From Indigestion and Dyspepsia but are Finding Sure Relief in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—What Mr. H. Hutchinson Says.

Probably no class of people are so much troubled with indigestion and Dyspepsia as travelling men. The constant change of diet, and the different styles of cooking keep their stomachs constantly at work, and as a consequence always in need of rest. Those travellers are now finding the rest their stomachs require in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Mr. H. Hutchinson, of Chatham, buyer for one of Canada's big mercantile houses, who crosses the ocean several times each year, says:—

"I must confess one of the greatest blessings I ever received comes from using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I suffered for a long time from Dyspepsia till some time ago a friend bought me a box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and from the very first box I got relief. I keep them by me and if at any time I feel that my food is likely to disagree with me I just take one or two Tablets and feel no more effects of Indigestion.

RE CHRISTIAN BROTHERS.

Court of Appeal Sustains Judge MacMahon's Decision.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—"We agree with the learned trial judge and we think he has rightly construed the statute as it now stands, and the saving which is referred to does not extend as far as contended, and the judgment expressed by the learned judge on this point is correct as well as his judgment in other respects. The appeal is therefore dismissed."

These are the concluding words of Chief Justice Moss yesterday in delivering the judgment of the Court of Appeal, which finally decides that the Christian Brothers have no right to teach in the Separate Schools of Ontario, and that the members of that organization now teaching in the Ottawa Separate School must be dismissed as soon as the temporary certificates granted them by the Ontario Government expires.

Committed Suicide On the Ocean.

Plymouth, Eng., Nov. 15.—The commander of the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II., on her arrival yesterday, reported that Adam Weiss of Chicago, a passenger on the steamer, which left New York, Nov. 8, committed suicide two hours after leaving New York. He shot himself in the second steward's cabin and died a few minutes later. No cause for the dead was assigned.

THINGS TO BE THANKFUL FOR.

The Pioneer Sees Many Causes for Thanksgiving.

The Temperance Outlook is one Which Gives Great Reason to Feel Thankful—The Province Progressing in This Respect.

The Pioneer, a jornal published in the interests of social progress and moral reform, says that among the things that the Province has to be thankful for is:—

"In no other civilized community is the liquor traffic restrained within as close limits as those which restrain it in our Dominion. Our licenses are fewer in proportion to our population, and our per capita consumption of strong drink is less than in the case in other countries.

"Canada consums five gallons of liquor per capita. The consumption in the United States is over nineteen gallons, and in Great Britain over thirty gallons. In most European countries the consumption of alcohol is nearly as large as that of Great Britain. Canada's liquor consumption is only one-fourth that of the nation that comes nearest to it in sobriety, and only one-sixth that of the Old World nations.

"We are not only comparatively well off in this respect, but we are getting better off. Progress is steady. The extent of prohibition territory is continually increasing. The liquor laws of every Province are being steadily tightened up. Public opinion against the liquor evil is continually increasing. The outlook is bright.

"In the Province of Ontario thirty years ago with a comparatively small population, we had more than 6,000 places licensed to sell strong drink. To-day we have less than 3,000. Those who sell liquor now must obey stricter laws, and operate within more limited hours. Drunkenness is more of a disgrace than it ever was. Drinking habits are a barrier to social respect and to preferment in both public and private business.

"The churches of the land are arrayed against the liquor evil as they never were before. The party that champions the temperance cause grows steadily larger, and the ranks of those who advocate the maintenance of the liquor traffic are steadily thinned. Unless the chariot wheels of progress should be stayed by some untoward event of which there is no indication, the developing process that has been going on and is going on must speedily crush the remaining liquor traffic out of existence."

WHAT A CITY CAN DO

Great Improvements Effected by the Improvement of the Clyde.

Glasgow is a self-made city. Or as they say in Scotland, Glasgow made the Clyde, and the Clyde made Glasgow. To a municipal institution, known as the Clyde Navigation Trust, is due, more than anything else, the transformation of Glasgow from a small inland town to a great commercial and manufacturing metropolis of a million inhabitants.

Originally the Clyde was a shallow stream, and at various places between Glasgow and Greenock, where it enters the Firth of Clyde, was readily forded by "lang-leggit lassies." As early as 1730 a movement to improve the Clyde was begun under the auspices of the Town Council, but it was not until the second quarter of the nineteenth century that the problem of opening the Clyde to Navigation was tackled systematically. Indeed some of the older citizens of Glasgow can remember when the Clyde below the city was still fordable. To-day Glasgow is one of the best equipped shipping ports in the Kingdom. The Clyde is navigable by ships of the largest tonnage, and from its banks colossal ship-building establishments are continually launching new leviathans of the deep. For miles and miles the commodious docks of Glasgow line the Clyde, and for miles of miles the sullen clangor of ponderous steel plates jarring on more ponderous frames, punctuated by the pattering roar of unnumbered hydraulic riveters, reverberate along the banks of the busy river, which was once a silent and shallow stream. "The Clyde improvement project," says Albert Shaw, "must always stand as the most striking example in the history of municipalities of greatness achieved by deliberate purpose in the face of extraordinary difficulties.

Since its organization this municipal board has expended upwards of 100,000,000 dollars in its improvement works. But nevertheless, it is, and has been for some years, a self-sustaining organization. At present it has a revenue of over $2,000,000 annually—derived from tonnage dues, quay dues etc.

It enjoys a monopoly of everything pertaining to the harbor, supplies ships with water; operates a remarkable and interesting service of ferries and harbor steamers; manages the magnificent graving docks, cranes, weighing scales and various yards and offices. After paying the interest on its large indebtedness, and making due provision for sinking funds, the trust still has an ample margin to justify the constant undertaking of new and important projects in harbor improvement.

Originally, an ordinary committee of council was entrusted with the work of deepening the Clyde, and providing shipping facilities for the port. But at present the Navigation Trust has a legal existence distinct from the Council, though it is still a recognized department of the city government. The acting members of the directing board are now elected directly by the shipping merchants and larger ratepayers. Of course, the Lord Provist and the city fathers are ex-officio the dominating influence on this board, but as a general rule the administration of the functions relegated to the Trust is left in the hands of the elected representatives of the business community. Under this system, the trust, readily adapts its operations to the commercial requirements of the community. Perhaps no department of city government has ever been more perfectly organized, or administered with more success. Certainly, in the conduct of the varied functions and vast interests committed to its charge, the Clyde Navigation Trust has given immense and uniform satisfaction to the business and shipping community.

THE CRACK OF DOOM

Peace-Lovers' Dream Shattered by Count Cassini.

FIGHT TO THE BITTER END

Russian Ambassador's Emphatic Words About Russia's Determination to Wage War Against Japan Until the Japanese Are Conquered—His Opinion of End of War Talk—100 Miles of Front.

Washington, Nov. 15.—"Russia will pursue the war in the East to the bitter end, that is until Russia has conquered." These were the opening words of an emphatic statement made at the Russian Embassy yesterday by Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador. Several times recently the Ambassador, in the name of his Government, has categorically denied the possibility of any intervention in the war, but the recurrence of rumors that the powers contemplated mediation has caused the Ambassador to reiterate, on behalf of his Government, its position regarding intervention or mediation of any kind.

The statement continues: "I deem it my duty to reiterate what I have so often said, that Russia will not suspend in any case her military operations in the Far East. All rumors and reports regarding the possible success of the direct overtures for peace which Japan is said to have made to Russia, and regarding the mediation of the powers, in my opinion, are started for the purpose of convincing the people that the end of the war is close at hand. In this way it is hoped that the public may be led to believe that Japan loans offer attractive investments."

100 Miles of Front.

New York, Nov. 15.—The Herald prints the following from Mukden, dated Sunday: I have just returned here from a second tour extending over 100 miles along the Russian front, from east of Bensiaputze to west of the railway.

The position is practically unchanged.

Cannonading continues daily, and a battle is evidently imminent.

Gen. Kuropatkin has stopped the destruction of houses, which were being used for the supply of firewood, and the farmers are now allowed to carry what is left of their harvest into Mukden.

The streets of Mukden are littered with damaged agricultural produce.

Francis McCullagh.

On a Large Scale.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 15.—The latest indications from the front point to an early resumption of military operations on a large scale. Field Marshal Oyama has received heavy reinforcements from Newchwang, and evidently is about ready to wage the attack on Mukden. The Japanese are showing activity on their right flank as if they were contemplating a turning movement from that direction. General Kuropatkin, has fortified his positions along the Shakhe River, and as he seemingly is prepared to accept a battle he doubtless has made dispositions to block a flanking operation. Arcording to the opinion of military authorities here his left flank is secure.

To Send More Men.

London, Nov. 15.—The Daily Telegraph correspondent at St. Petersburg asserts that the Emperor has decided to send out the second divisions of infantry of the guards as soon as the troops already called out shall have been despatched to Manchuria. The guards usually are only sent to the front when there is a monarch or a grand duke in command. The despatch of these troops, the correspondent adds, show the determination of the Emperor to struggle to the bitter end.

In a Few Days.

Mukden, Nov. 15.—Since Sunday signs of the engagement taking place within the next few days have been increasing. The Japanese are displaying great activity eastward. Fears are beginning to be expressed

NEVER NEGLECT EVERY-DAY ILLS.

A cold is one of the everyday ills of life. People of all ages, in summer and in winter, are liable to catch cold, and a cold is always dangerous, because a cold is but the beginning of catarrh of some internal organ—head, lungs, stomach or pelvic organs. Any remedy that will cure a cold should cure the many effects of a cold. That's why Smith's Triple Cure is so popular, why people are so enthusiastic after experiencing its wonderful curative power: Smith's Triple Cure promptly cures colds and catarrh wherever located, because it acts directly on the depressed nerve centres, giving strength and vigor to tired nerves, removing the congestion of the circulation and imparting renewed vitality to the mucous membranes.

Picture to yourself the horrors of bronchial catarrh—the terrible cough, disgusting expectoration, wheezy breath and loss of strength, or the tortures of nasale catarrh—the swollen bowels, shooting pains, offensive discharges, displacements and bursting distress, and then realize, if you can, how thankful these sufferers are for Smith's Triple Cure which has delivered them out of their troubles. Is it any wonder that Smith's Triple Cure is rapidly displacing all other catarrh treatments in hospitals and sanitariums and is prescribed by the medical profession generally? It meets a want felt for centuries, yet felt now in this strenuous life of care as never before. Smith's Triple Cure cures catarrh sufferers of all ages, makes the sick well and the weak strong; it builds up healthy digestion, makes strong nerves and enriches the blood. That's why all the world is praising it, why its magical curative power is talked about in the homes and on the streets.

Smith's Triple Cure consists of four separate preparations, three remedies taken internally acting on the mucous membranes, stomach, liver and digestive organs, purifying and enriching the blood, and a catarrh cream used locally in allaying all inflammation and killing all disease germs in the nasal passages, throat and lungs, a full two weeks' treatment of combined remedies, sold for only 50 cents by all dealers, the greatest value for the money ever offered. If your druggist won't supply you, send 25 two-cent stamps by mail today, and we will send it postpaid and guarantee safe delivery. Address W. F. Smith Co., 185 St. James St., Montreal.

Pathetic Appeal.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 15.—M. Perloff, the millionaire merchant of Moscow, has received a pathetic letter from Madame Stoessel, wife of General Stoessel, dated Port Arthur, Oct. 24, appealing to the rich Muscovites for money to assist the helpless wounded defenders of the fortress, some of whom have lost both arms, others either an arm or a leg, some of them being blind and others suffering from wounds in the spine and who will be cripples for life. There are, she adds, very many such unfortunates Fight Between Patrols.

General Kuropatkin's headquarters, by way of Mukden, Sunday, Nov. 13.—(Delayed.)—Frequent fights between the opposing patrols occurred to-day. The Russians with heavy howitzers and six-inch gun batteries shell the Japanese trenches and give the working parties little respite. Large numbers of Russian officers are arriving at the front to replace those who have fallen. The Russian army is realizing more fully day by day the enormous task involved in driving back the Japanese. Great hopes, however, are placed an the Russian second Pacific squadron. The troops are now better fed than at any previous period, and the roads are in good condition, enabling reinforcements to leave the trains at stations higher up the line and march to Mukden, thus relieving the pressure on the railroad.

WILL BE PUNISHED.

Ballot Box Men Will Be Prosecuted By Dominion Government.

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—The Dominion Government are making a strict investigation into the alleged introduction of bogus ballot-boxes in West Hastings, and if there is wrongdoing the guilty parties will be punished. As soon as the attention of Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick was drawn to the report he instructed the Dominion police to conduct an inquiry, and Constable Chamberlain was sent to Belleville for that purpose. He reported to his chief that ballot-boxes had been imported from the United States as bee hives, and brought into West Hastings. Not satisfied with this, the Minister of Justice despatched the Commissioner of Dominion Police to West Hastings. Lieut.-Col. Sherwood went to Belleville on Friday, Mr. Fitzpatrick wired to Mr. G. F. Shepley, K. C., of Toronto, to consult with Col. Sherwood, and to take proceedings against any persons who might be shown to have been privy to a conspiracy to stuff the ballots.

POLITICS IN A NUTSHELL.

Welland, Nov. 15.—Evan Fraser of Niagara Falls South was yesterday nominated by the Conservative party as their candidate for the approaching Ontario election.

Hyman Gained One.

London, Nov. 15.—Hon. Mr. Hyman's majority has been increased by one in the recount. He lost two and gained three, while his opponent, Mr. Gray, lost three and gained three.

Bad Teeth Bad Soldiers.

London, Nov. 14.—Deficient teeth are not in the future to prevent enlistment in the British army of otherwise suitable recruits. Would-be soldiers found suffering from decayed teeth must, however, be prepared, to put down a sum not to exceed $15 towards the expense of fitting them with artificial teeth.

These facts are set forth in a circular by the secretary of the army council

Death List of Eleven.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 14. Eleven persons were killed and 10 or 15 injured in a head-on collision Saturday between Union Pacific westbound passenger No. 3 and an eastbound extra freight train on the Oregon Short Line.

A SCHOONER BURNED

The Vessel William Crosthwaite is a Total Loss.

LIKEWISE STEAMER ALERT

Loss of the Schooner Annie Falconer Went Down in the Gale With a Cargo of Coal—Mate James Sullivan Perished of Exposure After Crew Had Landed On Amherst Island.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 15.—The schooner William Crosthwaite was burned to the water's edge while lying at anchor near Whitefish Point Sunday night. The vessel is a total loss. When the fire broke out her crew of six men were at supper and barely had time to launch the lifeboat and get clear of the schooner, before the craft was wrapped in flames. No effort could be made to check the progress of the fire, and the schooner was totally destroyed. It is supposed the fire was caused by an overheated stove in the galley.

Steamer Alert Burns.

Lakefield, Nov. 15.—The steamer Alert was burned to the water's edge at the dock here yesterday afternoon. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss is about $4,000, partly covered by insurance.

SCHOONER WENT DOWN IN GALE.

Mate of Annie Falconer Wanders Away and Dies.

Picton, Nov. 15.—The schooner Annie Falconer, owned and sailed by Capt. Murny Ackerman of Picton, went down in the gale on Saturday night, between the False Duck Islands and Timber Island. The Falconer was on her way from Sodus Point, N.Y., to Picton with a load of soft coal for A. W. Hepburn, Picton. The crew took to the boats and after hours of suffering and hardship reached shore at Emerald, on Amherst Island, 20 miles from the scene of the wreck. James Sullivan, the mate, after reaching land, wandered away, and when found by his mates, had perished from cold and exposure. His body was brought here yesterday morning for burial. The crew all belong to Picton.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.

Two Engines Collide On the Grand Trunk Near Whitby.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—George Knox, conductor; F. A. Flynn, fireman, and James Powell, brakeman, all employes of the Grand Trunk Railway, and all residents of East Toronto, were brought to the Emergency Hospital in Toronto early yesterday morning, suffering from injuries received in a rear-end collision near Whitby, between one and two o'clock. Engine No. 860, light, in charge of Alf. Lemeasurer, was run into by No. 863, with caboose. Engineer George Coomb was in charge of the latter engine. Both engines were derailed and badly damaged. Flynn, who was on the forward engine, jumped, and dislocated his ankle. Knox dropped from the roof to the floor of the caboose and had his spine badly injured. Powell had his foot slightly twisted.

Conductor Knox attributes the collision to a misunderstanding of orders. The engines came together at a sharp curve.

Serious Wreck Just Averted.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—The passengers on the North Bay train leaving the Union Station at 1.45 o'clock on Saturday afternoon had a narrow escape from a serious accident. While the express was running at high speed, between Newmarket and Holland Landing, one of the main axles of the locomotive broke, permitting one of the large drive wheels to fall off. This obstruction stopped the train very quickly, the rude jolts alarming the passengers. Before the train came to a halt, the engine was badly broken, and a portion of the track and roadbed badly torn up. The fireman, alarmed at the bumping of the locomotive, jumped, though the engineer held fast the throttle. No person was seriously injured.

An auxiliary was brought from Allandale, and the train taken back to Newmarket. Traffic was delayed for several hours.

Freights Collide.

London, Nov. 15.—Two freight trains collided in the Grand Trunk yards here yesterday afternoon. Three cars were smashed. The caboose was splintered, but the trainmen escaped by jumping.

Falls Headlong Two Storeys.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—While wheeling a barrow full of debris past a trap hole in the second storey of one of the new buildings being erected by Clancy Bros. in the fire district, J. W. Wellby, of 365 East Queen street, lost his balance and plunged headlong, barrow and all, to the ground, two storeys below. When fellow-workmen came to his assistance Wellby was in an unconscious condition. With his hands he had tried to protect himself as he fell, with the result that both wrists were broken, and his left forearm and right elbow. His skull also was fractured. The unfortunate man was taken to the Emergency Hospital and his condition is critical.

Lost His Right Hand.

Galt, Nov. 15.—John Gilchrist, a farm hand working on the farm of A. Veitch, eight miles from town, lost his right hand while operating a cutting box yesterday. He nearly died from loss of blood while being taken to Galt, but he is now in the hospital and likely to recover.

U.S. Scouts Ambushed.

Manila, Nov. 15.—The news has been received here that nine scouts of the 38th Company and one American attached to the Hospital Corps have been killed in an ambush on the east coast of Samar.

Pitiful Helplessness.

Victims of nervous diseases are the most to be pitied, because their ailments usually terminate in mental or physical helplessness. Paralysis, locomotor ataxia and insanity can only be avoided by building up the nervous system at the first sign of trouble, and there is no preparation so well suited for this purpose as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great nerve restorer.

The whole of the wheat is the food for every need of life.

Whether your employment calls for the use of brain or muscle, you must eat the food that will nourish these parts in your body. The only perfect food is the one which supplies nourishment to every element, and Nature has given us that in whole wheat. Each grain contains exactly the proportion of brain- nerve- muscle- and tissue-bone- building elements that the body requires. The only foods in which you can get the whole of the wheat are

Is Mr. Aylesworth Out of Politics?

The impression is gaining ground that Mr. A. B. Aylesworth has determined to withdraw from politics, and has so intimated to the Prime Minister. Mr. Aylesworth reached here yesterday morning and had half an hour's conference with Sir Wilfrid. Neither before nor after the interview would he say anything for publication, but the inference to be drawn was that he is not in love with politics. It is probable that the Premier has asked Mr. Aylesworth to defer his final decision. When Sir Wilfrid was asked for information he referred his interrogators to Mr. Aylesworth himself.

FROM SOUTH AFRICH.

New Way of Using Chamberlain Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbour of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Majority of Cabinet Added To.

Rome, Nov. 15.—Definite returns from the second balloting strengthens the majority of the Cabinet, while the Extreme Left loses about ten seats, altogether. Signor Ferri, the Socialist leader, has been elected at Porto Maggiore. The defeated Socialists made demonstrations at Milan, Florence and Genoa, but the attempted disorders were quelled by troops. The latter were stoned in Florence, while at Genoa revolvers were fired and there were several casualties. Order has been re-established everywhere.

TRY THE ICE BREAKER.

St. Lawrence River Experiment to Be Made Beginning of December.

Montreal, Nov. 15.—As a result of a conference between Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Mr. F. L. Wanklyn, General Manager of the Dominion Coal Company, an experiment will be made about the first week of December in keeping the River St. Lawrence open for navigation after the end of the usual season by means of the Government ice-breaker Champlain. A loaded collier will leave Sydney in time to reach Quebec during the first week of December. The intention is to have the ice-breaker meet her about twenty-five miles below Quebec and accompany her up the river to Montreal. After discharging the coal here the collier will clear on the return trip for Sydney, and the ice-breaker will accompany her down the river and remain until her captain is satisfied of no further danger from ice. It may happen that no ice will be encountered, but the object is to show that by means of ice-breakers, whether ice is present or not, the season of navigation between Montreal and Quebec can be kept open for from three weeks to a month later than usual. Up to the present time the shipping men of Montreal have never felt safe about a vessel clearing from this port after the third week in November.

"ALERT" BURNED TO WATER'S EDGE.

Popular Lakefield Steamer Destroyed by Fire.

Origin of fire a Mystery—Started at Lakefield Wharf.

This fall has been a disastrous one for Kawartha and Otonabee river steamers, no less than three having been destroyed by fire during the last two months. The North Star was the first to suffer loss, and her destruction was followed by the Kenosha, and yesterday the popular steamer Alert, of Lakefield, was completely destroyed by fire, while lying at the Lakefield wharf. The steamer had just completed a run, and it is understood that her season's work was ended. She had been tied to the wharf only a short time when fire was discovered in the boat, and although the fire engine was quickly brought into requisition, she was burned to the water's edge, and will be almost a total wreck.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, but it is understood that it started in the engine room. When the upper works of the boat had been burned to the water's edge, a hole was knocked in the hull and it was sunk to save the machinery from total destruction.

It is understood that there was an insurance of $3,000 on the steamer which will almost cover the loss. It is not known yet whether the boat will be rebuilt or not, but the probability is that it will not. Captain W. White of Lakefield, is the owner.

THE LATE MRS. W. MORSE

Her Death Occured Last Evening After a Short Illness.

After an illness of eight days, Mrs. Washington Morse, died at seven o'clock last evening, at the family residence, 119 James street, East Ward. The deceased lady, whose maiden name was Mary Jane Small, was born in Scotland, and came to Canada when a young girl. She married George Emory, who died in Chesley about five years ago. She was married again to Mr. Morse, who survives her.

She leaves three daughters, Mrs. T. R. White, Mrs. George Beavis, and Mrs. Robert Goodenough, of the East Ward, and two sons, Geo. Emory, of Utica, N.Y., and Alex. Emory. One brother, Alexander, of Warsaw, also survives her. The late Mrs. Morse was 68 years of age.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, on Wednesday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock and proceed to Little Lake Cemetery.

ORDER FROM HUDSON BAY COMPANY

Messrs. J. J. Turner and Son's big Order.

Another evidence of the continental reputation of the firm of J. J. Turner & Sons, is the fact that an order has been received from the Hudson's Bay Company, of Winnipeg, for a suit of sails for a schooner to trade from York station on the Pacific Coast. These sails are to be made by hand of heavy cotton duck, and will be extra strong, for the trade they are to be used in requires it. There are three sails, a jib, foresail and mainsail. They will be shipped from Montreal and will be sent from there by one of the Hudson Bay Co.'s steamers around Cape Horn to the Pacific.

ANNIVERSARY AT BETHEL CHURGH

Services on Sunday Were Largely Attended—The Speakers.

The anniversary services in connection with Bethel church, were held on Sunday and were very largely attended. In the morning the preacher was Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, of the Charlotte street church, town, who spoke from the text, "There was a man in the land of Uz, whose name was Job, and that man was perfect and upright, and one that feared God and eschewed evil."

The speaker dealt with perfection of character; it was not absolute, or angelic perfection which we could attain on earth, but it was Christian perfection. This did not imply freedom from errors of judgment, but it meant perfect love and perfect faith, which would produce perfect peace. Perfection of Christian character, however, did not prevent growth; a bud could be a perfect bud, but there would have to be growth to make a perfect flower, and so it was with the Christian, who should be continually growing in grace and in Christian love.

In the evening Rev. D. D. McDonald of Keene was the speaker.

The music during the day was supplied by members of the George street church choir, assisted by the Sunday school orchestra of the same church. The anthem was "All Hail the Power," while during the offertory Miss Bertha Parnell and Miss Bessie Sperry sang a duet, "When the Mists have Rolled Away." The orchestra played several selections during the services.

CONSERVATIVES' ANNUAL MEETING

Officers for the Year Elected Last Night.

Convention to be Called by the Executive—Ward Chairmen Appointed.

The annual meeting of the West Peterborough Liberal-Conservative Association was held last night in Bradburn's Opera House, and was attended by a large number of supporters of the party.

The Examiner was denied the privilege of having a reporter present at the meeting, but learned from one of the officers that it was purely a business meeting. It was decided to leave the matter of calling a convention to represent the party in the coming provincial election to the Executive, who are to decide the date upon which such a convention shall be called. At this convention five delegates will be allowed from each polling sub-division in the riding, and the Young Conservative Club was given the privilege of sending one delegate for each 20 of its membership.

A general invitation was extended to all Conservatives to attend the conference to be held in Toronto on November 24th, and all who intend to accept this invitation are asked to send their names to the President.

The officers elected for the coming year were:—

President—T. E. Bradburn.
1st Vice-President—J. J. Lynch.
2nd Vice-President—W. Brundrett.
3rd Vice-President—Geo. W. Bennett.
Secretary—F. H. Dobbin.
Assistant Secretary—Roland Waddell.

Mr. R. E. Layfield, who, during the last few months has filled the office of Secretary, declined re-election, as he intends to devote his time to the Young Conservative Club. The chairman for the different wards were elected as follows:—

Ward 1.—John Wilson.
Ward 2.—W. Thompson.
Ward 3.—Lt.-Col. Miller.
Ward 4.—Jas. Kendry.
Ward 5.—W. Gibbs.

The Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Club will meet on the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day in the Opera House, at two o'clock, when new members will be admitted.

HUNTERS RETURNING.

Deer Reported to be Somewhat Scarce This Year.

The Gold Lake Hunting Club has returned from a two weeks' hunt, bringing with them nine large deer, among which is a buck weighing 260 lbs., and which was the victim of Mr. Dickson Best's rifle. The party had a splendid outing although they report deer to be somewhat scarce in the vicinity of Gold Lake. The members of the party are Messrs. William Snowden, Dr. Amys, H. Snowden, M. Hamilton, A. Ringer, D. Best, S. Ray, T. Rutherford, D. Dawson, Montreal, J. Fitzgerald, L. Steele, Lakefield, A. Head, C. Logan, Galt, W. Atchinson and F. Stinson.

Reports from the Eagle Lake Hunting Club are to the effect that up to last Friday 17 fine deer had been shot. Messrs. E. Gunsolus and G. Fitzgerald of the party have returned home.

Dr. Greer, Mr. J. D. Collins and Mr. R. G. Kingan arrived home last evening from a two weeks' hunting trip in the Parry Sound District. They were accompanied by two gentlemen from Cobourg and had a splendid outing. Each of the party secured the limited number of deer, which are quite plentiful in that section of the country.

PETERBORO' VOCALIST MEETING SUCCESS

What the Strathcona Papers Say of Mr. E. A. Frowde's Singing.

The many friends of Mr. E. A. Frowde, who is at present at Strathcona, Alberta, will be pleased to learn of his success there as a vocalist. Mr. Frowde during the recent election campaign sang at several meetings in the interests of Mr. Peter Talbot, Liberal candidate. The press of the town speak in the following terms of his singing:—

Strathcona Chronicle,—At the close of Mr. Rutherford's adress, Mr. E. A. Frowde sang "There is a Land." Mr. Frowde who is one of the Chronicle staff, is a new arrival from the east, and has a strong, full-toned voice, his rendering of the above song making him at once a favourite with the audience. * * * Mr. Frowde then sang "Blue Bells" and "Men of the North," in fine style.

The Plaindealer says:—Between the speeches Mr. E. A. Frowde, lately from Peterborough, sang patriotic songs which were greatly appreciated by the audience. * * * The next number was a tenor solo by Mr. Frowde, who had delighted the audience at Mr. Talbot's meeting the evening before, and he met with the same appreciation on this occasion.

The Trades and Labour Council has supplied the following with reference to the meeting to be held on November 23rd for the purpose of discussing the advisability of placing labour candidates in the field for Aldermen:—

It is hoped the open meeting of the Trades and Labour Council will be well patronized, as it is open to all working men irrespective of occupation.

When the announcement came out in the Examiner of the intention of the Trades Council putting working men candidates in the field for the office of Alderman it was not done with any feeling that the working men were not being fairly dealt with. It was only thought fair that it would be better to have some good, intelligent artizans in the Council to educate them along the lines of Municipal Government by giving their advice and helping along with matters that are of an industrial character. In fact any municipal work where all classes of people are interested is better and more satisfactorily accomplished when equal representations of good, fair-minded men are elected by the people at large.

Peterborough is largely composed of working men the majority of whom are property owners and are interested in the town's progress. Then is it not right that they should have good representation in the City Hall?

It generally takes about one year's experience to fit a man properly for the duties of this office, so if you elect three or four good men this election you have them in good working order for a second term if they prove satisfactory.

One thing we believe should be dealt with immediately is the assessing. It can hardly be expected that the present mode of assessing the town will give universal satisfaction. Something must be done along the lines of getting an assessment Commissioner who can give his whole time to the work and be in touch with the town's business from the first of the year to the last day of the same.

Another very important factor in the interests of this town is the appointment of a building inspector, who will see that the proper kind of plumbing is put in to ensure the safety of the health of the people.

There is also room for improvement in the class of houses that are being erected, we may say right in the centre of the town.

Keep the date of Nov. 23, Wednesday evening in Trades and Labour Hall, over Dr. Wood's dental parlours, open, and let every working man who can come be sure and be there.

OPENING OF ENNISMORE HALL.

Fine New T. A. S. Hall Will be Opened Nov. 24th.

A Credit to the Township and the Society—Peterborough Architects Work.

The new T.A.S. Hall, of Ennismore, which has been in the course of erection for some time past, will be completed early next week, and the formal opening will take place on Nov. 24th at 8 p.m.

Several prominent local speakers will be present to address what promises to be the largest audience ever assembled in the township. In addition to the addresses a lengthy programme of vocal and instrumental music will be run off.

The hall is a perfect gem, up-to-date in every respect, and is a credit to the T.A.S. of that place, as well as to the township at large. Mr. E. W. Argus, the architect, spared neither pains nor time in carrying out his work, and Mr. S. Young, the contractor, deserves great credit also for the way in which he put the architect's plans into execution.

The building is seventy-one feet long by thirty-two feet wide, and rests on a stone foundation nine feet high. It has a main entrance and two side entrances, leading to the stage, forty feet by twenty-two. The painting was done by Fred Cook and is all that could be desired.

FORMER PETERBORO' DOCTOR MARRIED

Dr. John Crowe Wedded in Salem, Indiana.

The Salem, (Ind.,) Leader, has the following account of the wedding of a former Peterborough man, Dr. Crowe:

"Wednesday evening amid friends and relatives, Dr. John Crowe and Miss Elisabeth Belle Tucker, were married in the Presbyterian church. Autumn leaves, palms and ferns formed pretty decorations for the platform. The organ was concealed with banking of leaves, chrysanthemums and asparagus. The windows were lined with sprays of flowers and vines, while festoons of woodbine hung from each side chandelier to the central one. Misses Bess Tucker, Clara Zink, Bess Spurgeon and Grace Clark unbarred, and these girls gowned in white each looked equal to being a bride herself. Miss Carolyn Swinnerton of Urbana, O., was maid of honour. She was gowned in [illegible] embroidered mull, and carried on arm a bouquet of pink [illegible]. Mr. Chas. Crowe of Denver, a brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Promptly at eight o'clock the Strains of the Lohengrin wedding wedding march, played by Miss Daisy Hoggart, announced that the bridal partyy was approaching. Rev. E. S. Miller, the officiating clergymas, appeared first and took his station on the platform, next came the four ushers, who stood on each side of the bride and groom. The groom and best man came down the right aisle. The maid of honour advanced alone and took her position at the left of the bride. The bride was accompanied by her cousin, Jas. L. Tucker, who gave her away. She was gowned in beautiful white [illegible] emaine, over taffeta, her only ornament being a brooch thickly studded with pearls (a gift of the groom), and carried a bouquet of white roses while others nestled in her hair. The ring ceremony was used. A beautiful, short and impressive ceremony was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Miller, and during this Dr. S. E. Smead sang, "O Promise Me." Prayer was offered with the bride and groom and attendants kneeling. To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march the party left the church and drove at once to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Spurgeon, where congratulations were received and a wedding supper served to relatives and attendants. Dr. and Mrs. Crowe left on the ten o'clock train for the World's Fair, and from there they will go to Duluth, Minnesota, to visit Mrs. H. B. Sutherland, sister of the bride. They will be at home in Virginia, Minnesota, after Nov. 15.

Out of town guests were Mrs. John H. Roberts, of Indianapolis, Mrs. Will Tucker and daughters Mary and Bertha of Greencastle, Mr. Charles Crowe, of Denver, Colorado, Miss Carolyn Swinnerton of Urbania, O., Misses Louise Burnham, Libbie and Harriet Lusk, Willie Lusk, Walnut Ridge.

Many beautiful presents of cut-glass, silverware, pottery, china napery, bric-a-brac, clocks, etc., were received by Dr. and Mrs. Crowe.

Dt noon Wednesday a family dinner party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Spurgeon. Covers were laid for twelve and place cards designated the location of each one present. A feast of good things was enjoyed together with its accompaniment of jokes, fun at the expense of the bride and groom, and suggestions as to how they should deport themselves at the wedding. The table had as a centre piece a huge bouquet of American Beauty roses, surrounded by a wreath of smilax. White carnations were used as favours. A buck board party followed the dinner, and the trip to the woods delighted the visiting friends.

The bride presented each of her ushers and the organist with a dainty stick pin.

Numerous congratulatory letters and telegrams were showered on Dr. and Mrs. Crowe all day Wednesday.

The private post card business has gone ahead with such leaps and bounds that we have now added many new designs to our list, and now our selection embrace about fifty different kinds. Send private post cards for your Thanksgiving greeting to your friends. A. H. Stratton & Co.

MISSION TO MEN VERY HELPFUL

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt spoke on "Three Looks" last evening.

Fairly Large Attendance of men at Langfeldt's Meeting.

There was a goodly number in attendance at the third meeting of the Mission in the Y.M.C.A. last night.

Mr. Williamson led the song service. Rev. Mr. Langfeldt gave a very forcible and studied address on the "Three Looks," dealing with the look of salvation, the look of sanctification, and the look for the return of Christ.

Mr. Langfeldt is a fearless speaker, and his arguments are so clearly proven by Scripture that he leaves his hearers no room for doubt.

While he speaks the plain truth, yet his messages are given in such a manner that he appeals to men from the standpoint of sympathy and brotherly love, rather than that of harsh criticism.

It is expected that there will be a large attendance of men to-night, especially of those who are members of the association. The meetings, however, are for all men.

The male quartette will sing to-night, and Mr. Langfeldt will speak on "Behold the Lamb of God. A song service will begin at 7.45 sharp.

RESIDENT OF HALF CENTURY DEAD.

Mrs. Catherine Foley Passed Away To-day.

At the advanced age of 80 years, Mrs. Catharine Foley, relict of the late Timothy Foley, died at her residence, 272 Hunter street, this morning. The deceased lady had been ailing for about 9 years, but her death was unexpected. She had been in comparatively good health until Sunday. Since when she gradually sank until this morning, when her death occurred. The late Mrs. Foley had been a resident of this county one year less than half a century. She was born in Trala, County Kerry, Ireland, and her maiden name was Catharine Flavive. After her marriage with Mr. Foley the family came to Canada 49 years ago, settling in Otonabee in the neighbourhood which to this day bears the name of Foley's Corners. Her husband died 38 years ago, and three years after Mrs. Foley came to Peterborough to live, and her home has been here ever since. Three daughters, Mrs. McGuire, of Auburn, N.Y.; Mrs. McCabe, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Mrs. Redmond, of Peterborough, survive her. Three sons, one of them being Timothy Foley, the great mining man of Colorado, are dead.

The funeral will take place on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

BUY YOUR GOODS FROM HOME DEALERS

Book Agents and Other Outside Solicitors Should not Get Preference.

The sentiment expressed by the words, "Made in Canada" is one which might be applied to local conditions in certain things, and one of these is the purchasing of goods from home merchan's as much as possible, and patronizing home industry. A case in point may be cited. It is said that there are at present eight or ten book agents doing business in Peterborough, and all of them seem to be doing a fairly good business too. The Examiner inquired from a local bookseller as to the comparison between the prices charged by these agents and those by the local dealers, and he stated that the stores in town could supply the same books, or ones equally as good, at prices considerably less than those charged by these agents. It is distinctly unfair to the local merchants who spend their money here, and who help to build up the town for the citizens to send away for goods, no better than those sold in town, and in most cases higher in price.

"THAT WEDDING TRIP."

"Where shall we go"? is the question often asked, and there are so many delightful trips that the best plan is to consult an experienced ticket agent, of the Grand Trunk, he will make you up an itinerary for as many days or weeks trip as you desire.

STOVE TALK NO. 6.

Why the "Happy Thought" Burns Less Coal Than any Other Range.

1. The fire pot in the "Happy Thought" is entirely different to any other range. It is deeper and narrower, and twenty years of use has proved that this feature alone will save many tons of coal.

2. The Duplex Grates, from the original patterns of the inventor distributes the draft equally over the entire grate surface. No dead corners.

3. The peculiar flue construction is the result of fifty years of careful study, and that the proportions are absolutely correct is proved by the fact that the Happy Thought bakes with a smaller fire than is possible with any other range.

IN LOVING MEMORY.

Lines written on the death of Clara Mabel Mitchell, wife of W. J. Allison, who died at Peterborough, July 11, 1904.

It was about nine o'clock Monday morning,
As we around her bedside stood,
Her soul from its prison fetters
Was loosed by the hand of God.

One moment her pale lips trembled;
With something she wished to tell,
As the glorious light of Eternity
On her spirit's vision fell.

Then the life she fought for, so bravely,
Was taken from earth away,
Her spirit took the wings of the morning
And soared so far, far away.

And we all felt on that lonesome morning
As we looked on the silent dead,
That her trials and troubles were ended
As her feet with the blessed ones tread,

And we thought how with faith unshrinking
She came to Jordan's shore,
And taking the hand of her Saviour
Went to meet her loved ones gone before,

Sister Ida.

THIS HUNTING PARTY WAS SUCCESSFUL

"Happy Thought" Club got Their Limit of Deer.

The "Happy Thought" Hunting Club returned on Saturday evening from a two weeks' successful deer hunt in the north country. The party returned in exuperant spirits, each having secured their two deer and were consequently quite contented. The members of the party were Messrs. E. M. Best, Roy Armstrong and R. Parker. The party spent nine days in the vicinity of Stony Creek, which is about 60 miles from town.

Mr. Best had his two victims displayed to the public on the pavement in front of the Best Stove Co's store yesterday. The deer weighed 180 and 190 lbs. respectively. "Ernie" was naturally quite elated over his success. It was his first experience and it won't be his last, he says. "I saw only three deer and banged two of them," was his testimony. The deer are said to be quite scarce in that section of the country this year. One party of eight members had been on the lookout for a week but had not shot a single deer, but this may be partly accounted for by defective shooting. Each of the "Happy Thoughts" secured two good sized deer. Mr. Best asked the Examiner not to state that on the second day of the expedition he chased a cow fully half a mile before he discovered that it wasn't a deer.

Mr. Best will furnish a deer banquet to the members of the B.A.C. Club, of which he is Secretary.

THREW BOY INTO BAY

Charge of Assault With Intent to Commit Murder.

WARRANT ISSUES FOR G. BIRD

Accused Gave Himself Up When He Heard of It, But Did Not Make a Statement—Accuser, A. F. Burke, Says Bird Threw His Boy Into the Bay and That He Was Nearly Drowned.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—George H. Bird, who lives at Woodbine Beach, was locked up last night on a charge of attempted murder. When Bird heard there was a warrant out for him he gave himself up. He did not make any statement. The complainant is Albert F. Burke, 46 Ann street.

The charge is the outcome of a children's quarrel. Burke's story is that on Sunday afternoon he visited his brother, who lives near Bird, taking his son Willie, aged 14, with him. Willie, his cousin, two other young boys, went for a row on Ashbridge's Bay. They returned to pick up two or three little girls. They met a young son of Bird's. It appears there had been some trouble between this lad and the Burke children previous. They had another altercation and young Bird came out second best. The Burke family continued their boat trip and young Bird went home.

Bird and his son manned another boat and went in pursuit of the Burkes and caught up with them. Young Burke says there were some words exchanged, and that Bird climbed into their boat, grabbed him and threw him into the water. When he came to the surface Bird shoved him away from the boat with an oar so that he could not reach the boat. Then he threw the oars away and rowed off in his own boat. Young Burke cannot swim. He says he was almost drowned when his companion held one of the little girls over the side of the boat. She was able to reach an oar, which she held out to him so that he grasped it.

The Burkes, accompanied by a number of neighbors, went to Bird's house. Bird, it is said, came out of his house with a rifle. His wife took it away from him. Burke, sr., tried to attack Bird, but was prevented by the neighbors.

Embezzled $3,000.

Montreal, Nov. 15.—Sheldon T. Bent, who was secretary and treasurer of the Continental Light, Heat and Power Company, and Shawinigan Carbide Company, embezzled the sum of $3,000 from his employers, was sentenced to 19 months' imprisonment by Justice Hall in the King's Bench yesterday morning. It was in reality a sentence of 23 months, he having already spent four months in jail, which just saves him from the penitentiary.

Three Italians Get Three Years.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—The three Italians arrested by Patrol Sergeant Crowe and P. C. Mullen upon the charge of robbery were sentenced by Police Magistrate Denison in the police court yesterday morning to spend three years in the Kingston Penitentiary. They broke into Mrs. Constantine's store at 74 Edward street and stole $90, and cigars and tobacco.

Arrested For Stealing.

Berlin, Nov. 15.—Chief Slemin of Brantford was in Berlin yesterday and removed a young man named R. Blaney, arrested in Berlin on Saturday, to Brantford, where Blaney is wanted on charges of going through the American Hotel there, stealing a diamond ring belonging to Miss Scott, also with forging the name of Charles Wilson, a Brantford grocer, to a note for $16, and several other charges of offences committed in Brant County.

A. H. NOTMAN DEAD.

District Passenger Agent of the C.P.R.—One of the Best.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—The announcement of the death of Alexander H. Notman, who, as district passenger agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway, has had his headquarters in Toronto for the past five years, will be received with general regret. There are few railway men so well known throughout Canada, and none more popular. Mr. Notman, whose health had been failing, left on Oct. 22 to visit his brother, Felix M. Notman, at Los Angeles, Cal. His death occurred at Alburquerque, New Mexico, on Sunday night, he being then on his way home. The intelligence did not reach Toronto until last night. The railway career of Mr. Notman dates back about twenty years, during which time he was constantly in the service of the C.P.R. Mr. Notman was about 44 years of age. A widow and five sons survive. The popularity of the late Mr. Notman cannot be overestimated. As a railroad man, in the official sense, Mr. Notman's place will be exceedingly hard to fill, and the road loses one of its most valuable servants.

VACCINATION.

Compulsory Law in Rio de Janeiro Leads to Fierce Rioting.

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 15.—The opposition to the compulsory vaccination law led to fierce rioting Sunday. The troops repeatedly charged the mob, barricades were erected, water and gas mains were cut, plunging the city into darkness, and the street cars were burned. The demonstration had every characteristic of revolution. The President's palace was strongly guarded. It is reported that a dozen people were killed and that sixty were injured. An intermittent fusilade continues.

Father of Constitution Dead.

Paris, Nov. 15.—Henry Wallon, a life senator of France, and known as the "Father of the French Constitution," is dead. He was nearly 92 years old. Senator Wallon wrote many historical works, and was the author of the article in the constitution of 1875 relating to the election of the French president.

A Nurse Girl Killed.

What Fruit-a-tives are

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in tablet form. They are the laxative, tonic and curative principles of fruit—combined into pleasant tasting pellets. They contain all the virtues of fruit—but by the secret process of making them, their action on the human system is many times intensified.

What "Fruit-a-tives" are for "Fruit-a-tives" are the natural and logical cure for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. Their action is that of fresh fruit, only very much surer and more effective. Then too, they are free of fruit acids, sugar and woody fibre which often prevent fresh fruit being beneficial.

Try "Fruit-a-tives" and see how quickly they cure you of Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bilious Headache, Loss of Appetite and Kidney troubles.

UNSELFISH WOMEN.

Mrs. Craigie on the Growing Handicap of Marriage.

Mrs. Craigie, better known as John Oliver Hobbes, the well known novelist, has sent the following communication to the London Mail as a contribution to a discussion of "The Growing Handicap of Marriage:"

"Women, where their feelings are in question, are not selfish enough. They appraise themselves not too dearly, but far too cheaply. It is the suicidal unselfishness of women which makes the selfishness of the modern bachelor possible. Bachelors are not all misogynists, and the fact that a man remains unmarried is no proof that he is insensible to the charm of a woman's companionship or that he does not have such companionship on irresponsible terms to a most considerable degree. Why should the average vain young man, egotistic by organism and education, work hard or make sacrifices for the sake of any particular woman while so many are too willing to share his life without joining it and so many more wait eagerly on his steps to destroy any chivalry or tenderness he may have been born with?

"Modern women give bachelors no time to miss them and no opportunity to need them; their devotion is undisciplined, and it becomes a curse rather than a blessing to its object. Why? Because women have this strange power of concentration and self abnegation in their love; they cannot do enough to prove their kindness. And when they have done all and have been at no pains to secure their own position they realize that they have erred through excess of generosity and the desire to please. This is the unselfishness shown toward bachelors."

The Plodder.

Just before his death William Cary, the great shoemaker, missionary and noted linguist, said about his biographer: "If he gives me credit for being a plodder, he will do me justice. Anything beyond this will be too much. I can plod. To this I owe everything."—Success.

A LAMB AND ITS DAM.

The Way the Ewe Recognizes Its Own Offspring.

Although sheep can see and hear very well, it is undoubtedly by the sense of smell that the ewes recognize their own offspring. Sir Herbert Maxwell relates an interesting example of this odd fact, citing the case of a Cheviot lamb which had fallen into a river and, owing to the steepness of the bank, could not climb out.

An angler, who was fishing in the stream, rescued the shivering animal, and it staggered away, bleating piteously for its dam. It found her without much difficulty, but the mother, sniffing disdainfully at the dripping little wretch, pushed it off, refusing to recognise it. The angler appealed to a shepherd who happened to pass that way for an explanation of the ewe's behavior. "Oh," said he, "the bit beastie's been in the water, ye see, and the auld ewe canna smell it. She'll tak it back as soon as it's dry."

And so it turned out. The fleece was soon dried, the natural odor returning, and the mother and child were reconciled and reunited at once.

Putting Him to the Test.

A stockbroker was telling the other day how a girl, recently married to a colleague of his on the Stock Exchange, suspected that her husband had been indulging a little too freely in the cup that cheers. She determined to find out beyond doubt whether her suspicions were well founded.

To a friend she confided the source of her trouble, and from this friend she learned that it had always been said that a man even slightly intoxicated cannot pronounce words of any length, whereupon the young wife decided that that would be a good plan to try.

When next the friend met the young wife she was in a state of great agitation. Asked if the suspicions had been verified, the girl burst into tears and said that they had.

"I handed him this list," she said between sobs, fishing from her pocket a paper which she gave to her friend and which contained the following words:

"Phthisis, photochromy, gnomiometrical, hypochondriasis, parachronism, phlegmasia dolens, syncategorematic, antinomianism, pseudaesthesis."

"And," she continued, while her friend read the list, "he missed nearly half of them!"—London Tit-Bits.

Why Snow Falls in Flakes.

Snow falls to the earth in flakes because it is water solidified in starlike crystals, each snowflake being usually made up of several crystals, which are excessively light on account of the large quantity of air among the frozen particles. The snow crystals arise from the slow passage of the water vapor of clouds, when the temperature falls below freezing point, into the solid condition, the fairylike transformation taking place by the tiny independent particles of water grouping themselves with the utmost mathematical regularity around different centers.

Each crystal of snow, as of anything else, is therefore a more or less perfect geometrical solid. The most complete snow crystals are formed in a clear atmosphere, where there is nothing to retard the gradual process of crystallization or molecule construction. Rain, on the other hand, being a liquid, falls in drops.

CONTROL of BRONCHITIS

Is Undoubtedly Possessed by the Well-known Family Medicine.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

Turpentine is considered a specific for bronchitis.

The difficulty has been in the administration of turpentine so as to reach the irritated and inflamed parts and not be disagreeable to the patient.

Not only has the trouble been overcome by Dr. Chase in his Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, but he has also combined with turpentine two or three ingredients of almost equal power in soothing and healing the diseased parts and overcoming bronchitis and other dangerous ous ailments of the bronchial tubes and lungs.

By a secret process these elements of enumerated medicinal power have been combined in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine so as to be pleasant to the taste and suitable for children and adults alike.

This remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for bronchitis, asthma, croup and whooping cough is sufficient evidence that it is effective in ordinary coughs and colds.

MRS. RICHMOND WITHROW, Shubenacadie, Hants Co., N.S., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with good success. My second daughter was troubled with bronchitis from the age of three weeks. Oftentimes I thought she would choke to death. The several remedies we got did not seem to do of much use, but the first dose of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine brought relief and further treatment made a thorough cure. This trouble used to come back from time to time, but the cure is now permanent. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has saved us many doctor's bills, and I would not be without it in the house for many times its cost."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON.

Football season now is on,
And the men of grit and brawn
Line up in their fierce attire,
All intent on doings dire,
Rival rooters gather round,
Making most discordant sound
That is merged in one wild blast
As the pigskin ball is passed.

Husky fellow breaks away,
Putting all his strength in play;
Other husky fellows fall
Here and there or stand like wall.
They against each other dash,
Caring not whose bones they smash;
Runner gets an awful bump
And all others on him jump.

Hair is flying through the air,
Teeth are scattered here and there;
There are broken legs and arms
And a lot of other harms.
Those uninjured by the crush
Line up for another rush.
Often on the ground they roll,
Till at last some reach the goal.

Ambulances on the run,
Busy till the game is done,
Bear off each unfortunate
To the place where doctors wait.
Plasters, bandages and splints
Are applied while victims wince.
Some for weeks will suffer pain;
Some have need of crutch and cane.

But the rooters wildly toot;
All the tin horn tooters toot,
And the merry maidens smile
At the players in a pile.
No one cares for broken bones,
No one cares for victims' groans.
So, ye men of grit and brawn,
Push the football season on.

Colds

How often you hear it remarked: "It only a cold," and a few days later that the same is on the way with pneumonia. This is of itself sufficient assurance that a cough, slight, should not be neglected.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

COPPER AND PURE WATER.

Dr. Moore's Substitute for Filtration Denounced by Medical Journal—Says Scheme Is Monstrous.

The Medical Bulletin has an editorial attacking the plan of Dr. Moore of the United States Government's Department of Agriculture to purify drinking water by the use of copper. Dr. Moore's arguments are based solely upon experiments in the laboratory, and these, The Bulletin says, differ so widely from the conditions under which drinking water must be purified that no satisfactory conclusion can be drawn.

The editorial also declares that "the scheme is monstrous and should be condemned. It is one out of the many examples of a blind acceptance of laboratory results."

To show that the use of copper might not purify the water, but would be injurious to the users of the water, The Medical Bulletin says in part:

We can make in test tubes experiments which the human stomach will not tolerate. For this reason the results of the laboratory cannot always be applied directly to the treatment of sick people.

There is no reason to believe that the addition of small amounts of copper sulphate to water stored in reservoirs will have an action upon typhoid bacilli. If the quantity of metallic salt is sufficient to destroy microbes it will be enough to cause disease in persons who drink such "coppered" water.

Comparatively small quantities of copper habitually introduced for a long period into the human system give rise to chronic poisoning. The gums are retracted and have a persistent green or purple line upon their edges. The individual is emaciated and has a cachetic appearance, loses strength and has colic, diarrhoea or dysentery. Salivation has also been observed. There may be sore throat or a cough without physical signs. Such symptoms have from time to time been discovered among workers in copper and those who have eaten food contaminated with that metal.

When a physician in the course of his practice sees fit to prescribe copper sulphate he orders a definite dose, which he administers for a temporary period and watches the effects. Quite different is the proposal to cast a quantity of the same salt into a city's drinking water to be consumed regularly and continuously without any exact knowledge concerning the quantity per gallon and for every gallon.

One Phase of Mexican Etiquette.

Mexican etiquette is peculiar, as is shown by the following quotation from a letter written by a Spanish woman while traveling in that country: "There is one piece of etiquette entirely Mexican, nor can I imagine whence derived, by which it is ordained that all new arrivals, whatever their rank, foreign ministers not excepted, must, in solemn print, give notice to every family of any consideration in the capital that they have arrived and put themselves and their homes at the disposition of the residents, failing in which etiquette the newly arrived family will remain unnoticed and unknown."

The Steam Engine.

The steam engine was made perfectly automatic by a lazy boy who was employed to open and close the valves. Desiring to play instead of to work, he tied a string from one part of the machine to another, thus making the engine itself attend to its own business. He was never heard of again, and even his name is unknown, but a perfect engine was the outcome of his laziness.

Doing Nothing.

Weary Willie—I'm a victim of police persecution, lady, dat's what I am. Why, de first time I was arrested I wasn't doin' nothin' at all. Mrs. Goodart—Poor fellow. Here's a dime for you. And what charge did they trump up against you? Weary Willie—Vagrancy.

Helping Along the Joke.

"These," said the epicure to the bright Philadelphia girl, "are snails. I suppose Philadelphia people don't eat them for fear of cannibalism."

"Oh, no," was the answer. "It isn't that. We couldn't catch them."

The hand that has a long time held a violet doth not soon forego its fragrance.

A Chest that Came in the Mayflower

Is sure to attract the attention of every New England woman and with pride in her heart she marvels that it is so strong and well preserved. This is due to the fact that it has received prompt attention when any signs of weakening were shown. So the woman of to-day may keep her strength and preserve her good looks if she gives immediate attention to the first symptoms of any womanly weakness.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription promptly cures disease and restores strength to all women who are weakened by any womanly disease and are run down by maternal and household cares.

$500 REWARD! FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhœa, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Stella Johnson, of 26 Brady St., Dayton, Ohio, writes: "I was troubled with severe pains every month when I wrote to you for advice. After following your directions I am happy to say that after five years of untold suffering I have not had any pains since first using your 'Favorite Prescription.' I thank God and Dr. R. V. Pierce for the health I now enjoy. I shall urge other women who suffer as I did to use your medicine."

Pain Across the Kidneys For Three Years.

Suffered Great Agony. Could Not Stoop or Bend.

No disease is so quiet and stealthy in its approach as kidney disease. That is why it is so dangerous. It may become deep-seated before you realize the danger.

It is therefore of great importance to recognize the early warning symptoms, because in its early stage kidney disease is easily curable. Pain or dull ache in the back is one of the first signs. So are bladder pains, bearing-down pains, smarting sensation when urinating, frequent or suppressed urination, and gravel or sediment in the urine, etc. You cannot be well if your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. In all ordinary cases of any derangement of the kidneys, a few doses of will put the patient right; in old or chronic cases, the treatment should be persisted in.

Mr. Michael A. McInnis, Woodbine, Marion Bridge, N.S., tells of his experience: "For the last three years I suffered great agony with pain across my kidneys, and was so bad that I could not stoop or bend. I consulted and had several doctors treat me, but I got none the better. On the advice of a friend I procured a box of that valuable life-giving remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, and to my surprise and benefit I immediately became better. In my opinion Doan's Kidney Pills have no equal as a cure for any form of Kidney disease.

ARISTOTLE AND ENGLISH.

The Classic Author's Many Contributions to Our Vocabulary.

During the middle ages Aristotle was practically the only secular author read in Europe, for the priestly class were the only readers, and their learning was mostly confined to ecclesiastical treatises. It was during this period that the English language was developing into its present form.

Aristotle treated of every subject which came within the range of thought in his time and introduced many new branches of inquiry which have since become sciences. The terms used by him were adopted by every later writer and are still in use all over Europe, although variously corrupted.

The following list will give some idea of the number and power of Aristotle's word coining, which is revived in modern everyday English:

Maxim, principle, subject, matter, form, end, final, cause, motive, energy, mean, extremes, metaphysics.

He called his investigations about animals "histories," whence we call our science, which has the same end in view, "natural history," and in our universities the term "faculty" is a translation, corrupted in its passage through the Latin, of Aristotle's term for art.

Ships' Treasure Chambers.

The specie room on the ocean steamship is a very important institution. It is located in an out of the way place amidships, under the saloon. Few of the passengers know of its existence or of the valuable treasure that is carried across the ocean with them. The room varies on different ships, but is usually about sixteen feet long by ten wide and eight feet high. It is constructed of steel plates one-fourth inch thick and strongly riveted together. The floor, the ceiling and the walls are also made of steel plates. There is a heavy door, also made of steel. It is provided with a variety of combination lock that is said to be burglar proof. The gold and silver are usually in bars, but occasionally a quantity of coin in bags is shipped.

The Whistling Toad.

In the Caribbean islands there is a toad that whistles. The creature is common to the mountains, indulges in its musical practice mostly at night, and woe to the person who tries to sleep in its vicinity. Mme. Toad perches on top of a tree fern close to your window and begins her serenade. She whistles a couple of hundred stanzas that emite the eardrum like thunder. Travelers who have experienced the "music" of the whistling toad say that the only way to obtain a wink of sleep when once Mme. Toad tunes up is to put your head under the pillow or stop up your ears with cotton.

The Way to Drink Milk.

Milk, which contains all the elements necessary to life, may become the most easily digested and also the most indigestible of foods. It is best when taken warm, but few persons care for warm milk. It may be taken cool, but not cold, and should be swallowed slowly, a mouthful at a time, in which case it is easy of digestion, whereas if hurriedly swallowed as one drinks water it is almost indigestible. Iced milk should never be taken into the stomach.

A LIVING SWEETMEAT.

The Way Native Mexicans Eat the Honey Bearing Ant.

The honey bearing ant of southern Mexico and Colorado works at night, storing the honey in curious fashion. After a foraging expedition on the plants of the Schrag oak the worker ant on its return forces the honey by muscular contraction from its mouth into the crop and abdomen of the "honey bearer." This crop is walled by ten muscular plates and is capable of great expansion. When filled the abdomen becomes extraordinarily distended, the "bearer" resembling a sac of amber colored honey, with the head and thorax like small appendages on one side.

The "bearers" being rendered almost helpless by this change of condition, are carefully attended by the other ants and kept in suitable compartments, where, clinging to the roof, they hang down like amber globes. The ants as they need food apply their mouths to those of the "honey bearers," when a slight contraction of the muscles forces out minute drops, which are licked off and consumed. These ants are used by the natives of Mexico as dessert to their feasts, the honey being extracted by pressure between the teeth.

The Imp Hoax.

This brazen imposture on the credulity of the English public was the result of a wager between the Duke of Montague and another nobleman in 1740. In discussing the amazing gullibility of the English people the former declared that if one were to advertise it well that he would jump into a quart bottle all London would go to see him do it. The wager being made, an advertisement was inserted in all of the leading papers promising that the feat would be performed on a certain date at the Haymarket theater. On the appointed day the theater was packed from pit to dome, and many hundreds were turned from the doors. The supposed magician appeared on the stage and had the temerity to state that if the audience would pay double the price he would enter a pint bottle, shown on the stage table, instead of the quart flask, as furnished. He then hurriedly escaped by the stage door. A riot resulted, in which the theater was badly wrecked, and the duke and his companion had to leave town until the excitement was well over.

Beauty and Her Eyebrows.

Beautiful brows are exacted by critics of every woman, no matter what her other charms may be, and many a matron and maid forfeit a reputation for loveliness by lack of them. Training overthick eyebrows is simple; all that is required is patient pencilling and pinching. But developing meager growths is a more difficult task. For the latter purpose quinine is most effective, a few grains being dissolved in water and applied with a camel's hair brush. Quinine will destroy the brows if put on too frequently, however. A safe lotion to make them grow is a thimbleful of sweet oil warmed in hot water with a drop of melted tallow. It is brushed over the brows, following carefully the line desired, and left on overnight. Red vaseline, with a double portion of almond oil, is another good brow encourager. All three are bad for the eyelids, though, and should be used sparingly.

Bathroom Chest.

A handy addition to the customary equipment of a bathroom has been devised by a clever housewife in the form of a chest in which to keep a quanity of towels. This chest was evolved from a long and rather narrow box, fitted with hinges and covered with imitation leather in a tone of green to match the color scheme of the room and studded with nails enameled green. The lining of the chest was green and white watered silk. Wall paper would make as desirable a lining as the silk, and any style of covering could be substituted for the imitation leather by the woman who might feel inclined to construct a chest such as this. The expert in burnt wood decoration can also find an outlet for her skill and energy in the adornment of a box to answer as a bathroom chest.—Brooklyn Eagle.

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, wormeaten stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old form" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Books will prove it. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and all traces of poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE IN PETERBOROUGH.

Plenty of Material for a Flourishing League.

As the prospects for hockey in Peterborough as far as the O.H.A. is concerned do not appear to be any to rosate, what is the objection to forming a City League? That is being done in other places where there is no more and in many cases much less, good hockey material, than we have in this town. Last winter there were a host of players in town who were a little over age to catch the junior team and were not quite fast enough for the seniors and a City League is just what is required to further develop these players.

When Peterborough won the Intermediate championship of Ontario in 1903, the team was composed almost entirely of players who had learned the game in Peterborough when they were boys and who had first figured on the junior ten which also captured a championship. The material was discovered and developed in Peterborough. Unfortunately there are no open rinks in town where hockey can be played and any ambitious young man who wants to become a player has got to get out to practice with the seniors or juniors at the hockey rink and consequently is not afforded a sufficient opportunity to develop his powers as should be the case. But there is where the City League would step in any give these players a chance. They would be coming in contact with players of about their own calibre and would have plenty of opportunity to prove their worth.

It has been suggested that a meeting be called in the near future to discuss the scheme and the suggestion is certainly a good one. A City League in hockey has many advantages over a similar league in summer sports as the games are played and the practices held at night; which allows many more young men to participate in the sport than is the case in summer when the games have to be played in the afternoon. It requires only seven men to a team and if the proper enthusiasm were awakened, there is not the slightest doubt but that a successful league could be organized.

RUGBY BOYS HAD A FINE PRACTICE

Scrubs and Seniors had a Great Work out on Saturday.

The rugby boys had a good practice on the Driving Park on Saturday. The "Scrubs" played the "Seniors" and the boys stuck to their work for nearly two hours. It was a great practice and the management was highly pleased with the form displayed. There were a few changes on the seniors' team but all the men but one were out. Cavanagh was out for the first time and with more practice would make a fine wing player. The seniors came out ahead by 40-14, the teams being:—

Scrubs.		Seniors.
McFadden	Backs.	Mulhern
Cameron	Halves.	Gillespie
Ford		Shaw
Walkey		Crowley
Hall	Quarter.	Graham
Caniff	Centre.	Burnham
Dilion	Wings.	Hurtubise
O'Brien		Greene
Adamson		Cavanagh
Fitzpatrick		McDonald
O'Brien		McGrath
Gilbert		Rickey

The team will take a run at 7.30 o'clock to-night from the Y. M. C. A. A strong team will be sent to tackle the Torontos on Thursday.

RUGBY.

With Harry Housser and Earl Gibson on the back division Torontos will take a lot of beating, says the Mail. Both these stars were on the team when the Torontos took quite a beating down here a couple of weeks ago.

Guess it's up to you to win on Thursday, boys.

The third time is lucky, so they say. The team goes to Toronto for the third time on Thursday. Something should drop.

"The boys can win on Thursday if they play their game," said one of the management to-day. That's no dream, either.

If we win on Thursday the Hamilton Tigers will play here on Saturday.

The backs should remember to kick next Thursday. That's how the Torontos won on Saturday.

The Torontos are confident of winning on Thursday. So they were here a couple of weeks ago.

Which will it be—do or die?

Brookbank of the Torontos had his leg broken in Saturday's game and will be out of the game for the season.

The Torontos put the Argonauts down and out on Saturday in a hard game at Varsity field by a score of 14-4. The locals will meet the Torontos on Thanksgiving Day to decide the district championship.

Queens beat Varsity badly on Saturday and are now tied with McGill for the Intercollegiate Championship.

Ford has been showing up splendidly in practices of late and may figure at left half in Thursday's big game. He is one of the best punters in the business, but has been weak in his catching this season. He has shown a great improvement in this respect of late, however, and should make good if given a chance on Thursday.

Gilbert, one of the best tacklers of the local club may be on the wing line in the game with the Torontos.

The backs must kick to win on Thursday. It was mainly through good punting that the Torontos were beaten here last month.

The Torontos' back division for Saturday will likely be, Gibson, Housser, Morrison and Flett.

The team will have a run to-night, leaving the Y.M.C.A. at 7.30 o'clock.

The Torontos' wing line will be practically the same as played here. They couldn't hold the locals then.

Buckle, a fast St. Michael's College wing, will replace Brookbank on the Torontos wing line for Thursday's game. Sam, the St. Andrew's star back may also play with the Torontos.

CURLING.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club will be held this evening at the Curling Rink at 7.45 o'clock. There will be important business including the election of officers. All interested are urged to attend.

HOCKEY.

Vice-President Francis Nelson of the Ontario Hockey Association was asked "What is the position of senior lacrosse players in regard to hockey this winter?" "The same that it has always been," he said. "If you refer to the Ontario Association. The O.H.A. is for amateurs, whether they are lacrosse players or not. If they are not amateurs they cannot play in the O.H.A., you may depend on that. The Association not only has rules, but is able and willing to enforce them. I don't know of any senior lacrosse players who could qualify under O.H.A. rules. They don't even qualify under C.L.A. rules, but there is a tacit understanding in that Association that, so far as the seniors are concerned, the amateur definition does not apply. No such laxity, however, exists in the governing body of the winter game, and senior lacrosse players would not be eligible. Nor could they be delegates to the convention. You wouldn't expect professionals to be just the right persons to formulate legislation for an amateur body."

Toronto Telegram says:—Victoria Harbour presents a strong paper lineup, according to reports. Here is how the team looks: Reagan, Orillia; McGoughlin, Ottawa; Goodman, Ottawa; Corbeau, Penelon Falls; Switzer, Midland; Good, Montreal. Somehow, that reminds one of the line-up of a senior C. L. A. team. Of course, some rival may be trying to paint Victoria Harbour in too favourable colours. But if the line-up is right, it shows what the Liberal policy has done to make Victoria Harbour attractive to immigrants.

As previously announced, Belleville won't be in O.H.A. hockey this season. They will confine their attentions to the Trent Valley League, and the O.H.A. will enjoy a season of well-earned rest.—Toronto Telegram.

It begins to look as if that American professional hockey league would only take a few weeks to simmer down to Portage Lake and Pittsburg. The others are still struggling for players and apparently have only the faintest conception of what it means to run a hockey team. With the present scarcity of players the latter will run the teams, and it's not hard to tell what that spells.—Toronto Telegram.

Oh, by the way, did you hear about that promising young amateur, Reddy McMillan, late of Cornwall, and several other places? Well, he has left Cornwall, together with another promising player, for Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, where, so rumour says, they will spend the winter.—Toronto Telegram.

The Lindsay Post, writing about hockey prospects, says:—When the Printers get into that Town League they will make things hum and will be able to furnish the hungry ones with enough "pi" to last them a life time. Wait till you see them on the ice.

The Peterborough Printers, though they are not saying much, will have a team, with which they would like to meet the Lindsay bunch, and the betting that for the next few days after the game, there won't be much said about hockey in Lindsay is pretty safe. The Lindsay printers may consider this as a challenge.

The Hon. J. R. Stratton has been elected Honorary Patron for the ensuing season of the Capital Juniors Hockey Club, Ottawa.

SPRINTING

Art Burns did the last hard work he will perform before the Citizen Thanksgiving day race, a varsity oval yesterday afternoon. He went the distance, five miles, on the grass at the oval and hit a clip which made the pickers look wise. Jack Davis has Burns in hand and the veteran trainer says that he will send his man into the race in perfect condition. Burns' stomach troubled him slightly yesterday but Davis says that this will be in shape again before Thursday. Burns will take light work with a rub on Monday and Tuesday.—Ottawa Citizen.

The Ottawa Citizen says:—The Citizen's big Thanksgiving day race is creating a great deal of interest in sporting circles around town and from present indications quite an amount of money will be wagered on the result. A friend of Burns' stated last night that he was confident his man could defeat Williams and that he was willing to back Burns, to the extent of $500 on the race. With his many admirers who have seen him run here, Williams will no doubt be backed to a standstill to turn Burns down. He negotiated the five miles a month ago in a few seconds worse than twenty-seven minutes and that on a windy day and not pushed very hard either. If Burns can go faster than that it will of necessity be very little better. Those who know Williams say, that he can put the five-mile road record for eastern Ontario under the 27 minute mark without any great difficulty. It is therefore quite probable that the man who wins the Citizen's medal will be going at a pace well under 27. McKenzie, the Y.M.C.A. man, is also to be considered as a strong factor in the race. He is only a young fellow but has come to the front remarkably well this summer and may surprise the talent. It is the avowed intention of the men to try for a record for the district at the distance and with this object in view the course will be accurately measured and special precautions will be taken in the timing by competent men.

BASKET-BALL.

Basket-ball on Thanksgiving Day.

Don't forget the basketball game at the Y.M.C.A. on Thanksgiving evening at 8 o'clock between the Torontos and the Peterborough Intermediates. This will be the first game of the season and we anticipate a good attendance. Many of you are away from home and you will want to go somewhere, so why not come up and cheer for Peterborough.

NEWS BEAT BY CANADIAN

How Richmond Smith Got Out News of Port Arthur.

PLEDGED HIS WORD

And the Japanese Let Him Go to Chefoo, File his Message and Return to Port Arthur.

Mr. W. Richmond Smith, the correspondent of the Associated Press has won high praise from that organization as well as from leading newspapers in the United States for a striking journalistic feat. On November 3, (our election day), the Associated Press sent out to all its subscribers a dispatch from Port Arthur, dated the previous day, which will go down as one of the notable achievements in the annals of American journalism. Giving, as it did, a complete review in chronological order, of the movements of Gen. Nogi's forces about the beleaguered city, it was the first authentic and direct message to the outside world from the headquarters of the Third Japanese Army, preparing for the final assault upon Port Arthur. It was the longhiest cable despatch which The Associated Press has handled during the present war, and one of the largest it has issued during its existence as a news medium. Due wholly to the pressure of political news upon the columns of Canadian papers the day after a general election, this message did not receive the publicity here which it deserved. The News published part of it, but the bulk of the story was never published in Canada.

HOW IT WAS GOT THROUGH.

The story of how the message was got through from Port Arthur to New York is an interesting one. As sent out to the newspapers in receipt of the Associated Press service it was 9,500 words, but in the skeletonized form in which it arrived it contained just 4,386 words, and required about 14 hours in transmission, practically monopolizing the new Trans-Pacific cable during all that time, and emphasizing again the importance and usefulness of that connecting link between the United States and the Far East as a medium for transmitting news.

This dispatch was sent by Mr. Richmond Smith, who was designated to accompany the Third Japanese Army on its mission to Port Arthur about six months ago. Since his arrival there Mr. Smith had not been permitted to send a word of news. How he had contrived to get a cable through to Chefoo, where it was tyled, was not known at the Associated Press office in New York until after its receipt, when Mr. Melville E. Stone, general manager of the organization, received a despatch announcing that Mr. Smith had been permitted to use a Japanese despatch boat from Port Arthur in carrying out his important task. The Japanese war vessel took him back to Port Arthur the same day, and he is now there, prepared to give to the world the story of Port Arthur's fall, which seems to be almost imminent.

MUCH RED TAPE UNWOUND.

Charles Hudson Boynton, manager of the Associated Press in New York, said that the preparations for the remarkable news beat had involved a most voluminous correspondence with Martin Egan, the Associated Press correspondence at Tokio. Mr. Egan conducted the negotiations with the Foreign Office and the War and Navy Departments in the Japanese capital, which, according to Mr. Boynton, involved the unwinding of an enormous amount of red tape.

"We began at an early date to make the preparations that finally resulted in Richmond Smith breaking his silence of six months," said Mr. Boynton. "We first planned to charter a steamer to carry Mr. Smith's story from Port Arthur to Chefoo, a distance of ninety miles. The Japanese Government would not hear of this, but promised to let one of their despatch boats carry the story to Chefoo at their leisure. This did not exactly suit our purposes and Mr. Egan continued his negotiations which finally resulted in a compromise, the Japanese Government giving us permission to charter a small launch or junk for the purpose.

In correspondence with Mr. Egan at Tokio it was arranged that the junk was to fly a distinctive flag known only to the Associated Press correspondents. The flag was to be of white cotton about three yards by a yard and a half and bearing the letters "M. E.", the initials of Mr. Egan, in red. When this had been arranged, Mr. Hogerty, from the Chicago office of the Associated Press, who is its representative at Chefoo, was instructed to be on the look-out night and day for any craft carrying such a flag at her topmast.

On November 3rd, at 9.16 o'clock a brief despatch arrived from Chefoo, which set everybody on edge in the Associated Press office in New York. It read as follows:—

"Chefoo, Nov. 3, Mr. Stone— Filed 4,000 Smith 3 afternoon. Smith returns Port Arthur to-night."

Thirty-eight minutes later, or at 9.54 o'clock, the momentous despatch, predicting Port Arthur's doom, began to come in. It was filed in nine seconds. The last word was not received in the Associated Press office until 11 p.m.

The Trans-Pacific cable during all those hours was doing nothing but carrying the news from Port Arthur. There are several relays where th message had to be repeated. From Chefoo the despatch went to Hong Kong, from there to Manila, and then to Guam. The tropical night must have descended over lonely Midway Island many hours before, when the operator, keeping his vigil there in the little office on the bluff received the first warning from his instrument of what was coming. He sent it on to Honolulu and from there it was cabled to San Francisco to be forwarded direct to the New York office of the Associated Press over a leased wire.

The cable toll from Chefoo to San Francisco is 26 cents a word at the reduced rate for press despatches. From San Francisco to New York the rate is 13-4 cents a word. Altogether the transmission of the despatch cost the Associated Press $1,733.

HIS WORD PLEDGED TO JAPAN.

"Richmond Smith", said Melville E. Stone, "had been compelled to give a pledge that he would only file the despatch after it had been censored by the Japanese authorities. He was also asked to pledge himself to make no alterations in the censored story, to add nothing, and to do no talking regarding the situation at Port Arthur when he reached Chefoo. This is a neutral port, and he might have sent any kind of story he liked, but the military authorities took his word and allowed him to go to Chefoo altogether untrammeled and return again to Port Arthur.

"Mr. Smith is back again at Port Arthur, where he will write the thrilling story of its fall when that occurs. We have made arrangements with the editor of The Novoe Kral, the Russian paper published in Port Arthur, to tell the story from within the Russian lines on that occasion. I hope he will live to tell it."

PRINTERS' INK DID IT.

One man in the United States, a candidate for the governorship of his state, has achieved success through the extensive yet judicious use of printers' ink.

W. L. Douglas, of Brockton, Massachusetts, is a shoe manufacturer. The Douglas $3.50 shoe is known all over the country. It is advertised in the leading city papers and magazines. The man spends many thousands of dollars annually in telling about his wares, and his picture, that of a keen and enterprising business man, adorns the top of all his announcements.

Now any man with large interests, amounting to millions a year, makes a mistake when adulterates his business idea with politics. But like the late Mr. Pingree, of Detroit, Mr. Douglas suddenly imbibed political enthusiasm that made him aim high. He possessed what seemed to be an extraordinary ambition—to occupy the governor's office and to rule the whole of Massachusetts.

Some people laughed at his presumption. But Douglas, the shoeman, was known to everyone. That picture of his looked out at the readers of the papers in the state and out of every magazine that circulated in it. And, singular to relate, though a democrat, he defeated John L. Bates, the old occupant of the office, and a republican, in a republican state, by a plurality of over 15,000.

His enemies say he had a cinch because his opponent weakened himself by political mistakes, but the fact is that Douglas was unusually strong, because the press had made him the best known man within the state.

That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones, call around and see us.

RUSSIAN TORPEDO BOAT DESTROYER

Watched by Jap Torpedo Boat has Reached Che Foo Harbour.

GEN. STOESSEL IN HOSPITAL.

Refused to Relinquish Command and Issued Orders That the Troops Must Die at Their Posts Rather Than Surrender--Pitiful Plight of the Besieged--Rations Reduced.

Che Foo, Nov. 16.—A Russian torpedo boat destroyer entered the harbor at 7.15 this morning. She has not been communicated with, owing to the roughness of the sea. It is said that a Japanese torpedo boat has been outside watching the movements of the vessel.

What the Surrendered Say.

Headquarters of the Third Japanese Army before Port Arthur, Nov. 14, via Fusan, Nov. 15.—(Delayed.)—Spies and Russians who have surrendered report that rations in Port Arthur have been reduced. The wounded found by the Japanese are emaciated. The capture of the eastern fortified ridge will mean the surrender of the fortress in a couple of weeks unless the garrison there retires to isolated forts. This seems improbable, however, and cold weather and the lack of food and ammunition renders desperate resistance unlikely.

Gen. Stoessel in Hospital.

Headquarters of the Third Japanese Army before Port Arthur, Nov. 15, via Fusan, Nov. 16.—It is reported that a wound received by General Stoessel has necessitated his confinement in a hospital, that he refused to relinquish the command of the garrison, and that he has issued orders to the troops to die at their posts rather than surrender. It is said that the spirit of the Russian troops has been dampened by continuous work, the lack of supplies and the hopelessness of their ability to make any successful defence of the fortress. It is said further that many of the Russian soldiers are ready to surrender, but they are kept at their posts by officers, who threaten them with revolvers, and that several soldiers who were suspected of a desire to desert have been shot as a warning to others. The Japanese now believe that the garrison has almost reached the limit of human endurance.

More Terrific Slaughter.

London, Nov. 16.—The Daily Telegraph's Chee Foo correspondent gives rumors of renewed Japanese attacks on Port Arthur, 150,000 troops between Nov. 2 and Nov. 3, with 12,000 casualties.

Expects Jap Advance.

Chansianoutun, Manchuria, General Kuropatkin's Headquarters, Nov. 16.—A Japanese advance is daily expected. Large masses of their troops are moving eastward and the Russians are expecting them to strike at their left flank.

One Shell a Minute.

Mukden, Nov. 16.—An unbroken cannonade of siege guns, throwing fifty or sixty shells hourly against the Japanese position in the region of Shakho station began early yesterday morning, ended only at nightfall, when more than half a thousand big contact shells had been thrown into the Japanese army's strongest position in the plain for the purpose of demoralizing the work of fortification concentrated at that point for the last four weeks.

Yesterday's bombardment was the most serious attempt yet made by the Russians' large guns.

Not Till Spring.

Berlin, Nov. 16.—Col. Goedke, The Tageblatt's military correspondent in the Far East, in a despatch from Mukden, Nov. 14, says: "The situation is unchanged. A decisive battle is improbable before spring."

Kuroki's Death Report.

Tokio, Nov. 16.—The Japanese army staff pronounces the report of Gen. Kuroki's death to be absurd.

The North Sea Inquiry.

Hull, Eng., Nov. 16.—The inquiry which Great Britain conducts on her own behalf into the North Sea incident opened yesterday. Vice-Admiral Bridge and Butler Aspinall, an Admiralty Court lawyer, are conducting the inquiry, and their report will form the basis of the British case before the International Commission at Paris. The Board of Trade solicitors who have been preparing the case have found no evidence to suggest the presence of the torpedo boats among the fishing fleet. The inquiry will therefore merely be an amplification of the evidence at the inquest, and it will be adjourned to London in the course of a few days, the proceedings here being confined to a narrative of the shooting.

Says He Tried to Save Boy.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—George H. Bird was remanded until Friday by Magistrate Denison. Bird is charged with having attempted with intent to murder a lad named W. J. Burke. Mr. Robinette, counsel for Bird, wished to have the charge altered to assault, claiming that his client, instead of trying to push the boy under the water, had tried to pull him out with the oar.

ANOTHER LIBERAL CANDIDATE ELECTED

Dr. Cash Returned for Mackenzie, N. W.T., Tuesday.

Winnipeg, Nov. 16.—The deferred Dominion election for the constituency of Mackenzie was held yesterday, and as far as heard from has resulted in a surprising victory for Dr. Cash (Liberal). In all the polls reported he has 248 majority, leading D. Patrick (Conservative) at every poll. Othora, the Galician candidate, put up by D. Patrick to split the Liberal vote, only received one ballot in ten polls. There is no doubt about Dr. Cash's election. At Yorkton poll he has 70 majority.

Bogus Ballot-Boxes Case.

Belleville, Nov. 16.—Summonses for criminal libel, returnable to-day, have been issued by Mr. G. Gus Porter, M.P., against T. S. Carman and F. E. O'Flynn in connection with the bogus ballot-box case. Mr. Carman, in The Ontario, had thrown doubt upon the authenticity of Mr. Porter's find of bogus ballot-boxes, and suggested that he knew more about the origin of the plot than any other person. The cases will come up at 10 a.m. to-day before A. F. Wood ex-M.P.P., and two other Justices at Shire Hall.

Sir Wilfrid Thanks Ottawa.

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier writes to Major Ellis in acknowledgment of the resolution recently passed by the City Council, congratulating him upon his victory, as follows:

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 14, 1904.—I have received a copy of the resolution which was unanimously adopted by the Council of the City of Ottawa on the 7th of November to offer me its congratulations upon the decision on what must be to me the gratifying manner in which I have again been returned to power by the electorate of Canada. I felt highly moved by this action of the Council, which I appreciate all the more as it issues from a body of men in which all shades of political opinions are represented. I would respectfully ask you to convey to the members of the City Council the very sincere expression of my gratitude for the sentiments contained in this resolution in which one and all, forgetting party differences, have united. I would particularly desire to impress upon the Council the assurance that the Government will continue their effort to beautify Ottawa and make it evermore worthy of its position as the capital of this young and growing country. I have the honor to be, Dear Mr. Mayor, yours respectfully, Wilfrid Laurier.

POLITICS IN A NUTSHELL.

A despatch from Toronto to The Hamilton Times says: There is a report that in the general provincial election Premier Ross will seek election in the riding of North Toronto, in addition to the riding of West Middlesex.

B. O. Lett, defeated Liberal candidate in West Hastings, has instructed his solicitor in Toronto to file a protest against the election of E. Gus Porter. He alleges he has three charges of personal bribery, two over Mr. Porter's signature.

The Conservatives of Frontenac Tuesday afternoon voted on three nominations in convention. J. S. Gallagher, M.P.P., of Harrowsmith, the member for the last two sessions; Dr. J. W. Edwards, Cataraqui County Clerk, and Dr. Gibson, Kingston. The latter withdrew, and on a ballot Mr. Gallagher was chosen by 73 to 44, and the nomination was made unanimous.

Flynn Disregarded.

A Valleyfield, Que., Conservative convention Tuesday decided to disregard the Flynn manifesto and give the full support of the Conservative party to Arthur Plant.

The Conservatives of Montreal district appear to be ignoring the Flynn manifesto. The Opposition last night nominated S. Carmichael in St. Antoine, who will be opposed by Eugene Lafleur, K.C. The Conservatives will also run Hon. F. Leblanc in Laval, Tailler in Joliette, Giardin Compton Cote in St. Louis and St. Pierre in Stanstead.

THE ANTI-DUMPING CLAUSE A SUCCESS.

The cry in the Conservative press during the late campaign that the "dumping" clause introduced into the Canadian tariff at that session, was ineffective in preventing unjust competition from the United States, is combatted by no less a personage than Mr. Robert White, collector of customs at Montreal, a former Conservative member for Cardwell, Ont., and a son of the late Hon. Thos. White. He says the operation of the clause effectively prevents the dumping on the Canadian market of all goods which compete with the Canadian products. Under it enforced slaughter prices of imported goods are impossible.

"Fraud and evasion of the act is carefully watched for by the customs officers," said Mr. White, "and in such cases the goods are seized and confiscated. The United States, of course, is the country from which most of our dumped goods come, and the operation of the clause will effectually block such business in the future.

"In coming to apply the legislation on this point, it was discovered that it was somewhat more far-reaching than Parliament contemplated, and that some classes of transactions of perfectly legitimate character were falling under the special duty clause clauses. The Minister of Customs is now giving consideration to these cases, and provision is being made to relieve them from the application of such duty. Such cases are bona-fide cash discounts; samples and goods purchased at a fair market price for shipment at a later period. For example, linseed oil is contracted for early in the year for shipment during the season of navigation. The law as it now stands, levies duty in the open market price at the time of shipment rather than of purchase, and if the price has advanced, duty has to be paid on such increase. Similarly if the price falls, the duty is on the lower price. This class of transaction has been exempted from the ambit of the special duty when the value of the goods at the time of shipment is greater than at the time of purchase, provided always that the latter was the open market price.

"When points like these have been arranged for and the rough edges smoothed down, this legislation will prove most advantageous to the Canadian manufacturer by proving a substantial protection against unfair competition caused by dumping."

Mr. White thought that the operation of the clause would have the effect of leading foreign manufacturers to build plants in Canada for the market here in the same way as the American Axe and Tool Company has decided to do. The customs officers are being constantly called upon to enforce the regulations, and are thus freeing the market from the illegitimate competition it was formerly exposed to.

THE SERVANT PROBLEM.

The domestic servant problem seems to be as difficult of solution on the continent as it is in this country. The United States Consul at Turin, Italy, reporting to his Government on the domestic labour situation in that country, says:

"I have known parties to look for domestic help for weeks in vain," the consul says. "The wages paid for hired girls vary from $3 to $6 and even $10 a week. The price is governed by the employees skill and merits and the wealth of the employer. Here as in the United States intelligent and ambitious young women seek employment as teachers, as clerks in post offices and stores, as secretaries, stenographers, typewriters, in factories — in fact they seem to prefer any kind of employment to domestic work. It seems that they even prefer to drive teams, to pull or push carts on the streets, or to become porters, to being domestic servants." The inference is reasonable that as civilization expands human nature asserts itself in similar ways almost everywhere. The young women may not so greatly resent the appellation of servant, but the work of the average hired girl is so continuous and often disagreeable that if at all spirited she will prefer almost any other kind of occupation because almost any other allows more personal liberty."

The wages paid in Italy appear relatively about the same as here. Much poverty exists in the Kingdom, and much ignorance, still the housework question seems to be about as acute as in this country. Everywhere, no doubt, the exactions of the employing class, and the sharpness with which social lines are drawn, have a bearing on the case. Instead of being easily solved the domestic problem is likely to grow more difficult.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The idea of a Provincial Liberal convention is such a good thing that the Conservatives have lost no time in copying it.

That Conservative "conference" is only a weak imitation of the Liberal convention, and everybody knows what value to place on imitations.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Chicago Chronicle shows his familiarity with Canadian men and affairs by writing up "the victory of Sir Wilfrid Laurier over his Conservative opponent, Sir Fredrick Borden," and the Chronicle ornaments the story with two-column cuts of Sir Wilfrid and Sir Frederick. These are our neighbours "informed" on Canadian politics.

Ottawa is getting electric energy for $16 per horse power, Orillia for $16, Peterborough for $14, Bracebridge for $14, and St. Catharines for $12. This is much lower than the cheapest steam or the cheapest electric power generated by steam. It is no wonder that municipalities within the range of Niagara power are bestirring themselves. — St. Thomas Journal.

The death of the late Mr. Shields will not seriously affect the Soo Soo works, of which he was manager. He had things well in hand, and there will be no hitch. Speaking of this Mr. Drummond says: "The coke blast furnace is now in successful operation, and the quality of pig that it is turning out is excellent. The rail mill, which is working on orders, is turning out over 550 tons a day, and I would not hesitate to say the quality is equal to any turned out in any rail mill in the United States." The success of the works is a tribute to the wisdom and foresight of the Ross Government.

We have had another illustration of the way the Lady of the Snows sits in sunshine while destructive and obstructive snowstorms invade climes supposed by the misinformed to be more genial than ours. So terrible was the storm of Monday along the Atlantic coast and so heavy the snow that for a time the Atlantic cities were telegraphically, completely severed from each other. Some of the news that has reached Montreal from New York has come by cable via Nova Scotia. We had a good deal of wind, enough to fill all the gutters with scraps and make a waste-paper basket of Victoria square, but we had nothing to reduce the people's Sunday walks, and to-day we enjoy such benignant sunshine as makes us have to be indoors.—Montreal Witness.

The officials and employees of his department paid Hon. J. S. Stratton a well-deserved compliment on Tuesday evening when, at a complimentary supper, a cabinet of silver was presented to him. Mr. Stratton, as the head of a large and important branch of the administration of provincial affairs, has always been a hard-working minister, but at the same time a popular chief. Under him the efficiency of the public institutions of the province has been steadily improved. Economy has gone hand in hand with progress, a fact due in the main to the constant example of industry which Mr. Stratton himself showed his subordinates. Public men are seldom appreciated at their worth as business men. Mr. Stratton's retirement from provincial politics is an anticipation of the hour. The public service cannot easily secure a better man for the heavy and responsible work he has performed for so many years.—Catholic Register.

CLYDESDALE.

The people of Clydesdale are now preparing for the winter, and there are but few who are not hoping for a more pleasant one than last.

Mr. Jack Frost has now put an end to the fall ploughing.

The hunting season is now in full blast and some of the boys of this vicinity are very lucky this year, one young man going home on Friday night last with two deer and one of them was a bouncer. Mr. Thomas Mahoney shot a fine one right near his barn.

The most of the boys from around here have gone to the woods to spend a few months in the lumbering camps, but we expect they will be back to spend a Merry Christmas with us.

There was a large gathering at Mr. Frank Scott's Wednesday last. The party enjoyed themselves fine and Miss Julia did her best to entertain them and invited them all back again.

Mr. John Tratter has moved into his new house. It is a fine dwelling.

Our cheese makers Mr. Goody And Mr. O'Brien have returned home. They have been away since early in the spring and all their friends are glad to see them back again once more.

Mr. James Scott is home for a few days from the lumber camp where he has been for the last two months.

Miss Ellen Gerrard is visiting her sister at Apsley, Mrs. Thomas Staples.

Miss Estelle Hynes payed a visit to the school house on Friday last.

Miss Lottie Mahoney, of Douro, is our teacher and is well liked by all and teh trustees are trying to hire her for the coming year, and all join in hoping they will succeed.

Miss Sarah Gerrard was the guest of Mrs. Alex. Trotter on Sunday last.

Mr. Michael Scott was the guest of Mr. M. Hobbins on Sunday last.

Mr. Michael Cleary spent a few days at Mr. Hynes' last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Mahoney were the guests of James Scotts on Sunday last.

There are prospects of a good time around here at Christmas as there are a few of the girls coming home from Peterborough, but the only draw back their will be there are some going away, but such are the ups and downs of old Chandos.

GROWING RHUBARB DURING THE WINTER

Prof. H. L. Hull Tells how it may be Done Successfully.

Most farmers who have a garden at all usually have a good supply of the old fashioned pie plant or rhubarb. This vigorous growing plant provides a wholesome substitute for fruit early in the spring before strawberries come in. It is not generally known, however, that it can be made to produce its crop in an ordinary cellar during the winter, when it would probably be more appreciated than when grown in the usual way in the garden in the spring.

The rhubarb plant makes its most vigorous growth under natural conditions early in the spring, when its large leaves store up in the thick fleshy roots a large amount of nutriment for the production of seed during the summer and growth early next season. To get the best roots for winter forcing it is well to allow the plants to make their full growth with little or no cropping of the leaves the previous season, and above all not to allow them to exhaust themselves by throwing up seed stalks. The more liberally the plants are manured and the better they are cultivated, the stronger the roots become and the better the crop they will give when forced in the cellar.

In preparing the roots for the cellar, they should be dug up late in the fall, just before the ground freezes hard. They should then be left where they will be exposed to severe freezing for three or four weeks. If placed under cover in an open shed, or where they will not be buried in snow, it will be all the easier to get at them when it is time to take them to the cellar. About Christmas time they may be put in the cellar and should be banked with earth to keep the roots moist. Care should be taken that the plants are set right side up, as at that season it is sometimes difficult to tell which side of the ball of earth the crowns are on. In the course of a few days the roots will thaw out and usually enough moisture is then accumulated to keep them fresh for some time. They should be watched, however, as they may need watering once or twice during the winter to keep the soil moist. The warmer the cellar the more quickly growth will start, but for the best results a rather low temperature, about the same as that in which potatoes are kept, is best. In a partially lighted cellar the leaf blades will expand very little, and all the strength of the roots will go to the development of the stalks. If the cellar is light, it is well to darken the part where the plants are kept. If the roots are strong and vigorous, stalks one and a half to two feet in length and two inches in diameter will be produced with little or no expansion of the leaf blade at the top. When grown thus in the dark, none of the chlorophyl or green colouring matter of the leaf develops, and the stalks are bleached to a pinky white. When cooked or made into sauce or pies, they turn a beautiful pink colour and are much finer in appearance and flavour than stalks which are grown in the ordinary way in the garden. Cropping may begin as soon as the stalks are well developed, and may be continued for several weeks, until the roots have exhausted themselves, after which they should be thrown out, as they are of little use for growing again.

We would suggest that our readers try growing two or three roots this winter, and let us know the results next spring.

COLLISION ON G. T. R.

Several Persons Hurt in the Wreck Near Merritton.

ENGINES BADLY WRECKED

No Fatalities Reported—Engineer Slater of the Pilot Engine Supposed the Track Was Clear, But Buffalo Fast Express No. 7 Came Along and Smashed Into Him With Tremendous Crash.

St. Catharines, Nov. 16.—An accident happened on the Grand Trunk at the tunnel under the new canal, near Merritton, at an early hour yesterday morning, which was presumably due to a conductor taking chances. Pilot engine No. 441, in charge of Engineer Robert Slater, 602 McNab street, Hamilton, brought a freight to Merritton from Hamilton Monday night. Later on Salter was ordered to assist a heavy freight up the grade to St. David's and then return to Merritton station. His work accomplished, Engineer Slater proceeded to back his engine down the grade at Merritton station. The track is double and Slater took the first opportunity to get on the west track, the track used by west bound trains. He considered himself in danger on the east track. At what is known as the six-mile is a switch on which trains can cross from one track to the other. Engineer Slater ran his engine across.

He did not think any train would be coming along, but he reckoned without the Buffalo fast express No. 7, running from Buffalo to London. The express was two hours late and just as the pilot engine was going on the west track she came dashing around the curve. Engineer Alex. Ross, who was at the throttle and trying to make up time, just saw the pilot ahead of him in time to put on the emergency brake. The big express engine struck the pilot engine with a tremendous crash and sent her flying clean off the track. The passenger engine fell on the other side. Both were badly smashed. The baggage car and smoker were considerably wrecked and the passengers on the train got a bad shaking up.

The Official Report.

The official account of the accident near Merritton early yesterday morning, as given out by the Grand Trunk, is as follows:

"At 2.12 a.m. engine 958, in charge of Engineer Ross and Conductor Burton, collided with pilot engine 441, in charge of Engineer Slater, at the six-mile post cross over, between Merritton Canal draw bridge and St. David's, badly damaging both engines, communication car 440 and coach 279, and derailing the sleeper Edington, blocking both main tracks. Following is a list of the injured:

John Cockern, Niagara Falls, N. Y., leg injured.

W. Hand, Buffalo, N. Y., back injured.

E. Beach and wife, Lennox, Mich., backs injured.

Starco Perry, Brooklyn, N.Y., leg injured.

John Hunter, Grindstone City, N. Y., back and chest injured.

W. Lick, Buffalo, back and chest injured.

Myron Wo ter, Homer, Courtland County, N.Y., head cut.

F. B. Prink, Lyndenville, Orleans County, N.J., face and leg cut.

E. Wright, baggagemao, face and leg hurt.

Slater, engineer 441, badly bruised.

Ross, engineer, 958, badly bruised and cut.

Engineer Slater was sent to the hospital at St. Catnarines. Passengers and other employes injured were taken back to Niagara Falls, where they received medical treatment.

"Engine 441 was pilot for engine 86, and received orders at Merritton to assist 86 to Clifton Junction and return to Merritton. The engine left Clifton Junction without orders, Engineer Slater in No. 86 following and stopped at six-mile post to cross over and let No 7 pass. Operator Smith, at the six-mile post, states that he put up the semaphore when No. 7 was within 50 or 75 yards of it. Engineer Ross states that the semaphore was put up just before the engine got to it."

Slater, it is said, had just been given his engineer's papers, and had been warned to be careful.

Piston Rod Exploded.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—Yesterday by the explosion of a piston rod at the Bertram Engine Works two Russian laborers named T. Vagmimuso and A. Agnackure were seriously injured.

Perished in the Flames.

Elgin, Man., Nov. 16.—Monday night about 11 o'clock the Elgin House was destroyed by fire. It was with great difficulty the alarm was conveyed to the inmates, owing to the dense smoke. One man perished in the flames, Robert Baldwin, about 60 years of age, who intended starting for his home near Seaforth, Ont., yesterday morning. It was known he was suffering from illness, and it is supposed that he was overcome by the smoke.

Shot While Hunting.

Owen Sound, Nov. 16.—Monday Mrs. John McEwen, West street, received a telegram from Iron River, Wisconsin, stating that her brother, Thomas S. Ward, was dead. A later telegram contained the particulars of his death. While hunting deer he was accidentally shot by a comrade and death was instantaneous.

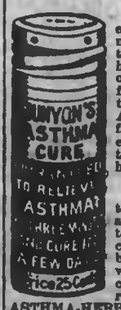
Welshly's Injuries Fatal.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—J. W. Welshly, the laborer who was injured on Monday by falling from the second storey of the new E. & S. Currie building, succumbed to his injuries at the Emergency Hospital yesterday afternoon.

Miss Harrison Dead.

Guelph, Nov. 16.—On Saturday morning last Miss Harrison of Enotville, while crossing Wyndham street, was knocked down and run over by a runaway horse. Her injuries were not thought to be serious at the time, but she was taken to the General Hospital, where her condition gradually became worse until Monday night, when death relieved her of her sufferings.

A CURE FOR ASTHMA



Nothing that I have ever done has brought me more pleasant memories than the thought that I have relieved thousands of suffering human beings from the horrors and distresses of Asthma. My Asthma Cure is known far and wide as the most efficacious treatment for this stubborn disease that has ever been discovered.

MUNYON.

When a patient is attacked by a paroxysm of asthma, the first thing is to relieve the distress caused by difficulty in breathing, and for this we have the quickest cure ever known. This remedy consists of our ASTHMA-HERBS, put up in the form of pastilles. Inhaling the smoke from burning one of these pastilles will positively relieve the worst form of asthma in three minutes, so that the patient can breathe easily, and lie down and secure a comfortable sleep. For the permanent cure of Asthma, MUNYON'S ASTHMA-CURE, four pellets every hour, should be used regularly. A short course of treatment with these two remedies will speedily cure the most obstinate cases. Price of a large bottle of ASTHMA-HERBS, with a large bottle of ASTHMA-CURE, $1.00.

When asthma is complicated with catarrh, use the ASTHMA-CURE in alternation with the CATARRH CURE, an hour apart, and subdue the catarrhal condition by the treatment recommended for catarrh.

Munyon's Remedies—a separate cure for each disease, for sale at all druggists—mostly 25c.

Munyon's Witch Hazel Soap and other Toilet Preparations, will give you a clear skin and fine complexion. Try them. 23

VICE-ROYALTY.

The Departing and the Coming Head of Canadian Society.

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—Col. Hanbury Williams, military secretary to Earl Grey, has arrived. He states that it is not quite certain whether the new Governor-General will sail from England on Dec. 1 or 8.

Capt. Trotter, formerly of the 1st Coldstream Guards, has been appointed an A.D.C. to Earl Grey, in addition to Viscount Bury and Capt. Newton.

Lord and Lady Minto leave here by special train on the C.P.R. short line at 4.30 to-day for Quebec. On reaching London they will spend a week or two in London, and then go on to their estate in Scotland.

Major Maude will rejoin the 1st Coldstream Guards as second in command. He was offered, but refused, a position in the intelligence branch of the War Office.

A new seal is being procured for Earl Gray. This is customary for each Governor. The seal bears the crest of His Excellency.

Gala State Concert.

One of the most brilliant musical and society functions ever held in Canada was the gala State concert given here last evening as a farewell to Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Minto. The Russell Theatre, which was beautifully decorated, was filled with admirers of the vice-regal household. It was indeed a scene of rare brilliancy. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Cabinet Ministers, military officers in uniform and the dignitaries of church and State, wearing their robes of office, combined with the stylishly gowned ladies to make a most beautiful picture. The affair was arranged by C. A. E. Harries of Ottawa, and was a grand success.

This afternoon Their Excellencies will receive a farewell address from the city and will leave at 4.30 for Montreal, en route to England.

An Event.

"What makes you look so jolly, old fellow?"

"I have just bought something for my wife that I didn't have to take back and exchange."

A DECIDED SUCCESS

Provincial Fruit, Flower and Honey Show at Toronto.

FINE ARRAY OF EXHIBITS

Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, Speaks At Mass Meeting and Suggests the Employment of Expert Fruit Packer For the Instruction of Canadian Shippers—Beekeepers Annual Meeting.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—The first Provincial Fruit, Flower and Honey Show, which opened yesterday in the Granite Rink, is a pronounced success in point of the number and quality of exhibits, general arrangement and effect, and in the attendance of the people of Toronto. The flowers are displayed in the skating rink, which is tastefully decorated with bunting and evergreens. Yesterday was chrysanthemum day, and the brilliant shades of that flower were in evidence. Competent judges say that the showing of chrysanthemums is easily the finest ever made in Canada, and the display of orchids has probably never been equalled. About five hundred entries were made in flowers alone, some of them quite extensive, and not confined to Toronto by any means.

The fruit and honey exhibits are in the curling rink, which is reached by a covered passage, and they have been effectively arranged. The lateness of the show necessarily limits the exhibits of fruit to apples, grapes and pears, but the display of preserved fruits is not the least attractive part of the exhibit. In fruit alone there are 183 entries, and in honey about 100.

Planting Home Grounds.

Prof. H. L. Hutt discoursed on the planting of home grounds at the horticultural convention in the Parliament Buildings yesterday. Nature idealized was the aim of landscape gardening, and his account of what might be done with an acre of ground around a country home made one long for the beauties he described.

Ontario's Need of Packers

The public meeting last night in Association Hall in connection with the Provincial Fruit, Flower and Honey Show was well attended. Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, presided. In his address he laid particular stress upon the need of expert packing, and said that there were no men in Ontario who are expert packers and can teach packing. Putting apples into a box is an art or science, and at the risk of being charged with making a pre-election promise, he said that he would either import an expert packer from St. Louis or send men from Ontario there to learn packing.

Although Canadian fruit finds a ready market wherever shipped, he found that it was being replaced by foreign fruit. Even in Winnipeg most of the fruit sold there came from California. This, he thought, was due to the fruit growers of Ontario having no concerted action. Each packer ships his own product, and there is no uniformity. We can produce the fruit, but to find a ready sale, it must be presented in proper form. This can only be done by co-operation.

For years he had advocated cohesion. The farmer should know his neighbor and their efforts should be united. He also advocated enthusiasm and thought nothing could be done without it. Much of the earlier part of the Minister's speech was devoted to the commercial side of the honey and flower pursuits.

The Busy Bee.

Dr. James Fletcher of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, gave an address on "What the little bee is doing."

C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, spoke on "Horticulture in Ontario," instancing its influence on home life and viewing it in the aesthetic and moral sense.

Beekeepers' Convention.

At 3 o'clock yesterday the Ontario Beekeepers' Association opened their annual convention. The president, J. W. Sparling of Bowmanville, gave his annual address, in which he referred to recent acts of legislation affecting beekeepers, which will come before the convention to-day and be discussed. He also outlined the questions likely to be discussed.

Morley Pettit of Belmont, gave a paper on "Extracted Honey," which was followed by a discussion on the foundation of comb and the best means of filling sections to get the most perfect product.

Pitiful Helplessness.

Victims of nervous diseases are the most to be pitied, because their ailments usually terminate in mental or physical helplessness. Paralysis, locomotor ataxia and insanity can only be avoided by building up the nervous system at the first sign of trouble, and there is no preparation so well suited for this purpose as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great nerve restorer.

General Andre Goes Under.

Paris, Nov. 16.—The official announcement is made of the resignation of General Andre, the War Minister, and the nomination of M. Henry Maurice Berteaux, member of the Chamber of Deputies, from the Versailles division of the Seine-et-oise, to succeed him.

Aground in St. Lawrence.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—The Black Diamond Liner Louisburg, coal laden, from Sydney to Montreal, went aground in the St. Lawrence at Three Rivers yesterday morning, but is not believed to be seriously damaged.

SISTERS OF CHARITY

RELY ON PE-RU-NA TO FIGHT CATARRH, COUGHS, COLDS, GRIP.

SISTERS OF CHARITY

All Over United States Use Pe-ru-na for Catarrh.

From a Catholic institution in Ohio comes the following recommend from the Sister Superior:

"Some years ago a friend of our institution recommended to us Dr. Hartman's Peruna as an excellent remedy for the influenza of which we then had several cases which threatened to be of a serious character.

"We began to use it and experienced such wonderful results that since then Peruna has become our favorite medicine for influenza, catarrh, cold, cough and bronchitis."

SISTER SUPERIOR.

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters all over the United States. A recommend recently received from a Catholic institution in Detroit, Mich., reads as follows:

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 8, 1901.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:

Dear Sir—"The young girl who used the Peruna was suffering from laryngitis, and loss of voice. The result of the treatment was most satisfactory. She found great relief, and after further use of the medicine we hope to be able to say she is entirely cured." SISTERS OF CHARITY.

This young girl was under the care of the Sisters of charity and used Peruna for catarrh of the throat, with good results as the above letter testifies.

Another recommend from a Catholic institution in one of the Central States written by the Sister Superior reads as follows:

"A number of years ago our attention was called to Dr. Hartman's Peruna, and since then we have used it with wonderful results for grip, coughs, colds and catarrhal diseases of the head and stomach.

"For grip and winter catarrh especially it has been of great service to the inmates of this institution."

SISTER SUPERIOR.

A prominent Mother Superior says:

"I can testify from experience to the efficiency of Peruna as one of the very best medicines, and it gives me pleasure to add my praise to that of thousands who have used it.

"For years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, all remedies proving valueless for relief. Last spring I went to Colorado hoping to be benefited by a change of climate and while there a friend advised me to try Peruna. After using two bottles I found myself very much improved. The remains of my old disease being now so slight, I consider myself cured, yet for a while I intend to continue the use of Peruna.

"I am now treating another patient with your medicine. She has been sick with malaria and troubled with leucorrhea. I have no doubt that a cure will be speedily effected."

MOTHER SUPERIOR.

These are samples of letters received by Dr. Hartman from the various orders of Catholic Sisters throughout the United States.

The names and addresses to these letters have been withheld from respect to the Sisters, but will be furnished upon request.

In every country of the civilized world the Sisters of Charity are known. Not only do they minister to the spiritual and intellectual needs of those with whom they come in contact, but they minister to their bodily needs. They are as skilled as trained nurses in their treatment of diseases, and are looked upon as messengers of good cheer by countless patient sufferers.

One-half of the diseases which afflict mankind are due to some catarrhal derangement of the mucous membrane lining some organ or passage of the body. A remedy that would act immediately upon the congested mucous membrane, restoring it to its normal state, would consequently cure all these diseases. Catarrh is catarrh wherever located, whether it be in the head, throat, lungs, stomach, kidneys, or pelvic organs. A remedy that will cure it in one location will cure it in all locations.

The Sisters Find Peruna a Never-Failing Safeguard.

Peruna is such a remedy. The Sisters of Charity know this. When catarrhal diseases make their appearance they are not disconcerted, but know exactly what remedy to use. These wise and prudent Sisters have found Peruna a never-failing safeguard. They realize that when a disease is of a catarrhal nature, Peruna is the remedy. Dyspepsia and female weakness are considered by many to be entirely different diseases. That dyspepsia is catarrh of the stomach and female weakness is due to catarrh of the pelvis organs the Sisters are fully aware, consequently Peruna is their remedy in both these very common and annoying diseases.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Ranged With Fire Fencing.

Kingston, Nov. 16.—John Way, farm laborer at Demorestville, wandered away on Friday night. On Saturday a neighbor found him in the woods standing with his back to him. The neighbor called, got no answer, and investigating found Way dead, having hanged himself with wire fencing. He was aged 65, and father of a large family.

Canadian Surtax Has Effect.

London, Nov. 16.—A Berlin correspondent says grave anxiety prevails in German industrial circles with regard to the differential treatment of German goods by the Canadian tariff. The conviction is expressed that sooner or later German trade with the Dominion will succumb beneath this treatment.

RECEPTION TO THE NEW PASTOR.

Rev. F. J. Scott Warmly Welcomed by the Congregation of Murray Street Baptist Church.

All Departments of the Church Extended Their Welcome to the New Pastor Last Night.

A Pleasant Social Evening Enjoyed---Other Pastors Were Present to Greet Rev. Mr. Scott.

Last night the members of the Murray street Baptist congregation tendered a reception to their new pastor, Rev. F. J. Scott, B. A., who, on Sunday, commenced what promises to be a most successful pastorate in succession to Rev. Jonathan Bastow.

Early in the evening the members and adherents of the church, gathered at the Sunday school room, and a congregational tea was held, in which, as well as in the meeting that followed, a very pleasant social time was enjoyed. The Sunday school room was well filled, and the officials and members of the church exerted themselves to extend a cordial welcome to the guests of the evening.

The auditorium of the Sunday school was very tastefully decorated for the occasion, and the tea provided by the ladies was one that did them credit.

Mr. T. F. Matthews acted as chairman of the meeting which followed the tea, and there were on the platform with him, the new pastor, Rev. F. J. Scott, Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's, Rev. A. H. Brace, of the Park street Baptist church, Rev. L. McKinnon, of Gilmour Memorial church, and Rev. W. Quarrington, of the Lakefield Baptist church. A number of addresses were given interspersed by musical selections.

Dr. Scott was the first speaker, and on behalf of the various societies of the church he extended a welcome to the new pastor. He stated that he esteemed it an honour to have the pleasure of extending the right hand of fellowship, on behalf of the church and congregation, to their new pastor. He was satisfied that Mr. Scott could safely depend upon all departments of the church to assist him in his work, and he felt sure that he would receive a warm welcome in all the homes of the members of the congregation. He trusted that the zeal and earnestness already exhibited by the pastor might be an incentive to them all.

THE PASTOR'S REPLY.

Rev. Mr. Scott thanked Dr. Scott, and the people of his congregation, for the encouraging words, and the very kind reception they had given him, not only on that occasion, but during the time preceding, in which he had been staying among them. There had been two occasions on which he had felt frightened since meeting his people as pastor. The first was on Sunday morning, when he had faced the congregation for the first time. There probably had been those who were present to criticise, but he also felt that there had been many present with deep sympathy. He had never had so numerous a people to shepherd, and seldom had he spoken in as large a building as the Murray street Baptist church. On Sunday morning he had tried to make his heart rather obdurate, and succeeded to a certain extent, but on the present occasion he felt scared again, as he beheld his flock present; the vast majority were his own people. It was a great epoch in his life, he considered, and on an occasion such as that it was difficult to express the feelings of his heart. His object was to be a help with, and to, all the people in the town, and he looked to his congregation to enable him to do good work among them as their pastor. The people could make or mar a pastor, and he was anxious that his first church should be very successful; it might be that he would be either made or marred. He asked them to pray that he might be a great blessing to them. He wanted to be a man with a message, and he would have them feel that there was a message to them from God through him. They should not always expect great sermons—some of the greatest were the simplest in thought and expression. It was not necessary to have great original thoughts in the delivery of God's simple message. His hope was that he would be blessed as he mingled with his people in their homes, and that God would make him a man whose character would ever be pure, righteous, fervent and holy. Addressing a few words to the young people, he interpreted the letters "B.Y.P.U.A." as meaning "Boost your pastor up always," and he was sure he would have the active and hearty support of the younger people of the congregation. He was pleased with the significance of what had been told him to the effect that the Murray street church was a missionary church, and the welcome given him by the Mission Circle was greatly appreciated. The choir, he was sure, would likewise prove a source of inspiration in the services of the church. With regard to the prayer meetings during the week, his hope was that both young and old would attend them, notwithstanding the fact that there were those who appeared rather inclined to remain within their homes. The holiest institution in the world was the home, and he expressed the wish that he had one. The older man he wanted to be fathers to him, the older women mothers, the young ladies sisters, and the young men, brothers in work, that made for the advancement of the Church, and the Kingdom of Christ.

Mrs. Rehill then favoured the company with a well rendered vocal solo, which was much appreciated.

Col. Edwards, the superintendent of the Sunday school, was the next speaker, and he said he was glad to extend to the new pastor a hearty welcome on behalf of that department of the church. He hoped that Mr. Scott would find interest in the Sunday school, and he also expressed the wish that the members of the church generally would take a deeper interest in the school, which should, in reality, be a Bible class. If the Sunday school is as successful as it should be there is great reason to thank God, and if it might be more successful, as he was sure it might, it behooved all those interested to work to make it so. He hoped that all departments of the church would rally to the support of the pastor, and that the church in its entirety would progress under Divine guidance.

A FINANCIAL PROBLEM.

Mr. Geo. Cochrane spoke briefly upon a matter affecting the finances of the church. He was glad to say there was no mortgage on the church, the treasurer's credit was so good that the banks were willing to advance the money, but there was a slight cloud. There was a debt of $1420 on the church, and he thought that it was the duty of the members to start out with the new pastor, with the church clear of this debt. He would like to say to Mr. Scott on January 1st, that the end of the debt was in sight. He believed that inside of two years this debt might be wiped out, and he wanted to see the whole amount pledged by the end of the year. One member had offered to give $300 alone, and he believed that the whole cloud of debt could be removed. Some of the older members of the church had paid $5,000 off the church, and he thought that what had been done could be duplicated.

Miss Hall delighted the gathering with a splendid redition of "Sing Me to Sleep," after which Rev. J. G. Potter in a pleasing address extended a welcome to Rev. Mr. Scott, on behalf of the congregation of St. Andrew's. He referred to the very pleasant relations that had existed between himself and Rev. Mr. Bastow, and hoped that the same conditions would prevail with the new pastor.

A violin solo, contributed by Miss Hope Miller formed the next and a delightful number on the programme, and this was followed by an address of welcome by Rev. A. H. Brace, of Park Street Baptist Church, who said that he carried the warm greetings of 130 live Baptists of Park Street Church to the new pastor of Murray Street.

A vocal solo, "Flower of Dumblane," by Miss Clara Kidd, was well rendered and enthusiastically received, and following this addresses were given by Rev. Mr. McKinnon and Rev. Mr. Quarrington, both of whom in warm terms welcomed to the church and town Mr. Scott, and the latter speaker referred to the esteem in which the new pastor was held by the students in McMaster University, where he had been looked upon as a leader, and was greatly beloved.

A vocal solo by Mrs. Miller and the benediction by the pastor brought a delightful evening to a close.

The good opinion formed of the new pastor on Sunday and on former occasions was more than sustained by the further acquaintance which last night's social evening afforded.

SUDDEN DEATH IN DOURO TOWNSHIP

Mrs. Patrick Heffernan Died While in Act of Retiring Last Night.

A very sudden death occurred in Douro Tuesday night. Mrs. Patrick Heffernan, a lady, 69 years of age, in comparatively good health, expired suddenly as she was retiring. Death was pronounced to be caused by heart failure, but the deceased, although she had been ill some months ago, was in almost perfect health. She was just in the act of getting into bed when she gave a low moan and fell over dead.

The deceased lived with her son, John Heffernan, on lot 1, concession 7, Douro. Her maiden name was Elizabeth Slatery, and she had her birth place in England, coming to Canada with her family in 1846, and settling in Otonabee, where she lived until her marriage with her late husband in 1860. Since that time she has lived in Douro, her husband dying there 13 years ago. She leaves four daughters and two sons, as follows: Mrs. Patrick Conroy, Otonabee, Mrs. John Doherty, Otonabee, Mrs. David Casey, Peterborough, Miss Mary at home, and John and William, both of whom live in Douro. One brother, Thos. Slatery, of Otonabee, survives her.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 8.30 from the residence of her son, John to St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough, and to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

COUNTY COUNCIL'S SPECIAL SESSION

Will be Held Commencing on Tuesday, Nov. 29th

A Conference Will be Held With Officials of the Municipalities—A Financial Problem.

On Tuesday, November 29th a special meeting of the County Council will be held, the object being to close up the affairs of the year in preparation for the regular meeting in January. It is not expected that the session will be a very lengthy one, but the Reeves, Clerks and Treasurers of all the townships and municipalities in the County have been advised of the meeting and have been asked to be present, in order that the accounts between them and the county may be settled. There has, it appears, been some little misunderstanding between the county and the municipalities with respect to the settlement of the accounts, particularly in the taxes for non-resident lands, and the principal object of the conference which will take place between the county and municipalities' officers is to straighten out this tangle. A considerable amount of taxes on non-resident lands is due the municipalities from the council, but in a great many cases these taxes have not been collected, so that in this case the county is not responsible. It is probable that at the next collection of taxes, all non-resident lands, upon which taxes have not been paid, will be sold, and the settlement between the county and municipalities effected. There is in some cases an arrears of county rate due from the municipalities to the county.

The business to be transacted by the council is almost purely of a financial nature.

DR. YOAKUM CLOSES SERVICES

Divine Healer Left To-day for Chicago but may Return.

Dr. Yoakum concluded his services at Bethany Tabernacle last evening. He leaves for Chicago and other appointments in Ohio and Pennsylvania. The doctor spoke touchingly of the warm place he had found in the hearts of the people of Peterborough. Many testify to healing and other blessings received from the doctor's ministry; all seemed to regret his going. This was especially evident from the fact that about thirty persons came forward for prayer, the meeting continuing until after 10 o'clock. It is probable that the doctor will return by Sunday for a few days more, though no definite announcement can be made at present.

MISSION IS A SUCCESS

Fourth Meeting of Men's Mission Last Night.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt Gave an Address on "Behold The Lamb"—The Attendance Continues to be Good.

Another very interesting and helpful address was given last night by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt at the fourth meeting of the mission for men which has been in progress since Saturday at the Y.M.C.A.

Before the meeting Mr. F. G. McCoy gave two sacred instrumental solos, which were followed by the service of song, in which the men present heartily joined. Rev. Dr. Crothers, pastor of George Street Church, was present and assisted with the meeting. The Y.M.C.A. male quartette, composed of Messrs. Herd, Hooker, Browne and Mitchell, sang a selection with good effect, the voices blending well.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt spoke on "The Lamb of God." Where is the Lamb? Take ye a Lamb, Behold the Lamb, Worthy is the Lamb. In referring to Abraham's trial in the offering of Isaac, some practical lessons were drawn in regard to temptation. Every trial God gives us is a vote of confidence in us. God is satisfied with nothing less than the Lamb, as Christ was the dividing line between the saved and unsaved.

How was the Lamb to be taken? Just as every other gift—by faith. The speaker then pictured the Lamb of God on the Cross—being offered for the sins of every man. All the world gave Him then was a drink of vinegar—many offer Him the same now. Many men keep the best for themselves to satisfy self. In closing Mr. Langfeldt made a stirring appeal to unsaved men to Behold the Lamb of God. The mission will close with an address tonight on "Rejoice." The meeting will be just an hour long, beginning at 8 o'clock, sharp. All men should rally for the closing address.

PROMINENT WARSAW RESIDENT DEAD

Mr. John Morgan Died After a Short Illness.

Mr. John Morgan, one of the best known men in Peterborough County, was buried this afternoon at Warsaw Cemetery. Mr. Morgan was the proprietor of the Warsaw hotel, and the summer resort at McCracken's Landing, which he built and which was one of the most popular summer hotels on Stony Lake.

Mr. Morgan died on Monday, after a three weeks' illness from bronchitis. Mr. Morgan had been ailing for some months, but his condition was not considered serious by the members of his family, or his physician, until a few days ago, when he rapidly sank, and passed away on Monday afternoon.

The late Mr. Morgan was 58 years and 8 months of age, and had been a life long resident of Peterborough County. He was born in Otonabee, and lived in that township, following the occupation of a farmer until fifteen years ago, when he purchased the hotel business in Warsaw, where he has since lived. He was a highly respected citizen and was a general favourite with all who met him in social or business relations.

One brother, Arthur, survives him and his widow and one son, Fred, and a daughter, Susan Maud, are also left to mourn his loss.

The funeral took place this afternoon to the Warsaw cemetery, and the service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Battersby. The funeral was attended by a large number of the friends of the deceased.

FIRST DEBATE ONE ON RUGBY

Opening Meeting of Collegiate Institute Debating Society

A Promising Literary Society in Connection With Local School.

The first regular meeting of the Middle and Upper School Literary and Debating Society of the local Collegiate Institute was held on Monday, November 14, at the close of the afternoon school session. There was a large attendance and much enthusiasm manifested by those present. As it was the first meeting since the election of officers the programme was begun by the president's address. Mr. Davidson, who occupies that office, spoke at some length of the history of Literary and Scientific Societies. He said, they were started in England in the sixteenth century and grew in numbers and importance until the foundation of the Royal Society of London in the reign of Charles II. Mr. Davidson spoke of the work of several other renowned societies of the kind, among them The Royal Society of Edinburgh, The Boston Society of Natural History and The Middle and Upper School Literary and Debating Society of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. (Applause.)

The President thanked the members for electing him to his office and called on the Secretary for the minutes of the previous meetings. They were read and adopted.

The next item on the programme was a reading by Mr. F. Austin, "The Wreck of the Hesperus," after which Misses Burnett and Wallace contributed a violin duet.

The chief feature of the evening was a debate which followed, "Resolved that Rugby does more harm than good."

The affirmative was taken by, Mr. S. Fife, Miss M. Roberts, Mr. F. Cressman. The negative by Mr. H. Miller, Miss H. Sanderson Mr. M. Cameron.

Mr. Fife began his address by referring to the popularity of Rugby, but said that it took up a great deal of time that might be much better spent in other ways. In the large Universities in the States the Rugby players are expected to give more time to its practice than to study, a serious condition of affairs.

Mr. Miller spoke of Rugby as a much abused game, but defended it because it provided such excellent physical exercise.

Miss Roberts followed by speaking of the "armour" worn by the players and of the number of serious accidents constantly occurring on the Rugby field during the season. Very often the players received such injury as resulted fatally. Was the game worth the sacrifice of health and life? Certainly not.

Miss Sanderson said that she was defending Rugby as it should be and not as it was played, that it required a great deal of courage to enter the game and thus character strengthened.

Mr. Cressman in his turn spoke of the betting and gambling indulged in at a rugby match especially among the small boys who receive their first lessons in such things in that way.

Mr. Cameron said that Rugby ought not to be blamed for betting and gambling. It would go on anyway. There was far more betting over a horse race or a political election than over a rugby match.

Mr. Fife being given an opportunity to reply, said that the courage spoken of by his opponents as engendered by playing football was only that of brute force, not worthy the name of valour.

The judges for the occasion were Mr. G. Greer, Mr. H. R. H. Menner and Mr. L. Bruce. Their decision was given in favour of the negative. Miss Weir as critic for the evening, then kindly criticised the members who had taken part in the programme, and expressed the opinion that the meeting held augured well for the future success of the Society.

The meeting then adjourned.

STOVE TALK NO. 6.

Why the "Happy Thought" Burns Less Coal Than any Other Range.

1. The fire pot in the "Happy Thought" is entirely different to any other range. It is deeper and narrower, and twenty years of use has proved that this feature alone will save many tons of coal.

2. The Duplex Grates, from the original patterns of the inventor distributes the draft equally over the entire grate surface. No dead corners.

3. The peculiar flue construction is the result of fifty years of careful study, and that the proportions are absolutely correct is proved by the fact that the Happy Thought bakes with a smaller fire than is possible with any other range.

A MAGIC TYPEWRITER.

Danish Inventor Operates It From a Distance Without Wires—An Ingenious and Reputable Inventor.

A Danish electrician named Paulsen is credited with having successfully attempted a curious feat. It is said that he has been able to operate the keyboard of a typewriter at a distance without any visible connection between it and the instrument at hand. It is added that he has also discovered a new kind of "electric wave" whose existence has been suspected, but which has never until now been revealed. According to a Copenhagen despatch, the man made use of this mysterious agency to produce the reported result.

Paulsen, who is an ingenious and reputable inventor, is best known as the author of apparatus for recording a telephone message automatically when the person for whom the latter is designed is away. The device is a form of phonograph and in certain respects is materially different from the Edison instrument. There seems to be no doubt as to the efficiency of the mechanism, but as yet it has not been introduced into service.

Several inventors have shown how to control the steerage apparatus of a submarine torpedo from the land or a ship without a wire. The system has not yet been adopted by any navy in the world. The demonstrations thus far given have been made with models and for exhibition purposes only. From these it seems probable that certain simple mechanical operations like the moving of a tiny rudder can be directed from a distance. To manipulate thirty or forty keys either upon a typewriter or a linotype machine would be a much more difficult mechanical and electrical complications. Nevertheless it is apparently not impossible.

AIRINI KARAURIA.

Woman Chieftain of the Maoris Made Visit to Great Britain.

Mrs. Donnelly—or, to give her native name, Airini Karauria—chieftainess of the Maoris, has now returned to New Zealand after a visit to Great Britain.

The lady is the daughter of Karauria, a heroic chief, who lost his life in 1867 fighting for the English after the massacre of Poverty Bay, and the niece of Renata, formerly a great fighting chief of the Maoris. She was brought up by Renata, who gave her the best English education at Wellington. She was thought by her kinsfolk an almost sacred (tapu) personage, her birth having been prophesied by a Maori seer. Her uncle and the Maori community were therefore greatly incensed when she married an able young Irishman, George Prior Donnelly, now one of the richest sheep owners in New Zealand. On his deathbed, however, Renata forgave his niece and left her his vast possessions. Mrs. Donnelly is the foremost native woman in New Zealand, and when the Prince and Princess of Wales made their tour she presented their Royal Highnesses with the gifts they received from the natives. She also acted as cicerone throughout the Maoris' territory. During her stay in England Mrs. Donnelly was honored with many marks of favor by the King and Queen.

WOMAN CHIEFTAIN OF THE MAORIS.

A Crying Need.

If there is a crying need of the gospel of simplicity it is in connection with funerals. It seems inconceivable that death should be made the occasion for display, and yet this is true of scores of funerals. The flowers, including those fearful conceptions of the ignorant florist; such as "Gates Ajar;" the quality of casket and even of the raiment of the dead, the "crowd" at the "obsequies," the number of carriages in the "cortege"—oh, oh, "what fools these mortals be," to say naught of the wicked and wanton waste of much needed money. It is difficult to conceive that a national love of display should have become so deep rooted as to lead to the very edge of the grave.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Boy Who Killed Father Freed.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 16.—Before Judge Prendergast at Rosthern, N. W. T., Monday, the case of Howard Stewart, an eleven-year-old boy, charged with murdering his father, Alfred Stewart, was taken up. The affair happened at Eagle Hills, west of Saskatoon, on June 20 last. The defence averred that the father had tried to kill his daughter with an axe. The wife interfered, and the husband turned upon her. The boy ran into the house, seized a gun and aimed it at his father's legs with the intention of wounding him only. The mother struck up the barrel to save Stewart, but when it was on a level with Stewart's neck the boy pulled the trigger, death resulting. After being out fifteen minutes the jury returned with a verdict of justifiable homicide, and the prisoner was acquitted.

Treated by Three Doctors for a Severe Attack of Dyspepsia,

Got No Relief From Medicines, But Found It At Last In

Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mrs. Frank Hutt, Morrisburg, Ont., was one of those troubled with this most common of stomach troubles. She writes:—"After being treated by three doctors, and using many advertised medicines, for a severe attack of Dyspepsia, and receiving no benefit, I gave up all hope of ever being cured. Hearing Burdock Blood Bitters so highly spoken of, I decided to get a bottle, and give it a trial. Before I had taken it I began to feel better, and by the time I had taken the second one I was completely cured. I cannot recommend Burdock Blood Bitters too highly, and would advise all sufferers from dyspepsia to give it a trial."

Died Aged 103.

New York, Nov. 16.—Patrick Maloney died at his home in Jersey City Monday, of old age. He was born in County Clare, Ireland, in 1802, and came to this country in 1840. One of his prized possessions was a pledge of total abstinence, made in Ireland, and which he had religiously observed. He entered the employ of the Erie Railroad and remained until he was 92 years old, when he retired with a pension.

RUSSIAN WOLFHOUNDS.

They Are Known as the Aristocrats of the Canine Family.

Beyond any question the aristocrat of the canine family is the Russian wolfhound, otherwise the borzoi or barzoi, which is the Russian name for coursing dog. There is a refined elegance coupled with the indication of speed and strength about the Russian wolfhound which no other breed possesses.

In western Europe he is merely the ornamental companion that he is in eastern America. In the coyote section of our continent he can be made as useful as he is in Russia, and to assist in clearing off that scourge of the cattle ranches. When the borzoi was first brought to this country he was hailed as a natural born wolf destroyer, and we started business under the impression that all one had to do was to let a borzoi see a coyote and the latter's death warrant was as good as executed. The result was a natural failure, because, like a bird dog, the wolfhound must be trained to the work. American purchasers have no occasion to worry about that, however, for the dog's high courage is the result of education and encouragement; without it they are docile and obedient and fit companions for the ladies of the house, a role which they are pre-eminently fitted to fill by reason of their handsome and unique appearance.—Country Life In America.

The Child That Wasn't Very Pretty.

Two Germantown women were recently calling on a new neighbor, and while awaiting her appearance a little girl came into the room, evidently bent upon the rescue of a doll recently abandoned there. Naturally she was viewed with some curiosity, and one of the callers, secure in the child's obviously tender age, spelled a low voiced comment:

"Not very p-r-e-t-t-y."

To her horror, the small maiden paused on the threshold and, fixing a contemptuous eye upon the culprit, remarked, with lofty composure:

"No, not very p-r-e-t-t-y, but rather s-m-a-r-t!"

Marks on Book Pages.

If you look at any novel or other book you will see at the foot of some of the right hand pages either letters of the alphabet or numerals. These numbers or initials are for the benefit of the persons who fold the sheets into the required size. Sheets vary in size and are sometimes folded four and sometimes eight times. Each sheet is a section of the book, and the folder takes section A B C and so on till the correct number of sheets is taken. The numbers and letters will be found on every fourth, eighth or sixteenth page of books, the numbers on the pages varying with the size of the book.

A Town of Violin Makers.

The only place in the world where violin making may be said to constitute the staple industry is Markneukirchen, in Saxony, with its numerous surrounding villages. There are altogether about 15,000 people in this district engaged exclusively in the manufacture of violins. The inhabitants, from the small boy and girl to the wrinkled, gray headed veteran and the aged grandmother, are employed throughout the year in making some part or other of this instrument.

Why Do Women Worry

AND THEREBY EXHAUST THE NERVOUS SYSTEM AND RUIN HEALTH?

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The worry habit is an unmitigated evil.

Worry is by far the most frequent cause of nervous disease.

Because of the multitude of household and family cares, and because of the nature of their employment, women are especially liable to give way to worry and anxiety.

The result is wasted nerve force, weakness and disease.

It may be nervous headache, sleeplessness, irritability, indigestion, discouragement and melancholy, or weakness and irregularities peculiarly feminine.

The only way to restore health and strength is by increasing the nerve force in the body, and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Make a test of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food by noting your increase in weight from week to week while using it.

Notice the improvement in your appetite, and how much better you rest and sleep.

The healthful appearance of women who has used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the best proof of what it will do in the way of strengthening and strengthening the nerves, rounding out the form and replacing weakness and disease with new strength and spirits.

Mrs. M. A. Sharp, 346 Dublin street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "For some years I was troubled with indigestion, which developed into nervous dyspepsia, and besides suffering from nervousness, strange dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed, and as a result of the use I am quite restored to health."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

PHYSIQUES.

Unless a man's physically deformed he belongs to one of the seven Semi-ready physique types!

By careful research, entailing the minute study of many thousands of measurements, we have found that these seven main types and four variations of each type give us almost exactly the correct measurement for each part of the anatomy of any and every man.

Knowing these measurements definitely we can tailor the inner parts of Semi-ready into permanent form, being assured that it will not be necessary to weaken them with much alteration.

By leaving the seams with outlets and the inner parts basted only to the outer shell of the fabric we can make the nice final adjustments to insure perfect fit.

CANADA HAS RAW MATERIAL

New Fuel Made of Refuse Pulp Is Better Than Coal.

A new fuel successfully tested at Munci, Ind., has been invented by Jacob Smith, a glass worker. It is said to possess more heat units per pound than either coal or wood. It can be manufactured and sold at a profit for half the cost of coal, and it does not smoke except when a strong draft is used. Its success as a fuel for domestic uses was determined some time ago, but not until recently, when it was used beneath an engine boiler, was its value for manufacturing demonstrated. The fuel is made largely from the refuse of the pulp mills, of which there are a number about Muncie. Each mill turns out thousands of tons of refuse annually. The refuse, a combination of soda and lime, is mixed with crude oil, and the finished product resembles putty. It may be cut with a spade and thrown into a furnace or beneath a boiler. No kindling is necessary, for a match touched to it will light readily, the material burning with an intense heat. There are no clinkers, and the ashes remaining after the fire has burned down may be made into a new compound for which Mr. Smith has another use.

A bushel basketful of the fuel beneath a sixteen horsepower engine at a Muncie factory kept steam up for eight hours. It is manufactured as a plasterer makes his mortar. It is patented as Smith fuel in the United States.

The Value of Fresh Air.

In the museum connected with the Edinburgh University is an exhibit that is a striking object lesson of the value of fresh air. A professor has secured the lungs of an Eskimo, a Londoner and a coal miner. He has had them preserved with some kind of a chemical process, and they are now side by side in a glass case. The Eskimo's lungs are pure white, the Londoner's lungs are a dirty brown, and the coal miner's lungs are jet black.

'LAY DOWN YOUR ARMS'

AN EPOCH-MAKING BOOK WRITTEN BY BARONESS VON SUTTNER.

Read by Czar of Russia Before He Issued His Proposal to the Nations for the Famous Peace Conference That Resulted in The Hague Arbitration Tribunal—Author Is Sixty-One Years of Age.

Before the Czar of Russia issued his proposal to the nations for the famous peace conference that resulted in the establishment of The Hague arbitration tribunal he read the book written by the Baroness Bertha von Suttner, entitled "Lay Down Your Arms." The book so moved the Russian Emperor that he determined to exert his influence in the direction of arbitration and disarmament.

The Baroness, whose visit in connection with the recent Peace Congress at Boston, has brought her into especial prominence at this time, is sixty-one years of age. She published her most famous book in German in 1889, and it immediately made a great impression in Austria, resulting in the formation of the Austrian League of the Friends of Peace, of which the author was made president. Similar societies were formed in Germany. The movement took so strong a hold on public sentiment that in the Austrian Chamber of Deputies the Minister of Finance referred to "Lay Down Your Arms" as a book certain to have a great influence on the future policy of the nations. Since The Hague Conference two costly wars involving terrible loss of life, especially in the case of that now in progress in Manchuria, have imparted a powerful impetus to the peace movement. Three cases of successful arbitration have illustrated the feasibility of the bloodless method of settling international difficulties.

Baroness von Suttner can speak with authority on the subject of war, for she is the daughter of a great Austrian general, Field Marshal Count Frans von Kinsky. When a girl she was betrothed to a young Austrian officer who fell in battle, and her grief turned her thoughts in the direction of writing against war. It was not until her youth was passed that she married the author, Baron von Suttner.

For Whooping Cough.

The following recipe has been sent me by a correspondent, who says she cured her children by it speedily when other remedies failed entirely: Beat together one ounce of honey, one ounce of castor oil and the juice of a lemon. The dose is a teaspoonful every four hours. My correspondent says that she has not known her "cure" to fail in any instance.—London Lady.

FORTUNE TELLING

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health. There is many a woman whose future seems absolutely unclouded who is marked by her own condition for future disappointment and distress.

The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross.

Womanly health may be retained or regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

Dr. Pierce offers $500 reward for women who cannot be cured of the above diseases. His "Prescription" has been so successful in curing thousands of cases in the past third of a century that he makes this remarkable offer to show his confidence.

"I have taken six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Miss M. Fyfe, of Griffin, Simcoe Co., Ontario, "and two bottles of the 'Pleasant Pellets' as you advised for congestion of uterus, ovaries, and weakness, and can safely say that your medicine has been the means of restoring me to good health again, which I had not had for over three years, until taking your medicine. I thank you very much for your kind and prompt attention to my letter asking advice."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the complexion and sweeten the breath.

Felt Weak and Nervous.

Had Faint and Dizzy Spells.

These symptoms arise from a weak condition of the heart and nerves. Wherever there are sickly people with weak hearts and deranged nerves, will be found an effectual remedy.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Through the medium of the nervous system, they impart a strengthening and restorative influence to every organ and tissue of the body.

They restore enfeebled, enervated, exhausted, devitalized, or overworked men and women to perfect constitutional power.

Miss Maggie L. Cleveland, Bayswater, N.S., tells how she was cured in the following words:—

"I was sick for the past year, and became thoroughly run down. I had faint and dizzy spells, and felt weak and nervous all the time. I tried numerous remedies, but could get no help. I then read in the paper about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and got a box of them. Before I had used one-half the box I began to get better, so got another one, and by the time the two were finished I was as well as ever."

MADE AND GUARANTEED BY PROPER CORSETS.

One Reason Why the Frenchwoman Always Looks So Trim.

It is a well known fact that Frenchwomen spend about three times as much money on their corsets as American women do. At first one is apt to call this expenditure extravagant, but on due consideration it appears that a well turned out corset is an economy. The average American woman possesses, as a rule, only one wearable corset at a time, and probably she does not pay more than $2.50 for it in the first place. After a month's use, morning, noon and night, it is bound to lose its shape and give the figure anything but a trig appearance. Now, the Frenchwoman has at least two corsets at once, and in most cases more than two. She would not dream of lounging in the house in the corset that she wears on the street. No more would she do any housework in the same corset that she wears under a thin evening gown. Parisian mothers are exceedingly careful as to the kind of corsets their daughters wear, believing that only the best should be molded to the unformed figures of young girls. Very few corsets are sold in the French stores for the reason that the vast majority of the women contrive in some way to get them made to order.

The Original Cradle.

There is, if one comes to think of it, says the Loudon Queen, more connection than is at first apparent between the "tree top" and the cradle of the old refrain, with which generation after generation of babies has been crooned to sleep. The cradles of the ninth and tenth centuries were formed of a section of the trunk of a tree, scooped out, with small holes bored at the sides through which to pass the cords back and forth to prevent the child from falling out. The natural convexity of the wood on the outside enabled the nurse to rock the infant.

The enormous antiquity of the now obsolete cradle is startling when one remembers the wicker cradle or basket of the time of Moses, and later it is known on excellent authority that the Roman babies slept in cradles. These were the predecessors of the elaborately carved cradles which formed so important a part of the bedroom furniture until within the last fifty years.

The Strength of Jefferson.

Jefferson was that one nearest to genius who has lived in the White House. He was a philosopher, a statesman, a scholar, a linguist, an artist and a scientist. He drew plans as an architect, invented the first furrow turning plow, and last, though not least, played on the fiddle. He sent rice from Italy, smuggling it out of Milan in his coat pockets, contra formam statuti, and made the savannas of Carolina and Georgia a source of food supply. He did many notable things. Among others, he lifted 1,000 pounds with his bare hands and gained the title of "the strong man of Albemarle" in a region where men were strong.—A. H. Lewis in Metropolitan Magazine.

The Most Powerful Poison.

A new poison, many times more powerful than prussic acid, has been discovered by an English chemist, who has named it cyanide of cacodyl. It is a white powder, melting at 33 degrees and boiling at 140 degrees, and when exposed to the air gives forth a slight vapor, the inhalation of which is instant death. A combination of potassium acetate with white arsenic, producing a fuming liquid called cacodyl, was made a number of years ago by a French experimenter, and this the English chemist has further combined with cyanogen, a radical of prussic acid, producing the deadly substance named, the most potent so far in the records of chemistry.

Magnetic Water.

A reputable scientific publication is sponsor for the statement that there exists in at least three places in the State of Indiana springs or wells whose water possesses marked magnetism and is able to impart it to steel objects dipped therein. This property has been reported of other springs in various parts of the world, but such tales have been received by scientific men with caution. In this case the magnetism seems to arise from the fact that considerable quantities of carbonate of iron are dissolved in the water.

CULINARY CONCEITS.

A little lemon juice added to the water for mixing pastry improves the flavor and helps to make it light.

Just a squeeze of lemon juice added to sauces, soups, gravies or stews after cooking brings out the flavor wonderfully and is a great improvement.

Fried potatoes will be tough if washed after being cut, and potatoes will be dark if fried in boiling fat, but light golden brown if cooked for five minutes in hot fat.

Cold meat, chopped fine, covered with mayonnaise dressing and decorated rings of hard boiled eggs and parsley, makes a delicious supper salad when laid on nice crisp lettuce leaves.

Meat should never be washed before cooking. If it has any appearance of being handled or not quite fresh it ought to be scraped with a knife and then wiped with a cloth dampened with vinegar.

A Pretty Kitchen.

A pretty kitchen is described in the House Beautiful. The woodwork of the room was painted with two coats of drop black paint, the sink, table and chairs being similarly treated. The metal work of the room was nickel. Above the wainscoting and on the ceiling was a tile paper in Dutch blue and white, and a blue and white linoleum covered the floor. Blue calico curtains and tied-in blue cushion on the chairs completed the effect. Aside from the black woodwork the room seems very satisfactory, but most kitchens would be made too dark with black paint.—New York Post.

Care of the Face.

The skin on the face should be thoroughly cleansed at least once a week. To do this successfully bathe the face in warm water, using a good mild soap, dry gently and rub in a good cold cream. Rub off the cream with a soft cloth, and, although the face may have looked perfectly clean before applying the cream, the cloth will be black with the dirt the cream has removed. Repeat the application of cream, wipe off again and wash the face in warm water in which you have put a few drops of tincture of benzoin or toilet vinegar.

His Vulnerable Point.

WHY DOES A BABY CRY?

Because it is either hungry or in pain. Properly nourished it will usually grow up right and be comfortable—that's the principal thing for a baby. If its food lacks strength and nourishment add Scott's Emulsion at feeding time. A few drops will show surprising results. If a baby is plump it is reasonably safe. Scott's Emulsion makes babies plump.

LATEST SPORT

PETERBOROUGHS OFF FOR TORONTO

Final Game in the District To-morrow Afternoon.

There will be a couple of changes on the line-up of the Peterborough team for the game with the Torontos to-morrow. The boys are in the best of shape and while they realize that they will be up against a strong proposition, they are confident of duplicating their last performance against the Torontos and of coming out on top. Ford will be played at left half and Mulhern will figure at full back. The following players will leave on the 7.16 C.P.R. train to-morrow morning:—Mulhern, Ford, Shaw, Crowley, Graham, Burnham, Hurtubise, Greene, McDonald, Meagher, Cameron, Rickey, Gilbert and Dillon. A number will accompany the boys to cheer them to victory.

NO MEETING.

Curlers Met Last Night and Adjourned for a Week.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club called for last evening did not materialize. There were about twenty-five members present, but as the business before the meeting was of a very important nature, and included the election of officers it was decided upon the suggestion of the President, Mr. R. Neill, that an adjournment be made for one week, the motion being carried by a small majority.

A full attendance of all curlers and those interested is asked for next Tuesday evening as the business will be of a most important nature.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM JOYCE

In Which he Gives Reasons for Supporting Referee's Decision.

The Examiner publishes another letter from Mr. Joyce re the recent Burns-Harrison foot race. In future, however, nothing additional will be published in reference to the race on either side as the trouble seems to be of a personal matter between the parties concerned and these letters are becoming of a somewhat wearisome nature.

To the Sporting Editor of Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I noticed a letter in a recent issue of the Examiner signed "A. J. Burns" in which he attempts to answer the charges made in a previous issue by assuming a sarcastic attitude and repeats over again that old joke about losing money and a few others, and winds up by advising the referee and myself to keep away from all sport and especially to shun and avoid all foot-runners.

Now this cunning evasive style of answer sounds all right on the street and some other places, but I assure you Mr. Editor, I appreciate too highly the dignity of the press to answer him in the same vein. As a matter of fact, he did not answer me at all; I did not mention anything about money. I stated a defence of the referee's decision in the Burns-Harrison foot race, which took place on the Exhibition Park on Queen's Birthday, believing then, as I believe yet, that his decision to not give the race to either man and call all bets off, when he found the track over a half a mile short, was in harmony with the decisions rendered by all the great referees in America, and to establish this claim, permit me to give two illustrations: In one case the track was too long and the man who was leading in the finish got the race; and in the other it was too short, and neither man got credit, although a world's record was beaten. On Feb. 8th, Rice, of Chicago, was matched against Blair, of Wisconsin, for a fifty yard dash, with Dr. Plusse, the official handicapper for all the Western States, acting as referee. When the race was over, three stop watches agreed that it had been done in record time, with Rice ahead, so his manager made an application for the time. Then Dr. Plusse, the referee, demanded that the track should be measured with a steel tape line, which showed the track to be six inches short so Dr. Plusse refused to give the time of the race to Rice on that account; and thus you see how a short track prevented Rice from securing a world's record.

In the same month, W. R. Knox, of Orillia, Ont., was matched to run a fifty yard dash with Arthur Duffy on the Boston Athletic Association track Knox won by a foot in 51-3 seconds, and then again the referee asked for a steel tape and when he measured the track he found it was 18 inches long. He gave the race and the record to Knox of Orillia. In October last Art. J. Burn, native of Ottawa, Ont., was matched to run a five-mile road-race with G. R. Harrison, of Hamilton, Ont., the race to take place in Peterborough, Ont., and Harrison to have one minute handicap. Harrison was leading by about 20 feet when the race finished; 4 watches said that the world's record for 5 miles had been lowered about one minute and a half. So the referee had the track carefully measured. He found it to be 4 miles, 110 yards long, or a little under 41-2 miles.

Harrison made an application for the race and the time and when the referee refused to give it to him he got indignant and told him that as he had been raised in Peterborough he knew nothing about sport, but that he came from Hamilton and knew all about it and was willing to advise him how to give a decision and since then they have poured out enough abuse on him to make us believe he committed a crime.

But Peterborough is getting wakened up. Foot-runners must learn to respect our referees as they are obliged to in other places or suffer the consequences.

Burns has already learned the lesson we taught him for he is advertising that his race in Ottawa, on Thanksgiving Day will be on a measured track.

Thanking you, very kindly, for your valuable space, I remain

Yours for Clean Sport,

W. M. JOYCE.

FOOTBALL.

It is generally conceded that the popularity of football is growing rapidly and with each season many new converts are added to the cult. However, there are still a great number of spectators in evidence at the big college matches who, while they are enthusiastic rooters and delight in the general mix-up, are not acquainted with the technical points of the game.

SPRINTING

A great deal of interest is being shown in the big three-cornered five-mile foot race between Burns, Williams and McKenzie, on Thanksgiving day. The course was measured yesterday, and, as all the runners are in good shape, a very good race may be looked for. A number of big bets of $100-$75, and even at any part of $100 have been recorded.—Ottawa Free Press.

* * * *

Belland and Taylor have agreed to run a hundred yards foot race on Nov. 21st in Toronto. Taylor is the man who defeated Knox in Orillia, so that the race should be a good one.

HOCKEY.

BASKET-BALL.

Don't forget the basketball game at the Y.M.C.A. to-morrow evening, Thanksgiving, between the Torontos and Peterborough Intermediates. Come and see the first game of the season. A wrestling match and a potato race will be put on between the halves. Game commences at 8 o'clock.—Com.

TURF.

To-morrow afternoon at the Driving Park there will be a speeding event which should prove interesting to those acquainted with the horses, and should provide some good sport. Velma Cook' horse will race Donna Belle and Jim K for a $50 purse subscribed by some local sportsmen. Martin Connor's horse will also be admitted. The race will be run in half-mile heats, and the winner takes all the stakes.

Six Merchants had to Pay $106 Altogether—Other Cases.

There were a number of cases before the Magistrate at the Police Court this morning, and as a result quite a number of townspeople will have less to be thankful for than had they not been summoned to appear.

The first on the programme was Frank Meehan, who was charged with vagrancy. Frank had been twice fined for being drunk. He comes from Cobourg originally, and secured a job here for a time, but has recently been out of work. He came to the police station last night and asked to be given 20 days in jail to get over a "spree." The Magistrate suggested that six months in jail would be better, but Frank objected strenuously, and said he would go to work, if discharged. The Magistrate gave him ten days in jail and warned him it would be Central prison the next time.

A case of assault was dismissed. The complainant, Jas. Allen, had been shoved off the sidewalk one night recently by someone in a crowd of about 16 young men. The defendant swore that he was not in the crowd and that it was a case of mistaken identity. There being no substantiative evidence, the case was dismissed.

Fred Hubble gets into trouble himself and also gets others into trouble. A short time ago he was convicted of stealing, but was allowed to go on suspended sentence. A week ago he was arrested on a charge of vagrancy and was discharged this morning after spending a week in goal.

He figured prominently in several cases this morning as a witness and as a result of his desire for tobacco fines amounting to $106.05 were imposed and others may follow. Six merchants were fined for selling either cigarettes or tobacco to him, being a minor. He, in some of the cases, told the tobacco dealers that he was not under age, but this did not warrant them in giving him the tobacco, as he is to all appearances under 18 years. Two charges were also made of selling liquor, to minors, and Hubble was connected with one of these cases. In one case a fine of $20.00 was imposed and the other case was enlarged until Monday. One tobacco case was also enlarged until Monday.

In three cases the fines were $10 and costs, or $16.60 altogether, and in three others, one a liquor case, the fines were $20 and costs.

INTEREST LAGS IN INSTITUTES.

Farmers Institutes not Supported as They Should be.

List of Meetings to be Held This Month in West Peterborough—Great Value of the Institutes.

Posters announcing the series of regular meeting under the auspices of the West Peterborough Farmers Institute are being sent through the county to-day. The subjects to be discussed at the meetings are of vital interest to agriculturists, and the meetings should be well attended. It is a regrettable fact that despite the earnest, energetic efforts of the officers of the Institute the interest does not seem to be increasing at the rate which it should, when the value of membership in the Institute is considered.

The apathy in the local Institute is by no means as isolated case, for in conversation with secretaries throughout the province it is learned that it is extremely difficult to induce the farmers to appreciate the great value to them of association with the Institutes. The officers of the local Institute are working energetically and consistently for the success of this most commendable enterprise, and it is certainly not through the lack of hard work on the part of the president and secretary that the membership of the Institute is not larger. Instead of having a membership of something over a hundred, it should have in West Peterborough at least 600, and doubtless it would be if the advantages of the Institute were appreciated.

There is little difficulty in securing a good attendance at the meetings, but the membership list is not nearly as large as it should be. The annual membership fee is only 25 cents, and for this small sum all the literature issued by the Ontario Agricultural Department is sent to each member; including crop bulletines, reports of Live Stock Associations, and other very valuable information of great interest to farmers and stock breeders, and information, without which it is almost impossible to farm scientifically.

It is a noticable fact that in the counties where the membership of the Institutes is the largest, the farmers have the highest reputation for progressiveness, and are generally considered to be the most thoroughly versed in the art of modern agriculture.

The list of regular meetings, with the speakers and subjects, are as follows:

On Monday, Nov. 28th, at Lakefield town hall. The meeting will be held at 1.30 p.m., and addresses as follows will be delivered: President R. Q. Dench, opening address; W. F. Kydd, Simcoe, "The Dairy Cow, her summer feed and winter care;" G. H. Hutton, B.S.A., Easton's Corners, "Breeding and Feeding for Production of Bacon;" F. E. Kline, Lakefield, "The Care of Milk before it Reaches the Factory." On the evening of the same day a meeting will be held in the same place, when Mr. Jas. Moore, has been invited to be present and deliver an address. Mr. Kydd will speak on the "Farm Home Surroundings," and Mr. Hutton will address the meeting on the subject of "The Needs of the Farmers of the Future."

On Tuesday, November 29th, at 1.30 p.m., a meeting will be held in the Council Chamber, Peterborough, when addresses will be given by Mr. Kydd on "Am I Raising the Most Profitable horse," and by Mr. Hutton, on "Artificial Incubation, or Fattening Fowl for Fancy Prices." On the same evening a meeting will be held in the North Monaghan town hall, and Mr. Kydd will speak on "A Stitch in Time," while Mr. Hutton will speak on "Fruit Culture."

Supplementary meetings will be held at the Orange Hall, 4th line of Smith, Ennismore town hall, and the Union Hall, Stewart's, Otonabee, on the first week in January.

KNIGHTS OF MACABEES.

Held Open Meeting Last Evening in Their Hall.

A joint meeting of the two Tents of the Knights of the Maccabees. No. 64, was held last evening, when Mr. S. W. Trusler, Provincial Commander, gave an address. He spoke of the raise in the rates which will take place on January 1st next, giving reasons why it was necessary to raise the rates. Mr. Titterson occupied the chair.

A short programme was given, after which a banquet was held at McCallum's restaurant.

At the S. A. Barracks.

The magic lantern service conducted by Ensign Edwards in the S. A. Hall last night was well attended and was very much enjoyed.

Brigadier W. J. B. Turner, the Provincial Officer, will arrive here to-morrow morning on the first train from Belleville, will attend to some business matters with the District officer, Adjt. Jennings, in the morning, hold a soldiers' council in the afternoon at 3, followed by a soldiers' Thanksgiving tea at 5 p.m. At 8 p.m. the Brigadier will conduct a great Thanksgiving meeting and give an address on the subject "Which Way?" The band will play a number of special selections during the evening.

RETIREMENT OF HON. J. R. STRATTON ANNOUNCED.

Provincial Secretary Resigns His Portfolio in Ontario Cabinet—It is not His Intention to Seek Re-election in West Peterborough at End of Present Parliamentary Term---Progress of Department Under His Charge---Liquor Laws Have Been Vigorously Enforced---Reforms and Advance Made During His Five Years of Office---Asylum Accomodation Greatly Enlarged---No Need for Insane to be Kept in Jails---Public Health Regulations Improved.

It has for some time been generally known to Hon. Mr. Stratton's personel and political friends that he would cease to be the representative of West Peterborough at the expiry of the present parliamentary term, it being his intention not to again become a candidate at that time. It has for some time also been known in Government circles that Mr. Stratton's resignation of the portfolio of Provincial Secretary, was in the hands of the Premier and that its acceptance will be announced in a few days. In this connection the following correspondence explains itself:

FROM MR. STRATION TO MR. HAMILTON.

Toronto, October 12th, 1904.

Dear Mr. Hamilton,—As I have mentioned to you on many occasions during the past number of years, and particularly prior to the last genera. election, that in deference to my business interests I should be released from my representative duties, I wish now to intimate that this desire and the conditions which gave rise to it, remain, and I would be pleased if you would at the earliest opportunity convenient, make known to the Liberal Association of West Peterborough that it is not my desire to again contest the constituency at the close of the present parliamentary term.

I may say to you that I have made my intentions known to the Premier, and have intimated to him that my portfolio was at his disposal at any time convenient for his acceptance of my resignation.

I have to thank you, the Liberal party, and my supporters in West Peterborough, for the very cordial support that has been extended to me since my first nomination in 1898. My relations with my colleagues since I entered the Government, have been of the most pleasant character, and my retirement from the Government and from the representation of the constituency is entirely of my own free-will, and contrary to the desire of my many friends here.

This intimation is no new thing to yourself, nor to many of my supporters in West Peterborough, as they know that my intention was not to seek re-election at the conclusion of the present parliamentary term, and indeed before the last general election, and I then been permitted to do so.

Yours faithfully,
J. R. STRATTON.

Peter Hamilton, Esq.,
President West Peterborough Reform Association, Peterborough, Ont.

FROM MR. STRATION TO THE PREMIER.

Toronto, October 12th, 1904.

My dear Premier,—As I have already intimated to you that it is not my present intention to seek re-election at the close of the present parliamentary term, I feel that it would be only justice to you now to place my portfolio at your disposal, so that you may, at a time convenient to yourself, accept my resignation as Provincial Secretary of Ontario. I shall remain in charge of the Department during your pleasure, but shall be pleased to be relieved of official responsibilities at the earliest possible date.

I beg to assure you that as a member of the Liberal party I shall continue to have the same great confidence in your ability, integrity and honesty of purpose, and success in administering the affairs of this Province that I have always had as one of your colleagues.

I take this step with great regret at having to part from you, but my present and future business interests are such that I cannot in justice to myself and the Government, continue the double responsibility of attending to increasing public and business matters.

Wishing you and your Government every success, I have the honour to be, Sir,

Yours faithfully,
J. R. STRATTON.

Hon. G. W. Ross, Premier of Ontario, Toronto, Ont.

AN INTERESTING INTERVIEW.

Under the circumstances, it will not be out of place to republish from the Toronto Globe the following interview with Mr. Stratton, which must contain much that will interest his constituents in West Peterborough whom he has stood by so faithfully for the past eighteen years, as well as the people of the Province, whom in an official capacity he has endeavoured to serve as faithfully and efficiently as was in his power:—

HON. J. R. STRATION.
Whose Retirement From Provincial Politics is Announced To-day.

A representative of the Globe had an interesting interview to-day with Hon. Mr. Stratton.

"I understand, Mr. Stratton, that you contemplate resigning the portfolio of Provincial Secretary."

"Yes, I placed my resignation in the hands of the Premier some time ago and he has consented to relieve me duties, and I expect to be relieved in a few days."

"Have you anything to say in connection with the matter?"

"Very little; only to say that for personal business reasons I have long desired to be left free to give the attention demanded, to business matters, with which my official duties very largely interfered, for, irrespective of their claims, I have applied myself diligently to the performance of the work of my department. I wished to do my duty so faithfully that the interests of the Province should be well served and that there should be no cause of complaint, and I think I may safely say, not in the way of boast, but as a simple statement of fact, justified by the conditions, that the work has been satisfactorily done and that so far as the Public Institutions of the Province are concerned, as well as other interests entrusted to me, there has been no neglect but that everything has been, as was aimed at, carefully and honestly administered."

PROGRESS OF PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

"Can you go a little into detail?"

"Perhaps it is fitting that at this time I should do so to a small degree. I leave the public institutions of the Province in a much better condition than they were in 1899, when I assumed charge. They are better furnished, better equipped for their work, and better supplied. They are also more efficiently officered and better results are obtained from the work done. New Asylums have been established at Cobourg and Penetanguishene—at the latter place by the conversion of the Boys' Reformatory into an Asylum. The boys have been removed and those suitable for the purpose have been placed in foster homes, while those with criminal inclinations or incorrigible characters are looked after in the Industrial Schools. The building they occupied has been remodelled and is now occupied by 200 inmates with accommodation for as many more, thus providing for the removal from the jails of those confined as insane and weak-minded persons.

"In 1899, there were seven asylums with 5,822 patients and a revenue of $74,364.54. Now there are nine institutions with 6,161 patients and a revenue of $105,877.14, or an increase of revenue in five years of $31,512.60. The Institutions for the Deaf and Dumb and for the Blind at Belleville and Brantford, respectively, have been greatly improved, both materially and, in the way of equipment, and have been and are doing satisfactory work. The Mercer Reformatory has been remodelled throughout. The inmates have been classified and it is altogether now better equipped for its work. Eight new Houses of Refuge have been erected since 1899, with the statutory provincial assistance, and ten new hospitals have been built, and at Woodstock an hospital for Epileptics has about been completed. The number of lock-ups in the unorganized district has increased from 13 to 23.

NOT A DOLLAR MISSPENT.

"I may here point out that my Department, especially in connection with the public institutions, has been the spending Department of the Government. Our expenditure has been about one million dollars per year, and in connection with that expenditure, I do not know of one cent having been misappropriated or wrongfully spent. I shall soon not be connected with the Department. If anyone knows of anything of the kind, he is at liberty, so far as I am concerned, to speak out. I leave behind me the Inspectors, the Superintendents and Bursars of the institutions, as well as the Departmental officials, and I think they can bear witness that I have been influenced solely by a desire to have the business of the Department conducted properly, promptly, and as economically as was consistent with the welfare of the interests to be served, and that good value as far as can be estimated, should be received for every dollar expended, and I, on my part, can bear testimony that these officials have all succeeded in doing their duty.

"The same general remarks apply to the administration of the Central Prison. This institution is filled with prisoners and more work is being done. The prisoners are daily employed and made help not only to maintain themselves, but to contribute to the revenue of the Province. The equipment has been improved to facilitate the attainment of these objects. I might here bear witness to the good work done by the Prisoners' Aid Association to improve the condition and prospects of discharged prisoners, and also the Salvation Army Prison Gate Mission, which though not working in co-operation, is working along the same lines for the same object.

"The Hospitals of the Province have been looked after with some care and measures adopted to make them better serve the purposes for which they are maintained and more worthy of the Government assistance they receive. There have also been improvements made in the jails of the Province and one anomaly removed. There seems to be no reason or justification for the practice of confining insane or weak-minded persons in our jails with criminals, and I have seen that provision has been made for such persons in institutions properly and specially equipped for their care and maintenance, so that the jails will be relieved and undesirable conditions removed.

ENFORCEMENT OF LICENSE LAW.

"Now, with regard to the License Department administration, another branch of my duties, I do not think that I am going too far when I say that it is generally conceded that I have met with some degree of success in my efforts to have the law efficiently enforced, and that there has been great improvement under my administration of the law as it stands. I think that both the temperance people and those interested in the traffic will admit that an honest and impartial effort has been made to procure a strict enforcement of the law. The representatives of the various churches and of the Lord's Day Alliance will, I believe, admit that there has been a marked improvement in the enforcement of the Liquor License Act in the past five years. Upon this point, I noticed in the "Pioneer," a journal published in the interests of social progress and moral reform, a paragraph which has a bearing. Here are words which speak for themselves:—

"Our licenses are fewer in proportion to our population and our per capita consumption of strong drink is less than is the case in other countries. We are comparatively well off in this respect, but we are getting better off. Progress is steady. The liquor laws of every Province are being steadily tightened up. Those who sell liquor must now obey stricter laws and operate within limited hours."

"I attribute such improvement mainly to the fact that I have firmly insisted upon a strict enforcement of the law, without fear or favour, and without reference to the political standing of the parties concerned. I have always made an honest effort, and with, I believe, considerable success, to meet public sentiment in regard to the Sunday sale of liquor, and the sale during prohibited hours, and with an Act that most certainly can be improved in the interests of everybody, especially as regards the means provided for its enforcement."

INCORPORATION OF COMPANIES, ETC.

"During my term of office, the business and revenue of the Provincial Secretary's Department proper have greatly increased, the revenue from fees having been in 1899 some $71,000, and last year some $121,000. In the granting of charters to companies, care has been exercised to not only protect the public interest, but also to deal with applicants in an impartial spirit, and while not denying them any right to which they were entitled, to see that no privilege was granted inconsistent with the requirements of the statute. Care has been taken to fully discuss the merits of the propositions submitted, and in cases where differences of opinion has arisen, the contention of the department has, upon discussion, been accepted. In this case, with all the thousands of companies incorporated in my time, there has, to my knowledge, been no complaint that any rights under the law have been refused, or any right granted not provided for by the statute governing the circumstances. The licensing of extra provincial companies has been for the public interest, inasmuch as it places foreign corporations doing business in Ontario upon the same footing as provincial companies, and the requirement of annual returns makes it possible for the public to know the standing of outside companies, with which they have to do business.

"The Registration Branch of my Department, though regarded as of minor importance, has not been neglected, and considerable effort has been made to impress upon the public mind the necessity and importance of more complete registration of births, marriages and deaths, with a measure of success directly affected by the apathy of the public mind upon the subject, and now the records are written up to date, and the information the Department may be expected to furnish, may be obtained. An evidence of increasing public interest is afforded by the fact that the demand for information, as represented by the increase of fees for searches has nearly doubled within the past five years.

PROMOTION OF PUBLIC HEALTH.

"Another branch of my Department of capital importance, is that dealing with the interests of the public health, and in this there has been considerable progress made in the improvement of conditions, and in the character and amount of work accomplished. Health legislation has been enacted, of which the most important is, perhaps, that providing for local sanatoria for consumptives. This was demanded, in view of the wide prevalence of this terrible disease, consumption, its chronic and infectious character, and the almost absolute impossibility of successful or satisfactory home treatment. This law enables municipalities to erect local sanatoria for consumptives, and the Government grants one-fifth of the cost up to $4,000, and, under certain conditions, undertakes to contribute $1.50 per week to the maintenance of all patients in consumption hospitals. If this legislation is taken advantage of, much help will have been given towards the better treatment of those afflicted with a disease which counts more victims than all the other infectious diseases combined. I have endeavoured to take a practical as well as moral interest in the work, and I am satisfied that the officers of the Gravenhurst Sanatorium will say that I have not overlooked the claims of the work they are doing, nor will it be denied, I think, that those interested in the Sanatorium at Weston have been encouraged by the action of the Department by practical measures of assistance, representing a capitalization of about $100,000.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

"Another Act was passed, providing for regulations in the interest of the health of those employed in mining, lumber, railway construction camps, etc. These regulations require the employment by the company of a physician whose services shall at all times be available, in case of illness or epidemic outbreak, and also the provision of an hospital for the care of the sick employees. These regulations also require that the sanitary conditions of dwellings and camp surroundings be made satisfactory to the health authorities. The administration of the regulations regarding scarlet fever and diphtheria, with a view of preventing their spread, reducing mortality, and mitigating hardships of quarantine, have been attended with very gratifying results. The wisdom of the means adopted and applied, is shown by the fact that both the number of cases of these diseases, as well as the mortality from them, has diminished by about fifty per cent., and where the regulations have been most strictly observed, the results have been the best, a direct example of cause and effect. In addition a first-rate provincial laboratory, has been equipped for the diagnosis and study of infectious diseases in man and animals, and for the study of the problems of water purification and sewage disposal. This laboratory, which is considered the best of its kind in Canada, if not in America, also conducts the work of analysing foods and drugs for the discovery of adulterants, preservatives, and poisonous substances. The work of this department has largely increased. When I took charge there was only man man employed in this work. Now there are four so employed in routine bacteriological work, whose importance is not as fully appreciated as it should be. With the great growth of town municipalities, and the constantly arising and acute problems of how to deal satisfactorily with sewage, the work of this department assumes the very greatest importance, as has been abundantly demonstrated at Berlin. Although I feel the work of the public Health Branch of my Department has not been without successful results in the way of increased immunity from, and the more successful treatment and isolation of, infectious diseases, yet I feel confident that when the work of that department of the Provincial Secretary's duties, dealing with health matters and its good results, are better known, its very great importance will be more nearly appreciated at its true value, and the public will realise that no reasonable effort has been spared to protect and advance the interests of the public health.

ALL WORK WELL UP TO DATE.

"While it would ill become me to speak positively as to the measure of success attending my administration, there is one thing I can be positive of, and that is, that there are no arrears of routine or other work to be looked after. Everything has been brough right up to date, and my successor will only have to deal with work that arises after he takes office.

"I retire from my official duties with feelings of both relief and regret. You will see from the reference to the many branches of my Department, that my work has been arduous, and, without unremitting attention, difficult. In this sense, retirement brings relief, not because I object to hard work—no one has ever accused me of that—but I am now free to give adequate, and, as I before remarked, much needed attention to my private business. My regret consists in severance of the personal and official relations with my colleagues in the Cabinet. Our personal relations have been of the most pleasant character, and in our official relations, there has been a general harmony of opinion in all matters of policy.

"I think I have reason to feel satisfied, that when all the facts become known in connection with my administration of the Department of Provincial Secretary, it will be admitted that no man could more diligently and faithfully have tried to discharge the complicated duties associated with the various branches of the Department, and with a larger degree of success.

"I may add that I have already intimated to the President of the West Peterborough Liberal Association that it is not my intention to be a candidate for re-election in West Peterborough at the conclusion of the present Parliamentary term."

Miss Agnes Miller, of Chicago, speaks to young women about dangers of the Menstrual Period.

"To Young Women:—I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every month, as I knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was the only medicine which helped me any. Within three weeks after I started to take it, I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I kept up the treatment, and was cured a month later. I am like another person since. I am in perfect health, my eyes are brighter, I have added 12 pounds to my weight, my color is good, and I feel light and happy."—Miss Agnes Miller, 26 Potomac Ave., Chicago, Ill. —$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

"The monthly sickness reflects the condition of a woman's health. Anything unusual at that time should have prompt and proper attention.

AN ADDRESS ON SUNDAY LABOUR.

Rev. T. Albert Moore Spoke on the Subject at Havelock.

Other News of an Interesting Character From the Railway Town—Personal Items.

Havelock, Nov. 15th.

Mr. Wm. Barlow, of Toronto, is visiting friends in town.

Mr. E. White spent Sunday in Belleville renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. J. O'Brien left rather suddenly for his home on Friday on account of the sudden illness of his father.

Mr. Chas. Powers, who left some time ago for the West, has returned to town. He says that the East is good enough for him. The boys are wondering what the other fellows will think that have just left for the West.

A very instructive lecture was given in the Presbyterian Church on Monday evening when Rev. T. Albert Moore, Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, gave an address on Sunday labour. Although Sunday labour is a thing that in some places is given full sway in Canada, and has a good hold, he thinks that it can be done away with by the support of the people.

Mr. Hayes, of Belleville, was the guest of friends in town for the past few days.

A number of young people of town attended a "Hop" given at the residence of Mr. Jos. Franks, of Blairton, on Tuesday evening last. A very enjoyable time was experienced by those attending.

Mr. W. G. Andrews, Mr. W. Wilks and Mr. Cleod Williams have moved into the former's new building and have started their respective business as grocer, harnessmaker and barber. The up-stairs part is very near completion, and Mr. Donnley will move in just as soon as it is ready for habitation.

Miss Kattie Attield, who has been visiting friends in Toronto for the past two months or so has returned to town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Houston, of Norwood, spent Friday in town the guest of friends.

Mr. A. Wigmore and Mr. G. Houston, both of Norwood, attended the concert given in the town hall on Friday evening last.

Mr. W. Callighan, of town, spent Sunday renewing old acquaintances in Perth.

Miss E. Dodds, of Hastings, has been the guest of Miss May McNicholl for the past few days.

Mr. H. Mann, of Stony Lake, formerly of here, spent a few days in town last week renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. Joseph O'Sullivan, who moved to Brandon to take the position of chief clerk in the Superintendents office at that point, after being Mr. Mosharg's chief clerk traimmaster, was in town on Wednesday on his way home to Campbellford, where he had been suddenly called on account of the death of his mother. His friends in town tender their deepest sympathy in his sad bereavement.

Mr. Fred Barlow of town, spent a few days in Toronto last week renewing old acquaintances.

We are pleased to see that Mr. D. L. Somerville, who got a very bad shaking up while in Peterborough last week, is doing very well and is able to be out since the accident.

The concert given in the town hall last Friday evening under the auspices of the Methodist church, was a complete success finaucially, as a good number were there and all the seats were full. Miss Florence L. Ketchum, the elocutionist, had a bad cold, and could not do as well as she would have liked. A solo by Mrs. G. Chiles, was very loudly applauded and the quartette composed of Mr. P. Eaton, Miss Ranton, G. Chiles, and Mrs. G. Chiles was certainly a treat.

Rev. Father O'Brien of Belleville, spent Monday and Tuesday in town.

A very pleasant party was held at the residence of Miss E. Lancaster on Wednesday evening.

A load of young people drove over from Campbellford on Wednesday afternoon to give a newly married couple a send off on the train. But they did not arrive in time to do what they had expected, and so the bride and groom got away for once without the torture of the rice bed.

Messrs. John Carey, O. Hicks, J. Burnett and G. Warren, left last Tuesday for the north where they expect to bring back all the deer in the woods. Of course if they do not it will not be their fault; possibly it may be the fault that the gun would not shoot straight.

The sidewalks on Mathison street are in very bad shape, but a little repair would make them more respectable than they are now for the winter, for if they are left to go the way they are now it will make a good toboggan slide for some poor unfortunate.

A large number of deer hunters are returning with their spoils, and by the way they are bringing in the game there must be lots of it.

A request has been made by a Conservative villager that he would like to know what firm supplied all the grape on the night of the election as he says it was a perfect disgrace to the persons doing the decorating. It seems that some person unknown had on the night in question decorated a number of Conservative residences with crape and black bordered cards bearing the death notices of a number of politicians.

Mr. Jas. Dorricott has moved his family from Toronto to Havelock. They will live in the new house put up by Mr. W. Webb. A number of friends are glad to welcome Mrs. Dorricott back to town.

Miss Maggie Dorricott of Toronto, is in town for a few days helping her mother settle in her new home.

Mr. Clarence Cook's two children have been very sick for some time.

WARNING TO AUTOMOBILISTS.

Provincial Secretary's Department Issues Strict Instructions.

Those who indulge in automobiles must get a license and a tag bearing a number from the Provincial Secretary's Department. This law came into force August 31, 1903, and since then 604 licenses have been taken out, showing that the use of automobiles in Ontario is no longer confined to the "400." However, one point enthusiasts have overlooked, and that is when buying new and larger machines they must sell the license and number to the purchaser of the old machine. It is the machine that is licensed, not the owner, and the old number must not be transferred to the new machine. Those who do so are liable to a fine, and the purchaser of the old machine cannot get a new license, and is also liable to a fine for not having a number on his machine. Already some citizens have been fined in the Police Court because of ignorance of this law.—News.

INTERESTING SESSION OF THE Y. P. S. C. E.

The President Gave Address on "Our Partnership and Fellowship."

St. Andrew's Y.P.S.C.E. held their regular Monday night meeting. The chair was occupied by the President. After devotional exercises led by the chairman, the topic, "Our Partnership and Fellowship," was taken by Mr. Ferguson, who spoke upon the great need of united effort in Christian Endeavour work. He said there was a special work for each one to do, and we should all work hand in hand. And as Christian Endeavour workers we would be a help and an inspiration to each other.

Among other things Mr. Ferguson said that the Society and the individual in these days of multiplied organization and co-operative activity in Christian work, there is danger of too much stress being laid on the society and not enough on the individual.

The society may be so magnified as to form a shelter behind which the individual escapes from the sense of personal responsibility. It needs to be remembered that association work can only be effective through the personal interest of the individuals who compose the association. It is not the corps, as an organization, that goes into the battles to fight, but the soldiers who compose the corps. No doubt they fight better because of the organization; but it is nevertheless, the personal skill and valour of the individual which enables the corps to share in the victory when the day is done. Now, the Christian Endeavour Society is strong only in proportion to the earnestness and faithfulness of its individual members. Any person who is content to belong to the society without adding to it any individual strength, who counts as a name and number only, is a weakness to the society. Such a one needs to be reminded of the fact that the Society is not a limited liability company.

God does not commit his work to societies, but individuals. There will be no societies at the judgement seat of Christ—only individuals. There He will give to "every man according to his works."

After a short business meeting in which several committees gave very interesting reports the meeting by singing and repeating Mizpah benediction. A special invitation is extended to all the young people of the congregation to attend the Young People's meetings.

TERRIBLE STREET CAR DISASTER

At Queen Street Grand Trunk Railway Crossing in Toronto.

Three People Were Killed and Seventeen Injured—Freight Train Crashed Into a Trolley Car Which had Jumped Through the Gates—Motorman is Held.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Three dead; two probably fatally injured; five seriously injured and taken to the General Hospital, and perhaps a dozen more or less hurt.

Such is the result of a level crossing accident at the Queen street crossing early last evening when a trolley car and trailer, running beyond the motorman's control, broke through the guard gates and was run down by a G.T.R. fast freight.

That the list of dead is not greater is miraculous, for while the trailer escaped, the trolley was demolished and scattered for a distance of 360 feet up the track.

The Conductor Killed.

A more total wreck could not be imagined, and yet the score of passengers were all taken alive from the disorganized masses of timber and metal. One of the dead was the conductor of the ill-fated car.

The motorman is in the hospital, but suffering only from bruises and shock. It is claimed he jumped and so saved his own life, for the vestibule was carried away on the engine pilot.

King street car 642 was running eastward with Motorman Willis Armstrong and Conductor William J. McKay. It was going at a good rate of speed, but not even some young men on the rear platform were given any cause for alarm. A signal was given by a passenger to stop, but there came no slackening, but this was only an occasion for some surprise among several who wished to alight at the crossing, for all cars are supposed to stop at the crossing anyway.

Gates Down Two Minutes.

The gateman, Randle, says the gates were lowered at least two minutes before the trolley, running wild, broke through. Just at that moment the fast G. T. R. freight bound for Montreal came along at about a fifteen mile an hour rate, and a disaster that has been dreaded so long became a reality, and on Thanksgiving Day.

The accident occurred just before 6.30, the trainmen timing it as 6.25 p.m. The streets were deserted, and there was no cry or shout or warning of impending disaster until the loud crashing of rended timber, as the trolley plunged through the lowered gates. A fraction of a second later there came a noise like a thunder clap as the giant engine ground its way into the ill-fated car.

After the Crash.

When the startled residents from the nearby houses reached the street all was quiet. There was no moaning nor other sounds of distress, but the smashed gates, the car-trailer turned sideways on the track, the jarring of the freight train as it was being brought to a sharp stop, told the beginning of the tale of tragedy. Then as those who ran to the rescue turned northward from Queen street up to the station platform they came upon the pile of broken wreckage that made the strongest shudder with an apprehension that was fortunately not altogether fulfilled.

Beneath the Wreckage.

Thrown bodily across the station platform, with the rear platform pointing north, was the greater portion of the body of the car. Only one side of it remained. There was not a vestige of glass and the trucks from which it had been dismantled were to one side. This portion of the wreck was some thirty feet from the street car track. A few yards beyond lay the roof of the car and other remnants of broken wood and twisted iron, and it was from these two heaps of debris that nearly a score of persons were taken out alive. They were all buried and hidden from sight. One woman was pinked from beneath the iron wheel car trucks a portion of her skirt attracting the attention of a rescuer. The conductor, McKay, was beneath the wreckage with his head protruding and blood streaming from his wounds. Four men were found in a heap, stunned and bruised and bleeding. They had been standing on the rear platform apparently. None were very seriously hurt. But no very intelligible record of the location of those hurt was kept.

Temporary Hospitals.

In less than ten minutes, Mitchell's pharmacy, at the corner of DeGrassi and Queen streets, and within a few feet of the place where the injured lay, and Findlay's store adjoining were turned into temporary hospitals. Dr. Rowan, from just across the road, was soon joined by other physicians, and the women in the various households became willing attendants in providing what assistance and material they could.

As soon as the crash came Wallace Lucas, who was in charge of the pharmacy, jumped to the front door, and only waiting to see that an accident had happened, sprang to the telephone. He first notified the police ambulance department and then called up as many doctors as were within reasonable reach. Among those who responded were Drs. Noble, Smalth, Cleland, Wallace, Brown and Fraser. The two police ambulances and the patrol wagons from headquarters and from No. 4 station were also soon at the service of the physicians to convey patients to the hospital. Miss Nellie Findlay ran to Winn's livery on Bolton avenue and told them to send as many hacks as possible. Within an hour ten victims were taken to the General Hospital, while several others were sent home in carriages, and some were able to go by car.

The Dead.

Wm. J. McKay, 65 Sackville street, 28 years old, conductor; base of skull fractured; died in General hospital.

Russell J. Stevens, 128 Morse street, passenger; base of skull fractured; died in General Hospital.

Mrs. Minnie Mahaffy, 25 Wardell street, 30 years; base of skull fractured; died at General Hospital.

May Die.

Thomas Robertson, one-year-old, child of Andrew Robertson; left leg cut off; taken to General Hospital.

The Injured.

Miss Della Campbell, passenger, 5 Willcocks street; bruised shoulder and head; taken to General Hospital.

Andrew Robertson, passenger, 84 Mercer; head cut; taken home.

Mrs. Robertson, 84 Mercer; badly bruised and stunned; taken home.

Thomas Johnston, 64 Robinson street; face cut and hip injured; taken to General Hospital.

Wilfrid Sheffer, 618 East King street; right knee sprained, ribs broken, scalp wound; taken to General Hospital.

Emily Moss, 24 Kew Beach; bruises about chest, lacerated eye; taken to General Hospital.

William Pick, 128 Morse street; scalp severely lacerated; taken home.

Thomas White, 128 Morse street; leg sprained; taken home.

Mrs. William Coon, 65 De Grassi street; knee cap fractured; taken home.

Miss Gilmour, Sumach street; head cut; taken home.

Thomas Hoskin, 535 Eastern avenue; badly shaken up, cut about face and head; taken home.

William Nugent, Queen street and Waverley road; cut, bruised and badly shaken; taken home.

Motorman Put Under Arrest.

Crown Attorney Drayton lost no time in getting to the scene of the accident, and he was none too soon. On his arrival he found that the Toronto Railway Co. had already loaded a wagon with the debris of the wrecked car. He immediately ordered the wagon unloaded, and placed policemen on duty with strict instructions to allow nothing to be removed.

At midnight Mr. Drayton visited the General Hospital, where, by his instructions, Armstrong, the motorman, was practically under arrest. Armstrong was not badly hurt. He complained of pains in his shoulders and back. He was, however, in such a nervous condition, that he did not seem able to think or talk. His condition was such that the Crown Attorney did not think it advisable to press him to make a statement. The hospital authorities were cautioned to allow no one to see him. This morning at 9 o'clock Detective Wallace will take Armstrong into custody, and he will then be interviewed by the Crown Attorney.

To-night a coroner's inquest will be commenced in No. 4 Police Station.

Premier and Lady Laurier and Cabinet Ministers Were in Attendance.

Quebec, Nov. 18.—One thousand prominent people of Quebec and several other cities, including Sir Wilfrid, Lady Laurier and several other Cabinet ministers, attended the farewell civic reception to Lord and Lady Minto last evening. The demonstration was an impressive one. The city hall was where the reception took place. The farewell address read had been handsomely decorated and ornamented for the occasion. Hundreds of colored electric lights were strung from different parts of the exterior of the building, while the interior had been dressed in lavish manner. Flags, bunting, colored lights, etc., adorned the corridors. The farewell address was read in French and English by His Worship the Mayor, surrounded by all the civic officials.

Pitiful Helplessness.

Victims of nervous diseases are the most to be pitied, because their ailments usually terminate in mental or physical helplessness. Paralysis, locomotor ataxia and insanity can only be avoided by building up the nervous system at the first sign of trouble, and there is no preparation so well suited for this purpose as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great nerve restorer.

REV. J. A. WILSON'S CALL TO LEAVE.

Chosen by the Congregation of St. Andrews, Hamilton.

Popular Young Assistant Pastor of St. Paul's Church, will Leave Peterborough Shortly.

Rev. J. A. Wilson, assistant pastor of St. Paul's church, has received a call to accept the pastorate of St. Andrew's church, Hamilton. Rev. Mr. Wilson was in Hamilton preaching at this church about four weeks ago, and the result of his work that day, and the impression left upon the congregation by him, is found in the following despatch from Hamilton to the Toronto World:

"The congregation of St. Andrew's church Wednesday evening chose Rev. J. A. Wilson, assistant pastor of St. Paul's church, Peterborough, as their new pastor. Mr. Wilson is a young unmarried man who graduated from college only about a year ago. Some of the qualities that got him the call are that he is young, strong and preaches without notes. It was also mentioned that he was not a tailor's dummy. The salary is $1500 a year, and he will be given four weeks holidays every year. The only other candidates voted upon were Rev. A. C. Wishart, Beaverton, and Rev. T. D. McCullough, Harriston. Mr. Wilson won out on the first ballot."

Rev. Mr. Wilson, during the time that he has been living in Peterborough, in his work in St. Paul's church, has made a great many friends, who will learn with deep regret of his contemplated change of residence. He has also been active in other work outside of that immediately connected with the church of which he was assistant pastor. For two years he was scurtary of the Ministerial Association, in which capacity he rendered the association good service. Mr. Wilson was very popular with the young people of his church, and took a deep interest in the Young Men's Guild, which he has been instrumental in bringing to a high degree of success, and by the members of this organization his departure will also be a cause for regret.

Rev. Mr. Wilson has accepted the call and will leave town about the beginning of the year to accept his new charge.

HOLIDAY EVENT IN SOCIAL CIRCLES.

Pretty Wedding of Miss Ethel E. White to Mr. J. G. Gerard.

One of the most pleasing events of Thanksgiving Day was the wedding which took place at the residence of Mr. W. H. White, the new Superintendent of Public Works, at 183 Dalhousie street, at 4.30 yesterday afternoon, when his eldest daughter, Ethel E., was married to Mr. J. Y. Gerard. The wedding was a quiet one, only the immediate friends of the bride and groom being present. The drawing room, in which the ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's church, was very prettily decorated.

The bridal party entered the drawing room to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Grace Gerard, of Ottawa, sister of the groom.

The bride and groom were unattended. After the ceremony a delightful wedding dejeuner was served in the dining room, and the remainder of the evening was spent in a pleasant manner.

Mr. Wm. Gerrard and Miss Grace Gerrard, brother and sister, respectively, of the groom, of Ottawa, were the guests from out of town.

The bride and groom were the recipients of a large number of very beautiful and costly gifts, evidences of the fact that they are popular with their large circle of friends. A beautiful rosewood parlor table was given to the groom by the staff of the pattern shop in the Canadian General Electric Works, of which staff he is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerard will reside at 114 Gilmour street in a new house erected by Mr. Gerard.

TEA AND CONCERT A GREAT SUCCESS

Very Large Crowd at St. Andrew's Last Evening

A Fine Tea and a Good Programme—Those Who Assisted.

Last night the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church held a highly successful High Tea and Concert in the Sunday School room of the Church. The event was one of the most successful ever held in connection with St. Andrew's Church, and those who attended it spent a delightful evening.

The rooms were very beautifully decorated for the occasion, through the kindness of Dr. F. L. Robinson, who supplied the decorating material, and the scene that met one's eye upon entering the door was indeed a pleasing one, the gaily decorated tables blending with the general decorations of the room, and making a very pretty effect.

The ladies have every reason to feel gratified at the measure of success, with which their efforts have been met, the net returns from the evening's exercises being in the neighbourhood of $125, which will be devoted to renovating the interior of the church.

Early in the evening the crowds began to arrive, and fully 600 persons were present as guests of the ladies. Five huge tables were laden with the good things for the providing of which the ladies of this church are proverbial. It has been frequently said that tables groan under the weight of provisions, but in this case it might be said that they fairly shrieked, so plentous was the supply of tempting viands.

The ladies in charge of the tables were,—No.1 table, Mrs. Harper and Mrs. W. Thompson; No. 2 table, Mrs. Tilley and Mrs. Mathison; No. 3 table, Mrs. A. McFarlane and Mrs. P. A. Kerr; No. 4 table, Mrs. J. D. Tully and Mrs. Chas. McClelland; No. 5 table, Mrs. F. L. Robinson and J. Anderson.

The officers of the Ladies' Aid, under whose auspices the tea was held, are:—Mrs. J. McClelland, President; Mrs. W. Thompson, Secretary; Mrs. Harper, Treasurer.

THE ENTERTAINMENT.

After the tea had been served an entertainment was given, the programme provided being an excellent one. Almost every number was encored, the audience being in a most appreciative mood. Rev. J. G. Potter was chairman. The programme opened with a well-rendered vocal solo "Angel Forces" by Mrs. Johnson, of Millbrook. Miss Mabel Pringle recited "Thanksgiving" in a manner which elicited hearty applause. A duett, by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson was a very enjoyable number. Mrs. Miller sang "Sugar and Cream" and was encored. A euphonium solo by by Mr. Ed. Cronk, was well received. Mrs. McGregor's vocal solo was sung in an effective manner and Mr. C. N. Brown's humorous recitation was encored. Miss Maud Crothers' violin solo was splendidly executed. Mr. M. M. Wilson's fine tenor voice was heard to advantage in the song "The Three Fishers." The closing number was a solo by Mrs. McGregor who sang very acceptably.

At the close of the programme the chairman thanked those who had taken part and congratulated the ladies on their success of the affair.

Crowded Out.

To-day's paper is not large enough to contain all the news, and a number of interesting items are unavoidably left over until to-morrow, including reports of the Jackson-Smith wedding, Brownies' basketball game, Toronto in Peterborough, basketball game, close of the Y.M.C.A. Mission to Men, shooting parties' exploits of yesterday, Progress of Canadian Machine Telephone Company's work, Death of John Wesley Bowden and other news.

POPULAR YOUNG MAN'S DEPARTURE

Mr. Harold Armstrong Promoted to Toronto.

His Departure Will be a Serious Loss to the Hockey Team—Prominent in Other Sports.

The hockey club has sustained some serious losses during this year, but it is doubtful if any of the losses have been as serious as that which Mr. Harold Armstrong's removal from town will cause. Mr. Armstrong goes to Toronto to-day, having been transferred to the head office of the Ontario Bank there. While this is a well deserved promotion for him, and his friends will congratulate him on the fact, the congratulations will be tinged with personal regrets that his promotion necessitates his removal from town. He has been for some years a valuable player on the Peterborough Hockey Team, playing first on the Colts, which team won several championships and figured as coxer point on the Intermediate team of 1902, when that team landed the O.H.A. championship. Last year he played rover on the team which represented Peterborough, and which is admitted to have been the best Intermediate team in the O.H.A., and in his position he played as good hockey as any man in the game, either senior or intermediate. In addition to hockey he has played football, being one of the half-backs on the team which won the Intermediate O. R. F. U. championship in 1902, and was a member of the Athletic basketball team.

His departure from town will be deeply regretted and he will be followed by best wishes for his future success.

That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones, call around and see us.

THANKSGIVING DAY IN TOWN.

A Great Exodus From Peterborough for the Holiday.

Trains all Crowded—How Those who Remained in Town Spent the day.

There were fewer persons left in town yesterday than upon any previous Thanksgiving Day in the history of Peterborough, and as a result of this all odds the streets at times yesterday were very quiet, the only time that there was any particular stir noticed being during the afternoon when the street cars did a good business and there were a number of pedestrians on the streets.

The experience of the railways in that as no other single day has there been as many persons leaving town as was the case yesterday, with the possible exception of the last Civic Holiday.

The Grand Trunk Railway carried at least 4,000 out of Peterborough during Wednesday and yesterday, the traffic yesterday morning being particularly heavy. Extra coaches were required on every train and a remarkable fact was that only one left behind time, and that only a few minutes. Last night all the incoming trains were on time, some of them even arriving ahead of the scheduled train.

The C.P.R. also carried a great many passengers out of town and the regular train being crowded, the greater number going to Toronto.

The avenues of travel afforded by the railways were not the only ones responsible for the depletion of the population temporarily, for nearly everyone who had a gun or could borrow one was out of town scouring the woods for game, and the results of some of their expeditions are given in other columns.

Services were held yesterday morning in the different churches in town, when sermons appropriate to the day were preached.

During the evening those who remained in town had the privilege of attending teas and concerts given by the ladies of Charlotte Street and St. Andrew's Churches, both of which were well attended, and were very successful.

The C. G. B. Angling Club held their annual banquet last night in Long's palm parlours.

A little excitement was afforded about midnight by an alarm of fire sent in from the Balmoral Hotel, where it was found that a fire had started in the cellar at the front of the building. It was extinguished by the firemen without great difficulty.

The basket-ball game in the Y.M.C.A. between Toronto and Peterborough teams, attracted a large number of enthusiasts, who saw a splendid game.

No accidents of any kind were reported and this morning's Police Court had a rest, no one having fallen into the hands of the law as a result of the holiday.

ANGLING CLUB'S ANNUAL BANQUET

A Delightful Gathering of the Members of the Canadian General Angling Club Last Night.

About Twenty-five Members Enjoy Themselves in Long's Palm Parlours in a Social Way.

Splendid Supper and Bright Speeches Features of the Evening—Some of the Toasts.

Last night Long's palm parlour was the scene of the annual banquet and reunion of the C. G. B. Angling Club, and past successes along this line were more than anticipated by last night's function, which was a delightful occasion, and one which will go down into the history of the this organization as being one of the best, if not altogether the most enjoyable, in the history of this club of the followers of Isaak Walton.

Mr. Long has served some jolly parties but it is doubtful if it has ever fallen to his lot to cater to a more universally jolly crowd than that of last night. About twenty-five persons partook of a splendid repast served by him, and after it had been done ample justice to, a lengthy toast list was proceeded with. Mr. J. Sharpe, ex-commodore of the club, filled the duties of toast master, in the unavoidable absence in Toronto of Mr. J. J. Wilson, the present commodore of the club, and those surrounding the festive board were Anglers A. W. Patterson, vice-chairman; N. Munro, G. A. Scott, John O'Brien, Harry Latimer, Jos. Begley, bard, ex-Com.; J. A. Brown, R. H. Shepherd, sec.; Jas. A. Mills, Fred A. Shannon, J. Watson, R. E. Layfield, Fred W. Houson, John Trombly, cook; Fred J. Pope, J. G. Scott, D. Carlisle, H. T. Millard, Jos. Panter, T. H. Glover, R. McEwan, E. Saunders. Mr. Geo. Dawson and Mr. R. M. Roy were present as guests of the club.

The gathering of the Angling Club is looked forward to from one year to the next with considerable pleasant expectation, and a very enjoyable evening is always spent. That of last night was no exception to the rule, and was fully as successful, if not more so, as previous gatherings of a similar character have been.

THE TOAST LIST.

The first toast proposed last night was that to "The King," and it was honoured in an enthusiastic manner. After this toast had been duly honoured, "Canada, our Home," was proposed by Angler Jos. Begley, who said that his duty was a pleasant one. Canada was the greatest country in the world, and in it were some grand people. Canada had not an enemy in the world. It had been said that Canadians were not sufficiently patriotic. Perhaps they are not as loud in their professions of patriotism as some, but he thought that when the time came it would be shown that Canadians are not behind the best of them in respect to their patriotism.

"The Maple Leaf" was heartily sung, after which Mr. John O'Brien responded to the toast, and said that Canadians might learn a lesson from the Americans in the patriotism that is displayed there. Canada was one of the richest countries in the world in natural resources, and while it had not a very large population he thought that the time was not far distant when there would be 25,000,000 people here.

Mr. Panter also responded to the toast, and said that one thing which every Canadian should feel proud of was that every man had religious liberty. Everyone here who wished to work could get it and he compared it with the conditions existing in the old country where there were hundreds out of employment. He thought that Canadians should feel proud of their country.

"Our Absent Friends," was proposed by Vice-Chairman Patterson in a neat speech, and Angler Munro responded. He remarked that it was too bad that it was necessary to drink to this toast, and that there were absent members. He thought that the members of the club were almost as loyal to it as they were to their country, and he had heard many of the old members speak of the good times they had enjoyed in the club.

Mr. George Dawson, also responding, said that he was mighty glad that he was not an absent member. He had also remarked that the members of the club were loyal to it, and its members. He recited an incident which he and another member of the club had experienced in Sydney.

Mr. Gilbert Scott then contributed a solo to the programme, his selection being "The Standard of the Braes o' Mar," which was received with applause.

"Our Commodore" was proposed by Mr. Gilbert Scott. The Commodore, Mr. John Wilson, unfortunately was unable to be present, having had to go to Toronto unexpectedly. Mr. Scott paid a high tribute to the ability of Mr. Wilson, who, he said, was a leader of men, and one whom everyone respected for his many good qualities. The toast was very heartily honoured. Mr. Jos. Sharp, ex-Commodore, responded to the toast, on behalf of the absent Commodore, who expressed his regret at Mr. Wilson's absence.

Angler Begley was next heard in a poem, which he rendered in excellent style, and his number was well received. His selection was "The Negro Funeral."

The next toast was that to "Our Guests," proposed by Angler Shannon, who said that it was a pleasure to welcome as guests of the Club Capt. Roy and Mr. Dawson. He recalled a number of trips to the pleasure of which Capt. Roy had largely contributed. Mr. R. M. Roy responded to this toast in a splendid speech, full of humour, and in it he expressed the great pleasure which the trips in which he had participated had afforded him. He considered it an honour to have taken the Club out on its fishing expeditions. He felt highly complimented at receiving an invitation to be present at the banquet, and also said that at any time the Club wanted to make a trip they knew where to find the "Rob Roy."

Angler Pope then contributed a solo to the programme and it was received with enthusiasm.

The next toast was that to "Our Chef" and it was proposed by Angler Carlyle, who paid a tribute to the culinary and other abilities of Angler Trombley. The toast was enthusiastically received with three cheers and a tiger. Mr. Trombley responded to the toast in a short but pleasing speech. He was very much pleased with the successful season the club had during the last year, and he hoped that the success of this season would be duplicated next season. He thought it would be a good idea to build a boat house at the lower end of the town.

Angler O'Brien then gave an Irish song, which literally brought down the house.

Angler John Brown then proposed the next toast, that to "The Ladies." Anglers Carlyle and Pope responding to this toast in their usual efficient manner.

A solo by Angler McEwen "I'm Wearing My Heart Away For You" was the next number on the programme.

"The Press" was proposed by Angler Shephard and responded to by the representatives present.

Angler Shephard gave a solo which greatly pleased the gathering, after which Angler Scott favoured the gathering with a second solo. A recitation by Angler Munro formed a very pleasing feature of the evening. A recitation was contributed by Angler Dawson. Angler O'Brien followed with a humourous solo, and a recitation by Angler Begley was also enjoyed. "When McGinnis Gets a Job" was sung by Angler O'Brien to the great delight of the members of the Club. Angler Saunders sang in good voice "Boys Will be Boys."

In proposing the last toast, that to "Our Host," Commodore Sharp said that the Club had accepted Mr. Long's hospitality for five years in succession, and they had during that time been well used by him. He assured him that the Club would be around again next year. Mr. Long responded and thanked the gentlemen for the manner in which the toast had been received. None were more warmly welcomed by him than the angling Club.

The gathering then dispersed after the National Anthem and "Auld Lang Syne," had been sung.

STOVE TALK NO. 6.

Why the "Happy Thought" Burns Less Coal Than any Other Range.

1. The fire pot in the "Happy Thought" is entirely different to any other range. It is deeper and narrower, and twenty years of use has proved that this feature alone will save many tons of coal.

2. The Duplex Grates, from the original patterns of the inventor distributes the draft equally over the entire grate surface. No dead corners.

3. The peculiar flue construction is the result of fifty years of careful study, and that the proportions are absolutely correct is proved by the fact that the Happy Thought bakes with a smaller fire than is possible with any other range.

EXPLORING THE PAST

GREAT WORK OF PROFESSOR HILPRECHT AT ANCIENT NIPPUR.

Sixteen Buried Cities Lying One Upon Another Have Been Uncovered—Their Ruins Yield Up Secrets That Bear on Biblical History—Nippur Ancient Even in Abraham's Time—Deciphering the Tablets.

The universities of the United States have in recent years broadened the scope of their work in many ways. Original research on the part of both students and faculty is encouraged now to a much greater extent than in former years. In spite of the popularity of scientific studies it is noteworthy that greater attention than ever before is being given to study of the antiquities of Greece and Egypt and Babylonia and other lands whose greatness lies chiefly in the past. The University of Pennsylvania has done much to encourage archaeological investigation. The curator of its collection of Babylonian antiquities is the famous archaeologist, Professor Herman V. Hilprecht. He is soon to start on his fifth expedition for the excavation and exploration of the antiquities of Nippur, which was a centre of religion and civilization from four to seven thousand years ago. The funds provided by the University of Pennsylvania have enabled this zealous antiquarian to carry on a most important work in the ruins of ancient Nippur. Professor Hilprecht is regarded as having carried the knowledge of the history of the race back to a very ancient period, and yet the excavations made at Nippur show that the civilization of the people who built the temples and palaces there some 7,000 years ago was ancient even so long ago as then.

Archaeological study reveals the fact that the ancients knew a great deal more than is usually supposed about science, architecture and various practical arts. Among the valuable finds which Professor Hilprecht's expedition made was that of a library composed of perhaps 150,000 tablets inscribed with records pertaining to a large number of subjects. In the work of deciphering them much has been learned about the daily life of the people of that far-away age. It is learned that they had houses built with a more or less scientific system of drainage, that they used machinery and that bargains and sales were made matters of record, farms being leased and crops sometimes mortgaged. The records tell of children studying grammar, and some of the tablets contain hymns resembling the psalms of the Old Testament. The discoveries have an important bearing on Biblical research, for they confirm many statements of the Old Testament writings in respect to places and things and persons about which we have had no other knowledge hitherto except that contained in the Bible. For instance, the Sargon mentioned in the Scriptures was supposed by many students to be a mythical personage. But Professor Hilprecht's excavators dug down and revealed the temple of Sargon I., and his rule was fixed at about 3800 B. C. And under Sargon's temple they found the ruins of the ancient city of Calush, mentioned in Genesis x., 10.

The age of Abraham seems a long way back in the past. Yet Nippur was ancient in Abraham's time. Some of the antiquities Professor Hilprecht has exhumed date back to a period as long before that of Abraham as the antiquities of Greece and Rome antedate our own era.

The work of deciphering the tablets secured in the excavation of Nippur has but just begun. Doubtless they will yet yield up many revelations concerning the people of that distant era. Professor Hilprecht says in respect to this work of translation: "I am convinced that when I shall have completed this gigantic task the civilized world will be compelled to change altogether its idea as to the state of civilization and knowledge of the people of ancient Babylonia. More than 2,800 years before the advent of the Christian era the people of that country had established the fact that the earth is in the form of a globe. In fact, their astronomers took practically the same view of many of the celestial phenomena as we take to-day. The work of unearthing Nippur is indeed a monster task. It is, in fact, nothing less than sixteen cities built one upon another. We have by no means penetrated the lowest of these buried cities."

The next expedition will leave some time during the coming winter and, including the Arab excavators and their families, will form a caravan of some 1,000 persons. The excavation of the temple of Baal is the especial object of this expedition.

TORTURING SOLDIERS.

Brutal Abuses That Honeycomb the German Military Service.

The Berlin correspondent of the London Standard gives some details of the brutal behavior of a noncommissioned officer named Barschau of the Baden regiment of foot artillery toward the soldiers in his company. He has been sentenced to a year and a half's imprisonment with degradation to the ranks.

Not content with ordinary methods of breaking in recruits which appear to prevail among Prussian noncommissioned officers—boxing their ears, hitting and kicking them—Barschau used to make his men undress and dress again all night or he would amuse himself by keeping them creeping backward and forward under their beds. This would be varied by making them march up and down in the hot barrack rooms in full uniform, with bare feet, until they sank through exhaustion. If they refused to sing at his orders he used to thrash them unmercifully. A man who had let some gun cleaning oil drop on the floor was ordered to lick it up and was beaten for declining to do so. A favorite recreation was to make the soldiers kneel down by their beds before going to sleep and repeat a blasphemous prayer containing admissions of their stupidity.

Hardly a week passes now, without the disclosure of one or more disgraceful cases of brutality on the part of the German noncommissioned officers. Soldiers as a rule bear a great deal without complaining before they bring themselves to report their superiors, and it may be taken for granted that numerous acts of brutality are perpetrated in the German army without ever reaching the ears of the public. It is little wonder, adds the correspondent, that German parents often look forward with fear and despair to the day when their sons have to serve under men who are able, if so disposed, to make the lives of their recruits well nigh intolerable.

Etruscan Civilization.

A very interesting discovery has been made in the Etruscan metropolis of Tarquins. It consists of a coronet of modern shape 3,000 years old. Two hundred tombs containing helmets, a breast plate of gold, amulets, vases, etc., have been opened, showing that Etruscan civilization was far superior to that of the Romans. The collection will be offered for sale after the Italian government has appropriated one-fourth of it under the law.—Scientific American.

Sleeplessness.

How many women are troubled with a weak heart? How many lie, night after night, trying to sleep, and can't? Perhaps you are one of them? If so, read what Mrs. Herkimer says. It may save you years of suffering if you take her advice:—

"I am now enjoying the best of health, after having used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled with a weak heart, and was afraid to draw a long breath, for the pain it would cause me. I could not sleep at night, and it was impossible for me to walk ten yards without resting myself. I cannot speak too highly of your Heart and Nerve Pills; they are the greatest pill I have ever used, and can recommend them to all sufferers."

The price of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills is 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25. For sale by all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price.

RUSSIANS HOPEFUL

Since the Reception of Gen. Stoessel's Report to the Czar.

VIA RASTOROPNY, BLOWN UP

Commander of Port Arthur Reports Up to Nov. 8, But There Have Been Heavy Bombardments of His Defences Since Then, Which May Materially Bring the Crisis Quicker Than He Thought.

Che Foo, Nov. 18.—The Russians have blown up the torpedo boat destroyer Rastoropny, which arrived here Wednesday. Commander Pelem said that the destroyer's object was simply to carry despatches. The other Russian ships remained in Port Arthur. The members of the crew of the Rastoropny have been taken on board the Chinese cruiser Haiyung and their small arms have been taken from them. They will be kept on board the Haiyung in order that Chinese authorities may completely govern them.

Carried Destroyer Orders.

The Rastoropny carried concealed orders providing that, unless there came a highly favorable opportunity to escape, the vessel should be blown up. Sufficient powder for this purpose was secreted before the destroyer left Port Arthur. Small charges of ordinary powder, placed in each of the five watertight compartments, were exploded.

Crisis Not Remote.

London, Nov. 18.—Insofar as the contents of the report sent by Gen. Stoessel to Emperor Nicholas by the torpedo boat destroyer Rastoropny, which craft was sunk in the harbor of Chee Foo after accomplishing the purpose of her dash out of Port Arthur, have come to public knowledge, it serves to indicate that the Russian military commander at Port Arthur regards the crisis of the seige as not remote. The report asserts that the inner line of defences is intact; that the damage to warships in the harbor by Japanese shells is not great, and that the garrison will be able to hold out against assault for some time. Conditions south of Mukden remain unchanged, although there are said to be indications that important developments are at hand.

Russia Taking Heart.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 18.—As a result of despatches received from Lt.-Gen. Stoessel, commander of the Russian military forces at Port Arthur, the War Office expresses entire confidence that Port Arthur will be able to hold out till the arrival of the Russian Pacific squadron.

Gen. Stoessel, in his despatches to Emperor Nicholas, reports the repulse of a Japanese attack Oct. 26 on the north front of Port Arthur. The Russian losses were 480 killed or wounded. All the attacks on Nov. 3, the day the anniversary of the Emperor's accession to the throne was celebrated, were repulsed. Gen. Stoessel was slightly wounded in the head during one of the latest assaults on Port Arthur.

Stoessel's Greeting to Czar.

In a telegram dated Oct. 30, Gen. Stoessel says: "Since my despatch of Oct. 28, the bombardment continued with great fierceness." Under date of Nov. 3 Gen. Stoessel telegraphed: "We greet the Emperor. This day is a solemn one for our country; we offer prayers to God and send to our Emperor felicitations in the shape of reverberating hurrahs. On bended knees we pray to God to give health to your majesty and the grand duke Czarevitch. Our joy is all the greater because all the assaults, which lasted nine days, have been repulsed up to this day, that our Japanese enemies celebrate the anniversary of the birth of their Mikado, and whereupon they have sworn to take the fortress. God is with us."

Carried Extended Despatches.

Tokio, Nov. 18.—The opinion is expressed here that the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Rastoropny carried to Chee Foo extended despatches explaining to St. Petersburg the situation at Port Arthur, the condition of the Russian squadron and the shortage of food and ammunition, referring the question of further resistance to the Russian Government. The nature of the Russian fire indicate a scarcity of certain kinds of ammunition. All prisoners taken by the Japanese tell a story of increasing hunger. It is claimed that the Russian commanders are divided on the question of continuing the defence. If this is true, it fits the theory that the Rastoropny carried despatches passing the question to the Emperor.

A Significant Date.

London, Nov. 18.—The fact that the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Rastoropny (which arrived at Che Foo Wednesday) left Port Arthur much later than the date of General Stoessel's published report which relates nothing later than Nov. 8, is regarded as significant. Apparently, however, Tokio has not yet received as late news as is contained in the report of American Consul-General Fowler at Che Foo which was transmitted to the State Department at Washington on Wednesday.

Heavy Bombardment Nov. 12.

Special despatches from Tientsin report a heavy bombardment of Port Arthur as late as Nov. 12 and nightly sorties by small parties of Russians who lost heavily by bayonet fights. These reports give no reliable details, but rumour in statements that guns are wearing out and that the Russian ammunition is becoming scarce.

The Daily Telegraph's Tientsin correspondent says he has received a report that the Japanese have suddenly advanced in the direction of Mukden, from which place they are now only twelve miles distant.

Why Do Women Worry

AND THEREBY EXHAUST THE NERVOUS SYSTEM AND RUIN HEALTH?

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The worry habit is an unmitigated evil.

Worry is by far the most frequent cause of nervous disease.

Because of the multitude of household and family cares, and because of the nature of their employment, women are especially liable to give way to worry and anxiety.

The result is wasted nerve force, weakness and disease.

It may be nervous headaches, sleeplessness, irritability, indigestion, discouragement and melancholy, or weakness and irregularities peculiarly feminine.

The only way to restore health and strength is by increasing the nerve force in the body, and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Make a test of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food by noting your increase in weight from week to week while using it.

Notice the improvement in your appetite, and how much better you rest and sleep.

Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine, I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. The Conqueror

By KEITH GORDON

Copyright, 1904, by M. McKee

Manice looked at his watch. It was ten minutes past 4, and he was already late for an engagement. Nevertheless he dashed hastily into the big department store, determined to procure the driving gloves that he sorely needed.

The tired clerks and shining pneumatic tubes seemed to be in league to detain him, and he was strolling impatiently up and down, inwardly reviling the system that made such delay possible, when the sight of a tall, fair girl, also waiting for change, transformed his feelings like the touch of a fairy wand. His impatience vanished; his engagement was forgotten. He had seen his ideal woman!

A weaker man might have failed to detect his chance in the mere passing glimpse of a face in the crowd. Not so Manice. If fate, in effect, said to him, "Don't you wish you knew her?" he indomitably answered, "Trust me—I shall know her!" And so the game began.

Social customs he regarded as so many fences inclosing and dividing the field of action. Under ordinary circumstances he respected these defenses and skirted them decorously until he came to gateways, like any other well bred individual. But the case in hand was comparable only to a cross country ride, when the man who would be in at the death must go over the fences, jump the ditches and stay him not for gateways and bridges.

All of which means that Floyd Manice, usually the most dignified and conservative of men, spent the rest of the afternoon following a slim, erect young woman at a very respectful distance and utterly without her knowledge.

At 6 p. m. he had the satisfaction of seeing her enter a smart trap at Morristown, N. J., whither she had unwittingly led him, and satisfied from her manner that she was at home he paced the platform waiting for the train back to town and making plans with an exultant confidence born of long success.

"Going to Morristown for the summer, eh?" exclaimed his partner in some surprise when he announced his intention a week later. "I thought you loathed New Jersey?"

"Mistaken idea of yours," responded Manice, with mendacious brevity. "By the way, do you know any one there?"

Events usually moved with businesslike precision when Manice started to accomplish an end. Within two weeks from the day on which he first saw his star, as he called her to himself, he was established in Morristown, waiting in strong, serene, yet humble expectation for her to appear once more upon his horizon.

The days passed like a procession of snails, but she did not appear, and, though through the kindness of city friends he had a number of introductions, he made no effort to discover her identity. He had a strange, sweet consciousness—to which he held in spite of disappointment and the deplorable sentimentality into which it was leading him—that she was surely drifting toward him and that each day brought them nearer together.

Near the end of the third week his faith was rewarded. It was on the golf links, and a ripple of peculiarly clear, frank laughter somewhere near him caused him to turn his head. She and a companion were sauntering toward him, every line of her lithe, graceful figure standing out gloriously against the pure background of the sky, her brown hair framing her face in a bewitching disorder.

On this glimpse of her Manice lived for another week, and then his friend, Duncan Brown, descended upon him for the week's end stay. Duncan would have been welcome under any circumstances, but when he announced that a great friend of his, Betty Alston, lived in Morristown and offered to take Manice to see her the latter pressed the freedom of his bachelor quarters upon him with added fervency, wondering if by chance he was entertaining an angel unawares.

So indeed it proved.

"I think I saw you on the links the other day," Miss Alston remarked, turning to Manice after the greetings were over, and that gentleman always wondered what he said in reply. The one impression that he carried away from that meeting was a confusing sense of having been projected unexpectedly into the very midst of heaven.

That impression, however, was not lasting. Time revealed that if Miss Alston was a guiding star others besides himself were looking, raising their eyes to her and following where she led.

Still he drew a sigh of relief at the thought that he had two rivals instead of one. Always in these matters there was safety in numbers.

Keeping a watchful eye upon two rivals is wearing work even for a strong man. If Manice had been fascinated by Betty Alston's face, at the end of two months it was lovelier to him than ever, for the better he knew her the more assured he became of her sweetness and womanliness. Counted by conventional standards, it was a pitifully short time that they had known each other, but he felt as if he had been aware of her through all the thirty-five years of waiting.

Thus his love, like a mighty wave, whose crest, poised for a moment, must inevitably spend itself in foam, broke into words. Simple, manly words they were.

"You are the only woman in the world for me," he concluded, the color that usually glowed under his tan noticably absent. "From the first moment I knew it. I would have followed you to the ends of the earth to tell you this, even though I had known that you would refuse me!"

Betty Alston, her face as white as his own, turned to him with quivering lips. His earnestness frightened her. But there was Jack Winter—dear Jack with the laughing eyes and the gay smile! And yet Jack would never have followed her out of the crowd, and—

She covered her face with her hands and Manice, pitted against fate, set his jaw grimly.

"Is there any one else?" he asked at last, and at the gentleness of his voice Betty took courage.

"You don't know how unworthy I feel," she began in a trembling voice. "You see, I don't know myself. I hate myself for it, but I really don't. If you love me like this, I ought to know, oughtn't I, whether I love you or not?"

She looked at him with the puzzled confidence of a child appealing to an elder for help in a crisis. Then suddenly the color came up over her soft, white neck, rising higher and higher until it suffused her whole face, and the eyes that had been gazing so clearly and childishly into his dropped. In that moment her heart was clearer to him than it was to herself.

"Think about it for a week, sweetheart," he whispered, and, carrying her hand to his lips for a brief moment, turned and left her.

"She loves me—she loves me, God bless her! I know it," Manice's thoughts ran during the days that followed, and, though the hours seemed endless, not once during that time did he approach her. He shrewdly suspected that his absence would do more than anything else could to reveal her heart to herself.

So sure of his answer was he that he wanted to make the day memorable to both of them. Many plans suggested themselves, but none of them seemed worthy. Then a chance remark of hers flitted across his mind, and he murmured, with enthusiasm, "The very thing, by Jove!"

She had whimsically said to him once that it was her idea of bliss to have Hagadorn, the well known organist, play the wonderful organ at St. Michael's an hour for her alone, and he decided that if Hagadorn was susceptible to the persuasive power of money she should have that pleasure.

But to his dismay he found that he was not. He did not understand the gentleman's request, and he refused the offer somewhat haughtily. It was then that Manice appealed to the man, ignoring the artist, and at the end of his brief but somewhat shamefaced explanation Hagadorn was smiling genially.

"I'll do it with pleasure," said he, holding out his hand.

"And of course you'll know just—well, just the right sort of music?" suggested Manice. "The sort that will—that will"—

"Yes," assented the organist, "I think I know the sort." And they parted in great good humor.

At the end of that rapturous hour of wonderful music in the dim interior of St. Michael's next day Betty simply turned her humid eyes upon Manice and held out her hands. It was not until she had gained the poise and assertion of six months of wifehood that she accused him of taking an unfair advantage.

"As if any girl could have refused such a lover!" she taunted, ruffling his hair disgracefully. "It was what the papers call claptrap."

Relics of Gold Hunters.

While plowing in his field near Eufaula recently Mr. Charles Gibson uncovered a large number of weapons, some of which were rifles of an old style, some blunderbusses, a few old time pistols and a couple of swords. All these weapons are in a fair state of preservation and are apparently of Spanish make.

According to Creek tradition, a party of adventurous Spaniards, numbering fifty-four, in the year 1664 left New Orleans on burros and went to the territory in search of gold. They secured all the precious metal they could carry, and on their way back they were beset by a band of Shawnees near Standing Rock, eight miles east of Eufaula, and a great battle followed.

The Spaniards, with the exception of two who escaped on a raft, were annihilated.

It is supposed that the weapons plowed up on Mr. Gibson's place are the ones that were used by the Spaniards mentioned above.—Kansas City Journal.

Thwarted by a Witness.

"A little flash of humor on the part of a witness will often destroy the best of legal examinations," said a well known lawyer. "Not long ago I had a criminal case in which one of the best witnesses for the prosecution was a negro. Before the coroner he had made two different statements as to the number of times he had seen one of the principals in the case, and I intended to trip him up on it in the cross examination. If he said the first number I should confront him with the other statement from the testimony before the coroner, and vice versa. I thought I had him cornered, no matter how he answered. I was reserving the question for the climax, and finally I asked him in my most confident manner, 'How many times did you say that you saw this child?' He hesitated a moment and then replied in a surly tone: 'I didn't say I saw it at all. I said I seen it.' Even the judge had to smile, and, though I hammered away at him, all the effect that I had sought was lost beyond repair."—Philadelphia Record.

Odd Will Provision.

Sylvester Houston of Oklahoma City, who died recently, was once a private soldier of the United States army, and in his will disposing of a large estate he bequeathed $130,000 to his nephew on the sole condition that the young man "shall serve at least one full term of not less than three years in the United States army, during which he shall have reached the grade of noncommissioned officer, and that his certificate of discharge shall read, 'Service, honest and faithful; character, excellent.'" In making this bequest the testator said, "I know that after such service my nephew will have had enough experience of the world and disciplinary training to insure the proper disposal of what has taken me a lifetime to accumulate."

Prince Humbert's Nurse.

Little Prince Humbert's new nurse is now a conspicuous personage in contemporary history. The wife of a gamekeeper in the royal service, she is twenty-three and has a "magnificent figure," writes an enthusiast, "superb black hair and beautiful teeth." Around her raven tresses she wears "an aureole of ribbon" adorned with gold hairpins, and her costume is that of a nurse in the well to do middle class of Rome. The fortunate young woman is paid $120 a month for two years and is likely to have a pension of $500 a year for the rest of her life. She will receive a handsome gift at the little prince's baptism, another for his first tooth and a third when he begins to walk.

HAY FEVER.

Local Use of Quinine as a Remedy For This Affliction.

So many remedies have from time to time been proposed for the relief of hay fever that doubt has arisen as to the value of any of them, and very naturally so, for they all have one serious drawback—the uncertainty of their action.

A method of using quinine locally in typical cases of hay fever has proved remarkably successful in my hands. The treatment consists of the employment of a saturated solution of the quinine sulphate in sterilized water as a nasal spray and the application to the mucous membrane of the nares of an ointment consisting of quinine and vaseline in the proportion of thirty grains to the ounce, the applications being made every four or six hours. After trying various unguents and combinations simple vaseline has been found to be the best base. The white vaseline is not suitable, nor is the liquid albolene. Lanolin is an ideal base, but is too offensive to the sense of smell.

The use of the spray alone will not suffice, but should be used as an adjunct to the ointment. Spraying the nares will at once stop all symptoms of coryza, but the effect will soon disappear unless followed by the thorough application of the ointment. This may account for the failure of this treatment as first suggested by Helmholtz, who employed only the spray. The application of the ointment should be made at least every six hours, and it may be necessary to repeat it every four hours. An application at bedtime and at 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning will prevent all symptoms through the night. Two or three applications of the spray should be made in the twenty-four hours, at the times when the patient has found the irritation to be at the maximum degree of intensity. In respect to the mode of using the ointment, the little finger is the most convenient applicator. In most persons the slightly bitter taste in the throat from the quinine is not objectionable, but where this proves to be a drawback to its use euquinine, a synthetical product which is wholly devoid of any unpleasant taste, can be substituted and will be found equally efficacious.

So far as the effects of this simple remedy have been observed the results are as follows: Used according to the foregoing suggestions, the symptoms of coryza are immediately removed, nor will they return so long as the treatment is continued. The usual accompanying irritation of the conjunctivae of the eustachian tubes and palate quickly subsides. I have had no opportunities as yet to test this treatment in irregular types of the disease or to estimate how far these results may be modified by individual peculiarities, but so far as its effects have been noted it seems fair to conclude that this will be found a remedy of actual value in the treatment of hay fever and that it will promptly and completely relieve a large proportion of these cases.—Henry Fulton, M. D., in Journal of the American Medical Association.

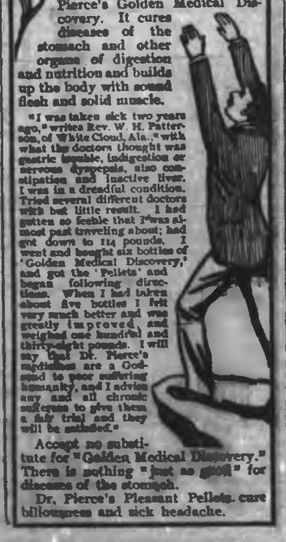
JUMPING UP

Is a great deal harder than jumping down. And yet people who have been for years running down in health expect to jump back at once. It takes years generally to make a man a confirmed dyspeptic, and he cannot expect to be cured in a few days.

There is no quicker means of cure for dyspepsia or other forms of stomach trouble than by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and builds up the body with sound flesh and solid muscle.



"I was taken sick two years ago," writes Rev. W. H. Patterson, of White Cloud, Ala., "with what the doctors thought was gastric trouble, indigestion or nervous dyspepsia, also constipation and inactive liver. I was in a dreadful condition. Tried several different doctors with but little result. I had gotten so feeble that I was almost past traveling about; had got down to 114 pounds. I went and bought six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and got the 'Pellets' and began following directions. When I had taken about five bottles I felt very much better and was greatly improved, and weighed one hundred and thirty-eight pounds. I will say that Dr. Pierce's medicines are a God-send to poor suffering humanity, and I advise any and all chronic sufferers to give them a fair trial and they will be satisfied."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

He says:—"In the Spring of 1889 I was continually troubled with boils—one coming after another for about six months. I suffered terribly, and was in a very bad condition. In August I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and began to feel better after taking it. I kept on until I had used five bottles, and can truthfully say that I was cured, and have remained so ever since. I have not had the least sign of a boil."

ANOTHER HUNTING PARTY'S RETURN

Get Their Limit of Deer and Tell Story of Capture of Bears.

Another hunting party composed of Messrs. J. B. Laroque, J. Alexander, Lewis Spry, Fred Rutledge, R. H. Shepherd and W. Guerin, returned yesterday after a most successful hunting trip to Stony Creek. They got their limit of deer, nine buck and five doe, all fine animals. They report that deer are not nearly as plentiful in that part as they were last year, consequently they had to work harder to secure their limit. The party had nine dogs, one of which got into some trouble with a porcupine, and in the encounter the dog came out second best.

The party reports having seen three bears, a mother and two cubs, and an interesting story is told of the capture of these bears. It is said said that they were first sighted by some hunters, needless to say not the hunters comprising this party, and they were frightened at the prospects of an encounter with brain. after they had piled logs, etc., over the hole to prevent their escape, they went after some settlers who came to their rescue, and, while the hunters (?) were up a tree the settlers drove the bears out of their hole and shot them.

After making the best showing of the Senior O.R.F.U. series that any graduate from the intermediate series has ever made in its first experience in senior company, the Peterborough Rugby Club was put out of the running at Toronto on Thanksgiving Day. The boys were beaten and fairly beaten and though they had cause to object to a few decisions given against them, they took their defeat like good sports and are making no excuses. The season has been a long one and the boys are not sorry it is over. They have made a creditable showing and have no reason to feel discouraged.

TWO WINS, THREE LOSSES.

The club has won two games and lost three, being victorious at home, but meeting defeat at each trip to the Queen City. The team is weak when playing away from home and have never shown anything like the form displayed at home. The three teams in the district broke even on the round, the Torontos beat the Argonauts in the semi-final and Peterborough was ordered to go to Toronto to play the final. It was practically playing the final game on the Torontos' grounds, but the locals did not object, for the chief reason that the Peterborough public do not turn out and support the team in the way they should and the club would have been behind financially had they brought the Torontos here. As it was they received a good share of the gate which amounted to about $500 and will finish the season ahead.

THE CROWD.

Yesterday's game was witnessed by nearly 1,000 people, and was played on Varsity field. The day was a good one for rugby, there being but little sun or wind to interfere with the play. The home team was given plenty of encouragement from the crowd. The Peterboros also had a large delegation of rooters who did their best to inspire the boys to victory, but it would not be so.

THE GAME.

The game was only a fairly good exhibition, there being considerable ragged work, which was almost altogether on the part of the local backs. There was plenty of pretty open work and as far as the spectators were concerned it was a good game. There was a little rough work at times, but as a rule the play was comparatively clean and only two men were ruled off, one from each team. The teams were about evenly matched in weight and speed, but the Torontos won by supreme work of their backs.

WHY WE LOST.

The game was lost, as previous games have been lost, through the unsteadiness and tendency to fumble, of which the half-backs were guilty. All the halves were guilty of costly fumbles, and some bad judgment, and with fast wings like the Torontos, a fumble meant a great loss. The Torontos did not deserve to win such a decisive score as 21-8, and were exceedingly lucky to get at least ten of the points and there is no getting over the fact that the locals did not get any luck that was floating around.

SOMETHING ABOUT THEM.

The locals deserve credit for their plucky showing not only in yesterday's game, but throughout the season. The boys have had but few players from which to pick their team and have had to change their line-up from time to time, but they have played out their schedule and made three trips to Toronto which few other teams would have done. Mulhern was played at full back yesterday and he played a star game and was the surest man on the back division. He did not make a single fumble and wherever possible relieved by a kick or good run. He showed that he is fully fast enough for senior company. Cameron was played on the half-back line for the first time and considering the fact that he has always played on the wing line he did good work. He made several costly fumbles, however, which figured in the scoring, but in the second half his dodging runs were effective. Crowley scintilated at times, making some of the prettiest dodging runs of the day. He punted well but his catching, however, was a little off-colour. Shaw played a good game, punting in fairly good form, but like the others made bad fumbles. Graham did effective work at quarter and made but few mistakes. The wings had a hard battle with their opponents and there was but little to choose between them. Rickey had his shoulder bone injured at the start and his usefulness was marred to quite an extent. McDonald tore off many a dashing tackle. Greene was always foremost in following up. Gilbert did fine work and tackled well. Hurtubise was a source of strength to the line, while Meagher was very fast and tackled well. Burnham played a steady game at centre and worked with a will. All the boys played hard, but fate was "agin us."

THE WINNERS.

The Torontos have a well-balanced and fast team and will make the Tigers hustle in the finals. The backs are the mainstay of the team. Flett, the U.C.C. man is sure at full back. Housser played a star game at centre half, kicking, running and tackling in great shape. Len Morrison also did exceliant work, punting for steady gains and his sprints were always dangerous. Sale, a St. Michael's College man, had lots of weight and easily held his own. His punting was fine. Reddy Hynes at quarter was always prominent, while Fellows, Perram and Peterson were the stars of the wing line. Marsh made an unprovoked and dirty assault on Hurtubise, with whom he had some trouble in Peterborough, was ruled off for 15 minutes. Jean got five minutes for no one knew what. The two had a mix-up near the close of the game and a few others took a hand in before it was all over, but nothing serious resulted.

The Torontos had the ball in Peterborough territory for the greater portion of the first half, but in the second period, the play was more even and the locals fully held their own.

The teams were:—

Torontos.		Peterboros.
Flett	Backs.	Mulhern
Morrison	Left Half.	Cameron
Housser	Centre Half.	Shaw
Sale	Right Half.	Crowley
Hynes	Quarter.	Graham
Perram	Centre.	Burnham
Marsh	Wings.	McDonald
Dale		Meagher
Peterson		Hurtubise
Fellows		Greene
Bleasdell		Gilbert
Mara		Rickey

Referee, Rev. A. F. Barr; umpire, A. S. Trimmer; timekeeper, W. J. Morrison; goal judges, S. H. H. Leslie, F. Bradburn; touch line judges, R. A. Baker, W. A. Noble; linemen, G. D. McCurdy, N. V. Leslie.

THE START.

Torontos won the toss and Capt. Hynes elected to kick with the wind. Crowley kicked to Sale, who returned to Shaw, who kicked out of touch. Morrison punted well up the field to Cameron who made a nice catch, but was downed before he could move. Crowley sprinted for 20 yards. Shaw and Morrison exchanged long punts, but a muff by the former brought the play in Peterborough territory. Morrison kicked well over the line to Mulhern, who caught neatly and sprinted for thirty yards before being downed. Sale muffed Shaw's punt and a Toronto offside brought the ball near the Toronto's line, but a forward pass spoiled the locals chances. Cameron muffed Fellows kick behind the line, but Mulhern grabbed the sphere and was tackled by Marsh for a rouge. Score, 1-0.

TORONTOS PRESSING.

The locals' backs were doing some wild passing and bad fumbling. Shaw's punt was blocked near the line but Meagher and Hurtubise dribbled the ball well up the field. Housser punted to Crowley who made a beautiful catch and a fifteen yards' dash. The Toronto centre half again punted to the local captain who was downed ten yards from the line. Housser muffed Shaw's punt but an offside lost a chance to score. After an exchange of punts, Crowley made a fifteen yards' dodging run. Shaw kicked to Sale, who made a long punt over the line to Mulhern, who was tackled for another rouge. Score, 2-0.

ANOTHER POINT.

Peterborough wings were over anxious and frequently got offside, losing much ground. Housser kicked to Cameron, who was forced to rouge. Torontos lead 3-0.

Cameron fumbled Housser's punt, Rickey stole the ball and got away for a nice run, but passed wildly to Graham. McDonald was laid out for a few minutes by a heavy tackle. Housser made a nice 20 yard run before being downed by McDonald's fine tackle, Hurtubise stole the ball and Crowley ran ten yards. Marsh was hurt but continued. Cameron fumbled Morrison's kick badly and poor tackling allowed Perram to dribble the ball ten yards. The ball was kicked into touch in goal and the score was 4-0.

A TOUCH DOWN.

Graham passed to Crowley after the kick off, but the latter dropped the ball and Housser's long punt hit the post. While the locals were watching the ball, Housser followed up rapidly and secured the leather about five yards from the line and Morrison was shoved over for a try on the third down. Fellows did not convert. Score, 9-0.

HOUSSER GETS A TRY.

Cameron was temporarily injured. Flett punted to Shaw who was tackled and Fellows got the ball and kicked over the line. Mulhern misjudged the bouncing ball and Housser got a doubtful try as it was claimed that Mulhern did not touch the ball. The kick was missed. Score, 14-0.

Marsh slugged Hurtubise and both went off. Shaw punted over the line to Morrison, who relieved by a run and kick. Half time was then called.

SECOND HALF.

The locals did better in this half. Crowley got away with a beautiful 50 yards run. Morrison fumbled Shaw's punt and the latter gained fifteen yards by a nice run. Peterborough got a rouge but an offside spoiled the score. Hynes lost the ball to McDonald but Crowley did the same thing to Housser. Shaw's punt was blocked by Ferram, who dribbled over the line where Crowley had to rouge. Score, 15-0.

ANOTHER TRY.

Cameron was laid out by Sale's rough check. Cameron fumbled Morrison's punt near the line and Ferram again blocked Shaw's punt and Hynes got the ball and dodging two of the backs, just got over for a touch which Fellows converted. Things looked blue. Score, 21-0.

THE LOCALS SCORE.

Peterborough then took a hand in and had the best of the argument afterwards. Graham punted to Housser, who made a nice run. Cameron muffed Fellows' punt. Shaw kicked to Morrison, who dropped the ball and Graham punted to Housser, who was tackled near the line. Housser relieved by a punt into touch. Shaw punted over the line to Morrison who was tackled by McDonald for a touch-in-goal and the duck egg was broken. Score, 21-1.

STILL WE SCORE.

Cameron made a nice dodging run, Mulhern made a beautiful catch of Sale's long punt and dodged his way for thirty yards. Shaw punted over the line to Morrison who was downed by Graham for a rouge. Score, 21-2.

OUR ONLY TRY.

Morrison made a pretty dodging run before being tackled by Rickey and repeated his performance a little later. Crowley made the prettiest dodging run of the day for thirty yards. Housser was hurt but soon continued. Shaw's ten yards run brought the ball near the line and Cameron was shoved over for a touch. Shaw kicked the goal. Score, 21-8.

The locals worked hard but it was too late and time was called.

NOTES.

Well, cheer up, we can't win always. The boys have made a creditable showing for their first year in senior company.

The Torontos have a fine back division.

The boys will finish the season ahead as a result of yesterday's trip and not oft he support received in town.

The Torontos have the privilege of picking the best men from any of the score of College teams. Flett and Sale are College men.

A large number went up from here to cheer for the boys.

Hamilton plays at Toronto to-morrow.

Referee Barr did not give Peterborough any the best of it.

Nevertheless, boys, you have much to be thankful for.

Mulhern is a coming star.

The local backs tried short kicks when near the Torontos' line in the second half, but they did not work. A long punt would have meant a point every time.

That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the negiectful ones, call around and see us.

TO TRAP HIS OWN BROTHER

Philip Lot Swears He Sought to do so While Pretending to Assist Him—Went to Kingston to Close Deal, and all the Time Intended to Expose the Scheme.

Belleville, Nov. 19.—One of the greatest sensations in the political history of Canada was launched yesterday, when evidence in what has become known as the "trick ballot-box" affair was given before Magistrate A. F. Wood. The case investigated by Mr. Wood was one of criminal libel preferred by Mr. Gus Porter, M.P., for West Hastings, against Mr. T. S. Carman, publisher of The Belleville Ontario, and Mr. O'Flynn, a prominent barrister of Belleville. These gentlemen, one through his newspaper, the other, it is charged, by the distribution of a dodger, had cast discredit on Mr. Porter's announcement on election day that bogus ballot-boxes had been brought into West Hastings on behalf of Mr. B. O. Lott, the Liberal candidate, with the object of "stealing" the election.

To prove that his story was genuine, Mr. Porter went into the witness box and told its source. The sensation of the day, however, was the evidence of Mr. Phillip Lott, brother of the Liberal candidate.

According to his statement, some time ago his brother, Mr. Byron Lott, told him that, by means of a device in a "patent" ballot-box, the votes cast for the Conservative candidate could be secreted, and other ballots marked for the Liberal candidate could be substituted. Mr. Shibley in Frontenac and he (Mr. Lott) in Hastings were going to use these boxes. Phillip Lott decided there and then to expose the conspiracy. He appeared to consent to take a hand in it, and was, so his evidence runs, sent to Kingston to complete the negotiations for the purchase of the boxes and their importation through one Reilly of 116 Colborne street. Reilly, by the way, seems to have been either an alias or a myth.

Saw Mr. Shibley of Frontenac.

Phillip Lott swears he saw Mr. Shibley, who referred him to Reilly, stating that he was keeping out of the thing, so that he could not be connected with it. Reilly when seen completed arrangements for the shipping of the boxes, which were brought across from Watertown to Prescott. Ten of these boxes were sent into West Hastings, and Lott gave a list of the men who were expected to use them.

The plot failed, and the boxes were not used, because Mr. John Williams, a Belleville lawyer of spotless honor, so carefully guarded the ballots held by him as returning officer that the extra ballots necessary to success could not be obtained.

How the Boxes Worked.

Lott, describing the trick boxes, said it was the intention to get twenty-five extra ballots and have them initialled the night before the election and placed in a secret compartment at the top of the box, where they could not be seen. After the ballot-box was closed and sealed these ballots were released. It was the intention to use these boxes in strong Conservative polls, where there would not be many Liberal voters, but, in case any Liberal did come, by a reversal of the handle his ballot would drop into the box. When it was a Conservative voter, by pushing the wire handle over to the other side the ballots were switched into a secret receptacle, where they were dead to the world.

A Tale of Perfidy.

In cross-examination, Lott admitted that as far back as March 4th he had been watching and plotting to obtain evidence against his brother. In graphic language he told how he had made up his mind, when his brother first broached the subject to him, to expose the plot, and how he had relentlessly pursued his purpose until the time when he was able to place in the hands of his brother's political opponents proofs of the conspiracy, up to the last carefully cloaking his motives and hiding from his brother the deception he practised.

An Alleged Conspiracy.

Basing his allegations upon statements which he swore his brother had made to him, he revealed an alleged plot for wholesale electoral frauds in the next Provincial election by substituting for genuine ballots for Conservative candidates ballots previously marked and placed in the box for supporters of the Ontario Government.

He denied having personally requested deputies to use the fraudulent boxes or that he had offered them money to do so, and related how he had a few nights ago been offered by an unknown man enough to make him comfortable for life to get out of the country. The nefarious practices were to be confined in the Dominion election to three ridings—West Hastings, Frontenac and Durham, according to Lott's story. Such were the main features of a narrative, the parallel of which has fortunately never been recorded in a Canadian court of justice.

The Westworth Recount.

Hamilton, Nov. 19.—The majority of the Liberal candidate, W. O. Sealey, over his Conservative opponent, E. D. Smith, was only 20. The Conservatives applied for a recount, which was held yesterday before Judge Sinclair.

The recount had cut Mr. Sealey's majority down from 22 to 15 when the judge reached the ballots from polling division No. 25, Beverley, which gave Sealey 47 votes and Smith 22. As the ballots were being counted it was discovered that the deputy returning officer, Adam Vaicos, had committed a serious blunder in numbering the ballots on the backs, the same as in the poll book. Mr. Smith's counsel urged that the ballots for the whole division should be thrown out, and if that is done Mr. Smith will be elected by a majority of 10.

Mr. Sealey's lawyers contended that if the ballots were thrown out the election should be voided. Judge Sinclair reserved judgment till today.

Sealey lost one vote in each of the following places: Canal Ward, Dundas; Woodburn, Hayesland, Binbrook, Waterville.

POLITICS IN A NUTSHELL.

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—The recount of the ballots in the Provencher election began yesterday morning, at the county court house, before Judge Walker. Although several losses and gains were made on the recount, the final result came out the same as before, 10 majority for Cyr, Liberal.

The Liberals of Centre Bruce met Friday in Glamis and after electing delegates to the convention nominated Neil McIntyre and Andrew Malcolm. A ballot was taken, which resulted in Mr. Malcolm defeating Mr. McIntyre by two votes.

THE QUEBEC NOMINATIONS.

Thirty-Five Liberals Elected By Acclamation and One Conservative—The Contests to Be Held.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Thirty-five Liberal members were elected yesterday to the Legislative Assembly by acclamation. The following counties have returned members to support the Parent Government:

Arthabaska, Bagot, Beauce, Belle Chasse, Bellechasse, Brome, Dorchester, Huntingdon, Kamouraska, Laprirle, L'Assomption, Levis, L'Islet, Matane, Megantic, Montmagny, Montmorency, St. James, Nicolet, Pontiac, Quebec Centre, Quebec County, Richmond, Rimouski, St. Lawrence, Temiscata, Three Rivers, Vaudreuil, Yamaska, Two Mountains, Rouille.

All the ministers holding portfolios have been returned by acclamation—Premier Parent in St. Sauveur, Hon. Mr. Robitaille in Quebec Centre, Hon. L. Gouin in St. James, and Hon. Mr. Turgeon in Bellechasse, while Hon. W. A. Weir and Hon. Dr. Guerin, ministers without portfolio, are being opposed in Argenteuil and St. Anne's, respectively.

Hon. Mr. Leblanc has been returned by acclamation in Laval, while Hon. E. J. Flynn and Hon. L. P. Pelletier are without seats in Nicolet and Dorchester. Liberals have taken their places in the new house.

Hon. P. E. Leblanc appears to be the only Conservative returned unopposed, the ex-speaker having no opponent in Laval.

The Conservatives are also putting up candidates in Argenteuil, Berthier, Beauharnois, Champlain, Joliette, Maskinonge, Richelieu, Shefford, Soulanges and Stanstead.

There are two Liberals candidates in Bonaventure, Chambly, Hochelaga, Lake St. John, St. Mary's, St. Louis, St. Lawrence, St. Anne, Ottawa, Napierville, Quebec East, Sherbrooke, Terrebonne, Vercherres, Drummond and Wolfe.

The idea of running Nationalist candidates did not receive much encouragement, O. Asselin in Terrebonne being the one candidate of that particular stripe.

The all-important contest in the Province is in St. Louis, where Mr. Rainville, ex-M.P.P., is being opposed by Mr. Langlois of Le Canada.

MARKET PRICES

What was Paid for the Produce This Morning.

There was another large market this morning, with prices about the same as last week. There was a plentitude of fowl of all descriptions, which sold readily. Chickens were not much lower in price, and sold from 35c to 90c per pair. Turkeys were worth from $1 to $2 each, geese 75c to $1.25, ducks per pair 70c to $1.10 eggs from 23 to 25c, but went for the most part at the latter high price, being quite scarce. Butter was sold from 20c to 23c per lb. Pork went at 8 and 9c; beef at 5c and 6c; lamb at 8 and 9c; mutton at 7 and 8c; dressed hogs at $6 to $6.75. Potatoes per bag were worth 75c, and apples about 50c.

EXAMINER REPORT WAS CRITICIZED

Comments on a Letter Referring to St. Andrew's Thanksgiving Entertainment.

The Examiner has received a letter signed by G. Francis Beard, "musical critic of the N.Y.M.C.," in which fault is found with the Examiner's report of the programme rendered in St. Andrew's church, on Thanksgiving night. The writer complains that Prof. Milner, who played the accompaniment for Mrs. MacGregor's solos, and also rendered some instrumental numbers, was not mentioned. The fact that no mention was made of Prof. Milner was an unintentional oversight, and it might be added that Mrs. Kerr, who played the greater part of the accompaniments was also not mentioned, but in neither case was any slight intended. The letter continues and complains of a remark made in another paper with reference to Mrs. MacGregor's voice, consequently the Examiner does not feel called upon to defend or explain another paper's criticism. It is not customary in church entertainments to enter into a detailed report of each number on the programme, and for this reason solely a more extended reference to Mrs. MacGregor's singing was not made. The Examiner has no wish to do anyone an injustice, and will be glad if future opportunity presents itself to criticise this lady's singing and give full credit for whatever merit may be evidenced.

By reason of the fact that Thursday was a holiday, and some members of the Examiner staff were out of town, it was impossible to have a representative of the reportorial staff at the entertainment, and it was necessary to depend upon information obtainable afterwards, and consequently the responsibility for the omissions should not rest with the Examiner.

—Special Thanksgiving services will be held in many of the churches tomorrow.

HON. MR. STRATTON MADE OBJECT OF

An Infamous and Utterly Unfounded Insinuation

In Connection with the West Hastings Bogus Ballot Boxes.

Hon. Mr. Stratton's political opponents have long and vindictively pursued him with a series of base charges, or rather insinuations, of improper conduct, and without the slightest warrant except the imagination and guess work of his calumniators. These charges have not been specifically and pointedly made—that would be unsafe—but insinuated and suggested. The last instance and one of the most infamous is the insinuation in Mr. E. Gus Porter's testimony given at Belleville yesterday associating Mr. Stratton's name with the Belleville ballot box matter.

In this connection Mr. Stratton was seen in Toronto by a reporter of the Globe and made the following emphatic and explicit denial of there being the slightest foundation for such a charge:—

"I have read the statement, which it is said, has been made by Philip Lott to Mr. Porter in connection with the alleged bogus ballot boxes, and the statement is so absolutely false and malignant in its character that one can hardly find words sufficiently strong in denial and condemnation. I never heard anything about these ballot boxes, directly or indirectly, until it was circulated in Peterboro on election day, from Belleville, and I subsequently read it in the press, and the statement so far as I am concerned is an infamous falsehood in every respect.

Philip Lott was convicted on Aug. 14, 1904, for selling liquor without a license in the Township of Seymour, and was fined $50 and costs. He made application to this department, supported by a resolution of the Council of the Township of Seymour, asking that the fine be remitted. Notwithstanding the resolution, I did not consider for one moment the remission of the fine, and this action may account in some measure for his having so maliciously connected my name with something that I know nothing whatever about. So far as I am concerned, the story is utterly false, and without a particle of justification.

Words cannot too strongly condemn, and no punishment is too severe for anyone who would be guilty of taking into any constituency ballot boxes to be used for the purposes suggested.

The whole matter only needs to be probed to the bottom to prove how utterly untrue the statement is. I am anxious that the fullest investigation shall be made, and any assistance that I can render will be cheerfully given.

DEATH OF MR. GEO. POWELL'S MOTHER

A Highly Respected Lady Died in Cobourg This Week.

The Cobourg World has the following account of the death of Mrs. O. W. Powell, mother of Mr. Geo. Powell, of town:—

There has passed from her earthly to her heavenly home an esteemed lady in the death of Mrs. Powell, widow of the late Orrin Wentworth Powell. Mrs. Powell had been in delicate health for some years and about four weeks ago while walking in the garden fell and injured her back, which confined her to her bed. Afterward she had an attack of bronchitis and this with the weakness attendant upon old age resulted in her death. Deceased was a daughter of the late Daniel Massey, of Haldimand Tp., and a sister of the late Hart A. Massey, of Toronto. In 1842 she became the wife of Mr. O. W. Powell and has resided in this town mostly since her marriage, where she was most highly esteemed for her many excellent personal qualities and the kindly grace of her true Christian life. It was given to Mr. and Mrs. Powell to celebrate an event that comes into the lives of few, and that was the Diamond Jubilee of their marriage, which was fittingly observed at their residence here some two years ago. On the 17th of last March, the husband was called home, and she, who had been his faithful counsellor and helper during a long married life, was left in loneliness for a few months. Then, she, too, was called to the real world, the Heavenly Land, where the Father's house stands and the warm fires of welcome glow. Mrs. Powell leaves a family of grown up sons and daughters. They are Dr. N. A. Powell, and Mr. W. E. Powell, Toronto; Mr. Geo. Powell, Peterborough; Mrs. H. H. Beatty; Mrs. W. L. Payne, Colborne; Mrs. John Gallinger, Niagara Falls; Miss Lucy Powell and Mrs. Sheirke, at home. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon from her late residence, D'Arcy street, to the Union cemetery.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO REEVE SCOTT

Will be Laid Up for Some Time from Effects of Accident.

Mr. R. N. Scott, Reeve of Smith, who was so badly injured by being caught in the belt wheel of his threshing engine on No. 10th, is still confined to his bed. Although no bones were broken his back and hip were severely bruised, and it will be some time before he is able to be around again.

IMPRACTICABLE POLITICS.

The Mail and Empire says that Mr. Whitney proposes to make High Schools and Collegiate Institutes centres of agricultural education. To do this effectually Mr. Whitney will attach a small farm to each Collegiate Institute or High School, "upon which the theoretic teaching of agriculture should be illustrated." How far thios could be done on the plot of ground attached to such schools is a question to consider. Everything that is good in theory cannot be always carried out in practice, and it does not seem quite practicable to carry on illustrative and experimental farm work on plots of the average size of the average kitchen garden. It would seem that the modern tendency is to try to teach too much in our secondary schools. We have shorthand and typewriting taught and pupils are turned out capable of writing shorthand and able to reproduce it by means of a typing machine. Yet the product is often defective on account of the the defective spelling and grammer of the typist whose literary education has been neglected in order to teach the subjects of shorthand and typewriting—not very abstruse intellectual acquirements—that can be taught in a very short time in a school specially adapted to the purpose. If a pupil is thoroughly grounded in spelling, grammar, and the essential elements of arithmetic, he or she would be much better equipped for the battle of life. If our secondary schools laid the foundations of theoretical knowledge of such things and of agriculture, their special knowledge could, by the help of the equipment the foregoing subjects provide, be easily acquired, and, it would seem, with more satisfactory results. To practically illustrate theoretic agriculture upon school ground plots, ranging in size from a dining room to a skating rink, would not, at first thought, be eminently practicable. But, Mr. Whitney, finding the unappropriated good material for a policy very scarce, must make a showing of striking out in what he may consider an original direction — putting his hand to the plough that would not have room enough for team and plough to turn in. It is rather amusing to see what beautiful theories can be spun by city newspaper men, who perhaps do not know a plough from a pump, or a thorough-bred Shortborn from a billy-goat.

HON. MR. STRATTON'S RETIREMENT.

(Port Hope Guide.)

We notice with regret, by our telegraph reports, that Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, has resigned his portfolio, and that he will not again be a candidate in West Peterborough, but with the expiry of the present parliamentary term, he will retire from public life. We regret this, for Mr. Stratton has been a splendid administrator and a source of strength to the Government. So much has this latter fact been recognised, that he has been made the object of the most persistent personal attacks by his party enemies, with the hope of destroying his influence. His administration has been energetic, clean, capable and straightforward, and so much so that it has never been attacked because it was not susceptible of successful criticism. Not only have the financial affairs of this department been managed on business principles, and without a single dollar at fault, but the other branches of his work have been as capably managed. The license law has never been so efficiently and strictly administered as it has been under Mr. Stratton. Unbiased and fair-minded temperance men admit this, and the respectable element among those engaged in the traffic admit that the law has been faitly enforced. Altogether, in the retirement of Mr. Stratton the Government loses one of its most capable ministers, West Peterborough the best representative it ever had, and the public life of the Province one of the most public-spirited and progressive politicians of the day.

WELL DESERVED TRIBUTE.

(Stratford Beacon.)

The tribute paid by Premier Ross to the Hon. J. R. Stratton, as administrator of the public institutions of the province, was well deserved. One has only to converse with the heads of the various asylums in the province to learn that they are unanimous in the opinion that Mr. Stratton is the best administrator of the department the province has ever had. He has been bitterly assailed by the opposition on account of the Gamey affair, but not a single charge of wrong-doing in connection with the institutions he has in his charge has ever been made, much less proved. A capable and honourable business man, he has brought intelligence, skill and industry to his duties, with the result that the province has greatly benefited by his administrative work. His record in this regard, taken in connection with the complete exculpation from the Gamey charges by the judges who tried the case, should long ago have won him the measure of justice from his opponents to which he is entiled, but which Tory political exigencies deny him. Time will yet vindicate Mr. Stratton in the opinion of his opponents, and we are confident the future has in store for him further fields of public usefulness and honour

THE LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE

The Toronto Board of Control acted wisely in petitioning the Dominion Government to take over the long-distance telephone service of the whole Dominion. It acted quite as sensibly in excluding from its recommendation Government ownership of local telephone systems. The latter are better left to local management, whether that be by municipal corporations, incorporated companies or private individuals. A free and intelligent local community will always be able, under the powers afforded by Provincial legislation, to secure local telephone facilities to any extent desired by the residents of a district. It would never do for the Dominion Government to load itself up with so widespread and elaborate a single service as would be the outcome of the consolidation of all the local services now existing, with all that would have to be granted in response to local demands.

The only tie needed to bind all local systems into one is the long-distance service. That franchise is now held as a monopoly by the Bell Telephone Company, and it has become the means of giving that company a virtual monopoly of local services. If the long distance transmission were in the hands of the Dominion Government every local system would have the privilege of uniting with it, no matter under what patent devices it might be operating locally. The Bell method of transmission is now one of several in practical use, and the nationalization of the long-distance service would have the effect of putting these into keen competition with each other in the matter of both economy and efficiency. Short as the interval is between now and the holding of the first session of the new Parliament, there is ample time for the Post Office Department to procure the information necessary for the drafting of a scheme. No one desires to see the Bell Company injured, but it should not be allowed to use its long-distance monopoly for the purpose of keeping other systems out of local competition. — Globe.

This is a matter that has especial interest to Peterborough. We have seen the benefits from competition in the supply of electric light and power, and one of the chief obstacles to securing this, in the matter of telephone service, is the present monopoly of the long-distance telephone system. Public ownership, within practical limits, has its sphere of usefulness

Be in Earnest.

Be in earnest about your health. Do not suppose that the headaches, back aches and other pains, from which you suffer, will pass away on their own accord, instead of developing into serious and chronic disease. If you are suffering from kidney, liver and bowel derangements there is no preparation that will be so helpful to you as Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills. One pill a dose.

LABOUR COLUMN.

The Labour Meeting to be Held on Wednesday Night to Discuss Municipal Questions — Probable Solution of the Servant Girl Problem -- Labour Well Employed in Peterborough — Labour Notes.

Next Wednesday night the meeting called by the Trades and Labour Council, for the purpose of discussing municipal problems, and particularly the proposition to nominate labour candidates for aldermen in the coming municipal elections in January, will be held, and doubtless will be well attended. The members of the Trades and Labour Council are enthusiastic over the proposal, and the members of the different trades unions, since the matter was first discussed, have become deeply interested, and the probabilities are that a very large attendance of the union men of Peterborough will be present at the meeting.

The prospect of having two or three acredited representatives of the labour unions on the council board, is one which naturally appeals strongly to them, and the members have already begun to cast about for the best men to bring forward.

Ald. Johnston, the secretary of the Trades and Labour Council, was the only representative on this year's council, and he will again be a candidate for election, with good chances of being returned as a member of the council for 1905. Other men will also be candidates, but as yet none have definitely announced themselves.

During the year which is just about closing, the council has not been called upon to decide any questions directly affecting the labour interests, as apart from those of any citizen, consequently there is not among the labour element any spirit of animosity against the present council, but it is felt that on general principles, it is right that a body as large as the Trades and Labour Council represents, should be officially represented on the executive board of the town, and the action contemplated by the meeting next Wednesday night is but putting into execution that general principle.

The meeting is not held exclusively for the members of the trades unions, but any workingman will be welcome, for it is felt that the subjects for discussion are those in which every wage earner should have an interest.

LABOUR NOTES.

There is probably no town in Canada of an equal size to Peterborough in which labour is so well and so steadily employed. It is almost impossible to find any man who is willing to work who cannot get employment.

The proposal has been made to bring to Canada from the older countries of England, Ireland and Scotland, a number of girls suitable for domestic work. There is at present throughout Canada a great need of domestics, the girls here finding it more congenial to them to work in factories, offices and stores and there present prosperous condition of the country has created a demand for girls for this work which is greater than the supply, and the result is that few girls can be found who are willing to do domestic work, and a proposition to bring help from other places where there are hundreds of girls who would be glad of an opportunity of doing this work, is one which all will welcome.

For those having outside work to do the present open fall is a godsend. There are many persons who are rushing things to complete a house before the winter sets in, and the last month of fine weather has helped wonderfully.

Impatience is the great weakness of reformers. They want to be victors at the first battle and if defeat should come, they falter and drift back where victory under the name of success seems to invite them. Such reformers are are only good in prosperity. They can never be depended upon in adversity. They can never be apostles or prophets of a moment. They are not anchored in principle.—Ex.

DAMS INSPECTED IN NORTH COUNTRY

Mr. R. B. Rogers and Party Made Extensive Surveys

To Ascertain Where Improvements are Required on Timber Dams and Where Concrete Dams Should be Constructed.

Mr. R. B. Rogers, Superintending Engineer of the Trent Valley Canal, has returned from a week's trip to the northern lakes for the purpose of examining and making surveys of the Government dams on the Trent Valley waters in that part of the country. He was accompanied by Mr. J. H. Larmouth and Mr. C. Gordon. The party was sent out by the Government to prepare for the contemplated repairs to the timber dams or for the substitution of new concrete dams. It was necessary to get estimates of the cost of these repairs and improvements.

In the Burnt River district, which was inspected, the lakes comprise an area of 23,000 acres when the water is high; at the present time the water is quite low in most of these lakes. Among the lakes visited were Eagle, Little and Big Redstone, Kenesis, Kelly, Hawk, Trout, Three Brothers. The area of Big Redstone is 3400 acres; Little Redstone, 300 acres; Kenesis and Kelly combined, 4200; Hawk, 1000 acres, while the others are quite small. With proper dams the lakes would be capable of maintaining a good supply of water during the winter months.

The area of some of the reservoirs visited are as follows: Gull River, 40,000 acres, Burnt River, 23,000 acres; Nogie's Creek, 17,000 acres; Massasasagua River, 7,000 acres; Eel's Creek, 3,000 acres; Jack's Creek, 4,000 acres; Deer Bay, 25,000 acres.

In order to have a proper conservation system, it will be necessary to have surveys made as to what waters can be actually conserved. The people of Peterborough, have if they would realise it, one of the best assets of the town there. It is necessary to get the fullest possible information concerning the matter, and consequently the party was sent out to make inspections, and they will report to the Government.

A great deal of the trip had to be made in canoes, and by portaging. One of the portages, although only about one mile in length, required nearly half a day to traverse.

FROM SOUTH AFRICH.

New Way of Using Chamberlain Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I can you the following: A neighbour of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

—We have had no rain since Oct. 22nd, and the unusually fine fall weather will doubtless have a serious effect on the wells of many farmers in the country.

Y. M. C. A. MISSION TO MEN CLOSED

Last Meeting Held on Wednesday Night

The last meeting of the Mission to Men in the Y.M.C.A., was the crowning one in most respects, although the attendance was not as large as desired, owing to the night preceding a holiday.

Mr. Langfeldt spoke with great earnestness on the subject of "Rejoicing," and created a deep impression.

Mr. Jas. Browne sang, "Where is my Wandering Boy To-night?" and was well received.

Mr. Williamson, on behalf of the Association, and the men who had attended, thanked Mr. Langfeldt for his services and expressed confidence in the good results attending the Mission.

SHE GOT RID OF HER HEADACHES

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Cured Juliana Sandburg's Dyspepsia and Her Headaches Went With it.

Probably nothing so unfits a person for work as a headache, and more especially does this apply to people who must do what is commonly called "headwork." It makes them take half a day to do an hour's work, and then they have an uncomfortable feeling that what they have done is all wrong.

Those people should know that in nine cases out of ten that headache is caused by a bad stomach, and that the one sure cure is Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. That they always cure is proved by those who have used them. Juliana Sandburg, 231 John street, North Hamilton, says:

"For over six years I was troubled with Dyspepsia and Headaches. Nothing I ate would agree with me. I tried many remedies but could get no cure until I tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. After taking part of a box I found relief and by the time I had finished the box I was completely cured."

TWENTY SIXTH ANNUAL MEETING

Of Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union.

The Twenty-Sixth Annual Meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union will be held at the Ontario Agricultural College on Monday and Tuesday, December 5th and 6th, starting at 1.30 p. m. on the 5th.

Experiments in agriculture and horticulture have this year been conducted on nearly 5,000 farms throughout Ontario. The results of the carefully conducted work will be summarized and presented at the annual meeting, to which all interested in agriculture are invited.

Some of the special subjects to be presented and discussed at the meeting this year are as follows:—"Selection of Seed Corn," "How to Farm Successfully with as little help as possible", "The Shipping of Fruit in Cold Storage," "The Girl and the Home", "Farm Forestry for Ontario", "Actual Observations of economical methods of increasing the yields per acre of our Farm Crops", etc.

Ladies' sessions, under the auspices of the Women's Institutes, will be held in the Macdonald Institute on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. On Monday evening, a public meeting of interest to all will be held in the College Convocation Hall.

Arrangements have been made for single rates to Guelph for the Experimental Union Meeting and the Provincial Winter Fair. The excursion rates start on Saturday, December 3rd. For full particulars in reference to the programme and the excursion rates, write to C. A. Zavitz, Secretary, Agricultural College, Guelph, Ontario.

SHE FOUND A DIFFERENCE.

A Buffalo Lady Says:—Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill Differs From the old Methods in Medicine as Day From Night.

Mrs. J. H. Rehorn, of 169 Landon street, Buffalo, N.Y., says of Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill — the Great System Treatment.

"Its action is so different to anything else I ever used—Anti-Pill is so mild and gentle—that I never thought it would cure my Chronic Constipation, but it did.

"Soon after the birth of my first child, 14 years ago, Constipation became troublesome. I used everything I heard of, but temporary relief was all I got. I must have used fifty different medicines in that time.

"I finally got very bad, and at times I would have no relish for food, and what I did eat would distress me afterwards. I had headaches, bloating, bearing down pains, backache, could not sleep well, was easily tired and never felt rested.

"From the very first dose of Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill I began to improve. Now I am well. It is wonderful."

Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill is sold by all druggists, or the Wilson-Fyfe Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont., sole agents for Canada. The price is 50 cents. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter street. 103

B. C. MINE DISASTER

Fourteen Miners Killed by Gas Explosion.

IN THE CARBONADO MINES

Only One Man Escaped With His Life—D. D'Arcy Has a Thrilling Experience, and Is Suffering From Shock—The Mines Are Near Morrisey, and a Similar Disaster Occurred Last Year.

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—A Fernie, B. C., despatch says fourteen miners were killed at the Carbonado mines, near Morrisey, yesterday afternoon, as the result of a terrific explosion of coal gas. The disaster occurred in No. 1 mine, ten miles west of Fernie. The work of rescue was kept up all the afternoon, and all the bodies have been recovered. The dead are: Mr. Jenkins, Lewis Carlin, Peter Kenny, Albert Johnson, Patrick Boyle, Wm. Platt, Mike Gustich, Anton Prehenyck, Venesta Venerka, Martin Tomzacky, Anton and John Brondso (two brothers), Joseph Suchy and Jas. Greenman. The wife of Jenkins, one of the victims, only arrived from the old country Thursday.

D. D'Arcy was the only man who escaped from the mine, and he had an experience he will never forget. He was a driver, and was on the way out when the terrible shock came. He heard a noise in the interior of the mine, followed by a mighty rush of dust and gas. He made his way out to the tunnel mouth, where he was rescued by friends. He is suffering severely from the shock. Mine Manager Simister and General Superintendent Drinnan are at the scene of the accident, and everything was done to expedite the work of rescue, though it was known that none of the entombed men could possibly escape. A similar disaster occurred at this colliery last year, when four men were killed.

STEAMER OCEAN BURNED.

Had Many Misadventures and Was Burned to Gunwale At Port Dalhousie While in Dry Dock.

St. Catharines, Nov. 19.—About 2.15 yesterday afternoon one of the sailors of the steamer Ocean, which was undergoing repairs in Muir's drydock at Port Dalhousie, saw flames shooting from the hold. He raised the alarm, and almost as he shouted, fire seemed to burst out in every direction. The men who were working on the vessel had to drop their tools and run for their lives. There was no time to save anything, not even the men's clothes.

A fireman ran to his quarters to endeavor to get some belongings, but fire burst out all around him, and he was with difficulty saved from death by a brother fireman, James Oulette of Montreal, who rushed to his comrade's assistance. Oulette and the other man were badly burned on their faces. There was no steam up and no fire in the ship's furnaces, so that there was no means of fighting the flames with the hose. The men had to just stand and watch the Ocean become reduced to ashes.

The Ocean burned to the gunwale line, and while there will be some salvage, she is almost a total loss. The vessel was one of the oldest on the lakes, and cost $30,000 to build. She is covered by insurance.

The fence around Muir's drydock caught fire several times, but the turning of the water into the dock stopped the flames from spreading any further.

The burned steamer Ocean was owned by the Wentworth Navigation Co. She was one of the fleet plying between this city and Montreal. In her time she had several misadventures, especially in going through the canals, where she did much damage in carrying away the gates.

Burned to the Water's Edge.

New York, Nov. 19.—While bound eastward through Long Island Sound, between here and New London, Conn., the freight steamer Mohawk of the Central Vermont Railroad's fleet, took fire off Horton's Point, near the eastern entrance to the sound, and was burned to the water's edge early yesterday. Her crew, except the watchman, were rescued by a passing steamship and taken to Fall River, Mass. It is believed that the Mohawk will be a total loss.

Burnside Hospital Afire.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—There was a fire in Burnside Maternity Hospital, in connection with the General, yesterday. There were about 30 inmates, and all were asleep except Nurse Lindsay and a woman patient, who discovered the fire. Most of the 12 women patients were able to walk out from the hospital. The hospital staff did good work. There were six infants. The damage amounts to about $250.

22 GAS TANKS EXPLODE.

Five Employes Were Killed and a Score Were Injured.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Twenty-two gas tanks in the big railroad gas charging station at 73rd street and South Chicago avenue, exploded yesterday. The tanks were of the style attached to railroad cars for lighting purposes. Eleven of the tanks exploded in rapid succession, and were followed at short intervals by the other tanks.

Five employes were killed and a score injured, two seriously.

Death From Flash Powder.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—After suffering for 50 hours from injuries received from the explosion of a photographic flash powder he was mixing in his studio on Wednesday morning, Solomon Vise of 311 West Queen street died in the Western Hospital at 1 p.m. yesterday. The cause of his death is given by the doctors as heart failure, resulting from nervous shock. Mr. Vise's hands and arms were fearfully burned, the hair was scorched from his head, and his neck, shoulders and chest were burned. The deceased was 36 years of age, and leaves a widow and family. He had been in the photographic business for many years in Toronto.

MISS MARY M'LEAN SHOT.

Two Unknown London Boys Fire in Reckless Manner.

London, Nov. 19.—Thursday afternoon Miss Mary McLean, daughter of Mr. Allan McLean, second engineer of the Springbank pumping station, was accidentally shot in the leg by one of two boys who are at present unknown. Miss McLean, accompanied by her sister, Miss Rose McLean, had been up at the reservoir, and was on her way to their home, the Colville House. They were at the loop, on the Springbank car track, when two boys approached from the Pipe Line road. Both carried guns. One boy was a mulatto, the other white. All at once they fired off their guns in a seemingly reckless manner, a bullet striking Miss McLean's right leg just above the ankle. She dropped to the ground, but with the assistance of her sister was able to limp to her home about half a block away.

Shot in the Leg.

Port Hope, Nov. 19.—Reeve Howard, in company with Charles McGibbon, went shooting Thursday morning, and when returning home an accident occurred. Reeve was about a rod ahead, when McGibbon noticed something nearby, and in putting the gun up to fire it accidentally discharged, the bullet taking effect in the back part of Reeve's leg just below the hip. The case is not considered serious.

Shot in the Thigh.

London, Nov. 19.—A shooting accident occurred in the Springbank woods Thursday afternoon about 3 o'clock. A young man, 19 years of age, named David Berdan, residing at 104 Colborne street, was out hunting with a companion, when his gun accidentally went off, the shot lodging in his thigh. The shot has not yet been extracted. It is as yet impossible to tell how serious the wound may turn out.

THE STREET CAR DISASTER.

Railway Commission Sends Mr. Duval to Make Investigation At Toronto.

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—Mr. Duval, the officer of the Railway Commission appointed to investigate accidents, left here by yesterday morning's train for Toronto to inquire into the Queen street level crossing accident.

The Injured Doing Well.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Present indications are that the tale of fatalities in the Thanksgiving Day catastrophe will not amount above the three already dead. Baby Robertson and Miss Agnes Macdonald are the most serious, the one with an amputated leg, and the other with a fracture of the skull. They, however, are reported to be doing as well as one could desire, and there is every hope of their recovery. The funerals of the three victims will take place to-day.

WEAK, SUFFERING, DISHEARTENED

That is How Ovide Packwood Was Before He Used Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Now He's Strong and Healthy and He Gives the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy All the Credit.

Cap Rouier, Que., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—Suffering, weakened, and disheartened from the effects of Kidney Disease, Mr. Ovide Packwood, of this place, has found an effectual and permanent cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills, and in his gratitude he is spreading the news broadcast.

"I can tell you," Mr. Packwood says, "that before using Dodd's Kidney Pills I was very far from well indeed. My Kidneys were frightfully bad. I had pains in the hip that was little short of torture.

"I had no appetite and had no heart to work. I could not lift anything form the ground without suffering severe pain.

"Four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me completely of all my troubles, and I have no hesitation in saying that all who suffer as I did, should use Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Cure the Kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills and nine-tenths of the suffering the human family has to endure will disappear.

Failed.

Tramp—It is needless to ask the question, madam. You know what I want. Lady—Yes, I know what you want badly, but I've only one bar of soap in the house, and the servant is using it. Come again some other time.

His Varied Suits.

McFlub—He pressed his suit, donned it, called on his girl, pressed his suit, won and married her, and now he has applied for a divorce. Sleeth—And the lawyers are pressing his suit now, eh?

Certain Test.

He—But why do you think your new photographs are horrid? She—Because all my girl friends ask for one and none of my men friends do!

HEALTH FOR BABY.

Babies that are well, sleep well, eat well and play well. A child that is not lively, rosy-cheeked and playful, needs immediate attention, or the results may be serious. Give an unwell child Baby's Own Tablets and you will be astonished how soon he will be bright and playful. For diarrhoea, constipation, simple fever, indigestion, colic and teething irritation, these tablets have absolutely no equal. They do not stupefy the child, as poisonous "soothing" medicines do—they go to the seat of the trouble and cure him. Mrs. E. Bancroft, Dearwood, Ont., says: —"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for stomach and bowel troubles, for simple fevers and teething, and I think them the best medicine in the world." You can get these Tablets at any drug store, or by mail at 25c. a box, by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. When mothers always keep the Tablets in the house to guard against a sudden illness of little ones.

PRAIRIE FIRES RAGE.

Wide Area Swept By Flames in the Northwest Territories.

Moosejaw, N.W.T., Nov. 19.—A destructive prairie fire is burning in the Wood Mountain and Willow Bunch district. The fire started somewhere in Montana, passing within 60 rods of the N.W.M. Police Barracks at Wood Mountain. Sweeping on through the country, it passed through to the Willow Bunch district, and is still burning. It has covered an area about 60 miles east and west and 50 miles north and south. Everything in its path is consumed. The amount of damage at Willow Bunch will possibly reach several thousand dollars.

Prairie Fires Rage.

Lethbridge, N.W.T., Nov. 19.—Destructive prairie fires are raging northeast of here. The following losses have been reported: James Ashcroft's house and ranch buildings, Leadbeater's barn and haystocks, Samuel Young's ranch and buildings. The fire is now in the vicinity of Taber.

LORD MINTO LEAVES CANADA.

Amid the Booming of Cannon and Cheers of An Immense Crowd.

Quebec, Nov. 19.—Amid the booming of cannon and the cheers of an immense crowd, which thronged Dufferin Terrace, overlooking the Allan Line wharf, and also along the route of the procession, and at the wharf itself, Lord and Lady Minto and the vice-regal party left Quebec per SS. Tunisian at 9 o'clock last evening. The vice-regal party left the Chateau Frontenac at 8 o'clock. A guard of honor of 100 men, furnished by the Eighth Royal Rifles Regiment, was drawn up outside the hotel. The vice-regal party were accompanied by Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier, Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, Premier Parent, Sir H. Montague Allan, Andrew Allan, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, D. Pottinger and many others in carriages. The Queen's Own Canadian Hussars provided an escort of 14 men, while at the Allan's wharf a guard of honor of the Royal Canadian Regiment, together with the State band, were drawn up.

Swell Sent Down.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Police Magistrate Denison yesterday cut short the festive and burglarious career of the high-rolling Hans Waldheim. He was sent to the Kingston Penitentiary for seven years. He pleaded guilty to robbing eight houses, and Detective Duncan had eighteen more charges of the same kind to throw up against him. So far Duncan has recovered over $3,000 worth of property that this man has stolen. Waldheim cannot be classed as a "Raffles," because, while he mixed in good society, he never robbed any of the houses he visited.

Satisfied With a Little.

San Francisco, Nov. 19.—It is stated that the Socialistic element in the American Federation of Labor will make no effort at the present session of that body to commit the Federation to Socialism, but would be satisfied with the adoption of a number of Socialistic resolutions which have been introduced.

Monument to McKinley.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Announcement was made yesterday of the completion of the fund of $600,000 for the erection of a national monument to the late President McKinley. The national trustees of the association will meet in New York next Thursday and adopt a design for the monument.

Earthquakes in Central Italy.

Rome, Nov. 19.—Several earthquake shocks were felt yesterday in Central Italy, especially at Florence, Pisa and Urbino. No damage was done.

Halifax Schooner Seized.

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 19.—A private cable from Montevideo announces that the sealing schooner Agnes G. Donahoe of this city, has been seized by the Uruguayan authorities. There are several Halifax men on board. The agents have wired for particulars of the seizure.

Toronto Man Drowns.

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—A. W. Thompson, a Toronto picture agent, was found drowned at Fort William yesterday.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—No A. W. Thompson is found in the Toronto city directory.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Pleasant to Take.

The finest quality of granulated loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavour similar to maple syrup, making it quite pleasant to take. Mr. W. L. Roderick, of Poolesville, Md., in speaking of this remedy, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with my children for several years and can truthfully say it is the best preparation of the kind I know of. The children like to take it and it has no injurious after effect. For sale by all druggists.

Asbestus Fireplaces.

If the asbestus of stoves or fireplaces becomes discolored or blackened from the gas smoking, as it frequently does, the thing to do is to sprinkle the feathery fiber with common table salt, then light the gas and let it burn the same as usual. The sooty appearance of the asbestus departs like magic, and the mineral soon resumes its natural whiteness again. It happens, too, that the tiny apertures through which the gas flows become gummed and partially filled in. When such is the case run a hatpin through the holes or a round toothpick, and it will readily free them.

Passing of Orange Blossoms.

The orange blossom seems fated to perish, matrimonially speaking. There was a time when a nice girl hardly felt like a bride if she did not face the altar from under a chaplet of orange blossoms, but that is passed, and now a wreath of white roses may crown the bridal veil or a coronet of white orchids. Several brides in these latter days have reverted to the myrtle, with its classic traditions. The advent of the needless orange seems to be synchronous with the passing of the orange blossom.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER.

THE OLDEST MAN IN AMERICA

Tells How He Escaped the Terrors of Many Winters by Using Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Brock's Age is 115 Years.

MR. ISAAC BROCK, BORN IN BUNCOMBE CO., N. C., MARCH 1, 1788.

His age is 115 years, vouched for by authentic record. He says: "I attribute my extreme old age to the use of Peruna."

Born before the United States was formed
Saw 22 Presidents elected.
Pe-ru-na has protected him from all sudden changes.
Veteran of four wars.
Shed a horse when 99 years old.
Always conquered the grip with Peruna.
Witness in a land suit at the age of 110 years.
Believes Peruna the greatest remedy of the age for catarrhal diseases.

ISAAC BROCK, a citizen of McLennan county, Texas, has lived for 115 years. For many years he resided at Bosque Falls, eighteen miles west of Waco, but now lives with his son-in-law at Valley Mills, Texas.

A short time ago, by request, Uncle Isaac came to Waco and sat for his picture. In his hand he held a stick cut from the grave of General Andrew Jackson, which has been carried by him ever since. Mr. Brock is a dignified old gentleman, showing few signs of decrepitude. His family Bible is still preserved, and it shows that the date of his birth was written 115 years ago.

Surely a few words from this remarkable old gentleman, who has had 115 years of experience to draw from, would be interesting as well as profitable. A lengthy biographical sketch is given of this remarkable old man in the Waco Times-Herald, December 4, 1903. A still more pretentious biography of this, the oldest living man, illustrated with a double column portrait, was given the readers of the Dallas Morning News, dated December 11, 1898, and also the Chicago-Times Herald of same date. This centenarian is an ardent friend of Peruna, having used it many years.

In speaking of his good health and extreme old age, Mr. Brock says:

"After a man has lived in the world as long as I have, he ought to have found out a great many things by experience. I think I have done so.

"One of the things I have found out to my entire satisfaction is the proper thing for ailments that are due directly to the effects of the climate. For 115 years I have withstood the changeable climate of the United States.

"I have always been a very healthy man, but of course subject to the little affections which are due to sudden changes in the climate and temperature. During my long life I have known a great many remedies for coughs, colds and diarrhoea.

"As for Dr. Hartman's remedy Peruna, I have found it to be the best, if not the only, reliable remedy for these affections. It has been my standby for many years, and I attribute my good health and extreme old age to this remedy.

"It exactly meets all my requirements. It protects me from the evil effects of sudden changes; it keeps me in good appetite; it gives me strength; it keeps my blood in good circulation. I have come to rely upon it almost entirely for the many little things for which I need medicine.

"When epidemics of la grippe first began to make their appearance in this country I was a sufferer from this disease.

"I had several long sieges with the grip. At first I did not know that Peruna was a remedy for this disease. When I heard that la grippe was epidemic catarrh, I tried Peruna for la grippe and found it to be just the thing."

In a later letter dated January 21, 1903, Mr. Brock writes:

"I am well and feeling as well as I have for years. The only thing that bothers me is my sight. If I could see better I could walk all over the farm and it would do me good. I would not be without Peruna."

Yours truly,

Isaac Brock,

ETON'S HEADMASTER RESIGNS.

Dr. Warre Has Held the Position for Twenty Years.

Dr. Edmond Warre, Eton's famous headmaster, has announced his intention of retiring at midsummer next.

Dr. Warre's connection with the college extends over a period of forty-four years, for the last twenty of which he has been headmaster.

Born in London in 1837, he was himself an Eton boy of some note, and Newcastle scholar. From Eton he went to Oxford becoming scholar of Balliol in 1855 and winning many distinctions. In 1860 he became assistant master at Eton.

He rowed in the Oxford boat in three successive years—1857, 1858 and 1859—and the latter year was made president of the O.U.B.C. It was he, too, who designed the Brocas boat, in which Oxford won the classic race three years ago.

Dr. Warre smiled a little sadly over the general notion as to his never-failing strength.

"Really," he said. "I have been ill, and I am an old man, and I've had forty-five years of work and strain. It has been a huge responsibility. I think," he added with a little laugh, "that I have earned a rest. I want to retire before I wear out or break down."

"Of course," he continued, "it will be a great wrench indeed. I never have a moment during the day, and then there are piles of letters to be answered. But after all——." His eyes glistened. To be headmaster of Eton for a generation is to be part of history.

Then Dr. Warre smiled brightly, and said he hoped to get a great deal of peace and quiet out of life.

"There are so many ways in which old age can be useful and dignified," he said. "Now, there is gardening, and there are many literary schemes to which my mind turns. For instance, I am keenly interested in the matter of ancient naval tactics."

Madness in Armies.

The hardships and bad food as well as the nervous tension caused by the ever present danger all predispose the soldier in the field to nervous derangements and insanity. Russian physicians report that in the wars with both Turkey and China a large number of acute psychoses were met with, and many men who had gone mad were shot that they might not fall into the hands of Chinese torturers. During the present war, says The British Medical Journal, many cases of delirium have been observed in the garrison at Port Arthur. On board the Manchuria when taken by the Japanese were found fourteen insane soldiers.

His Fingers Insured.

Paderewski, the famous pianist, says that his fingers are as precious to him as his life, for he could never play if he lost any of them. He makes insurances from time to time to cover special risks, as when he is going on a long journey by land or sea. But apart from these his two hands are regularly underwritten from year to year. He pays the huge sum of $4,000 annually in this way, with the result that if anything went wrong with one of his precious hands at any time, so that he could no longer earn an income by his playing, he would be paid $50,000 cash down by the underwriters.

No Place For the Cow.

A young woman of great, perhaps too great, sensibility begged to be excused from visiting an aunt who lived in an old fashioned house where pictures of a certain period were in evidence. "There is an engraving of a blacksmith's shop in the dining room!" said she hysterically. "You can't expect me to eat my dinner there. I smell the hoofs."

A similar criticism came from one who suffered not from overrefinement, but from something quite different. She was a woman of recently acquired wealth who, says the New York Tribune, went into an art gallery and asked for a painting of a certain size.

"I have just what you want," said the dealer.

He showed her a beautiful animal painting, but she looked at it for a few minutes and then shook her head.

"It won't do," she said. "I want this picture for my drawing room."

"But it's a beautiful thing," ventured the dealer.

"Not for a drawing room," announced the woman conclusively. "You couldn't have a cow in a drawing room!"

Are Women Too Restless?

The women of this generation are undoubtedly suffering from too much occupation. The listless, bored, discontented, unsettled girl of twenty years ago has given place to the restless, energetic and positively desperate business woman thirsting for fresh outlets for enterprise. We are caught up in the whirlwind of modern unrest, and we imagine we are happy because we have no time to think of anything to the contrary.—Exchange.

VERY FINE PHOTO OF NO. 8 COMPANY

Mr. L. A. Turners' Artistic Work in Group Photography.

A very fine group photograph of Company No. 8 of the 57th Regiment is on exhibition in Mr. R. McWhinnie's window on George street. The picture is the work of Mr. L. A. Turner, photographer, whose excellent work has of late brought him prominently before the public and he is establishing for himself an enviable reputation ab an artist of superior ability. The picture is 26 inches by 34 inches in size and is enclosed in a beautiful oak frame of four inch border. In the centre of the group appear the crossed rifles with helmet and bayonet and adjoining these are four of the officers, Capt. A. W. McPherson, Lieutenants R. M. Glover, F. A. Clarke and J. M. Hamilton. In each corner is one of the four Sergeants, each with his section of six men. With one roster the group makes a total of 53 in the picture. The individual work is of high order, while the grouping has been done with artistic taste. The work certainly a great credit to Mr. Turner. The picture will be presented to the Company and will be on exhibition in the Armouries.

MEASUREMENTS FOR UNDERGROUND CABLE

Canadian Machine Telephone Co's Plant Nearing Completion.

The Canadaian Machine Telephone Company, will, judging by present indications, make good their expressed intention to have their service in operation by the first of January. The underground work has been finished, and Thursday Mr. Nevel, Canadian superintendent of the Standard Underground Cable Company, was in town taking measurements for the cables which the company is making for the local system. The visitor, who is a man well versed in the work of underground conduit work, expressed his opinion regarding the quality of the work done here, and said that it was equal in every respect to any he had seen anywhere.

The cables will arrive as soon as they can be cut to the measurements made, and the men will be sent by the Cable Company to place them in the ducts as soon as they arrive here, which will probably be in the course of a few days.

The work is being pushed forward with all possible speed, with also a due regard to efficiency, which is never sacrificed to speed.

RESOLUTION OF APPRECIATION.

Adopted by Liberals of West Peterborough.

In This Afternoon's Meeting Regret was Expressed at Hon. Mr. Stratton's Retirement—Meeting to Appoint Delegates.

This afternoon the Liberals of West Peterborough, gathered in the Committee Rooms, Simcoe street, for the purpose of appointing delegates to attend the great Provincial Convention to be held in Toronto next week. This convention idea is being enthusiastically received by the local Liberals, as it is by supporters of the party throughout the Province.

This afternoon's meeting was attended by members of the party, not only from Peterborough itself, but from all parts of the riding, and the same enthusiastic interest was shown by the representatives from the rural districts as by those from the town itself.

Mayor Roger was the chairman of this afternoon's meeting, and in opening it he addressed a few remarks to those present, explaining the object of the meeting, and expressing, amid applause, his confidence in the leadership of Hon. G. W. Ross, and confidence in the outcome of the next Provincial elections.

The chairman referred to the resignation of Hon. Mr. Stratton, which news would be received with great regret, for no man could find fault with his representation of West Peterborough. No one could possibly have done more for the riding. He thought that the riding should be well represented at the convention, to show the Premier that the party in West Peterborough were behind him, and that they had faith in him.

RESOLUTION OF APPRECIATION.

Mr. F. D. Kerr then moved the following resolution, which was seconded by Mr. John O'Brien, and enthusiastically adopted by the meeting. In moving the adoption of the resolution Mr. Kerr felt as the chairman had said the Liberals of West Peterborough deeply regretted the retirement of Hon. J. R. Stratton, and in seconding it, Mr. O'Brien also expressed regret that Mr. Stratton had found it necessary, for business reason, to retire:

"That this meeting of West Peterborough Liberals desires to most emphatically express its regret at the announced decision of Hon. J. R. Stratton to retire from office, and from the representation of this riding, by which the province loses the services of one of its most capable administrators, and this riding the benefit of a continuation of the splendid services he has rendered this constituency and district as its representative, for which on behalf of the electorate at large, it is desired to express the warmest recognition; and also to express the hope and wish that Hon. Mr. Stratton may be induced to reconsider his decision, believing that in the expression of both regret and wish, this meeting voices the heartfelt sentiments of the great mass of the people of West Peterborough; and that the secretary of this meeting be requested to forward to Hon. Mr. Stratton a copy of this resolution."

The next business was the appointing of delegates to the Toronto convention, a list of whom will be published later.

CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

Having purchased Mr. W. H. Knapp's interest in the Hotel Balmoral, I have entered into full possession and beg leave to respectfully solicit a share of the patronage of the Peterborough public.

With the view of giving assurance that the hotel and premises will be thoroughly equipped and refitted up to the requirements of a first-class house, it has been made conditional that improvements will be inaugurated at once on a scale sufficient to ensure the accomplishment of this object.

The fact that a series of changes in the proprietorship of this hotel has taken place within a comparatively short period, will not, I trust, be allowed to militate against the success of the new management.

"HOME, SWEET HOME"

THE TRUE HISTORY OF THE AUTHOR OF THE FAMOUS SONG.

Howard Paul Tells the Tale of the Life of Howard Payne, Who Wrote the Song That Is the Property of the Home-Loving of All Nations—Corrects the Myth That Payne Was Without a Home.

Howard Paul thus writes in Lloyd's Weekly Newspaper of London, England:

It is no exaggeration to state that the song "Home, Sweet Home" is known in every part of the world where the English language is spoken, and it is a curious fact that a stock paragraph has been going round England and the United States for many years to the effect that the author of the simple, touching lyric "never had a home, but was a wanderer on the face of the earth."

As a relative of Howard Payne, knowing him well, and having seen him frequently in my youth, I beg to state that he always had a home, and though by no means a man of wealth he was comfortably off, and died when filling the position of consul of the United States at Tunis. A man occupying that post cannot be said to be either improvished or homeless.

One day in New York I asked Mr. Payne to tell me the origin of "Home, Sweet Home." "I first heard the air in Italy," he replied. "I was staying at Florence at the time, and during a stroll in the country I heard a peasant girl—a contadina—singing a tune that struck me as exceedingly pretty. She had a peculiarly penetrating, musical voice, and was carrying a basket of flowers to market. I purchased a nosegay, and asked her the name of the tune she had been singing. She did not know. I begged her to repeat it, which she did, and I dotted down the notes as nearly as I could catch them. Just at that time I was writing a play called Clari, the Maid of Milan, for Covent Garden, and I wrote the words to the melody, and sent them to Sir Henry Bishop, who recognized the tune as a Sicilian folk-song, a copy of which he fortunately possessed. He was engaged by Charles Kemble, the manager of Covent Garden, to arrange the music for my play, and the song about home proved an instant success. I sold it after it had been sung some weeks to a publisher for fifty pounds, and I was afterwards told that the profits from this one song were quite two thousand pounds. It was sung in the play by Miss Tree, sister of Miss Ellen Tree, who afterwards became the wife of Charles Kean, the tragedian, who for many years was the lessee of the London Princess's Theatre. Mr. Payne told me that after the lyric had become fixed in the public mind the great opera singers of their period—Pasta and Malibran—introduced "Home, Sweet Home" in their program at concerts; so Patti and Melba, who often do the same to-day, are only following illustrious precedents.

Howard Payne was born in New York, where, as a lad, he was taught elocution, and he displayed so much talent in that direction that his parents were induced to permit him to appear at a theatre as Young Norval and Romeo, which he did with remarkable success. A few years later, when about 22 years of age, he came to England, and after playing the two characters named above in provincial circuits he settled down in London and was engaged by Charles Kemble to adapt French plays to the English stage, and there are at least fifty published of which he may be said to be part author.

His most important original work—the one that has held the stage—is the tragedy of Brutus, which he wrote for Edmund Kean somewhere towards the end of the brilliant career of that erratic genius. The play was produced at Drury Lane and ran several weeks, which in those far-away days was considered a triumphant career. Kean often revived the play, and it was a fixture in his farewell provincial starring tours. He presented Mr. Payne with a handsome gold-headed cane with a complimentary inscription engraved thereon, which the author dearly prized, and which the writer of this sketch saw in New York just before Mr. Payne started on his final visit to Tunis to occupy his post as consul.

Mr. Payne saw Edmund Kean in most of his important impersonations, and frequently saw the great tragic actor Talma during his visits to Paris in search of available plays for the English theatres. He was of the opinion that Kean in intensity and in an impressive electric power that stirred an audience to absolute enthusiasm was superior to the French actor, but admired the latter's elocution, grace and ease, which Kean did not possess. Mr. Payne greatly lamented the English actor's convivial habits. They weakened his powers to such an extent that he was an object of undisguised pity to playgoers who remembered him in his earlier days. Very frequently after his greatest triumphs at Drury Lane he would retire to a neighboring hostelry and finish the night with boon companions—a sure method of self-destruction.

During a prolonged visit to Paris Mr. Payne had as a room-mate Washington Irving, and for a time Fenimore Cooper, the novelist, lodged in the same house. "Irving, Cooper, and I, all Americans, frequently dined together," said Mr. Payne; "and we had interesting talks. Irving had been to Sapin, and used to delight and astonish us with legends of the Alhambra and accounts of the Prado, which contained noble canvasses by Titian, Rubens, Van Dyck and Murillo. He was a devoted admirer of Velasquez, calling him the "Prince of Painters;" whose marvellous art was one of balance, moderation, and self-control. His aim was the perfection that lies in reason and moderation."

It is somewhat of a coincidence that these three literary men and close friends, Payne, Irving and Fenimore Cooper, all died within a year or two of each other. On Mr. Payne's death his body was laid to rest in St. George's Cemetery at Tunis. It was afterwards exhumed in 1883, and taken to Washington by the representatives of Mr. Corcoran, a wealthy banker. After lying in state, with considerable ceremony, his honored dust was conveyed to the spot—Oak Hill, near Washington—where it now reposes. The funeral was attended by the then President of the United States, the members of his Cabinet, and many citizens of note. As the start was made for the cemetery, the Marine band, led by Mr. Sousa, played "Home, Sweet Home," and at the graveside a philharmonic society sang the poet's world-famed song.

LIVED IN FIVE REIGNS.

Parish Clerk's Memories of the Battle of Waterloo.

Mr. James Carne, the veteran verger and parish clerk of St. Columb Minor, in Cornwall, related recently to a Daily Chronicle representative a few incidents of an interesting life that covers a period of nearly 100 years. Mr. Carne has lived in the reigns of five sovereigns. He was born soon after Trafalgar was won, and was nine years old when Waterloo was fought. He admits that he cannot grumble at the length of his days and the excellence of his health. The connection of Mr. Carne's family with St. Columb Minor covers a period of about 160 years. His grandfather served as verger and parish clerk for nearly 50 years; his father held office for 54 years; and Mr. Carne has performed the duties for nearly 60 years.

Most of his life has been spent in the quiet village two miles from the now popular health resort of Newquay, and during his long term of office he has missed attending service at the church only once, and that was when his wife died. Events of the days of the Georges are almost as fresh in the old man's memory as those of the present century. He recalls the time of the late Queen Victoria's birth, and her accession and coronation. Talking with him, or seeing him walk as firmly as a man of 40, it is difficult to believe that he has lived for nearly a century. A little deafness, scarcely noticeable, is almost his only affliction. The old gentleman delights in recalling incidents of West Country wrestling and other manly sports that were the delight of the countryside in the days of his youth, and speaks of one particular match with all the enthusiasm of a boy. Regarding Waterloo, although he has a lively recollection of the time, he cannot remember how and by what means the news reached his quiet village.

Speaking of the development of Newquay, he remembered the time when there were only about twenty houses there, two or three of which belonged to his father. These, unfortunately, were sold before the building boom set in. If they had been retained by his family, "they would have been worth some money now," he remarked. As a special favor to the interviewer Mr. Carne sang a verse of a song for singing which a man "nearly got locked up" when he was a youth. As his interviewer was leaving him the veteran remarked, "I'm the best man in the county"—with the reservation—"at my age."

Shakespeare's Bible.

A deep interest will attach to the sale, at Sotheby's, of "Shakespeare's own Bible," especially if experts agree to admit the genuineness of either or both the signatures. There are extant only two or three signatures of the Bard that are unquestionably his, and to possess the Book of Books, with his name written by his own hand, would be a treasure indeed. It is certain that the Bible to be offered is not that from which Shakespeare learnt his Scripture knowledge. It was apparently printed in 1618, and bears the imprint of the second edition of King James' Bible, our authorized version, the first issue of which was in 1611. In 1611 Shakespeare's dramatic work was done. It is doubtful if anything proceeded from his pen after that date except, perhaps, "Henry VIII.," which is only in part his, "The Tempest" and "Cymbeline." But, apart from this consideration, there is now little if any doubt that the Bible of the poet's youth and manhood was the Genevan version turned into English by the Reformers, first smuggled into this country in 1567, and afterwards freely and widely distributed. It was translated by Coverdale, Whittingham, Gilby, Goodman, Sampson Cole, and probably John Knox. Being cheap and specially favored by the Puritans, no fewer than 160 editions passed into circulation between 1560 and the Civil war. The Bibles which Shakespeare might have known were Coverdale's, the Bishops Wyclif's, Tyndale's, Cranmers, the Rheims New Testament, and the Genevan; but the Rev. Dr. Carter, of Croydon, has proven almost beyond controversy that the version he actually knew and referred to was the Genevan.

Granting that the Genevan Bible was in all probability that from which the great dramatist learnt his earliest Scripture lessons, this in no way invalidates the belief that when the Authorized Version appeared he bought a copy.

Largest Troopship Built.

The Dufferin, a troopship of the Indian Government, has just been launched at Barrow from the yard of Messrs. Vickers, Sons & Maxim. She is 435 feet long, and is the largest troopship afloat. At short notice the Dufferin can be converted into an armed cruiser, having eight 4.7 guns and eight 3-pounder quick-firers. There is accommodation for 1,250 officers and men, with their wives and families. The speed of the vessel will be 18½ knots.

Obstinate Boer Prisoners.

Great Britain's camp in Ceylon for Boer prisoners of war was broken up some months ago. Five men ont of the 5,000 originally interned in the island refused to take the oath of declaration of allegiance and at the same time refused to proceed elsewhere than to South Africa. They were released in the island, but informed that the government was at any time ready to provide them with a passage to any place except South Africa or to South Africa if they would declare allegience. Two of the five subsequently complied with the condition and were repatriated. One of the last three has died in the island.

Measuring Dew.

The measurement of dew has always been difficult because of the fact that no method heretofore has given exact results. M. Ferb describes a new sort of drosometer which has given satisfactory results and which is composed of a piece of paper which has been put through a special preparation and dipped in a chemical solution. This paper is exposed in a box placed during the night on the ground, the quantity of dew being indicated by the discoloration of the paper. A scale of tints is determined experimentally which is used for the purpose of comparison.

Rich Beggars.

In their efforts to secure cordial relations with the people of Tibet the British forces in Lassa distributed silver coins to the poor of that city. It is a striking testimony to the prosperity of the country that a number of the recipients were covered with jewels, while one drove up on a mule to get his share of the shillings. The Tibetans expressed their gratitude for the dole by putting out the tongue and holding up the fingers.

Two Modern Instances.

I.

An automobile broke down. The chauffeur tried to find out what was the matter with it, but could not, and the occupants of the vehicle had to get out and walk.

"Get a horse!" yelled the crowd.

II.

A horse balked. The driver tried every plan he knew of to start the animal, but it wouldn't budge.

"Get an automobile!" yelled the fickle crowd.

The Art of True Deduction.

Mary, the searcher after information, was poring over a large book she had seen her father reading the evening before.

"P-h-i-l-o-s-o-p-h-e-r," she spelled laboriously. Then, after a moment's internal struggle, she added: "Philosopher. What's that, Tommy?"

"Huh," snorted that prodigy. "Sh'd think you'd know. Man who rides a philosophede."

Subtle but Costly Vengeance.

Mrs. Neyborly—What on earth are you going to invite that odious Mrs. Smithkins to your swell dinner for? I thought you hated her.

Mrs. Sweething—Do you suppose I'm going to give a twenty dollar a plate dinner and not make her see me act as hostess at it?

What They Object To.

New Woman—Is there any good reason why there should not be female lawyers, female congressmen or female senators?

Meek Man—None whatever. What people object to is female gentlemen.

A Great Doctor's Opinion

The Pope's Physician Endorses a Canadian Medicine.

Dr. Lapponi Uses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in His Practice Because Results Meet His Expectations.

DR. GIUSEPPE LAPPONI.

In the realm of medical science there is probably no better known or more respected name than that of Dr. Lapponi, the trusted physician of the Vatican. He is loved and esteemed throughout the entire Catholic world for his unwearying attention to His Holiness, the late Pope Leo XIII. He is the esteemed physician of the present Pope, His Holiness Pius X. But above all he is a man of commanding genius and a fearless exponent of views which he holds as right. He is not afraid of so-called professional "etiquette," and having used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in his practice with good results, he freely avows the facts and endorses the great Canadian medicine with an authority which no one will venture to question.

DR. LAPPONI'S LETTER.

"I certify that I have tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in four cases of simple anaemia of development. After a few weeks of treatment the result came fully up to my expectations. For that reason I shall not fail in the future to extend the use of this laudable preparation, not only in the treatment of other morbid forms of the category of anaemia or chlorosis, but also in cases of neurasthenia and the like

(Signed,) DR. GIUSEPPE LAPPONI,
"Via dei Graceni 331, Rome."

The "simple anaemia of development" referred to by Dr. Lapponi, is, of course, just tired, languid, bloodless condition of young girls, whose development to womanhood is tardy and whose health at that period is so often imperiled. His opinion of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at that time is of the highest scientific authority and it confirms the many published cases which prove that these pills cure anaemia and other diseases of the blood and nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new, rich, red blood, and the new blood goes right to the root of the trouble and cures such diseases as indigestion, rheumatism, kidney troubles, general weakness, nervousness, neuralgia, and the ailments which afflict women alone. But you must get the genuine pills which Dr. Lapponi praises, and these always have the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," printed on the wrapper around each box.

THE FINAL INSULT.

One Thing She Would Not Let Go by Unnoticed.

"He is furious with you," said the girl with the red pompadour.

The girl with the retrousse nose only smiled as she turned to the mirror and caught up a stray lock of hair with a gilt hairpin.

"He said," went on the girl with the red pompadour, "that you were utterly devoid of principle and intensely vain and horribly selfish."

"Did he?" giggled the girl with the retrousse nose, craning her neck to see if her collar was quite straight at the back.

"Yes, and he is telling it about that your father is not half as rich as people fancy and that your family came originally from Kansas, where your grandfather ran a—a—I forget what they call it, where they sell beer and things, and that there is a discrepancy in your coat of arms and that he taught you all you know about art and that you never read anything but paper covered novels and didn't know an ism from an ology until he met you and"—

"Oh, well," interrupted the girl with the retrousse nose, taking a bundle of pins out of her mouth and serenely pulling in the lacings of her girdle, "he feels terribly cut up, poor boy, since I—since we—ceased to—well, since it has been all off. You can't blame him for saying some spiteful things, and everybody knows they aren't true."

"Of course," agreed the girl with the red pompadour, "and that is what I told Edwin. There isn't a single word of truth in what he has said, even that you wear No. 7 boots and have your frocks cut long to hide them and"—

"Did he say that?" gasped the girl with the retrousse nose, dropping the powder puff in the midst of powdering her nose and turning wrathfully upon her companion.

"Why, yes," replied the girl with the red pompadour hastily. "But you surely don't blame him. You know you did treat him rather shabbily, Madeline, and"—

"I said," cried the irate girl with the retrousse nose, bringing the hairbrush emphatically down upon the corner of the dressing table, "that I didn't blame him or at least could forgive him for attacking my character and my veracity and my education and my common sense and my ancestry and my father and grandfather, but when he maligns my feet—my feet— Stella Carter, it's more than any woman could bear. I'm going to punish him!"

No Johnny In It.

Mrs. C. was visiting a neighbor who had a bright boy of four years. When she was ready to go home she asked the little fellow to accompany her and stay to tea.

"And we will have johnnycake," added Mrs. C. to clinch the argument.

The child had never heard corn cake called by this name, and he expected something very fine, but was disappointed as he watched her make it just as his mother made corn cake. When it was ready to go in the oven Mrs. C. said:

"Artie, as soon as it bakes we will have our tea."

But the little fellow thought there must be a great mistake, and he caught hold of Mrs. C.'s dress and, with eyes and mouth opened wide, gasped out:

"Oh, Mrs. C., you've forgot to put the Johnny in!"

An Unfortunate Omission.

Hicks—There is one thing that these schools of elocution ought to teach and don't.

Wicks—What's that?"

Hicks—They don't teach their pupils when they ought to decline positively to give a recitation.

Better Late Than Never.

"Did you know your husband long before you married him?" asked the casual female acquaintance.

"No," answered the bride whose honeymoon was on the toboggan, "but I'm beginning to find him out now—after midnight."

Just Like Human Beings.

The animals of the jungle were giving a play.

When the monkey comedian cut his capers the lions roared, but a woodpecker began to knock and several snakes were heard hissing.

TOOK A SEVERE COLD.

It Settled In The Kidneys.

Pain In The Back The Result.

Catching cold and having it settle in the back is often the cause of Backache—the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches it is a warning that the kidneys are liable to become affected.

Heed the warning: check the Backache, and dispose of any chance of further trouble.

If you don't, serious complications are very apt to arise. Mrs. E. Williams, Hamilton, Ont., caught cold, and it settled in her kidneys. She used and is thankful for the immediate relief they gave her. She writes us as follows:

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS,

"It is with pleasure that I add my testimony in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. Some time ago I took a severe cold, which settled in my kidneys. The soreness and pain in the small of my back bothered me greatly. After suffering for some months, and finding numerous remedies fail, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and received immediate relief from my sufferings.

Doan's Kidney Pills may be procured at all dealers, or will be sent direct by mail on receipt of price—

Unto the Third Generation

By CICELY ALLEN

Copyright, 1904, by M. Wood

Francesca climbed the stairs with dragging steps. Dick caught up with her and supported her elbow with his strong, firm hand. It was good to feel his support, his presence, even though she had grown somewhat accustomed to it, and she turned to him with a wan smile.

At the head of the first flight of stairs they turned into Mrs. Miller's little sitting room, and Francesca dropped wearily into the low rocker by the window. Dick sat on the window ledge swinging his feet. His hall bedroom was on the floor above. Francesca had the room next to Mrs. Miller's, but since their engagement had been announced the good natured landlady had rather turned her little sitting room over to their use.

"In my days young folks didn't have to do their courting in the park, and I don't think it's right, and proper," she had said in explanation to her oldest boarder, a crusty bachelor.

And now the two young people sat in the twilight, typifying the two sections of the country from which they had come—Francesca, gentle, clinging and drooping in the fierce struggle for existence in the great northern city, shrinking from the clamor of trains overhead, the clang of surface cars at her side and longing for the mellow moonlight and the voice of the nightingale in her old southern home; Dick, alert, quick, fascinated by the opportunities which had drawn him from a midwest farm. He had brought nervous energy and strong, vigorous blood, and New York loves to sap and live off them both. They had met on the commercial highway and loved. At least Dick was quite sure of it on his side. Tonight—well, Francesca hardly knew what was wrong tonight.

"A whole day to ourselves tomorrow, sweetheart," he was saying.

"Yes," replied Francesca bitterly. "That's what all the girls were saying today. You'd think we were slaves—and—well, we are!"

Dick looked at her in surprise. Then he spoke cheerily.

"Well, we shan't be always. Do you know, Francesca, that little venture in real estate is coming out all right. I could have sold my share today at a net gain of a thousand. But I think I'll hang on until we're married, and we'll build on the corner lot."

"And you'll be a commuter, and I'll die of loneliness through the day."

Dick eyed her anxiously.

"Things go wrong at the shop? Well, never mind. Tomorrow we'll have the whole day"—

"Don't say that again," she commanded, then corrected herself quickly. "I mean, where shall we go?"

"If you don't mind, I'd like to take a few flowers out to one of the cemeteries." Then, seeing the surprise in her face, he added hastily: "Not that I've any one buried around here, only at home on Memorial day we always put flowers on the soldiers' graves, and I guess we can find plenty of 'em around here. Then we'll go down to one of the beaches on the boat. We won't get off. Just take the water ride."

Francesca's hands were clasped tightly over her crossed knees.

"You can do as you like. I'll never decorate a Federal soldier's grave, Dick Merrill, never! If it hadn't been for that war I'd not be in this dreadful, dreadful city working—working like a slave for $15 a week, with girls who don't know how to dress, to talk, to act. My people always had money, but my grandfather was killed in your war. My father could not regain what the war had swept away. He died struggling with the problem, and my mother followed him with a broken heart. I hate the north, even though I had to come and ask it for bread. And you ask me to decorate the graves of men who devastated my home!".

"I didn't think, Francesca, dear; honestly I didn't. You see, we've always kept the day. My folks fought on the other side, and then I guess I'm a bit old fashioned. It seems natural to go to the cemetery, and I didn't think of how you might feel."

"That's it. You didn't think. You'll never understand me," the girl said in low, passionate tones. "There's the Mason and Dixon line between us. You northern men are so different. You're all business and dollars. You get us southern girls up here and grind our lives out."

Dick looked serious now, but he forced a smile.

"If the north had not claimed your talents, dear, we would never have met," he said, and it was her cue to soften, but she did not take it.

"Oh, I hate it! I hate it—the air, the noise, the rush! It has no compensations."

She did not mean it just that way, but Dick took the words literally. He stood up suddenly and very straight.

"I am sorry, Francesca, that you think I cannot make you happy."

And when she looked up he had left the room so quietly that she could hardly believe the move had been taken by vigorous, stalwart Dick Merrill.

* * * * * * *

She did not come down to breakfast the next morning, and when Mrs. Miller appeared at her bedside with a cup of coffee and some golden brown toast the sound of muffled drums in the distance told her that the parade was in motion.

"Dear me, sus, but the house seems quiet! It's funny how all New York does make the most of a holiday. Mr. Merrill said you weren't feeling well, but I think it would have done you good to go out."

Francesca sipped at her coffee without replying.

"Seems as if I just must go myself, but Lizzie, she was set on taking the day off, and she's such a good help I didn't want to cross her, but I do hate to miss going to the cemetery. Isn't it funny, Mr. Merrill and I coming from the same town? I knew just how he felt this morning when he said he'd go out and decorate some graves. We always did it at home, with the G. A. R. at the head of the procession and the children carrying the flowers and wreaths. I didn't lose anybody close in the war, as near as I can remember, but it meant a lot to Dick Merrill's folks."

Francesca looked up suddenly.

"Ain't he ever told you?" Mrs. Miller said in surprise. "Well, mebbe he thought the war was a tender subject with you southerners. Why, his grandfather enlisted and took his three boys with him. All four of 'em are buried among the unknown dead somewheres south of the Mason and Dixon line. Mary Ann Merrill—that's Dick's mother—she somehow couldn't make things go, and she wound up in the poor farm. Yes, there were plenty of folks that took to the poor farms after the war. But Dick, he wasn't the kind to stay there. Blood will tell, and he had more of his father's blood than his mother's in him. When I see him, so straight and good looking, so well dressed and carrying himself as if he expected to own New York before he got done, I say that blood will tell every time. There's some folks that even having their whole family wiped out by the war won't down, and that's the sort Dick is. My laws, there's that bell again! Don't you want any more toast? Well, you'd better come down after awhile and we'll have a little lunch. None of the boarders will be home before dinner time."

But one of the boarders did come in very soon. He had a florist's box in his hand, and he walked quietly into Mrs. Miller's sitting room, where Francesca, looking a bit pale from her headache, but very sweet and gentle, rose at his entrance.

"Oh, Dick, have you come back for me? Is it too late to go?"

"I guess we won't go, Francesca. You see, I didn't understand—and these are violets for you instead."

"Oh, but we will go, you and I together, dear. It was I who didn't understand, and we must have common interests, dear heart. We can't afford to let the old feud come between us of the third generation. We'll scatter those violets over the graves of the unknown dead."

And so they went forth into the beautiful spring sunlight, and Mrs. Miller, peeping from behind the curtains of the basement, smiled as if sight of them had made the whole day glad for her.

The English Face.

It was an American who, meeting an Englishman in a country hotel in the States, opened conversation sympathetically with the words: "Cheer up! It may not be true, and if it is true it may be all for the best." And he was surprised to find that the Briton's look of acute gloom was normal and not the result of any more than ordinarily bad news. The prevailing notion of the American with regard to the Englishman is that he looks "as if his only friend on earth was a yellow dog, and he had lost the dog." For years the inhabitants of the States have been scrutinizing the faces of British visitors to try to ascertain whether their resigned expression is due to a recent bereavement, confirmed misanthropy or simply to supercilliousness. According to a weekly paper, some Americans attribute the English face to the English climate. "They did not look actually sad," said an American lady to the writer, "or happy or preoccupied, but they one and all had an expression of resignation—the only state of mind possible with an English climate." This is an ingenious explanation. Centuries of rain and years of fog may have had their effect on our looks. There is, indeed, a certain dignity in the idea.—London Globe.

Try Gin Pills at our expense

We want every man and woman in Canada who suffers from Kidney and Bladder Troubles, to write us for a free sample of Gin Pills.

We want everyone who has sick friends to send us their names and addresses, that we may mail them, free of charge, a sample box of Gin Pills.

100,000 Sample Boxes Given Away.

There are hundreds who are martyrs to Kidney Trouble, having tried everything else without relief. There are dozens in every town who may have Kidney Trouble without knowing it. If you are pale—losing flesh—can't sleep—no appetite—if you constantly desire to urinate—if the urine is scanty, burning or highly colored—if the feet and hands are swollen—if the eyesight is dimmed—if there are frequent pains in the back, through the hips and legs—then you have the most positive symptoms of Kidney Trouble.

These are the people, we hope, who will send in their names that Gin Pills may cure them.

What They Are

Each Gin Pill contains the medicinal properties of one and one-half ounces of best Holland Gin. The harmful substances—and the alcohol—are left out. These medicinal principles are combined with several other remedies of exceptional value—and the whole made up in the form of a small, pleasant pill. These are the famous Gin Pills that have the largest sale—and the greatest number of cures to their credit—of any Kidney and Bladder remedy, ever introduced in Canada.

What They Do

Gin Pills cure "Colt on the Kidneys," Inflammation of the Kidneys, Uric Acid, causing Gout and Rheumatism, Ulceration and Inflammation of the Bladder, Painful and Suppressed Urine, constant desire to urinate, Gravel or Stone in the Bladder, and all other troubles caused by sick Kidneys and Bladder. They never fail to relieve the sharp, shooting pain, make urination easy, natural and regular, strengthen the organs and effect a speedy and permanent cure.

Won't you try Gin Pills at our expense? It costs nothing. Simply a post card. Ask us to send a sample box free—say in what paper you saw this advertisement—and sign your name and address. Do it to-day—NOW.

One of Tyndall's Heroic Experiments

In 1864 Tyndall performed the experiment of separating light from heat. In the course of the investigations which enabled him to do this he made one of the most daring experiments that ever a scientific man ventured on.

Knowing a layer of iodine placed before the eye intercepted the light, he determined to place his own eye in the focus of strong invisible rays. He knew that if in doing so the dark rays were absorbed in a high degree by the humors of the eyes the albumen of the humors might coagulate, and, on the other hand, if there was no high absorption the rays might strike upon the retina with a force sufficient to destroy it. When he first brought his eye undefended near the dark focus the heat on the parts surrounding the pupil was too intense to be endured. He therefore made an aperture in the plate of the metal and, placing his eye behind this aperture, he gradually approached the point of convergence of the invisible rays. First the pupil and next the retina were placed in the focus without any sensible damage. Immediately afterward a sheet of platinum foil placed in the position which the retina had occupied became red hot.

Fatalism.

"Pa, what's a fatalist?"

"A fatalist, my boy, is a man who thinks that if it is his fate to get rich he will become so without trying."

"Well, pa, do fatalists ever get rich?"

"Never, my boy."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Got What She Asked For.

A leading lady touring the small towns told her landlady to get a crab for supper and not to sit up for her. She would not require her. The landlady very thankfully assented, as she had to rise early each morning.

However, on reaching home she found the worthy landlady up.

"Why," she said, "didn't you go to bed?"

"I couldn't, ma'am, I couldn't. The dratted thing would keep jumping off the table."

She had bought a live crab, and the unfortunate animal had crawled off the dish, fallen to the floor and had been restored to the dish by the landlady several times.

Now, if you want to arouse a shudder of disgust in that lady just mention "crab" as an appetizing supper.—London Era.

MONSTER SPIDERS.

Some of the Bird Eaters Are Nearly as Big as a Rat.

The bird eating spiders of South America, Africa and Australia are beasts of prey worthy of their tropical jungles. Their appearance is repulsive. They are of immense size. Some which have been caught have been nearly as big as a rat. They are of a dark, dingy color, either quiet black or brown verging upon black, and the hair with which they are covered is mixed with short, coarse bristles.

Like other beasts of prey of tropical forests, they are essentially creatures of the night. During the day many of them hide in some natural crevice in the ground. The more indolent or ambitious pick out a promising hole in a fallen trunk or in a living tree and line it with a soft, delicate web. Others elaborately spin for themselves a long tube in which they lie concealed throughout the day.

Curiously enough, they reserve their spinning powers for their nest building, entirely disdaining the use of webs for the trapping of their prey. Their feeding time is at night. They go out to seek their food, prepare to leap upon and devour any living creature that they come across. Their name comes from the fact that they have been found in the act of devouring small newly killed birds clutched closely between their hairy claws.

Have You One of Those Can't Taste, Can't Smell Colds?

If you have you had better get rid of it immediately. If you don't, that terrible and disgusting malady, Catarrh, is sure to take hold of you and make you miserable, and an object of repugnance to your friends. The best and quickest cure for your cold is

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP.

It contains all the virtues of the Norway Pine Tree, combined with Wild Cherry Bark and the soothing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Mr. Harry Mosher, Mosher's Island, N.S., writes:—"We have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in our family for the past six years, and have always found it a reliable remedy for the cure of coughs and colds."

Many cases of substitution have been brought to our notice. Do not be humbugged into taking any other pine syrup which unscrupulous dealers say is just as good.

Dr. Wood's is the original, put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark, and the price 25 cents.

The Title of King.

The title of king is a shortened form of the Saxon "cyning," which can be traced back to the Sanskirt "ganaka," a father. This word "ganaka" is used with the meaning of king in the Rig-Veda, the most ancient part of the sacred books of the Hindoos. The age of the Rig-Veda is not known with certainty, but it can hardly be less than 3,000 years, and it may be 4,000 years.

The father came to be called the king because in the process of social organization the family existed before the state, and the term was extended step by step from the family to the tribe and from the tribe to the nation. Another name for king found in the Rig-Veda is "rag." It means a leader, or perhaps steersman. It appears in the Latin "rex" and has thence descended to the French "roi" and to the Italian and Spanish "re."

Shopping Traits.

A London paper quotes a shopgirl as saying that the Englishwoman can generally be persuaded to take this or that, whether she wants it or not, and that she does not often see that she gets value for her money. The English are also courteous and considerate. It appears that Americans, on the other hand, give the greatest trouble of all. They are afraid of being cheated, they want to make sure before they buy that they could not get the same thing for less money elsewhere, and they are never courteous. As shoppers it is Frenchwomen, however, who command the greatest admiration, we are told. They always know exactly what they want and will take nothing else.

The Throne of Persia.

Probably no ruler of modern times has a throne of such barbaric splendor as the shah of Persia. It is said to be shaped like a bed, nine feet in length by four in height, and is high enough to require three steps to enter. The body, steps and legs (which resemble elephants' trunks) are heavily lacquered in gold and incrusted with jewels, says the Upholsterer. On the gold embroidered rug rests a gold chair, behind which rises a sunburst of diamonds with a jeweled bird on either side.

How She Was Won.

Old Friend—So you have at last consented to marry some one. How did it happen? Miss Flippant—Well, every man that has ever proposed before has said, "Will you be my wife?" But Harold asked if he might have the honor of being my husband.

SOMETHING ABOUT SHOOTING GAME

A Peterborough Lady's Exploits With the Rifle.

Thanksgiving Day Nimrods and Their Prowess.

Many persons spent Thanksgiving Day in the gentle work of killing—or to be more literally correct—trying to kill game. None of these were ladies, but it is interesting to note that Peterborough has bred a lady marksman, of undeniable skill.

The Toronto papers have recently gone into mild hysterics over the exploits of a Toronto lady on the deer runs, but in the matter of expert marksmanship the Examiner is willing to match a Peterborough lady against the Toronto dame. A Fifth Ward lady who has spent some time in Northern Ontario recently revisited the town and is still here. She has been telling some pretty stiff stories of her success in the game woods, such as bringing down big bags of partridge with her trusty gun—on one occasion five partridge in an hour. To justify their unrestricted the lady's friends proposed a shooting match and this was arranged for Thursday. A foot square target, with a two-inch bullseye was set up at fifty yards. To make the match interesting each contestant contributed a small coin to a pool which was to go to the winner. The result of the first round was that this lady won three events and a male marksman one. This was shot off and the lady succeeded in winning easily and pocketed the pool. The name of this Diana in petticoats is withheld as she is as modest as she is skillful with her "22-short."

There were also many excursions into the surrounding country, one party has reported moderate success—in wasting ammunition and in winning the approval of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. One prominent young newspaper man had a thrilling experience, resulting in a fatal accident. During his rambles through the Cavan Swamp, he espied two inoffensive red-squirrels chattering merrily in the tops of two adjacent trees—about ten yards apart. He drew a bead on one of the squirrels, fired and failed; fired again and failed again. At the third essay the young man, who is not of a truculent nature, but is credited with having a tender heart—for the ladies—was horrified to see the squirrel on top the tree opposite that at which he was aiming, fall to the ground writhing in its death agony. Another young man not unconnected with the hardware trade, carrying a Winner rifle, a relative's spoil taken from the side of a dead Boer in South Africa, fired about forty rounds at various inanimate objects, with no other results than noise and smoke and that tired feeling in his rifle shoulder. Another young newspaper man reports having had better luck, but as he is intimate with the official liar of the C.G.E. Angling Club, and also chums with a law student, his statements are to be accepted with a barrel or two of salt.

MR. LAWLESS IN BALMORAL.

Toronto Man has Purchased the Business From Mr. W. H. Knapp.

The New Proprietor a man of Wide Experience—Manager of the Lambton Golf and County Club.

On Wednesday the proprietorship of the Balmoral Hotel changed hands, Mr. W. H. Knapp, who for some months has conducted the business selling out to Mr. J. A. Lawless, of Toronto, and the new proprietor took control of the business on the day above mentioned.

Mr. Lawless, by reason of his past experience along this line, is eminently qualified to conduct the business in a way which should make the hotel under his management a very popular one. Prior to his coming to Peterborough, and for the last two seasons Mr. Lawless held the dual office of steward and secretary of the Lambton Golf and Country Club, of Toronto, one of the largest and best conducted clubs in Canada. In this Club there were all the departments to be found in any modern hotel, and all departments were under the management of Mr. Lawless who, during the time that he held the position mentioned, fully demonstrated his ability along this line.

Previous to his connection with the Lambton Club Mr. Lawless was entrusted with the work of opening, equipping, engaging the staff of and and operating one of the largest and best appointed apartment houses in America, the St. George, of Toronto, in which there are 250 rooms.

It will thus be seen that the new proprietor of the Balmoral is a man who is thoroughly posted on the details of the business of which he is the owner, and the experience gained in Toronto and other places will be applied towards making the Balmoral a thoroughly modern hotel in every particular.

It is Mr. Lawless' intention to inaugurate a number of improvements to the hotel, and to fit it up in a manner which will make it well equipped in every way. The dining department will be given special attention by Mr. Lawless, and it is safe to predict that under the new management the Balmoral Hotel will become a very popular house.

GRASSHOPPER CLUB WAS IN EVIDENCE

Attended Yesterday's Rugby Game and Rooted for Peterborough.

The members of the Grasshopper Club went to Toronto Thursday in full force and attended the Rugby game, where they made their presence known by their now famous yells. The Toronto rooters have a pretty good reputation for noise, but it is safe to say that they were eclipsed Thursday by the work of the Peterborough aggregation. The team that could not win with such a crowd of rooters as the Grasshopper Club, could not win under any conditions.

Why the "Happy Thought" Burns Less Coal Than any Other Range.

1. The fire pot in the "Happy Thought" is entirely different to any other range. It is deeper and narrower, and twenty years of use has proved that this feature alone will save many tons of coal.

2. The Duplex Grates, from the original patterns of the inventor distributes the draft equally over the entire grate surface. No dead corners.

3. The peculiar flue construction is the result of fifty years of careful study, and that the proportions are absolutely correct is proved by the fact that the Happy Thought bakes with a smaller fire than is possible with any other range.

THE SUGAR BEET IN COLORADO.

Where an Industry Well Managed, Makes Farmers Rich.

Interesting Letter on the Subject, From a Peterborough Boy.

Mr. D. W. Dumble has received a letter from his son, Mr. Frank Dumble, in Colorado. The Examiner is permitted to take an extract from this letter showing in an interesting way, how under proper conditions of management, the raising of sugar beets is a source of large profit to the farmer and the basis of a thriving industry. The extract reads as follows:—

Last week I made the horn trip—this is taking in Boulder, Longmount, Loveland, Fort Collins and Greeley. This the garden spot of the earth. They have six sugar beet factories in those towns and the farmers are all rich. In one town they put up a million dollar sugar plant at Fort Collins and every dollar of stock was subscribed in the town and among the farmers. The farms are all irrigated and are mostly made up of 10, 20 and 40 acres. This year they averaged twenty tons to the acre and got $5.00 a ton, and the entire cost of working and caring for an acre runs from $30.00 to $40.00. So you can see that it wont take long before they are rich. A farmer told me that a farm was sold a little over a mile and a half out of Loveland for $225.00 an acre. I made that trip four years ago and since then every town has doubled its population. You can see how with their small farms what a thickly populated territory they are likely soon to have. The farmers nearly all have telephones, daily mail service and many have automobiles. On the 15th of this month at Loveland the pay roll was to be $250,000 and another the middle of next month greater than this to be distributed among the farmers. One factory turns out 600 tons of sugar a day. Then the ends of the beets are chopped off and bought very cheap and these are fed to hogs and sheep. Sheep are being shipped in by thousands to fatten up during this period. It's a wonderful industry. There are no poor farmers up there. Everyone is rich and in the towns such lovely homes, great broad streets with trees everywhere. In one bunch I saw 25,000 tons of beets and train load after train load. That is about all I saw for a week. They work the factories day and night during this season.

PRETTY WEDDING IN NORTH MONAGHAN

Miss Emily Smith Married to Mr. Robt. G. B. Jackson.

On Wednesday evening at "The Maples," the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of North Monaghan, their eldest daughter, Emily, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert G. B. Jackson, eldest son of Mr. Robert Jackson, farmer, of North Monaghan.

The bride entered the drawing room leaning upon the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Anderson, and stood beneath an arch of evergreens. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. H. Brace, of the Park street Baptist church.

The bride wore a very becoming brown dress, with a yoke of white silk and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid Miss Maud S. Smith, sister of the bride, wore black silk, and carried pink chrysanthemums.

The groomsman was Mr. Alfred F. Jackson, brother of the groom.

The house was filled with guests, many coming from Toronto and Midland.

After the wedding feast, which which was a very elaborate affair, a pleasant evening was spent, the company breaking up at 11.45 p.m.

The presents were numerous and costly. The groom's present to the bridesmaid was a gold ring set in pearls.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will reside in North Monaghan.

SEVEN YEARS FOR HANS WALDHEIM

Convicted on Eight Charges and Goes to Penitentiary.

Hans Waldheim made his last appearance for some time to come in the Police Court yesterday, when he was sentenced by Magistrate Denison upon eight charges of burglary. Mr. T. C. Robinette, K. C., appeared for the German Count, but was unable to give much information in regard to his client's previous good character.

"In regard to his record," said Crown Attorney Currey, "I could not obtain it. I do not think it would make much difference, anyway, if I did get it, for he pleads guilty in eight charges, and there are ten other charges that could be laid. If there is any application made for a pardon I will have these pictures, which were found in his possession, forwarded to the Minister of Justice, to show what kind of man he is."

"Well, he pleads guilty to eight cases, anyway," said the Magistrate; "so upon those eight I will send him to the Kingston Penitentiary for seven (years, the sentences to run concurrently."—Globe.

Superfluous Hair

Removed by the New Principle

De Miracle

It is better than electricity, because it does not scar or produce a new growth. Better than X-ray, because it does not burn, scar or paralyze the tissues under the skin. Better than depilatories, because it is not poisonous; therefore, it will not cause blood poisoning, or produce eczema, which is so common with depilatories, and does not break off the hair, thereby increasing its growth.

Electrolysis, X-ray or depilatories are offered you on the bare word of the operators and manufacturers. DE MIRACLE is not. It is the only method which is indorsed by physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and prominent magazines.

DE MIRACLE will be mailed to any address, sealed in plain wrapper for $1. Your money back without question if it fails to do all that is claimed for it.

Our booklet — the most complete treatise on Superfluous Hair ever published—containing the testimonials of numerous physicians and surgeons and those of hundreds of others—will be sent free, in plain, sealed envelope, upon request. Write for it to-day to

STOESSEL TO CZAR

Port Arthur Can Hold Out He Tells Emperor Nicholas.

BLOWN UP BY JAP ARTILLERY

After Firing 300 Shells Japanese Destroy An Arsenal and Magazine At Port Arthur—Second Division of Baltic Fleet Reaches Denmark—Discontent in Corea—The Hall Inquiry.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 18.—Gen. Stoessel has telegraphed to Emperor Nicholas that Port Arthur can hold out several months.

An Arsenal Blown Up.

Tokio, Nov. 18.—(3 p.m.)—A telegram from Moji reports the destruction of another Russian arsenal and magazine at Port Arthur. The Japanese discovered, it is said, the location of the arsenal and centred their artillery fire upon it. After dropping 300 shells in the locality they succeeded in blowing it up. The Japanese are widening their gaps and are using them to move their guns forward. The Russians continue their spirited sorties, using hand grenades in their attacks upon the saps.

Japs Repulsed.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 18.—A despatch from Lieut.-Gen. Sakharoff, dated today, says that during the night the Japanese attacked the Russian position in front of Poutiloff Hill but were repulsed.

Roar of Cannon.

Mukden, Nov. 18.—On the morning of Nov. 17, after a long silence, the distant roar of cannon was heard, but where the fighting occurred is not yet known. There is no assurance yet that it means that a general fight is beginning. The Red Cross is making extensive preparations for the transportation of wounded from fields of battle.

Coreans Resist Japs.

Possiet Bay, Siberia, Nov. 18.—According to estimates made here, exclusive of the garrison of their Yalu River positions, the Japanese have 25,000 men in Korea, including 600 at Gensan, 2,000 at Hamheung and detachments at Hamkyong, whence scouting parties go so far as Poukchen. The discontent of the Koreans is increasing. Cases of armed resistance to the Japanese are reported.

Praise For Stoessel.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 18.—The newspapers to-day devote long articles to praise of Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel and the heroic garrison of Port Arthur, and to a general endorsement of the movement started at Kieff for a national subscription in behalf of the families of the killed and surviving defenders.

Baltic Fleet Moves.

Fakkeberg, Denmark, Nov. 18.—The second division of the Russian Baltic squadron has arrived here, and is anchored near the lighthouse.

Hottentots Rise Up.

Cape Town, Nov. 19.—A despatch from Upington, on the Orange River, says that two women who have arrived there give details of a Hottentot rising in German territory. Their husbands and a number of Dutch farmers were brutally murdered, but 23 women and children escaped, and reached Reitfontein in destitute circumstances.

DOGGER BANK CASE ENDS.

Russian Representative Joins in Tribute to the Brave Fishermen.

Hull, Eng., Nov. 19.—The Board of Trade inquiry into the actual occurrences off Dogger Bank, Oct. 22, closed with Thursday's session, and the commissioners will report to the Board of Trade on the subject as speedily as possible. At the opening of yesterday's session the commissioners and others paid high tributes to the gallantry of the members of the fishing fleet.

Dr. Woodhouse, representing the Russian Government, said he would like to say in behalf of those he represented how much they regretted what had occurred and how he agreed with the remarks concerning the bravery of the fishermen. It would give him the greatest pleasure to convey the purport of those remarks to the Russian Government.

The court then heard evidence regarding the financial circumstances of the killed and injured fishermen, and those dependent on them, and claims were put in. Among others, Skipper Whelpton of the Mino claimed $750 for injuries to his health, and shock to his nervous system, and $2,500 for saving the Mino when she was unseaworthy. The skipper of the Gull claimed $250 for injury to his health and $10,000 for saving the lives of the crew of the Crane. Others claimed from $250 to $500.

Becomes Private Secretary.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Elgin C. Myers, private secretary to the Provincial Secretary, will sever his connection with the department at the time of Mr. Stratton's retirement, but will continue to act as Mr. Stratton's secretary in connection with his private business interests. Mr. Myers has been in the civil service since 1898, and has been with Mr. Stratton for two years.

What Toronto Sent.

Boston, Nov. 19.—Contributions aggregating $15,000 to the Irish Parliamentary fund have been forwarded to Ireland from this city by the United Irish League within a week. The amount included $12,000 from Philadelphia and $1,811 from sympathizers with the home rule movement in Toronto, Ont.

Pitiful Helplessness.

Victims of nervous diseases are the most to be pitied, because their ailments usually terminate in mental or physical helplessness. Paralysis, locomotor ataxia and insanity can only be avoided by building up the nervous system at the first sign of trouble, and there is no preparation so well suited for this purpose as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great nerve restorer.

The Scimitar of the Saracens.

The scimitar of the Saracens was the most effective sword for cutting purposes ever devised. It will be remembered how, according to the story told in Sir Walter Scott's "Talisman," with such a weapon the pagan Saladin chopped a soft cushion in two at one blow, to the amazement of Richard Coeur de Lion. With a straight sword one can make a hack or thrust, but to slice an adversary one must saw with it. The scimitar, being curved and wide and heavy toward the end, slices by the mere fact of striking.

Are You in the Rush and Bustle?

While we join in the rush and bustle of this busy world, overtaxing our energies and racking our systems, many of us are morally culpable of reckless disregard of bodily strength and fitness. Then perhaps the health breaks down, and we seem doomed to long periods of pain and depression. Our whole life is darkened.

THE FIRST TRAFALGAR DAY.

The Calm Displayed by the Hero and the Victim.

Few days in British naval history are more easily remembered than Trafalgar Day. The fascination of the story preserves it from death. No modern naval episode can ever hope to dethrone the place now occupied by the story of Nelson's great victory; for the simple reason we have no such modern example of naval genius and pluck. Nelson stands alone in his order, and this being so, Trafalgar Day enjoys such wonderful distinction. Its celebration varies, but never fades. What a wonderful day the first Trafalgar Day was! See him moving about at an early hour, on board the Victory, self-possessed, and exhibiting quite a new set of characteristics to those displayed at Copenhagen. He appeared to be looking for two things, and sure of finding both—victory and death.

For hours he had made mental notes of Villeneuve's cleverness. He admitted the ability of his conception of defence, as well as the originality of his attack. It was a skilful daring seaman Nelson had to attack, yet never for a moment did he doubt the ultimate result. His conception of victory was larger than Captain Blackwood's, for he would have been content with capturing fourteen of the enemy's ships. Nelson, however, replied: "I shall not be satisfied with less than twenty." Then followed Blackwood's suggestion of a signal for the whole fleet, and the mystic words were conveyed by Popham's telegraphic code of signals, thus:

England	expects	that	every
253	269	863	261
man	will	do	his
471	958	220	374
D	U	T	Y
4	21	19	24

Having thus despatched the spirit of conquest, Nelson gave orders for fighting. He was careless as to himself, and refused to abandon his distinctive garb, and his breast of decorations, saying: "In honor I gained them, and in honor I will die with them." And he did. It must have been a wonderful spectacle, when the whole fleet with majestically crowded sails bore down upon the Frenchmen.

Shot after shot cleared the decks, scattering death everywhere. Poor Scott, Nelson's secretary, was conversing with Hardy, and was one of the first to fall. Then a double-headed shot struck a group of marines, who were drawn up on the poop, and killed eight of them. Then Hardy was hit with a splinter. Nelson and Hardy looked at each other for a moment, each expecting to find the other badly wounded. Nelson then smiled and said: "This is too warm work, Hardy, to last long."

Still the fighting continued. At last the fatal shot came from the enemy's mizzen-top, and the great admiral fell shot through the backbone, to expire after three hours and a quarter of excruciating pain, pain that was triumphantly endured by reason of the joy of victory that dawned 'ere he departed. It was a terrible battle, resulting in the loss of 1,587 valuable British lives alone. The people of England were so torn with grief at the loss of one so great and noble that the joy and value of victory was forgotten.

A Cracked Derby Hat.

If you are ever unfortunate enough to smash a new derby hat, so that it cracks and in spite of vigorous rubbing and brushing refuses to resume its pristine smoothness of surface, try the simple expedient of holding a lighted match inside the hat close to the broken spot. By the time the match has half burned out you will find that the hat has become soft. If you then will brush it vigorously with a stiff brush for a moment it will regain its former smoothness and look as if nothing had ever marred its surface.

COMPLETED SUCCESS.

With us at the first it was "Root hog or die!"

We recognized from the start that, in face of the prejudice existing among the better dressers for the custom tailor, we had to make a much better suit in every way than the custom tailor—or we wouldn't do much business.

Consequently we commenced gathering around us the most skilful tailors in the craft, and by experiment and experience we have adopted methods that have completely revolutionized the ordinary ways of tailoring; producing a thousand fold better results.

Our methods of shaping cloth by the needle—of building a coat on a permanently shape-retaining base of haircloth and shrunken canvas, of tailoring suits to physiques so that they garb a man and not burlesque him are absolutely original to us and new to the custom tailor.

From the time a suit is designed—every operation of the tailoring is essential to the style—form—fit, and the permanent retention of these qualities.

Each suit tailored to the basting stage—fore-judged—in every respect before you buy.

Cressman's PETERBORO.

MAN'S WAY.

Low-browed and pensive-lipped she came;
He stooped and asked: "What is your name?"
"It is for you to christen me,
Or else I shall quite nameless be."
"I'll call you Love," he gently cried,
"And walk forever at your side."
Serene her eyes, serene the days;
She led, he followed all her ways.

And as they went another came
With scarlet lips and eyes of flame.
He paused and gazed, "Oh, tell to me
Who is this woman, fair to see!"
"Do you not know?" the Vision cried,
"O Love," he tremblingly replied,
"I've waited for you all my days!
My soul your wondrous power obeys!"

She of the eyes serene walked on,
The sunshine with her lover gone.
"She has no heart," the others said,
Until one day they found her dead.
Low-browed and pensive-lipped she lay,
Beyond the reach of passions play,
And then the man knelt at her feet,
And mourned: "My love, my life, my sweet!"

Dramatic.

A man applied for an engagement at a theater.

"I inclose you a newspaper cutting," he wrote, "to show you that I have aptitude for the stage." The cutting was as follows: "The prisoner, who denied the assault, conducted his own case and defended himself in a manner somewhat dramatic."

And It's Easier.

"I understand that there is a method by which any short person may become tall."

"May be so. There are certainly methods by which tall persons may become short."

All Engaged Otherwise.

Easy Tests For Diamonds.

There are various effective methods of testing the genuineness of diamonds.

Cover the stone with a little borax paste, heating it in the flame of a lamp burning spirits of wine and then throw it in a glass of cold water. If the stone is an imitation it will break into a thousand pieces, while the true diamond will remain intact.

On a diamond which has been well cleaned and carefully dried let fall one drop of water. Touch this drop of water with the point of a needle. If the stone is false the water will spread or disperse, while with the real stone the drop of water will retain its spherical form.

Throw the stone you wish to "detect" into a glass of water. A diamond is perfectly distinct, whereas the imitation mingles with the hue of the water in such a way as to be almost invisible. Fluorhydric acid has no action on a real diamond, but dissolves imitations.

THE CHURCH.

Some Anecdotes of Archbishops That Furnish Amusing Reading and a Quiet Laugh With Pathetic Touches.

A former Archbishop of York once disputed the question of precedence with an ambassador at a dinner party. The latter claimed to represent his prince.

"But I," the Primate retorted, "am the Ambassador of the Most High."

Martyr's Retort.

A lady, greatly admiring a certain preacher, took Dr. Magee, afterwards Archbishop of York, with her to hear him. Afterwards she asked her companion what he thought of the sermon. Dr. Magee replied that it was very long.

"Yes," said the lady, "but there was a saint in the pulpit."

"And a martyr in the pew!" immediately added Magee.

What Part?

Archbishop Ryan (Roman Catholic), of the United States, was a short time ago about to take a train for Baltimore at the Broad street station when a young man accosted him, saying:

"Your face is familiar. Where in hell have I seen you?"

"I really don't know," replied the archbishop, blandly. "What part of hell do you come from."

Unexpected Applause.

Dr. Croke, R.C., Archbishop of Cashel (Ireland), who died in July, 1902, was a brilliant athelete in his youthful days. A few days before he died, being then over seventy, he was walking in a field near Thurles with an old friend, when they came to a rather high fence.

The archbishop in times gone by thought nothing of vaulting over such obstacles, and when his friend in a jovial way hinted that he was not so agile now, the veteran prelate, taking a hasty look round to see that none of his flock were near, with a bound cleared the fence and alighted on the other side, only to hear an Irish farm hand, who was digging potatoes in the field, exclaim:

"Bravo, yer rivirence!"

The archbishop hurried home.

Keen on Hunting.

Archbishop Harcourt, of York (he died in 1857), was very fond of hunting—so fond, indeed, that he was very near refusing the high post in the Minister city because he thought if he accepted he should have to give the sport up. He consulted a friend, who said that he must take counsel with others.

"Of course, I should never join the meet," pleaded the archbishop, "but, you know, I might fall in with the hounds by accident!"

After some time the friend came back and said that on the whole the party considered that the archbishop might hunt, providing he did not shout!

Weighty Sermon.

Archbishop Tait, of Canterbury, once made effective use of a sermon. Driving down a steep hill, he was confronted by a runaway horse, attached to a heavy dray, making straight for his carriage. He threw a sermon in its face. The animal was so bewildered by the fluttering leaves that it swerved and paused, the driver regained control, the sermon was picked up, and the archbishop proceeded on his way.

"I don't know," he said to the Archbishop of York, a few days later, "whether my sermon did any good to the congregation, but it was of great service to me."

Cutting Capers.

Dr. King, Archbishop of Dublin, having invited several persons of distinction to dine with him, had on the table, among other dishes, a fine leg of mutton and caper sauce. The divine, who was remarkable for preferring a trencher to a plate, had some of the above-mentioned pickle introduced dry for his use, and as he was mincing the herb, he called aloud to the company to observe him.

"I here present you, my lords and gentlemen," he said, "with a sight that may henceforward serve you to talk of as something curious—namely, that you saw an Archbishop of Dublin, at fourscore and seven years of age, cut capers upon a trencher!"

Old Cock's Joke.

Dr. Thomson, Archbishop of York, used to tell a good story of himself. He had been dining with a friend several miles from his residence at Bishopthorpe.

After dinner he ordered his carriage to drive him home, and when about to enter he noticed that his coachman was rather shaky on the box, and also that his voice was anything but clear.

Before the carriage had proceeded far it became evident that the coachman was incapable of driving with safety, so there was nothing for it but for the archbishop to exchange places with him if he wished to arrive home safely. Having deposited the man inside, he mounted the box, and all went well until the narrow road up to the stables was reached. Here the carriage was driven in the dark over several large "spars" which were lying by the side of the road.

The noise caused by the collision attracted the stable boy, who seized hold of the horses' heads and led them into the yard, muttering the while some not over choice language at the coachman for his carelessness.

"You old fool! Drunk again!"

A light from the stables revealed the shovel hat.

"Well! Why you've got the old cock's hat!"

The archbishop thought the joke had gone far enough, and said:

"No; it's the old cock himself."

"I had courage and thought I would never regain my health."

"Three years of delicate health trying doctors' prescriptions and patent medicines" without benefit might well sap the courage of any woman. And yet Mrs. Bryant proved that the question of the cure of womanly disease is only a question of using the right remedy. A few doses of 'Favorite Prescription' restored her courage and revived her hope, because she could see "a decided change from the first." Three months' use of the medicine restored her to perfect health.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures irregularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

Mrs. Sarah Bryant, President of Memphis Social Science Club, residing at 371 Atkinson Ave., Memphis, Tenn., writes: "I suffered with delicate health for three years, trying doctors' prescriptions and patent medicines until I lost courage and thought I would never regain my health; but a few doses of your 'Favorite Prescription' made me change my mind. Could see a decided change from the first, so I kept on taking it for three months faithfully and am now in perfect health."

HINGE YOUR WINDOWS.

Then No Thief or Burglar Can Push Them Up at Night.

Here is a simple scheme by which to prevent thieves entering a house through the windows at night. Primarily the device is just an ordinary hinge. Whatever the pattern, this is the way to use the hinge: Open the window, say six inches, enough to get a plentiful supply of air, but not enough to permit anybody to crawl through the space under the sash. When you have done this fasten the hinge to the window frame (or use two, putting one on each side of the window frame), putting the screws, however, through only one half and setting the hinge in such a way that the free half may be so swung about as to project into the space through which the sash would have to pass if it were raised any higher. Could anything be cheaper or simpler? In the daytime the free half of the hinge may be folded back against the other half so that the window may be raised to any height desired. Of course this is not the best possible safeguard, but it certainly serves its purpose pretty well in the dark.—Ladies' Home Journal.

She Willed It.

Once there was a young bride who believed in Will Power. "If I will a thing I know it will Come About," she used to say. This young woman loved her husband very much and was loath to have him out of her sight. One evening he had to Meet a Man downtown, and she was left Alone. While sitting in the parlor she began to wish that her husband would Come Back. Suddenly an idea Struck Her. "I know what I'll do," she said to herself. "I'll Will that he Come Home. That will bring him." So she did. The young bride Willed and Willed. After five minutes of Willing she Heard a Step on the Walk. Next she heard it on the Porch. "I knew it would Bring him," she said, and then she flew to the Door and kissed the Approaching Man squarely in the Mouth. Imagine her chagrin, upon releasing him, to hear him say, "That's Very Nice, ma'am, but is Miss Bridget in?" She had kissed the Hired Girl's Fiance. Moral: The mind is Strong, but the eyesight is frequently More Reliable.—Kansas City Times.

Indian Babies.

Indian mothers have a method of preventing needless crying of babies which, though it does not err on the side of gentleness, is efficacious. In infancy children are entirely under the control of their mothers or nurses, and therefore the Indian plan of stopping crying and preventing the formation of the habit is to cover the baby's mouth with the hand and at the same time to close its nostrils till it nearly suffocates. Then it is allowed to breathe freely again, but should it recover its breath only to indulge in another bowl it will at once have to endure semisuffocation. This treatment is repeated till the child learns that "silence is golden" and ceases to use its vocal powers to the annoyance of its fond relatives.

Dry Cigars and Damp Ones.

"Some smokers prefer a cigar that is damp to one that is dry," says a cigar manufacturer, "and in showing this preference I think they make a mistake. A cigar that is too dry will, of course, cause a little annoyance from dust, but a cigar that is as damp as many smokers prefer it will not have as good an aroma as the other and will not burn so well. A medium cigar, in respect to these conditions, is best, but between a damp and a dry cigar I would always take the dry one and thus secure the better smoke."

FEMININE FIDELITY.

Increasing Demand For Women In Positions of Trust.

The increasing tendency toward the employment of women in positions of trust by financial institutions is thus explained by the president of one of the largest banks in the country: "The feeling is gaining ground that women are on the whole more honest than men. A considerable number of women are now rendering satisfactory service as cashiers and tellers, handling large sums daily without loss or error. One of the most conspicuous traits in the feminine nature is fidelity to trust. Speculation, the chief pitfall of defaulting employees, does not attract women as it does men. Cards and drink also drag down many a male employee, and these, again, are more particularly masculine vices. Some of the largest banks in New York are employing women in positions of heavy responsibility. Banking is an occupation in which men no longer have a monopoly."

As to the question whether women are by nature more honest than men, certain masculine critics aver that women have gained that reputation only because they are subject to fewer temptations to steal than are men. But is this the case? asks Robert Webster Jones in the Housekeeper. What occupation offers a more severe test of honesty than domestic service? It is impossible for a mistress to lock up her belongings from her servants, and opportunities for pilfering are numerous, yet stealing is comparatively rare. The majority of business men are convinced of woman's fidelity in responsible positions and her ability to discharge important duties. Never were there such opportunities for capable, energetic women as at present await them in the business world.—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Rand Rat's Exploits.

"There were a lot of rats in the storage room of my stable," writes a citizen of Johannesburg, South Africa, "and we had great difficulty in getting at them. They were shy of all traps and did a tremendous lot of damage at night, lying quiet all day. At length I put in the room a square tin lined box about two feet deep and in it placed some burped cheese. The rats immediately got interested in the cheese, climbed up the outside of the box and, having got inside, could not ascend the slippery tin lining. In this way we killed a great many.

"One morning my children took a cat, which was a very good ratter, and placed it in the box, where there was already a good sized rat. The cat, instead of tackling the rat, appeared to make friends with it. They put their noses together and frisked around, but no harm was done, and eventually the cat jumped out, refusing to tackle the rat.

"The children then put in a keen dachshund, which immediately snapped at the rat and missed it. The rat ran around the box two or three times, dodging cleverly, and eventually, by climbing on the dog's back, adroitly jumped out of the box and escaped."

WISDOM OF ANIMALS.

The Ape of Apuleius—A Dog Actor. Wise Dogs and Elephants.

Apuleius says that in the spring fetes of Isis, the forerunners of the Roman carnival, he saw a monkey with a straw hat and a Phrygian tunic.

But monkeys do not seem to have been popular in Rome. The cleverest of all the animal performers were of course the dogs, and one showman had the ingenious idea of making a dog act a part in a comedy. The effects of a drug were tried on him, the plot turning on the suspicion that the drug was poisonous, while, in fact, it was only a narcotic. The dog took the piece of bread dipped in the liquid, swallowed it and began to reel and stagger till he finally fell on the ground.

At the right moment he began to move very slightly as if waking out of a deep sleep. Then he raised his head, looked around, jumped up and ran joyously to the proper person.

The remark that animals do not grow wiser with age is contradicted by the habit of elephants, noticed even in ancient times, of making the young ones cross a ford first. The officer who superintended the embarkation of the elephants sent from India to Abyssinia for use in Lord Napier's campaign tells how one old elephant volunteered to drive all the others on board. His services were invaluable, but when they had all embarked and he was invited to follow them he firmly declined and had to be left on shore.

I myself have noticed the acquired caution of the older dogs of Constantinople, which left untouched the crusts I threw them, while the young ones ate them ravenously. A Greek native told me that this was because Europeans were in the cruel habit of throwing poisoned bread to the street dogs; hence the old ones, having seen the bad effects on their companions, refused to eat bread thrown by Europeans, though they took it readily from any Turkish beggar who shared his scanty fare with them.

Nuremberg Eggs.

Watches first came into fashion in the year 1477 at Nuremberg, and on that account and because of their peculiar shape they were known as "Nuremberg eggs." They were not all egg shaped, however, some of them being made in imitation of pears, gourds, acorns, birds' skulls, etc. About the year 1620 watches began to assume the shape now generally worn.

TORONTO WON AT BASKET BALL

Defeated Peterborough Intermediates Thursday Evening.

The basketball game played Thursday evening at the Y.M.C.A., between Toronto and Peterborough Intermediates was a good one indeed.

There was a full house, the gallery being filled and many had only standing room.

The game was a fast one, both sides making several brilliant plays. The audience seemed well pleased and their after cheer went up when the home team scored. They did not forget to applaud when a good play was made by the visitors either.

The Toronto boys were somewhat older and heavier as a team than were the Peterborough boys. They played a splendid combination game, but were a little unfamiliar with the baskets.

The game was played by the new rules which have just been put into use, which makes it a "foul" to touch the opponent at all; also checking from behind, constituted a foul. The home team not being familiar with the new rules, made repeated fouls, which piled up a score against them of 8 points right from the beginning.

They soon learned a lesson and settled down to business.

The first half ended with a score of 13-9 in favour of Toronto.

The second half opened with fast play right from the start. Richardson and Capt. Loomis played the star game on the home team. Robinson and Miller also played splendid ball.

Silvert played the best game on the Toronto team.

Taking it altogether it was a good game and the best of feeling prevailed throughout. The score was as follows:—

Toronto total, 32; Peterborough, 22. Toronto threw 7 baskets; Peterborough 6. Toronto scored 13 points against Peterborough on fouls.

It is quite apparent that Peterborough lost the game on fouls because of not being perfectly familiar with the new rules. Both teams were pretty nearly matched.

Toronto.	Peterborough.
McIlwenny, Capt.	Loomis, Capt.
Walker	Richardson
Sanderson	Robinson

Mr. Walter McGuire, of Toronto, and Mr. W. D. Campbell, of Peterborough, officiated. Mr. Fred. Smith, of Toronto, (Manager) was scorer. Mr. Merrell, of Peterborough, time-keeper.

SPRINTING

The race between Belland and Taylor which is scheduled to take place in Toronto on Monday is creating considerable interest in Toronto where Taylor is said to be the favourite. Belland is in good condition, and will give Taylor a good race. He will be accompanied by some Peterboro who will back him to win out, as the majority of the local sports believe he will do.

WHITCROFT TO BE PROFESSIONAL.

Report That he has Joined the Michigan "Soo" Team.

A Despatch From the Lock City Says Fred Whitcroft Will Play There This Winter.

A despatch from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., says that:—

Manager A. L. Ferguson has signed Fred. Whitcroft, of Midland, to play in the forward line of the Soo hockey team. Mr. Ferguson received a message from him yesterday, saying he will play here this winter.

Whitcroft is considered a fast man by those who have seen him play. He was a member of the Peterborough team last winter and gave good satisfaction to the lovers of the game in that part of Canada. He will probably arrive in the city about Thanksgiving time.

Manager Ferguson will sign another man, as it is his intention to carry eight or nine men through the winter. It now looks as if the team will be a winner. The man Mr. Ferguson is endeavouring to secure is one of the fastest puck shooters on the ice. He has a wide reputation and will be one of the strong men on the team if secured, and there is every reason to believe he will wear a purple and white uniform this winter.

FIRST HOCKEY CLUB HAS ORGANIZED

"Karnot" Club Elected Officers Last Evening.

The Karnot Hockey Club was organized last evening in their club rooms, Fifth Ward. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

Patrons and Patronesses, Hon. J. R. and Mrs. Stratton; Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P., and Mrs. Hall; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Graham and Alderman and Mrs. Adams.

Hon. President, Mr. C. B. McAllister.
President, Mr. R. Nell.
Vice-President, Mr. R. M. Glover.
2nd Vice-President, Mr. Geo. Lipsett.
Sec.-Treas., R. Kingscote.
Manager, J. C. Gilman.

Team committee, Manager, Secretary, and Messrs. G. Ferguson, J. H. Anderson and H. Wyatt.

Captain Graham says the manager has several good players signed and will bring out a good seven. It was decided to enter a junior team in the City League if the latter be formed, but otherwise will play independently.

After election of officers refreshments were served, and the balance of the evening passed pleasantly with songs, etc., given by the members of the club and others.

THURSDAY AT THE GOLF LINKS

Two Trophies Were Played for—The Tennis Courts.

On Thursday the Golf Club held its annual Thanksgiving Day Meet, the members spending the entire day at the Links, and a most successful day's meet was enjoyed. The ownership for this year of two trophies, the Edmison and Innes Trophies, was decided, the first going to Mr. A. H. Stratton, and the second being won by Mr. E. H. D. Hall. The matches were both handicap, and some good scores were made.

The Tennis Courts at the Golf Links are rapidly assuming shape, and next year there will be two splendid Courts of championship size at the Links, for the benefit of those members who enjoy this game.

BROWNIES WON AT MIDLAND,

Local Basketballists Took Two Games on the Holiday.

The Brownie basketball team journeyed to Midland yesterday and trimmed the Y.M.C.A. team of that place in two games. The home team and the officials who were Midland men had but little idea of playing according to the strict rules as the game is new in that town and consequently the heavy Midland players got away with much rough play and nothing was said of it. The afternoon game was especially hard, but in the evening the play was cleaner. The Brownies easily outplayed their bigger opponents in combination work and shooting. The afternoon score was 18-13, being 14-8 at half-time. In the evening the score was 20-8 in favour of the Brownies who lead by 16-2 at half-time.

The Brownies team was as follows:—Backs, Hall and Richardson; centre, Fitzpatrick; forwards, Norman and Gordon Miller.

While in Midland the Brownies were the guests of Mr. Fred. Whitcroft and were treated in splendid fashion. A return game will likely be played shortly.

Villier's Factory Assembly.

All those receiving invitations will kindly take notice that the assembly has been indefinitely postponed. By order.

DISFIGURED WITH ECZEMA

Under Physicians Five Months. Went from Bad to Worse.

CURED BY CUTICURA

Wonderful Change in One Night. In a Month Face Was Clean as Ever.

"I was troubled with eczema on the face for five months during which time I was in the care of physicians. My face was in such a condition that I could not go out. It was going from bad to worse and I gave up all hope, when a friend of mine highly recommended Cuticura Remedies. The first night after I washed my face with Cuticura Soap and used Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent it changed wonderfully, and continuing the treatment it removed all scales and scabs. From that day I was able to go out, and in a month my face was as clean as ever." THOMAS J. SOTH, 317 Stagg St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

The above letter was received in 1898 and he again writes us Feb. 19, 1903, "I have not been troubled with eczema since."

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures of the civilized world.

Cuticura Resolvent, Liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

YOUNG BRITS WERE VICTORIOUS.

Defeated the Rough Riders at Rugby by 118—15.

The sporting editor's sanctum was invaded yesterday afternoon by a dozen or so of very youthful rugbyists who will some day be bringing O.R.F.U. championships to Peterborough. They came to break the news that the young Britannias had put it all over the Young Rough Riders in a fast game of rugby on a field near the corner of Park Burnter streets. The score was 25-15 and the game was a corker. At half-time the Brits were leading by 16-0, but things were closer in the second half, neither team having any great advantage. The winners have an all-star team and every man played like a whirlwind. The line-up was something like this:—

Britannias.		Rough Riders.
	Backs.
Laing		Fortye
	Halves.
Dawo		Cummings
S. Wade		O'Brien
Ray		Patterson

Those composed the Galt team in the final match:—Linton, goal; Ducker, Gourlay, backs; Lane, Johnson, Christman, half-backs; Taylor, Steep, right wings; Hall, centre; Twaits, Henderson, left wings.

HOCKEY.

James McSwiggan, president of the professional hockey league, Pittsburg, has gone to Ottawa from Montreal, in quest of hockey players. He is offering Canadians from $30 to $40 a week to play in Pittsburg. McSwiggan met little success in Montreal, but hopes to sign Eddie Roberts and several other Ottawa hockeyists.

That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones, call around and see us.

THEIR GUNFIRE WAS ACCURATE.

Russians Retake From Japs Points They Had Captured.

BOMBARDMENT WAS TERRIFIC.

Japanese Begin the Second Great Battle of the Sha, Whose Operations Extend Twelve Miles West of the Railway and Then Forty Miles East—Gens. Nodzu and Kuroki's Armies Engaged.

Tokio, Nov. 21.—Despatches from the third army, filed on Friday and made public last night at Imperial Army headquarters, tell of another unsuccessful attack on the extreme westerly side of Port Arthur. The fighting began on Wednesday night, and although several redoubts were taken before dawn on Thursday the Japanese troops were unable to hold them because of the severe and accurate gunfire from the forts on Tiger's Tail Peninsula. On Thursday night the engagement was resumed and small detachments of infantry made their way through the breaches opened on the preceding night. Hand-to-hand fighting with bayonets and revolvers took place, both sides being reinforced, and before 4 o'clock on Friday morning the Russians had been driven from all their positions.

Japs Had to Retire.

Before field guns could be brought up Russian artillery fire was concentrated on all the points captured by the Japanese battalions, and it was found necessary to retire. The sappers and miners were the last to evacuate the points captured, but it was impossible to hold the slopes because of the range of the Russian guns from across the harbor. On Thursday night a sortie was made from Quail Hill on the northerly end of the old town of Port Arthur, and for two hours there was fighting in the streets of the city. A Japanese battalion blew up several warehouses and set fire to three Government buildings before retiring at daylight on the Quail Hill fortifications.

While the city of Port Arthur practically is in possession of the Japanese, it is impossible to occupy the town because of the Russian intrenchments across the bay at Golden Hill, White Wolf Hill and Tiger's Tail.

A TERRIFIC BOMBARDMENT.

Japanese Begin Second Battle of the Sha Against Russians.

Mukden, Nov. 21.—The Japanese probably have begun the second battle of the Sha. The storm of snow and wind lasting 24 hours, which began on Wednesday night, has cut out Mukden from telegraphic communication with the central Russian army. The couriers coming in have news that is almost 24 hours old, but what they have is significant of extreme activity at the front and suggests that a great battle is under way.

At noon on Friday Gen. Nodzu's central army opened with more than 100 guns on the Russian position east of Taiping, and an hour later the right wing of Gen. Oku's army, resting on the railway and the Great Mandarin road, began a terrific bombardment of the Russian position extending from Putiloff Hill to Samchiatsu at the junction of the Sha and Hun Rivers.

Infantry Rushes At Night.

The bombardment was continuous until after dark, when infantry rushes were made for the possession of the Russian outpost positions along the north bank of the Sha and for the capture of the entrenched town of Changshing.

In the afternoon of Friday General Kuroki's right army began an artillery fire from the southerly slopes of Shingking Mountain. Russian patrols on the southerly side of the Mukden road at Kaolin Pass were attacked by a superior infantry force. Reinforcements were hurried from Chuibalyu, and it was then discovered that a large flanking force of Japanese had moved up the valley from Lengkao, proving that a wide turning movement evidently was under way. A general engagement was on at this point when the couriers left for Mukden, and it is their opinion that a battle of great importance has begun.

Heavy Gun Fire Heard.

This news from the several wings of the army shows the Japanese offensive operations to extend from the junction of the Sha and the Hun Rivers, twelve miles west of the railroad, to the Shinping Valley, forty miles east. Gen. Kuroki's right army is somewhat in advance of the Japanese centre and left, and moving with the apparent motive of crossing the northern Hun River at Fushan, about thirty miles east of this city. Heavy guns fire has been heard all day, and there is no doubt that a tremendous artillery duel is on. Whether the infantry forces are in a general engagement is not yet known, but if so the battle did not begin yesterday morning, as otherwise the wounded would now be coming into Mukden. The weather is intensely cold, the snow, at the drifting points, more than two feet high, and the soldiers of both armies undoubtedly are suffering for lack of shelter and warm clothing.

Good For Weeks.

The failure of Gen. Nogi's army to capture the western fort at Port Arthur in the four-day attack last week probably accounts for the assault now begun by Marshal Oyama. It is apparent here that Gen. Stoessel can hold out in the forts at Golden Hill and Tiger's Tail for weeks to come, and hence the Japanese army before Port Arthur cannot be released in time to co-operate effectively with the army confronting General Kuropatkin. The Japanese on the Sha River were in all probability waiting for Port Arthur reinforcements. The belief that these cannot come before the middle of December, if then, has hastened the present operations of Marshal Oyama. This will prove the most stubborn battle of the war. The great Russian army has been reinforced by more than 30,000 men since Oct. 10, and 15,000 of those wounded in the first battle of the Sha are back in army quarters. The miles of entrenchments south of Mukden practically are permanent, and the attacking force must lose a great proprtion of its men in attempting to take the entrenchments.

One Investigation Closed.

London, Nov. 21.—The first stage of the investigation into the North Sea affair, the Board of Trade inquiry at Hull has been concluded with the testimony of three witnesses who arrived from sea yesterday. One of them testified with regard to further firing at 7 o'clock in the morning, after the Russian attack on the trawlers.

THE COLBORNE ASSAULT.

Thought to Have Been Cleared Up By Arrest of Two Men.

Colborne, Nov. 21.—The town was greatly excited on Saturday at the news that the parties guilty of a recent dastardly crime had been located. On Saturday, Nov. 12, a report became current that Mrs. Wilkinson, wife of the manager of the electric light plant here, had the night previous been assaulted at her residence by two unknown men. Chief Boud of Port Hope, worked on the case since Friday and as a result of his effort he arrested a young man named Collins as one of the parties.

Collins was brought up for trial on Saturday and pleaded not guilty. Mrs. Wilkinson was present and identified him, and the Magistrate committed him for trial.

Arthur Morrison was arrested in Colborne about 5 o'clock yesterday morning, and pleaded guilty. He was hurried to Cobourg jail, as there were fears of the crowd lynching him.

Under Serious Charge.

Woodstock, Nov. 21.—John Campbell, a stonemason, who lives on Hunser street, was arrested by Policeman Bundy Friday night, on a serious charge. It is alleged that Campbell subjected his two-year-old baby boy to inhuman treatment by putting him on a hot stove. He himself denies that he intentionally injured the child, and at the Police Court Saturday morning expressed sorrow that anything of the kind had happened. "I was drunk, and must have playfully put the child on the stove," he said. He was remanded till Monday.

King Carlos in London Fog.

London, Nov. 21.—King Carlos of Portugal has been unfortunate during his visit to London as far as the weather is concerned. He arrived in a fog, which grew denser each day until yesterday, which was gloomy only during the royal procession through London to the Guildhall. Then the fog was so thick that it was almost impossible, even at close quarters, to distinguish the Portuguese sovereign in spite of his great height and bulk. King Carlos, however, was not deprived by the fog of the shooting at Windsor, where, with the Prince of Wales, he had great sport.

Burglars At Glencoe.

Glencoe, Nov. 21.—About 3 o'clock yesterday morning burglars effected an entrance through the rear door of the postoffice by the use of tools obtained from James Harris' blacksmith shop. They exploded the vault smith shop. They exploded the vault, the vault door, instead of being blown outwards, was forced inwards, thus blocking the entrance. Finding that the citizens had been aroused, the burglars fled. They took Bailiff Poole's horse and buggy from his barn. Up to the present neither horse nor burglars have been located.

Hangs Himself With Towel.

Windsor, Nov. 21.—Henry C. Niece, an insane man, confined at Sandwich jail, awaiting removal to an asylum, committed suicide by hanging himself in the wash-room of the prison Saturday. He tied two towels together and suspended himself from a waterpipe. He leaves a widow and five children at Edgar's Mills Essex County.

Premier Pelted With Snowballs.

Buda-Pesth, Nov. 21.—As Premier Tisza was leaving a meeting of his political supporters yesterday, he was greeted with shouts of "Resign," and was pelted with snowballs. The police dispersed the crowd by a discharge of blank cartridges and arrested forty persons.

Circus Robbed.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 21.—The pay wagon of Forepaugh & Sells Bros.' circus was robbed of $30,000, mostly in small bills, Saturday, at Tarboro, N.C. Several arrests have been made, but there is no trace of the money.

JAPANESE FIELD ARMY HOLDS POSITIONS

Second Division of Russian Baltic Fleet En-Route—German Blockade Runner Captured.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Rome, Nov. 21.—A message from Tokio states that Field Marshall Oyama has wired the Government that his attempts to draw the Russians into a trap have been frustrated. The Japanese Army is now excellently situated in fortified positions.

Frederick's Haven, Denmark, Nov. 21.—The second division of the Russian Second Pacific Squadron, has arrived here.

Tokio, Nov. 21.—Reliable sources report that the Japanese mined and occupies a counter-scrap on Hsiung Mountain Nov. 19. The Navy Department reports the capture of the German steamer Batelan, while attempting to run the Port Arthur blockade. On board the vessel was found a great quantity of winter clothing, blankets, medicine and corned meats. Her captain said he was bound for new Chewang.

May Have Been Murdered.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Thompson received a telegram from Fort William on Saturday, telling her that the body of her son, A. H. Thompson, was found floating in the Kaministique. There was a bruise on the head, and this, combined with the fact that the body did not sink, suggested that there had been foul play. Other facts in Thompson's recent history provide a motive for murder on the part of someone, not yet discovered. Thompson was a portrait agent traveling out of Montreal and was in his 30th year. Mrs. Thompson is a widow and he was her only son.

Mother Instigated Murders.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 21.—Mrs. Sophia Merritt and her four children, Bigler, Charles, Alanson and Nancy Johnson, were held yesterday by Judge Orcutt, at Tonawanda, without bail for the murder of Mrs. Bigler Johnson, wife of the eldest son, and her niece, Annie Benjamin. Each of the four children has made a confession, implicating each other, and each agreeing that the mother was the prime mover in plotting and executing the tragedy.

Big Fire in Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 21.—A fire broke out last evening at 1811 Notre Dame street. W. H. Barry & Co., manufacturers' agents, and John A. Barry & Co., had premises damaged to the extent of $50,000. The building, five storey structure at corner of Dollard lane, was completely gutted. Fireman O'Brien was badly hurt, having fallen from the fourth storey.

Theatre Burned.

Westbrook, Maine, Nov. 21.—Fire broke out during a performance at Speir's Opera House last night and before it could be controlled the building was gutted. The flames shut off escape by way of the main entrance, but an exit was found for the 200 people present at the rear. Several people were slightly hurt. The loss is about $25,000.

Col. Breckenridge Dead.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 21.—Col. William Campbell Preston Breckenridge died at 11.40 o'clock last night from a stroke of paralysis sustained Wednesday. The end came peacefully.

General Manager Selected.

New York, Nov. 19.—The directors of the Lake Superior Corporations have selected Willard N. Sawyer as general manager to succeed Cornelius Shields. Mr. Sawyer has been identified with the Carnegie and Tennessee Coal & Iron Companies and is considered a very conservative manager.

Anglo-Portuguese Treaty.

London, Nov. 19.—The Anglo-Portuguese treaty of arbitration, the signing of which was announced by King Edward at the State banquet at Windsor Castle, on Nov. 16, was issued last night. It contains only three articles.

They Were Aberdonians.

Some years ago Mr. Archibald Blue, the Census Commissioner, was investigating the records of a census which was taken in 1842 in Upper Canada. In looking over the particulars of the colonization of the "Queen's Bush" in Western Ontario, he encountered a statement that 600 Jews had settled in what is now the County of Wellington. He rubbed his eyes; for he had never heard of a Hebrew vote in any of the constituencies thereabouts. Then he investigated still further. He could find no trace of a Jewish settlement or a Jewish emigration; but there was the official statement that six hundred Jews had gone to that part of the Queen's Bush. Finally he wrote to Colonel Charles Clarke, now Clerk of the Ontario Legislature, who comes from that neighborhood. Colonel Clarke replied in three words: "They were Aberdonians."

THE GOVERNMENT MAJORITY.

That Sir Wilfrid Laurier's government would be endorsed by the electorate was a foregone conclusion. That the majority would be piled up in the neighbourhood of seventy could hardly have been anticipated. Such a majority was never before recorded in Canada. The Government gained in every province of the Dominion and carried every province except Ontario, where, however, the parties nearly broke even.

Huge majorities are sometimes considered rather a danger to the public welfare. A strong opposition is supposed to be necessary to the efficient operation of representative government under the party system. The people of Canada have no misgivings concerning the Laurier Government. There is no room for such misgivings. Sir Wilfrid has already held office for a period that in England would be considered a long administration. But he was able to go to the country in this election without a single charge of corruption having been hinted at on the part of his opponents. There was in fact, nothing against the Government. The country was singularly prosperous and the G.T.P. contract was well calculated to keep the wheel of prosperity moving. The public ownership issue raised in the last week of the election by Mr. Borden fixed the attention of the people upon the business aspect of the bargain made by the Government with the G.T.P. directors, and that bargain has been pronounced incomparably a better transaction than any hurried and hazardous speculation such as the opposition favoured.

This is the lesson of the election. Popular confidence in the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, together with approval of his transportation policy, were the chief influences accounting for so remarkable a victory. Behind these was the clean and creditable record of the Government.—Exchange.

MR. STRATTON RESIGNS.

(Hamilton Times.)

The retirement of Hon. J. R. Stratton from the Ontario Cabinet, has been definitely announced in a letter to Hon. Mr. Ross under date of October 12. This is a distinct loss to the Province. Hon. Mr. Stratton has been an excellent administrator, and the affairs of his department have been handled in the most satisfactory manner. At no time has any reasonable complaint been made against his work as a Minister. Indeed, the Opposition has fully appreciated his ability and usefulness, and recognized his worth by avoiding any fair criticism of his acts and confining itself to an organized effort to befoul his reputation and damage him in the estimation of people who are open to be deceived by tales of corruption and improper election methods. This campaign has been deliberately undertaken and followed up by Mr. Whitney and his followers to their own shame and the disgust of all honest men who are alive to the facts. If it has had anything to do with Mr. Stratton's decision to retire, his retirement is the more to be regretted, because it would in a way mean the triumph of men and methods which are a disgrace to Canada, an affront to morality and to the decencies of public life. That persistent lying and mud-slinging should succeed in damaging a good and useful man to the extent of losing his services to this Province, would not be much of a compliment to the fairness and intelligence of its people.

In the years to come fair-minded Conservatives will deal more justly with Mr. Stratton than at present. Looking back on the persecution and calumny to which their party has subjected him in its hunger for office they will blush for their leaders. The country will be the greatest loser when Mr. Stratton quits the Provincial Secretary's office. Let the people see that the party of slander and detraction does not gain.

MR. STRATTON'S RESIGNATION

(The Globe.)

It cannot be said of the late Provincial Secretary that nothing in his tenure of office became him like his leaving it, for Mr. Stratton's administrative work has been exceptionally unobjectionable and efficient. The terms in which he has called attention to his aims and methods in his departmental work are frank but dignified, and all who have had to do with him as the head of his department will bear cordial and unreserved testimony to the fact that his account of his administration is fair and moderate.

It would be a great mistake to assume that because the Provincial Secretary has for many years been regarded as the junior member of the Executive Council his department is the one most easily administered. On the contrary, it is the most complicated, and in some ways the most difficult of all. The duties of the Provincial Secretary, as such, are by no means onerous, but when to these are added the management of the public institutions and the enforcement of the liquor license law, not to speak of other sub-departments of less importance and difficulty, one may easily see that the whole department demands for its administration a good business training, great decision of character, and strong personal courage.

It is not always the case that an administrative official, while securing the respect and approbation of the general public, is personally popular with his subordinates. In Mr. Stratton's case the feeling of the members of his departmental staff has become one of admiration rather than mere satisfaction. His thoroughgoing business methods and habits won their respect while they impressed those who had to do with him on matters of public business. Mr. Stratton's outstanding personal characteristic was his promptitude in giving his decisions. He was able to see at once whether an application was one that should be entertained at all, and whether it was properly a matter for the Minister to settle. If it were necessary to reserve a case for consultation with other members of Council he never allowed long time to elapse before his decision was given. By pursuing this course he has set a standard of administration so high that his successor will find it no easy task to live up to it. If all public administrators had the same peculiarity there would be less fault-finding with heads of departments for their masterly inactivity.

IMPORTANCE OF SCHOOL FIRE DRILL.

School fire drill should not be neglected. On Thursday in New York two thousand children marched out of a school in two minutes and a half, the smoke blinding the last of the scholars as they emerged from the burning building. The School Superintendent visited the school and wrote in the visitors' book:—

"I visited the school to-day because of a fire. I found that five children, two thousand in number, had been marched out in regular fire drill; that no one was hurt, and that all the teachers, the acting principal and the pupils had acted with the most praiseworthy courage, coolness and steadiness. I congratulate the school on this fact, and thank God for the deliverance of so many children from deadly peril."

Prevention of fire, of course, is just as important, if not more so, than fire drill, and the trustees should see that there is no possibility of fire breaking out in any of our schools. This should be strictly attended to.

ANOTHER LIFT LOCK FOR THE TRENT CANAL.

The announcement comes from Ottawa that tenders are being called for a $300,000 lift lock at Kirkfield on the Trent Canal. The location will be between Lake Simcoe and Balsam Lake, or about 100 miles from the Peterborough lift. The Kirkfield lock will be 130 feet long, and will overcome an elevation of 55 feet, being slightly smaller than the one at Peterborough. It will also differ from the Peterborough lock in that its towers will be of steel instead of concrete construction. Work will be pushed forward very rapidly, and it is expected that the lock, as well as that portion of the canal on which it is situated, will be completed by the fall of 1905.

A GREAT ROAD RACE AT OTTAWA.

A. J. Burns and Williams Fought to a Finish.

Interference of Spectators Spoiled the Finish of Thanksgiving Day Five Mile Race.

Interference by spectators crowding onto the course to obtain a better view of the approaching runners yesterday afternoon prevented a decision in the Citizen's big Thanksgiving day match race between Arthur Burn and Eddie Williams, after what was far and away the most magnificent test of grit and endurance ever displayed by two runners in a five mile race in the Capital and possibly anywhere else in Canada. After a struggle that was of the closest possible description throughout the entire five miles of the race what little advantage there was alternating between them, but for brief periods at a time, shoulder to shoulder they dashed down Sparks street from Elgin in a fair raising finish until the crowd which had lined the street, in its eagerness for better vantage, threw discretion to the winds, and despite all the efforts to check them, crowded into the athletes' path some yards ahead of the tape, preventing the men from discerning the finish point. Under the impression that the race was over and surrounded by the crowd, both men were hurried off the course without having breasted the tape with the result that Referee F. C. Chittick declared it "no race". The decision was perfectly just though it was a regrettable ending to a most magnificent contest and could only be attributed to the thoughtlessness of those who at the supreme moment so far forgot themselves as to crowd and jostle the runners, making a satisfactory finish impossible.

Unsatisfactory to both as was the last five yards of the race, however, it does not in any way militate against the prowess of the two young men who so nobly fought out to the finish a contest which was a heart breaker from beginning to end. Each was out to win and each exerted the best that was in him to bring about this desideratum and that there was practically nothing between them when the interference occurred, after a journey of five miles, is nothing short of marvelous. Few such finishes had ever been witnessed by any one in the crowd of thousands who lined Sparks street to get a glimpse of the men as they passed.

The race had been a much talked of event for weeks, but it can scarcely be said that the public expected such an exhibition as that to which it was treated. It turned out to be a revelation to those not accustomed to seeing crack runners matched. The spectators certainly can have no kick coming; they saw a contest of attacks, that was great to a superlative degree. With the principals it is different; after a game struggle they were prevented from reaching a decision as to which was the better man and as before the race that question will remain in dispute. Certain it is that the backers of both have lost no confidence in their choice; rather is each side doubly more ready to back its favourite in another match should the runners see fit to fight it out again. And the generous wish is that this may be, should the weather permit before the season closes. It will, however, be at least a week before either could be expected to participate in such another trying ordeal.

The race was scheduled to start at 1 o'clock and at five minutes before the appointed hour the three runners had arrived. E. R. Williams and J. J. McKenzie, of the Y. M. C. A., dressed at the association, while Burns, who was running under the colours of the College Football club, dressed at Varsity oval, and accompanied by his trainer, Jack Davis, drove over to the Citizen office. There were few preliminaries and sharp on time the trio took their places on the scratch. Quite a large crowd lined the streets to witness the start but it was small as compared to that which was present for the finish. Starter Chittick sent the men away without delay and immediately it was apparent it was to be a race from the start. The runners were preceded at a short distance by one of Wilson & Co's big touring cars driven by Mr. H. R. Wilson and containing one of the judges. Immediately behind the runners was Mr. John R. McFarlane's auto, carrying the other judge.

The pace cut out was hot, but steady for the first mile with the three well together. Rounding the bend in the driveway at the end of Waverley street the pace began to tell on McKenzie, Burns and Williams well together, drawing ahead gradually. At the Ottawa East bridge they were still abreast and a number of persons on bicycles accompanying the race were warned off by the judges for interference. There was practically no change in the position of the men, it being a see-saw race between the leaders until the entrance to the exhibition grounds was reached. Here Burns let out a burst of speed in an effort to shake Williams off, but the latter gamely closed up a ten yard gap and as they rounded the turn opposite Aberdeen pavilion they were on equal terms again. McKenzie in the meantime was having troubles of his own a couple of hundred yards back and being attacked by cramps he was picked up by the leading car at the commencement of the return journey.

The wind meanwhile was plainly having its effect on the runners. The breeze was stiff and choppy along the canal and made the going particularly hard at times. The race from the turn was a see-saw contest, now one now the other, having a slight lead in an effort to get away from his man. The real hard work began on rounding into Elgin street from the driveway. The Elgin street hill was a heart-breaker, but both went at it bravely. Turning the corner into Sparks street Williams got away with a lead of a few yards and immediately the sprint for home began. Burn piled on the speed and overtook and passed Williams slightly before the first block was traversed. Positions changed a couple more times in the remaining distance not more than a few inches separating them at any point. The crowd gave a good clear course right down to within a few yards of the tape when those behind kept craning out to catch a glimpse of the runners, with the result that despite the efforts of the police and officials the course was cut off several feet ahead of the tape.

It was impossible to tell just what the result was, so close were the men, each side claiming a victory and several bets were paid over on the assumption that one or the other had won. Referee Chittick's decision of "No race; all bets off", was the only one possible under the circumstances although it certainly to be regretted that such was necessary. The time of the men was 27.33.

The officials were:—

Starter and referee—F. C. Chittick.

Timers—Dr. D. H. Baird, Hy. Rosenthal, Samuel Bilsky.

Judges of course—W. C. Grant, A. P. Hinds.

Mr. G. R. Lancefield, from a position on an electric car, took cinematographic views of the finish along the stretch down Sparks street, and of the huge crowd in front of the Citizen building.

Williams and Burns have taken until Monday to come to a decision as to whether the race will be re-contested. Each is anxious to have the question of supremacy settled but the clerk of the weather for the next week will have a great deal to do in the matter.

WARRANTS IN BALLOT-BOX CASES

For Messrs. Byron O. Lott, Shibley and Reilly.

T. E. WHELAN OUT ON BAIL

Evidence Taken On Saturday—Byron O. Lott Looking For a Copy of the Ballot —Statement of Returning Officer's Clerk—There Appears to Have Been Previous Knowledge of the Boxes.

Belleville, Nov. 21.—Within ten minutes after the adjournment of the court Saturday Mr. Geo. F. Shepley, K.C., was in consultation with Lieut.-Col. Sherwood of the Dominion Police. Their conference lasted up till within a few minutes of the hour at which Mr. Shepley left for Toronto. Immediately after his departure Col. Sherwood waited upon Police Magistrate Flint and laid information against Byron O. Lott, Stirling; W. J. Shibley, Harrowsmith; F. E. Whelan, Prescott, and O. J. Reilly, Kingston. Warrants were issued for the arrest of the persons named and placed in the hands of the proper officers for execution. Mr. Whelan was arrested at Prescott and brought before the Police Magistrate here. He was remanded until Friday next, bail being accepted. Mr. Whitney, a banker, who accompanied the accused from Prescott, deposited a check for $2,000 as security for his appearance. Mr. Whelan, who is an inland revenue officer at Prescott, said that on the morning of nomination day a man drove to his place with a box which he desired to be shipped by express to Lott and gave him $5 to pay the charges, which were $2.50. He (Whelan) knew nothing of the contents of the box. Mr. W. J. Shibley was in the city Saturday, but left before the warrant was issued. Mr. B. O. Lott, it was reported, was absent on a hunting expedition, but is was stated by a friend of the family Saturday that he was at his home up till some time this week. Up to a late hour last night no further arrests had been reported.

Previous Knowledge of Boxes.

The morning session of the court on Saturday was devoted to taking evidence to show that certain persons engaged in connection with the election had knowledge previous to the election regarding the bogus ballot boxes. James Gay, a farmer of West Huntingdon, who acted as scrutineer for Mr. Porter at No 2 poll in Huntingdon Township, was warned beforehand by Mr. Porter, who visited his house in company with Mr. W. P. Hudson, J.P., who sat on the Bench with Magistrate Wood at the first session of the court, to look out for the bogus ballot boxes. On the day of the election, when witness examined the ballot box before the poll opened, Sim Ashley, the deputy returning officer, said: "Jim, there is no wire handle on that." At noon Ashley referred to the subject again, and said: "Jim, you mistrusted I had one of those switch ballot boxes today;" and during the conversation which followed. Ashley said: "I could have had one of them if I wanted it," and offered to bet $50 witness couldn't have worked the combination if he had brought it along. Ashley said 60 of the boxes had gone to Western Ontario, but there was none in Hastings.

Forbes Sherry, a machine agent, corroborated the last witness. In cross-examination, he said, he had received a letter from Mr. Thresher, solicitor, of Stirling, threatening an action for slander because of a statement he had made in Belleville regarding Sim Ashley's connection with the bogus ballot boxes.

Wilbert Carter and Harry Lane were called to prove that the bogus boxes were obtained from Phillip A. Lott.

Phillip Lott's Confidant.

Mr. James Hurst, the Belleville insurance agent who was made a confidant by Phillip A. Lott, related the conversation which took place between them. The story told in the box by Phillip Lott was a repetition of what Lott had told him at various times since March last. It was at first the intention of Phillip Lott and himself to let the parties use the boxes and catch them red-handed.

In cross-examination by Mr. McCamon witness related that Phil. A. Lott told him on the night they were staying together at the hotel that the bogus ballot boxes, the old-fashioned type, were that good the Ontario Government had paid $50,000 for the use of them. All through the summer whenever he and Phillip Lott met they had numerous conversations, but he thought he never heard of Reilly in connection with the matter until the Friday before the elections; at all events, he was not shown the correspondence with Reilly. Witness was always doubtful about the boxes materialising, as he didn't think sane people would take such a chance. It was at the suggestion of Phil. Lott and witness that Mr. Harry Corby was present at the interview when Lott made the exposure, because they expected trouble would arise, and everybody would believe Mr. Corby if he came forward and said he had seen the bogus ballot boxes before the election.

Byron O. Lott did not know that Phillip had taken witness into his confidence and witness cautioned Phillip not to let anyone else know what was going on. He couldn't say who was directing operations. Phillip Lott sometimes took advice from witness and occasionally witness took Phillip's advice; they acted together all through the business.

R. J. Chamberlain, Inspector of Dominion Secret Service, testified to having received one of the boxes from P. A. Lott and illustrated the method of operation.

Byron Lott Asked For Ballot.

J. R. Reid, clerk to the returning officer, testified to Bryon O. Lott coming into the office some time before the election and asking for a copy of the ballot, as he wanted one to show a young fellow how to vote. Witness told him they were kept locked up by Mr. Williams; also the seal. At the time Mr. Williams was up north delivering the ballot boxes to the deputies witness told Mr. Lott there was a copy of the ballot in the election act which would serve the purpose, and Mr. Lott replied he had the act in his grip. On the day before the election P. A. Lott came into the office and asked witness if Byron had told him of the scheme. Witness hadn't heard anything about it, but thought he would fish a little, so he nodded his head. P. A. Lott added: "It would have been all right, only Williams kept the ballots locked up all the time so close they could not get them." Witness told Phillip that Mr Carman had printed 800 extra ballots.

Could Not Be Used Without Detection.

In cross-examination Mr. Reid stated that the ballot papers could not be used as they came from the printers. It was necessary to have the returning officer's stamp on them before they could be used, and the stamp was kept locked up, so that no one could get at it to use it improperly. Witness did not think the boxes produced could be operated without detection if the scrutineers were ordinarily intelligent and observant.

The court adjourned until Friday next.

PERILS OF THE SEA

Rumored Loss of Red Star Liner Kroonland, 1,445 Passengers.

BRAND STORY AS MALICIOUS

Barkentine Makaweli Foundered On West Coast of Vancouver Island and Capt. Neilson and All Hands Perished— British Steamship Sicilian Prince Ashore With 612 Persons— British Ship Hit By Shot.

London, Nov. 21.—A despatch to The Central News from Brussels last night says it is rumored at Antwerp that the Red Star Line steamship Kroonland, with 1,445 passengers, has foundered in mid-ocean.

The officials of the Red Star Line have no information of any such disaster and discredit the report.

The Kroonland sailed from Antwerp, Nov. 12, for New York.

Story Branded As Malicious.

New York, Nov. 21.—The officials of the Red Star Line brand as malicious the rumor of the Kroonland foundering. They discredit the report and declare that the ship is not due here until Monday night, and, as vessels arriving report heavy weather, she may not arrive until Tuesday.

Barkentine Founders.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 21.—The barquentine Makaweli, Capt. Neilson, lumber laden, from Tacoma to Mazatlan, Mex., has foundered on the west coast of Vancouver Island at Clayoquot. All hands perished.

Ashore With 612 Persons.

New York, Nov. 21.—Capt. Van Wicklen of the Long Beach, Long Island, life saving station, reports that the British steamship Sicilian Prince, from Marseilles, Naples and Palermo, for New York, with 612 persons aboard, went ashore at 5 o'clock yesterday morning about half a mile west of the life saving station. The steamer lay in an easy position. At high tide an attempt was to be made to pull the Sicilian Prince off.

Should this attempt fail the 600 steerage and 12 cabin passengers will be taken off and the cargo lightered.

British Ship Hit By Shot.

London, Nov. 21.—Capt. Carron of the liner Grange, which arrived Saturday, reports that at noon on Wednesday, in the Firth of Forth, a warship fired six shots at his ship. One struck it, plowing along the deck, dangerously close to two of the ship's officers. The weather was hazy, and no vessel was visible. It is not believed the shots were fired by any Russian. The incident was probably due to careless target practice by some British warship.

Fishing Stations Damaged.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 21.—A fierce storm swept the Newfoundland coast Friday night, doing much damage at the fishing stations. Owing to the fact that most of the vessels have ceased fishing, the casualties are not likely to be large.

Casualties in Wreck.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 21.—Train No. 4, the Continental Limited, on the Wabash, eastbound, collided head-on at Bement, Ill., yesterday noon with passenger train No. 19, westbound, owing to a misunderstanding in orders as to where they should pass. Both engines were demolished and the baggage cars telescoped.

The train crews saved themselves by jumping. Engineer Edwards had both ankles sprained and twenty passengers were injured, none fatally. Among them were:

H. J. Scott, Toronto, Ont., collarbone broken.

Mrs. G. S. Hicks, Toronto, wrist and shoulder sprained.

Dr. C. O'Reilly, Toronto, cut on head and rib broken.

Charles Griffin, porter, Windsor, Ont., hip sprained.

The Toronto Victims.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Dr. O'Reilly, superintendent of the Toronto General Hospital, left a week ago to see the St. Louis Fair. He wired home yesterday that he was unhurt.

H. J. Scott, K.C., was on his way to Texas to visit a ranch in which he is interested. It is just a short time ago since he broke both legs.

Fatal Fire At World's Fair.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 21.—The Missouri State Building at the World's Fair was destroyed by fire Saturday night, resulting from the explosion of a hot water heater in the basement. The building cost $145,000, and in its were $75,000 worth of furnishings, portraits of all former Missouri governors and supreme judges, which cannot be replaced. While responding to the alarm, Capt. O'Neill of World's Fair truck No. 4 was seriously hurt, George Garbenbach was killed and Jaremiah Fagin probably fatally injured by the truck upsetting. Lloyd Randolph was fatally injured by a falling wall.

Twelve Burned to Death.

New York, Nov. 21.—Smothered before they could reach the rear fire escape in a burning tenement building on Troutman street, Brooklyn, 12 persons met death early Sunday morning. Two entire families, those of Maranio Triolo and Charles Pologio, were wiped out, the last living members of each, Chas. aged 33, and Tony Triolo, aged 13, being now in hospital with no hope of recovery.

Mother Rescued Boy.

Bisco, Nov. 21.—A sad drowning accident occurred here yesterday afternoon. Two lads named Simpson and Langevin were skating on the lake when they broke through the ice, 80 feet from shore. Young Langevin was rescued by his mother who witnessed the accident and ran boldly out on the frail ice to her son's aid. The lad Simpson, aged 13, went down before help could reach him. The body was recovered an hour afterwards.

Burlington Man Killed.

Williamstown, Mass., Nov. 21.—W. E. Rowson of Burlington, Ont., a traveling salesman for a Boston manufacturing plant, was struck by a freight train and killed last night at the Boston & Maine depot, as he was about to board an express train. His head was terribly crushed, his right arm torn from his body, all of the ribs of his left side fractured and his left leg broken.

Brakeman Instantly Killed.

Hamilton, Nov. 21.—George T. Hawthorne, London, employed as a brakeman on the G.T.R., fell off his train near Dundas Saturday morning and was instantly killed. His body was horribly mangled.

F. W. Glen, Ex., in Jail.

New York, Nov. 21.—Once worth $800,000, which he says he lost through the indiscriminate endorsement of friends' notes, Francis Wayland Glen (formerly M.P. for South Ontario), a well known writer on economics and the prophet of universal happiness and international peace, is an inmate of Ludlow street jail, for the non-payment of a paltry sum of $40, which Miss Josephine Marion Kneeland, a free-lance stenographer, says he owes her. She took at his dictation and transcribed many of the letters in which he propounded his theories of good will among men. Mr. Glen says he will pay Miss Kneeland in good time the money he justly owes her. Meanwhile, although he is 70 years of age, he will serve his 15 days in jail, after which he says he will be able to protect himself.

Distributing the Cost.

Our tailorey contains a pooling of the highest grade tailoring ability in America.

We have nearly one hundred experts, each of whose salary amounts to the entire sum paid by the ordinary custom tailor to fifteen of his best employees.

The high salaries we pay secure us tailors who know how to achieve the best results in tailoring—who know how to make Semi-ready shape retaining—to give the proper lives to the suit—to do the thousand and one things that only men of brainy initiative can think of.

By assembling these experts in units—by distributing suit parts among them, giving each his particular specialty—do we economize time and secure the maximum grade of tailoring.

By distributing the cost of these experts over many suits are we enabled to sell Semi-ready at the honest value of the suit.

And we return your purchase money for any cause.

PRESENTATION TO MR. W. J. NELSON

Was Remembered by Employes of the C. G. E. Armature Dept.

A committee representing the Armature Department of the Canadian General Electric Company, waited upon Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Nelson, of Bolivar street recently and presented Mr. Nelson, on behalf of the employees of the department, with a beautiful silver butter dish and pickle crust and accompanying it was the following address:—

We, the undersigned employees of the C.G.E. Co, and fellow workers with you, cannot allow the event of your marriage to pass by without recognising your comradeship and good fellowship. Now, Mr. Nelson, permit us to show our esteem and regard toward you, and our request is that you accept this memento as a slight token of our esteem and as emblem of our friendship.

Wishing you a bon voyage on the matrimonial ocean and our best wishes for yourself and Mrs. Nelson, we are, yours sincerely,

SUPERINTENDENT WAS ENGAGED.

Mr. F. Forsythe Will Hold That Position in Shovel Factory.

Meeting of Provincial Directors and Shareholders of Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company.

A meeting of the provisional Directors and Stockholders of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company was held Friday night, when Mr. Frank Forsythe, of Hamilton, lately of Berkley Springs, West Virginia, was present as an applicant for the position of factory superintendent. Mr. Forsythe is a man who has had considerable experience in this line of work, and was engaged by the provisional directors, pending ratification of the agreement by the regular Board of Directors which will be elected during this week.

Preparations were also made at the meeting for the purchase of a complete plant for the new factory, that is to be, and on Saturday the new factory superintendent and Mr. W. Rudkins, one of the Directors, left for Berkley Springs, W. Va., to inspect the proposed purchase, and close for it if it is satisfactory.

The Berkley Springs plant is one of three erected and equipped under the direction of Mr. Berkley, but it ran only a few months, chiefly because of the influence of the Trust.

It is stated that there are three times as many shovel factories in the United States as are necessary to supply the demand, and this is accounted for by the fact that at the time the Shovel Trust was formed, a great many, nearly all, in fact, of the shovel factories in the country were bought up by that concern, and following this a large number of independent factories were erected, many of them doubtless, with the intention that they too would be bought by the Trust, at a profit on the cost of construction. The plans along this line failed, and as a result some of the factories so constructed were closed down after a few months' operations, and one of these was the Berkley Springs plant.

The Directors of the Peterborough company learned that this plant was for sale at a price which was considered very reasonable, and an additional advantage was the fact that if it could be procured, it would not be necessary to wait five or six months to get the machinery, as would be the case if new machinery were ordered.

The plant which the company will erect will have a capacity of 15,000 dozen shovels per year, which will be a good output, and if the product of the works finds the sale anticipated this capacity will no doubt in the near future have to be materially increased.

The building at the start will be one 200 by 60 feet in size, and this will contain all the machinery necessary for the manufacture of the products, which at first will include spades, shovels and pick-axes.

An idea of the style of the machinery required in the factory may be formed when it is learned that one machine alone weighs 23,000 lbs.

The stock of the company is being taken up well, and this week a meeting of the shareholders will be held for the purpose of electing officers, and a Board of Director

The company has not yet decided upon the site for the factory, but it is likely that one convenient to railway facilities, and one which will give the company the ability to expand their premises, should the increase of business demand it, will be chosen.

This industry, which is financed almost entirely by local capitalists, and which has been launched without a blare of trumpets, promises to become one of the most prosperous and most successful of Peterborough's industrial concerns.

—Inspector W. E. H. Carter, of the Bureau of Mines, who has returned from an investigation of the working mines, says that in the lower levels of the Williams Iron Mines, on the Algoma Central Railway, north of the Soo, new bodies or bands of high grade hematite ore has been struck. These show a total of twenty-three feet of clean ore with an additional ten feet or so of second grade ore, in a total width of sixty feet. This is an entirely new iron area, and if the bodies prove to be continuous may develop into an important field.

—In Chicago, some years ago, at a large varnish manufacturing establishment, the men were accustomed to be trained at fire drill whenever the alarm was given. On one occasion the men were lined up with fire extinguishers on their backs. Probably because of long storage, the decomposition of the chemicals contained in one of the extinguishers, had made the pressure within the extinguisher greater than it was calculated to bear. The result was that the bottom flew out, and the man, in the semblance of a human rocket, was shot up off his feet, and out through a window, and, falling, was killed.

Most Popular Book.

It has become the custom to pick the most popular books of the year by the number of copies issued. Going by this standard probably the most popular book in the world is Dodd's Almanac. Where other books figure their editions by thousands and hundreds of thousands, Dodd's Almanac counts its annual circulation in millions and tens of millions.

A copy of the 1905 edition has just come to hand, and it is filled as usual with useful information concerning the movements of the heavenly bodies, as well as the various important dates of the year, and a number of statements from different people in Canada that gives some idea of the great work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing.

The true test of merit is time, and surely Dodd's Kidney Pills have stood the test of time. Fourteen years ago they were known only to one scientific man who had spent the best years of his life in their discovery. Their growth in the public estimation was slow at first, but gathered in speed and strength as it grew. It is noted in this year's almanac there are letters of appreciation from Denmark in the north of Europe, to Egypt, away below the line that marks the southern boundary line of the continent.

So Dodd's Kidney Pills have grown on their merit. To-day the Canadian public use ten times as many of them as they did a few years ago. And this little book has become an annual and welcome visitor, not only in every home in Canada but in almost every home in the civilized world.

W. ANDERSON M.P.P. LIBERAL CHOICE

East Riding Liberals unanimously Nominated Sitting Member.

List of Officers Elected at the Convention To-day.

Special to the Examiner.

A largely attended, representative and enthusiastic convention of the Liberals of East Peterborough was held in the Town Hall, Norwood, to-day. The attendance and enthusiasm were suggestive of the nomination of Mr. Finlay and also suggested of similar successful results when the time for the election may come.

Mr. Wm. Anderson, M.P.P., the sitting member, was nominated by Mr. Charles O'Reilly, seconded by Mr. J. Dewart. There being no other nominations Mr. Anderson was unanimously tendered the nomination.

Mr. Anderson accepted the trust in a brief speech, returned his thanks and promised to give his best services—to the riding in case he were elected of which event he had no doubt, if his friends gave him the cordial and much appreciated support in the previous election.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED.

The election of officers resulted as follows:—

President—John Laing, ex-M.P.

Vice-Presidents — E. Hawthorne, Dummer; John Maloney, Douro; Jas. Johnson, Belmont.

Secretary—Dr. A. J. Robertson, Norwood.

Treasurer—M. E. Knox, Norwood.

As our report closes, the Executive Committee is being elected, to be followed by the selection of delegates to be sent to the great Liberal Convention in Toronto.

The spirit and enthusiasm of the convention point to East Peterborough being again placed in the Liberal column with Mr. Wm. Anderson as standard bearer.

MEN'S MEETING WELL ATTENDED

Rev. J. G. Potter Spoke to Many Men Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday's meeting for men at the Y.M.C.A. added another to the splendid gatherings which have been held in the hall this season. The attendance has more than doubled the record of any preceding year for the same time. The stirring addresses by the different speakers, the singing, as well as every other feature have earned for them the title, "The Popular Men's Meeting."

Rev. J. G. Potter's address yesterday was one inspired with manly thought and power in delivery. The subject was, "How does the world use you?" and Joseph was taken as a type, from whose experience many good lessons were drawn. His success was due to the fact that he had God in his life, and all young men could have the same.

Mr. Wilson, the new choir leader of St. Andrew's, made a good impression as he sang, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say."

Mr. Potter will speak again next Sunday. The Hall will no doubt be crowded.

THE CHURCHES.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

At the George street church yesterday morning the choir under the leadership of Prof. Milner, sang the anthem, "God of My Life." The evening anthem was "O Lord, How Manifold." During the offertory, Miss Ruth Dawson sang "In the Eternal City," in an effective manner.

MUSIC AT ST. JOHN'S.

At the offertory in St. John's last night, the beautiful anthem, "Sun of My Soul," was well sung, Miss Marguerite Sawers taking the soprano solo, and Miss Sawers, Mrs. Seward, and Mr. R. Hyderman, the soprano, alto and tenor parts respectively of the incidental trio, in an effective manner.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST.

Yesterday Rev. F. J. Scott, the new pastor of the Murray Street Baptist Church, was greeted by very large congregations both morning and evening. In the morning he took for his text "Sea Sailing Rather than Shore Puddling," and urged his hearers to launch out into the deep sea of Christian experience and activity, rather than merely remaining inanimate on the shore. In the evening the subject of his discourse was "Redemption." Both subjects were treated in a masterly and forceful manner. Rev. Mr. Scott has already made a very deep impression on all who have had the privilege of hearing him.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

During the Advent season, which begins next Sunday, the Rector will preach two series of sermons in keeping with the intention of the season, i. e., preparation for the Second Coming of Christ. The theme for the sermons at the morning services will be, "The Message of St. John the Baptist to the Church," and at the evening services "The Four Last Things, Death, Judgment, Hell, Heaven."

Don't fail to hear the Jessie Maclachlan Concert Thursday, Nov. 24. The Boston Journal says of Miss Maclachlan:—

The simple songs of Scotland were given with infinite feeling and Miss Maclachlan drew from her audience applause such as falls to the lot of few singers. When she gave the stirring martial air "Wi' a Hundred Pipers" the audience went wild. Men jumped on chairs, and waved their arms about ing like mad, and for seven or eight minutes the applause was absolutely terrific. There were fully 5,000 people present.

A REPLY TO REV. MR. LANGFELDT.

A Letter From two Toronto Men on the Subject.

The Writers Believe That Local Option Would Prove Beniricial to the Township.

The Examiner has received the following letter for publication. Some parts of it as received seem to be so essentially and specifically libellous and with no proof beyond assertion afforded of their correctness, that they are omitted. This is not done on account of sympathy with either one side or the other of the controversy for the same treatment would be given a letter on the other side if it should contain statements as closely bordering on libel:—

To the Editor of The Peterborough Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In a recent issue of your contemporary, The Review, there is an article giving the views of the Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, of St. Luke's Church, as strongly opposed to the movement which the good citizens of Smith Township are making for a local option bylaw. Will you kindly give space in your issue for a brief comment on Mr. Langfeldt's remarks from men who have till recently lived in Smith Township, and seen clearly the evil existing there under the present system.

Mr. Langfeldt speaks as if the hotels in Smith Township were model houses, which is far from being the case. He is ready enough to speak in condemnation of certain Peterborough houses, which are violating the law under his personal notice, but thinks the country hotels and hotel-keepers are models of purity and uprightness. * * * It is all very well to say that a man has a free will, but the Rector of St. Luke's Church knows very well that some men's only salvation on the drink question is to keep out of its reach. * * *

If the revenue accumulated from these hotels, which by the way, amounts to some $360, is stopped, we venture to say that a compensation will be made to our country in the increase of land and income taxes and a higher standard of morality.

Next Mr. Langfeldt touches upon the tourist traffic of the country, which he asserts will be ruined by the removal of the bars. In reality it is allowed by the best class of tourists that the bars are the greatest damper on the tourist trade in a section. Respectable people simply will not bring their families to places of resort, where their finer feelings are daily being shocked by the most disgusting debauchery. On the other hand examples of the so-called temperance hotel may be found, which are filled to over-flowing, and prospering in a way they never could if they had bars attached to them. If this country is to seek prosperity through such a despicable traffic as these licensed hotels are carrying on, better far let it return to its pristine condition, with the wild Indian and the beast of the plain its only inhabitants.

Mr. Langfeldt's remarks drift into a dissertation on prohibition, which is not the question at issue at all. It is simply the people of a township endeavouring to shut out from their midst the cause of a vice, which they prefer to have exist, if it must exist, outside their borders. "Shall a certain class of people," says Mr. Langfeldt, "saddle upon a community a measure which it does not want?" Had the reverend gentleman attended the council meeting at Bridgenorth on the 7th inst., and seen the contrast displayed between the sober, thinking men who were petitioning for the cause of local option, and those who opposed it, he would have had sufficient answer to his question.

If our country is not ready now for such a bylaw, is it in the interests of Christian morality that we should take the position of Mr. Langfeldt and sit back with folded arms waiting for the country to reform itself to such a standard?

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, may we say, that it seems to be a matter to be decided by public opinion whether these houses, supported by the public, shall be allowed to carry on their immoral traffic. Even though the business has been reinforced by the name of one minister of the Gospel, whereas there are numbers on the other side, we feel sure that the intelligent electors of Smith township will stand for the side of truth and moral purity, and join hands in condemning a system which is meaning the ruin and not the prosperity of their country.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in your columns, we are,

Faithfully yours,
(Sgd.) Henry D. Raymond.

WHAT IS ANTI-PILL?

A Somewhat Peculiar Name Explained —How Dr. Leonhardt Came to Call His Famous Prescription "Anti-Pill."

Dr. Leonhardt found in his practice that chronic constipation and its kindred complaints were the result of a dried-up condition of the mucous membrane lining of the stomach and bowels. He investigated further and found that this condition was invariably brought about by the use of cathartics, which all contain a certain amount of resinous matter.

After the first action of such medicines a resinous residue remains behind and this has a drying effect on the lining of the stomach and bowels.

He made up his mind to produce a medicine for all stomach and bowel derangements which would be entirely free from all resinous matter.

After much experiment he succeeded, and to emphasize the difference between his treatment and the old-fashioned treatments, he gave it the name "Anti-Pill."

Anti-Pill will cure dyspepsia, biliousness, or constipation perfectly and for ever—cure to stay cured—with no pill habit left to be overcome later.

VISITED MOST MODERN SCHOOLS.

Deputation from School Board Making Investigations.

The Schools in Detroit, London, and Windsor Inspected Last Week—Report to be Made.

The deputation from the local Board of Education which left last Wednesday to inspect a few of the most modern and up-to-date Collegiate Institutes in the western portion of the province has returned and their mission has been in every way a satisfactory one. The information desired has been secured and the members received many new ideas as to what should constitute a modern and most effectively equipped Collegiate Institute such as is desired in Peterborough and which it is hoped will be erected.

The deputation consisted of Messrs. J. J. Hartley, chairman of the Board, Wm. Pringle, chairman of the Supervision Committee; H. P. Kennedy, chairman of the Building Committee, W. G. Ferguson, a member of the Building Committee, and J. E. Belcher, architect. The Committee, as will be seen, was a most representative one and its members were fully capable of looking into every phase of the question of a thoroughly up-to-date building.

A short time ago Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Belcher were in Toronto inspecting the schools there and they were advised by the City Inspector to visit the schools in Detroit, which were universally conceded to be ahead of anything in Toronto or in the province at large. Acting upon this advice the deputation went first to Detroit where nearly two days were spent in visiting the schools there. The deputation had previously made arrangements with the School Boards in the place to visited to be shown about the cities so that they could make the very best use of their time. At Detroit the Inspector, Principals of the two High Schools, Superintendent of the School System and others met the deputation and gave them every opportunity of inspecting the schools. The Central School was erected about 10 years ago at a cost of one half a million dollars. In 1900 the Eastern School was built at a cost of only a quarter of a million dollars, and as regards accommodation, convenience and modern improvements it is much ahead of the Central though costing only half the amount. It is of course not as large as the Central building. The new building is certainly an ideal one in every respect and every possible convenience for scholars and teachers is to be found. The members of the deputation were delighted with what they saw and will try to have these modern improvements in connection with the local new Collegiate.

At Windsor the Collegiate was also a splendid one but was not up to the high standard of that in Detroit. The building has been erected for 10 years and some of the Board there expressed the regret that more money had not been spent when constructing it in order to have a more improved building. Several members of the Board welcomed the deputation to the city and did all possible in their interests.

On Saturday the London schools were visited. The deputation was here met by the full School Board, the principals of the schools and the School Inspector. The Normal School building, which was built four years ago, is certainly a great credit to the city. It was built at at a cost of $70,000, and provides every facility for successfully carrying on its work. Domestic Science is taught in the Normal School, and the Collegiate, as well, while manual training was adopted by all the schools visited by the deputation.

The deputation explained to the different members of the School Boards whom they met, the location of the Collegiate Institute to be built here, as being on a six acre lot in the centre of the town, with the new armouries and public park adjoining the school grounds. Every Board complimented the deputation upon the fine location.

While the deputation saw many buildings which were ideal, as to arrangements, facilities, etc., they were convinced that the staff of the local Collegiate Inscitute is second to none, and far ahead of many. We have got a most efficient staff, but sadly need a new building. Our present structure was surely "not in it," when compared with any of those inspected by the deputation.

The rate of taxation in Windsor was 12 1-2 mills, school rate, and 27 mills total rate, the assessment being quite high, and higher than in Peterborough. In London the assessment was also high, being 10 1-2 mills school, and 23 mills total.

The object of the Building Committee is to get the very best and latest ideas before the local building is erected, and to have the building a model of Collegiates in the province. As stated above, we have a most efficient staff, and we want a building of the same calibre. The public should heartily support the Board in their efforts to secure the most modern and best equipped building possible.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy is preparing a detailed account of the trip which will appear in these columns, likely on Wednesday.

STRANGE CASE OF SUSAN TIPPING.

She Sleeps for Seventeen Days and Puzzles Physicians.

The Melbourne Argus gives details of the strange case of Susan Tipping, who had a long cataleptic sleep at Gymoton. The girl's father, a miner, says that he never found the girl in any way different from other girls, save that she was inclined to be a little hysterical, and had only a few weeks before declared to him that she was growing afraid to go out in the dark alone. He did not think she had anything on her "mind," save that she had been worried over the illness of her master, the late Mr. William Barker.

The following is Dr. Duncan's account of the case:

"Susan Tipping, a servant in the employ of the late Mr. William Barker, a strong, healthy girl, 18 years of age, retired to rest on the evening of Sunday, June 14, in her usual state of health. When her mistress called her in the morning she met with no response, and all efforts at awakening her proved futile.

"Thinking that she must presently arouse from the stupor, Mrs. Barker felt no concern during the day, though she made several efforts to awaken her. Finding her in the same condition in the evening, however, I was sent for, and on my arrival I tried all the usual methods, none having the least effect. On the following day the girl was brought into the hospital, and a most careful examination made.

"No symptoms of any disease were discoverable, the pulse being regular and quite normal, and the breathing the same. The eyelids were firmly closed, and on forcibly opening them the eyes were found to be turned up and the pupils contracted, as in normal sleep. The whole attitude of the patient was that of a peaceful and healthy slumber. She was totally insensible to pain of any kind. The powerful galvanic shocks applied to her might just as well have been applied to the bed on which she was lying, for all the effect they had. She was so thoroughly tested by other methods as to absolutely preclude any idea of malingering. The state was recognized as one of genuine trance or lethargy.

"As it was doubtful how long the condition would last, measures were at once taken to support her strength and assure her comfort. Feeding her by a stomach-tube passed through the mouth was first tried, but had to be abandoned because it caused vomiting. A small India-rubber tube was then passed through one nostril into the stomach. This was connected with a longer tube, with a funnel at the end.

"This method answered perfectly, and was kept in use the whole time the trance-state lasted. Liquid nourishment was simply poured into the funnel in stated quantities. She was fed at regular intervals in this fashion with soups, broths, milk, liquid peptonoids, and beaten-up eggs. She was also given a stated quantity of water at fixed intervals. In this way her health and nutrition were perfectly maintained.

"Her trance terminated suddenly on the seventeenth day, and her first question, in regard to her master, showed that her thoughts ran practically in the same channel as when she fell asleep."

Famous Vine in Royal Gardens.

While, in these days of widely diffused knowledge in relation to the production of grapes, many persons find it difficult to obtain well riponed clusters from comparatively young vines, it is extremely interesting to refer to a great vine planted 129 years ago and bearing a crop of some 1,000 bunches, the berries finely developed and as black as sloes.

This grand old vine is growing in the Cumberland Lodge portion of the royal gardens at Windsor, and is known as the Cumberland Lodge vine. It is one of the descendants of the famous vine at Hampton Court, which was planted 139 years ago, and it has outdistanced its venerable parent in dimensions, in vigor and in productiveness. Occupying a great glass structure 120 feet long by 20 feet wide, it spreads its luxuriant branches over a roof area of 2,400 feet, which is fully one-third greater than the area of the house occupied by its venerable parent at Hampton Court.

For so large a vine 1,000 bunches, weighing in the aggregate 1,500 lbs., is not a heavy crop, but the grapes are in every way befitting the royal table, and to overtax the strength of so old a vine would be unwise.—Gardeners' Magazine.

Plants for the Window.

Petunias and other border plants should be dug up and potted just before frosts for the winter window garden. Keep them cool and shaded for about two weeks; then cut down the tops, and they will soon send up a new and thrifty growth.

An Earlier Generation.

A Russian immigrant of tender age was being registered in a downtown Philadelphia school. The teacher questioned, "What is your name?"

"Kattuka," replied the child.

"And your father's name?"

"I never hat one," came the quick response.

"Then tell me your mother's name," again said the teacher kindly.

"I never hat no mudder neither," answered the little child seriously. "I was born off my gran'mudder."

Grasping the Situation.

"I want to see the man of the house," said the fakir to the red haired lady who opened the door.

"Do you want to see the man of the house or the boss of the house?" inquired the latter, with energy.

"I guess it's you I want to see, leddy," responded the fakir, with quick apprehension.

"And the charity is supported by voluntary contributions?"

"Why," said the clergyman, "I can't say that it is exactly. The fact is that some of the ladies on our committee are so persuasive and so persistent that people just have to contribute."

USE SCIENTIFIC KITES

SCIENTISTS HOPE TO EVOLVE FLYING MACHINES FROM THEM.

The Kite-Flying Contests at St. Louis—Major Baden-Powell and Prof. Bell—The Latter's Experiments in Kite Flying—Some of Them Look Large Enough to Be Floating Houses.

Kite-flying, which used to be mere child's play, has now been taken up as a serious study by scientific men. It is their expectation that the kite can be evolved into the flying machine by patient study of the problems involved and experiments in kite-flying.

Encouragement to experiments along this line has been given by the world's fair aeronautic contests. The management of the fair, besides offering a grand prize of $100,000 for the winner of the airship contests, provided valuable prizes for the winners of subsidiary aerial competitions including kite-flying. Among those participating in the experimental flights at St. Louis were such eminent and scientific kite-fliers as Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the Bell telephone; William E. Eddy, inventor of the Eddy kite, and Major R. F. Baden-Powell of England. It so happened that the prize was won not by a scientist, but by a sixteen-year-old boy, J. B. Wardwell, of Stamford, Conn.

MAJOR B. F. BADEN-POWELL.

Major Baden-Powell is a brave soldier as well as a scientific kite-flier, but he should not be confused with Major-General Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, the defender of Mafeking in the South African war. Major Baden-Powell also fought and won distinction in the war against the Boers. He is a younger and lesser known officer than the major-general of the same name, however. Major Baden-Powell is an officer of the Scots Guards, has written much on scientific subjects and is the founder and proprietor of The Illustrated Scientific News.

When a man who has made such a success in both business and science as Professor Bell takes up kite-flying it makes people think there must be something more than boy's play in it. Professor Bell has explained in The National Geographic Magazine the principles of his tetrahedral kite. A tetrahedral kite is one having four equal triangular sides or it may be composed of a number of such structures. He says that a properly constructed flying machine should be capable of being flown as a kite, and, conversely, a properly constructed kite should be capable of use as a flying machine, when driven by its own propellers. He adds: "Given a kite so shaped as to be suitable for the body of a flying machine and so efficient that it will fly well in a good breeze (say twenty miles an hour) when loaded with a weight equivalent to that of a man and engine, then it seems to me that this same kite, provided with an actual engine and a man in place of the load and driven by its own propellers at the rate of twenty miles an hour, should be sustained in calm air as a flying machine. So far as the pressure of the air is concerned it is surely immaterial whether the air moves against the kite or the kite against the air."

Professor Bell's kites are composed of various combinations of tetrahedrons, some of the kites looking large enough to be floating houses.

Why Do Women Worry

AND THEREBY EXHAUST THE NERVOUS SYSTEM AND RUIN HEALTH?

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The worry habit is an unmitigated evil.

Worry is by far the most frequent cause of nervous disease.

Because of the multitude of household and family cares, and because of the nature of their employment, women are especially liable to give way to worry and anxiety.

The result is wasted nerve force, weakness and disease.

It may be nervous headaches, sleeplessness, irritability, indigestion, discouragement and melancholy, or weakness and irregularities peculiarly feminine.

The only way to restore health and strength is by increasing the nerve force in the body, and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Make a test of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food by noting your increase in weight from week to week while using it.

Notice the improvement in your appetite, and how much better you rest and sleep.

The healthful appearance of women who have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the best proof of what it will do in the way of steadying and strengthening the nerves, rounding out the form and replacing weakness and disease with new strength and spirits.

Mrs. M. A. Sharp, 346 Dublin street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "For some years I was troubled with indigestion, which developed into nervous dyspepsia, and besides suffering from nervousness, strange dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine, I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed, and as a result of the use I am quite restored to health."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 1

We Offer $1,000

For a Disease Germ That Liquozone Can't Kill.

On every bottle of Liquozone we offer $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. We do this to assure you that Liquozone does kill germs.

And it is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact which gives Liquozone its worth to humanity; a worth so great that, after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights. And we have spent over one million dollars, in one year, to buy the first bottle and give it free to each sick one who would try it.

Acts Like Oxygen.

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there any alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is an absolutely certain germicide. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

Liquozone goes into the stomach, into the bowels and into the blood, to go wherever the blood goes. No germ can escape it and none can resist it. The results are inevitable, for a germ disease must end when the germs are killed. Then Liquozone, acting as a wonderful tonic, quickly restores a condition of perfect health. Diseases which have resisted medicine for years yield at once to Liquozone, and it cures diseases which medicine never cures. Half the people you meet—wherever you are—can tell you of cures that were made by it.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

The Mission of the Tomato Bisque

By RUTH SANTELLE

Copyright, 1904, by Ruth Santelle

Major Blackburn was possessed of a temperament no more irascible than that of the average gentleman of his age. Moreover, the dignity of that age might have gone unsuspected by virtue of his boyish face and genial if somewhat pompous manner had it not been for the telltale appurtenances of a veteran's title and a great grown-up son of the modern, broad shouldered type.

But the major was inclined to take it good naturedly. Aspiring to youthfulness in old age was not one of his hobbies. He was guilty, nevertheless, of two—a pet ideal and a pet aversion. The first was an imaginary picture he had conjured up of an old time girl who scorned "higher education" and devoted herself to the acquisition of an endless string of housewifely accomplishments. The second was tomatoes. Utterly unfit to eat! He knew it beyond hope of conversion. Furthermore, they sickened him unto death—upon his word as a gentleman and soldier.

His thoughts were neither of the visionary maid nor the detested vegetable as he strode up and down the aisle of the chilly car. They had been fighting snow and wind since 4 p. m., and now it was 10, and the drifts piled higher. Something had happened to the steam pipes, and comfortable warmth was fast becoming a more and more distant memory. Worst of all, they had not yet succeeded in reaching the place where the dinner was taken on, and, dinnerless, the major was unhappy.

"Where in the world are we, and what are we stopping for this time?" he growled as a blue nosed brakeman swung through.

"Stopping because we can't go no farther," was the answer. "This here's Graves Station, and we're telegraphing for relief. Let you know directly," as he disappeared.

"Comforting, to say the least! Windows so frosted you can't see out. Probably nothing to see if you could. How a cup of coffee now would cheer a man's soul!"

The major's dismal reflections were interrupted by a clear, ringing laugh. Irresistibly he stopped by the seat of the fresh cheeked, tailored girl in the wide hat who had been variously ministering to the hungry, cold, tired car full. Now, she had a youngster in her lap, stifling his fretting with bites of juicy orange. It looked inviting.

"I am sorry to say," came the conductor's voice from the doorway, "that the drifts make it impossible for us to go on. We have sent for the plow to release us, and it can probably get here in two hours. As all trains after 8 o'clock are through expresses, the station is closed for the night, so I am afraid"—

A chorus of groans drowned the rest of the announcement. Helplessly and hopelessly they looked at each other. The tailored girl alone, slipping the child from her knees, held a moment's consultation with the conductor. Then she called cheerfully:

"I am organizing a foraging expedition. May I ask for volunteers, please? Four men, I think—young ones. We'll let the rest of you help when we see what's to be done."

The response was instantaneous. She had to be firm in accepting the four who reached her first. Like a captain, she managed her crew in undisputed sway, and before the now interested crowd could grow impatient they found themselves filing through hastily shoveled paths into the station's single building, almost warm already with a huge fire in the stove.

"It wasn't a bit hard to get in," warbled the captain, now playing hostess. "We found quantities of wood, and if you're all very good and don't hinder we may find you something eatable in due time. Now, you," to the flattered major, "keep everybody else amused some way while we get supper."

"That girl is a—a—brick!" he murmured admiringly and proceeded to obey orders to the best of his ability.

The merry cries from the kitchen end of the establishment helped him in his efforts.

"Crackers!" carroled the captain encouragingly. "Half a barrel full. And a can of cream frozen almost solid. I'll have to sweeten some for dessert."

A few moments of laughter and apparent investigation.

"Now, a girl like that!" the major was pondering, unable to keep his jealous glance from wandering.

Then a burst of triumph from the kitchen: "Oh, see what I've found! Cans and cans of them! Now for a feast!"

Then a period of busy silence and strengthening odors.

In less time than the famished travelers had dared hope they were ranged before bowls brimming with a steaming and savory concoction, the very sight of which increased their faith in a sheltering Providence.

"Fall to, fall to!" urged the apparently untired girl, waving a long ladle like a magician's wand. "There are gallons and gallons, and I don't want to see a motionless spoon till every drop has vanished."

They needed no second invitation. As the major leaned back after a fourth polishing of his bowl the girl came up with a platter. "Take this," she whispered, "and gather the biggest sort of a collection to leave in payment for our entertainment."

And the plate grew heavy as he went the rounds, supported by the voice of the girl from her stool pedestal.

Then came the dish washing—("Is there anything that girl won't think of?" wondered the major)—and a round of lively games, upon which broke the welcoming shriek of the snowplow.

And how the winter night was rent with cheer upon cheer for the captain as once again they boarded the train with a fair passage ahead!

The major by force captured the seat beside her.

"We can't begin to thank you, of course. It was a case of salvation pure and simple. And that stew—perfectly delicious! If I might ask you to accept my card"—

As she took the bit of pasteboard she started and flushed; then, with a fluttering apology, was off to adjust the wraps of an old lady who was trying to get a nap. And when at the first stop she left the train, escorted by a bodyguard six or eight strong, with a musical "Goodby, everybody, and bon voyage!" over her shoulder, the major felt that his advances had not been warmly received.

During the two days which the major and his son, who had gone ahead, spent over the business which had called them from home the younger man found his patience tried by the incessant allusions to "the girl who saved our lives."

"A girl like that, Warren, would make a wife worth having! Capable to the last degree! None of your aesthetic ethics about her. What you can see in that college creation you're so determined to"—

"If you please, father, remember that I am engaged to marry Miss Berkeley and cannot countenance slighting remarks even from you. If you would only consent to see her you would not feel so, I know."

"Well, well, never mind! But a girl like that I could welcome as a daughter," was the regretful response.

On the return trip, by daylight, the major grew visibly excited as they neared the town where the girl had stopped.

"I'll watch closely, Warren. If she should happen to be at the train I could point her out."

"Ye-es," drawled Warren absently; then he started forward as the train pulled in. "Marcia! Why, what in the world"—

But his father was peering through the window. "By Jove, there she is! And she's—no—yes—she's getting on! Don't be excited, Warren, if you can help it."

And the major turned to see his dignified son dashing down the aisle; then he held his breath as he saw him warmly greet the angel of the midnight feast.

"Father, this is Miss Berkeley—Marcia," began Warren persuasively, when, to his surprise, the maiden said:

"I have met your father before, though Major Blackburn did not at the time know me."

Father and son gazed from each other to the girl. Comprehension dawned simultaneously. Then the major put out both hands, with laughter in his eyes.

"But, Marcia," questioned Warren, as they seated themselves, "I don't understand yet. Why are you away from the university?"

"Three days' leave of absence for experimental sociology."

"Marcia," said the major, admiration and wonder controlling his voice, "that stew! I didn't know college girls ever did such things."

"My tomato bisque?" she laughed. "I am famous for that in my chafing dish and found just the right things."

"Tomato!" gasped the major, sinking back weakly. "That wasn't tomato? I—I—guess I never tried any before. It was very nice."

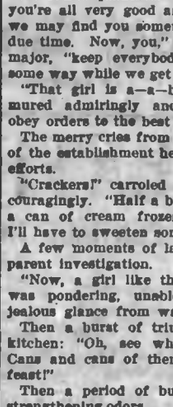
ONE LUNG

May be gone and yet the remaining lung will be amply sufficient to sustain a vigorous vitality. As a general thing few people make more use of both lungs than is equivalent to a healthy use of one lung.

These facts are all in the favor of the man or woman with weak lungs, even when disease has a strong grip on them.



Many a person living in health to-day has the lungs marked by the healed scars of disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes weak lungs strong. It cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding lungs and other conditions, which, if neglected or unskillfully treated, find a fatal termination in consumption.

"I had been troubled with lung disease and pleurisy for a number of years and the trouble had almost become chronic," writes A. S. Elam, of Howe, Ia. "Tried several kinds of medicine from different physicians without much benefit. At last wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce and got his advice, and began using his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have used twenty-five bottles. When I commenced taking it I had no appetite, my system was completely run-down, had no ambition to do anything. Now I feel better than I did before I got sick. Have a good appetite and am able to do my work. I sincerely recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to all who are afflicted as I was."

Those who suffer from chronic diseases are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery."

SUNLIGHT SOAP

We have used "Sunlight Soap," and we want to tell you that it is the best soap made, that's why we are writing. We found out that the Sunlight way is the best way to wash with "Sunlight Soap." At first we used to wash with Sunlight Soap in the old way as we did with common soap, but after we washed according to directions printed on the package, we would never wash the old way again. We first soap the articles, leave them to soak and then rub out lightly on the wash board. Not much to do and it makes the clothes white as snow.

Seed Armor.

Plant seeds are incased in a hard covering, upon which the gastric juice of animals takes no effect, and it is this natural protection which preserves what is so necessary to reproduce the support of animal life. It is only when a seed is crushed and its vital principal in consequence destroyed that the gastric juice acts upon it, and it is soon dissolved.

It is for this reason that birds are provided with gizzards to break the protecting coats of the grain, and animals that feed on seeds and nuts strip them of their shells and husks.

In succulent fruit, such as the strawberry, raspberry, currant, apple, orange and melon, which from their nature are attractive to the taste, the seeds, which are often likely to be swallowed, are fortified by a doubly protective coating so that they pass unharmed through the digestive organs, and their germinating powers may even be improved by the warmth and trituration of the stomach.—London Standard.

Swedish Women.

Reverence for women is one of the immemorial Scandinavian characteristics. The women themselves are emulous of masculine achievement and are keen for obtaining the same civil rights. The woman of the south dominates by her charm, the woman of the north by her force of mind. Each has a love of physical activity and a thirst for knowledge. Coeducation prevails everywhere in the schools. In no other country is the woman who is obliged to earn her own living better cared for. All positions and all the professions are open to her. She may be doctor, professor, journalist, manufacturer, without losing her woman's position in the world. The first transportation company of Stockholm was founded by a woman and by her directed with success. Many printing shops employ women exclusively. There has, of course, been the unpreventable consequence of this, that Swedish women have grown indifferent toward marriage, and the number of independent woman has increased—Revue de Paris.

Preserving the Lion.

No more British lions on American silverware, if you please. Parliament has passed a law forbidding it. All along Fifth avenue and in the more fashionable side streets are loads of so called English silver, solid and otherwise, which actually is nothing more than American made stuff that was shipped abroad to be stamped with the English hall mark and reimported as of genuine English manufacture. Hereafter whenever you receive a silver service look at the hall mark to see if the pieces are genuine. No more shall the bold symbol of Britain's integrity lash his tail on the bottom of American progress.

Time's Changes.

They were having a good gossip. "How girls change! My Maimie, when she was little, never would go even into the parlor at night without a light because, as she put it, there might be a man there. And now," she added significantly, "she won't have a light in it because there is a man there four or five nights a week."

A PICTURE OF DEATH.

He who hath bent him o'er the dead
Ere the first day of death is fled,
The first dark day of nothingness,
The last of danger and distress,
(Before Decay's effacing fingers
Have swept the lines where beauty lingers),
And marked the mild angelic air,
The rapture of repose, that's there,
The fixed yet tender traits that streak
The languor of the placid cheek,
And, but for that sad shrouded eye,
That fires not, wins not, weeps not now,
And but for that chill, changeless brow,
Where cold Obstruction's apathy
Appals the gazing mourner's heart,
As if to him it could impart
The doom he dreads, yet dwells upon;
Yes, but for these and these alone,
Some moments, ay, one treacherous hour,
He still might doubt the tyrant's power;
So fair, so calm, so softly sealed,
The first, last look by death revealed!
Such is the aspect of this shore;
'Tis Greece, but living Greece no more!
So coldly sweet, so deadly fair,
We start, for soul is wanting there.
Here is the loveliness in death,
That parts not quite with parting breath;
But beauty with that fearful bloom,
That hue which haunts it to the tomb,
Expression's last receding ray,
A gilded halo hovering round decay,
The farewell beam of Feeling past away!
Spark of that flame, perchance of heavenly birth,
Which gleams, but warms no more its cherished earth!

—Lord Byron.

A Forest Storehouse.

John Muir, the naturalist, while in a forest of huge redwoods in California, came across a man who was herding a band of horses. When Mr. Muir asked if he might have some flour the man said: "Yes, of course; you may have anything I've got. Just take my track, and it will lead you to my camp in a big hollow log on the side of a meadow two or three miles from here. I'll be back before night. In the meantime make yourself at home." By the middle of the afternoon Mr. Muir had discovered "his noble den in a fallen sequoia hollowed by fire, a spacious log house of one log, carbon lined, centuries old, yet sweet and fresh, weather proof, earthquake proof, likely to outlast the most durable stone castle."

Naming a Town.

Shortly after it was decided that a postoffice was needed at the settlement now known as Broken Bow the child of one of the settlers brought in from his playground the shoulder blade of a buffalo which contained imbedded in it an Indian arrowhead.

The father of the boy went from curiosity to examine the ground where the bone was found, and near the spot he found an Indian bow, such as they used in hunting buffalo, with one end broken off so as to render it useless. This incident suggested the name of Broken Bow for the postoffice, and the department accepted the name with compliments.

HE MEANS SCOTT'S

Your doctor says you must take cod liver oil. Probably he means Scott's Emulsion because you cannot take the clear oil; no one can take the clear oil who needs cod liver oil. The doctor understands that and doubtless means Scott's Emulsion of cod liver oil which everybody can take because it is emulsified and prepared so that it can be very easily digested by the most sensitive stomach. Most everybody likes it.

THE PROPOSED CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE

Two Teams Have Signified Their Intention of Entering.

The prospects for the proposed City Hockey League appear to be good at this stage of the game and it is believed that at least six teams will be entered with the possibility of more. The outlook for O. H. A. and even Trent Valley League hockey in Peterborough is at present none too bright and there must be some sort of hockey provided for the lovers of the game in town.

Already two teams have signified their intention of entering. One is the Ontario Bank team which will be a pretty fast bunch. The other is the Press team. This latter announcement is not made to discourage other teams who might think of entering as the powers of the Press players is widely known, but merely to push the matter along and to strive to awaken interest in the project. There is not the slightest doubt but that a very successful league could be organized and it is hoped that when a public meeting is called in the near future to consider the question, that there will be a large representation of players present.

RUGBY.

The Globe has the following to say of Saturday's match in Toronto:—

Hamilton won the first of the home-and-home games for the senior Ontario Union on Saturday from the Torontos by a score of 24 to 0. The Tigers played beautiful football, practically outclassing their opponents, although the score is not by any means a true index of the play. The Torontos put up a stout argument, and with a little luck, should have had at least six or seven points, while better tackling would have kept down the Tigers' scores. More than half of the Tigers' gains were indirectly due to the mistakes made by the Torontos' backs, Sale being the principal offender. The St. Andrew's youngster had a rib smashed by a hard tackle early in the fray, and this mishap no doubt affected his usefulness. It was apparent that the Torontos did not play up to their real form, not that they would have won if they had, because the Torontos' speed does not begin to approximate with that of the Tigers. Three hard games in one week and two in three days is a little too much for any team, and it is not to be wondered at that the locals were stale and slow. It was a grand game from a spectator's viewpoint, being replete with fine runs, lofty punting, flying tackles and everything else that goes to make the snap-back style popular with the public. There was not a weak player on the Tigers' team. Every man was trained to the hour. There was speed to burn all along the line, and the tactics employed were of the best. Many trick plays were introduced, one in particular, a criss-cross run, in which the end men were used, proving very effective. A better drilled bunch never stepped on a Toronto field. Quarter-back George Ballard handled the team perfectly, and it was a revelation the manner in which the plays were pulled off. There was no delay; each played knew what was expected of him, and he was in his place as soon as the signal was given. One of the greatest plays ever made on a loose field was made in the second half, when Hamilton, by a combined run, in which nearly every player on the team participated, carried the ball from one end of the field to the other for a try. Each man, when tackled, passed to someone else, and at the finish the progress of the play was marked by a line of thrown players. Hamilton's back division made few, if any, mistakes. DuMoulin kicked grandly and made many nice runs. Simpson's left-foot punting was high and accurate. Moore, whose equal as a running half-back will be hard to find anywhere, was the most spectacular performer of the day. He was a veritable will o' the wisp and as hard to hold as a greasy porker. He figured in many long runs, one in particular, at the close of the game, being almost the length of the field. He kicked three of Hamilton's goals. Tope was auroness personified at full-back, making a number of running catches and good punts. The Tigers' wings were fast and were always on the ball. It would be invidious to particularize; one man was as good an another, and they were all stars. The Torontos made a gallant fight against tremendous odds. Morrison probably was the pick of the half-backs. He kicked well and worked hard throughout. Housser muffed more than is his wont, but still at that did not play a' all badly. Flett made many good relieves, and was not the weakest back by any means. Dale, despite a bad leg, was the most aggressive of the wings. Fellows was always prominent, and Peterson got away with some good tackles. Marsh was injured in the first half, and his absence weakened the line. Cochrane, at quarter, passed and tackled well. The Torontos will do better next Saturday in the return game. They were entitled to something more than a whitewash, considering that they had the ball over the Tigers' line six or seven times, and they expect to make it closer on the Tigers' own stamping-ground. The largest crowd of the season saw the game fully three thousand enthusiasts, including a delegation of 200 be-ribboned Hamiltonians, being in attendance. The gate receipts were in the neighborhood of $450. It was a clean game, not a player being ruled off, and the work of Referee Barr and Umpire McCollum was all that could be desired.

• • • •

Saturday's game did a great deal to promote favour on behalf of the new rules and several exponents of the old game expressed their delight with the new rules after seeing them played by the Tigers, and it seemed the opinion that when properly played, they are the best ever.

• • • •

Mr. Bruce Rickey, the fast outside wing of the Peterborough team was a spectator at the Toronto-Hamilton game on Saturday. He says the Tigers in every way outclassed the Torontos and gave a brilliant exhibition of how the Burnside rules should be played. The back division were all stars and did some wonderful playing. On one occasion the ball was carried the entire length of the field for a try, the combination being superb. The halves were as slippery as eels. Simpson played a brilliant game and was the best punt on the field. The wings are all fast and flusky and when they tackled, the man whom they downed certainly knew he was tackled. The team should give Ottawa College a great game.

• • • •

The Argonauts will likely move at the annual meeting of the O.R.F.U. to return to the scrimmage game as played by the Quebec or Inter-Collegiate Union. The other five senior teams will oppose any change.

• • • •

An amendment to change the "fair catch" rule is certain to be presented the annual meeting of the O. R. F. U. Five yards is too much for wings to keep back, and it is likely a three-yard rule will be introduced.

• • • •

"Ben" Simpson, a former member of the Queen's University team, who is playing half-back for the Hamilton Tigers, is a strong advocate of the snap-back rules. He says the old scrimmage game is obsolete, and the trouble with the Eastern teams is that they have never seen a snap-back game or they would change their adverse opinions.

• • • •

Moore, of the Hamilton Tigers, has kicked goals from nearly 40 tries this season. He has only missed about a dozen.

• • • •

The Torontos will finish the season with a balance close to $500.

• • • •

Queen's won the Intercollegiate Championship on Saturday by defeating McGill by 6-0 at Ottawa in the final game.

DR. YOAKUM ON DIVINE HEALING.

Attracted Large Audiences at Yesterday's Services.

Christ can Cure Our Sickness as Well as Cleanse us From Sin—Yesterday Afternoon's Address.

Dr. Yoakum continues to attract large audiences to his meetings in Bethany Tabernacle, and spoke to good sized audiences yesterday, after being absent for a few days on a trip to Chicago. Services were held held at 11 a.m., 4 and 7 p.m. In the afternoon he addressed the Sunday school, at the conclusion of which a public meeting was held.

Dr. Yoakum encouraged the adults present to bring their children to church service as well as send them to Sunday school. It was an appalling fact, but it was found from statistics that three-fourths of those confined within penitentiary walls are former Sunday school scholars. He though a remedy for this would be found if the parents would accompany their children to school, and return with them, and not allow the children to wander about the streets while the parents were attending service, and their children going to hell. He wished that more children would be brought to hear him speak on Divine Healing, for he believed that they would benefit as much, or more, than the bigger people, into whose hearts he found it hard to place the truth. "Let them sleep in church, if they want to, for that is better than having them go to the devil," he said. The Holy Ghost had often put the speaker to sleep in church when things were being said that would rile him up. He was a firm believer in prayer, "If I don't pray for at least one thousand people a day, I would consider myself backsliding," said the doctor.

If any in the audience had a pain or ache Dr. Yoakum wished to know it, and he would pray, and Christ would take away the pain, as had been promised. At Pittsburg recently twelve persons had been cured at one meeting. Jesus bore our pains for us, and if so, why should we not ask Him to take away our pains now. The Bible says He will bear our sins and sicknesses, and why should we not take Him at His word.

The speaker was educated for a doctor, but he never got to be much of a one—a sort of tail-end of a doctor. His wife was never allowed to buy much, and his children got but little also, while he was getting his education, but just when this was completed, and he was ready to accept a professorship in a college, the Lord showed him that man could not cure diseases, and that He was the great healing power. But before the speaker gave himself up to be healed, the devil, in the person of a beautiful woman, came to him, offering to heal him. She asked him what he wanted, and he said he wanted healing; and she replied that she could give it to him. He thought she was surely an angel sent from God—Gabriel, he concluded. She said she healed in the name of God, but had nothing to do with the blood of Jesus Christ. He knew then that she was not an angel of God, but an angel of the devil. When we take the blood of Christ out of healing or salvation we know it is not of God, for that blood makes us akin to Christ and to God."

He had never claimed the gift of healing, and those who did so never showed much results of their work. Those who had faith could be healed through Christ Jesus. God had set ordinances and administration of the Spirit in the churches through the leaders, and he is so broad in His liberality that all who believe can go and lay their hands on the sick. The gifts are not confined to a few but to the whole church. We must have faith before works can be performed.

Anyone who believed in Christ could be healed. He had prayed for thousands and had seen hundreds healed. For one to praise the Lord as the Bible says, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless His holy name," the organs of the body must be well. If a man's liver or stomach were out of order, he could not praise God as he would were he perfectly well, and "all that is within him" can bless the Lord. The doctor said he had seen dyspeptics, who had been given up completely as incurable, healed almost in the twinkling of an eye, and he gave an instance of a most wonderful cure which he had seen of a dyspeptic who had been sick for about fifty years, and who had been completely cured in a few seconds. Dr. Yoakum was ready to cure any in the audience who might have any ills, or who needed spiritual comfort.

Several in the audience, upon request, told of how they had been cured of various ailments.

Last night was the concluding meeting of the series conducted by Dr. Yoakum. From here he goes to Toronto for a couple of weeks.

Hotel Balmoral

Cor. Water and Charlotte Streets, Peterborough.

CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

Having purchased Mr. W. H. Knapp's interest in the Hotel Balmoral, I have entered into full possession and beg leave to respectfully solicit a share of the patronage of the Peterborough public.

With the view of giving assurance that the hotel and premises will be thoroughly equipped and refitted up to the requirements of a first-class house, it has been made conditional that improvements will be inaugurated at once on a scale sufficient to ensure the accomplishment of this object.

The fact that a series of changes in the proprietorship of this hotel has taken place within a comparatively short period, will not, I trust, be allowed to militate against the success of the new management.

That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones, call around and see us.

CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

Having purchased Mr. W. H. Knapp's interest in the Hotel Balmoral, I have entered into full possession and beg leave to respectfully solicit a share of the patronage of the Peterborough public.

With the view of giving assurance that the hotel and premises will be thoroughly equipped and refitted up to the requirements of a first-class house, it has been made conditional that improvements will be inaugurated at once on a scale sufficient to ensure the accomplishment of this object.

The fact that a series of changes in the proprietorship of this hotel has taken place within a comparatively short period, will not, I trust, be allowed to militate against the success of the new management.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE REPORTED

Caused by Jap Shells Exploding Russian Magazines.

THE JAPANESE ARE ADVANCING

Russian Detachments Occupying Da Pass Retire Before 1,000 Japanese—Next Attack on Port Arthur Promises to be a Tremendous Affair—Japs Mine and Occupy Counterscarp on Rihlung Mountain.

Tokio, Nov. 22.—During the bombardment of Port Arthur on Saturday night from the fort captured on Sung Shoo Mountain, shells from the Japanese naval guns exploded a Russian magazine near the central arsenal, setting fire the adjoining buildings, and undoubtedly causing great loss of life to the Russian soldiers in the camp between the magazine and arsenal. The Imperial headquarters of the magazine, publishes a despatch from General Nogi's headquarters, dated Sunday morning, in which he says:

"Our operations against all the forts not already captured are proceeding as prearranged from Manchurian headquarters. We have shelled the Russian infantry, which was engaged in trenching east of Rihling Mountains, and also the infantry in the rear of the pillages between Quail Hill and Orlung fort, causing them to flee in confusion. The breeches made on the Westerly side of Port Arthur have been widened, and our gunfire has put the Russian warships out of action. Several of them are badly damaged. In other directions there is no change to note."

It is unofficially reported here that the Japanese successfully mined the most easterly point of the Etze Hill on Friday, which will permit their naval guns to have free play on the Tiger Hill Peninsula, and make it impossible for the Russian warship to remain in Port Arthur harbor. This is not confirmed at Imperial Headquarters, but there may be strategic reasons for announcing the signal gain by General Nogi's army.

Japanese Are Advancing.

Mukden, Nov. 22.—The Russian detachments occupying Da Pass have retired before a Japanese column 1,000 strong. The Japanese are reported to be advancing towards Sintsintin.

Next Attack Tremendous.

Che Foo, Nov. 22.—A Japanese official among the latest arrivals from Dalny states that it is expected that the next attack upon Port Arthur will be a tremendous affair. More reinforcements are coming to the support of General Nogi than those despatched to Field Marshal Oyama.

The Japanese are now constructing coast defence forts at Pigeon Bay, which is accepted as an indication that they expect to defend Port Arthur themselves some day.

On Rihlung Counterscarp.

Tokio, Nov. 22.—Reliable sources report that the Japanese mined and occupied a counterscarp on Rihlung Mountain Nov. 19.

100 Fell On Pouiloff Hill.

Berlin, Nov. 22.—A despatch to The Lokal Anzeiger from Mukden, under yesterday's date, says: "The reconnaisance fights have assumed a more violent character during the past few days. Particularly hot was the fighting on Pouiloff Hill, where the Japanese were repulsed with the loss of over 100 killed. All signs indicate that great events are imminent.

Got Within 30 Paces.

Mukden, Nov. 22, via Tientsin, Nov. 22.—There was an exchange of artillery fire during the greater part of Nov. 20. It appears that the affair of Nov. 18 was a reconnaissance in force, and that had it been successful it was to be followed by a general attack. The Japanese got within thirty paces of the Russian outer positions before being driven back. They left over a hundred dead on the field.

Japs Take German Steamer.

Shanghai, Nov. 22.—A former British steamer, the Thales, sold to Germans, has been captured while attempting to run the Port Arthur blockade, and has been taken to Sasebo. She had on board a cargo of clothes, blankets, medicine and an enormous quantity of salt beef. Russians captured near Port Arthur state that five men-of-war in the harbor have been rendered useless by the Japanese fire.

Sails For Port Said.

Canea, Island of Crete, Nov. 22.—The section of the Russian second Pacific squadron, commanded by Vice-Admiral Voelkersam, sailed yesterday for Port Said. In this squadron are the battleships Sissoi, Veliky and Nanararin, the cruisers Jemtchung and Almase, the destroyers Blestiaschy, Bezumprechni, Bystri, Bravi, Bedovi and Buiny and the transports Gortschakoff, Voronej, Kitai, Tambiff, Kelff, Jupiter, Merkur and Vladimiroff.

For Second Peace Conference.

The Hague, Nov. 22.—The Government has notified the American Charge d'Affaires here that Queen Wilhelmina will be glad to see the second peace conference meet at The Hague, and that the United States may count on the co-operation of the Netherlands so soon as Emperor Nicholas, the originator of the work begun in 1899, and the other powers have given their adhesion to the proposal.

Winnipeg to St. Paul.

Winnipeg, Nov. 22.—Another link between Winnipeg and the south was opened yesterday when the first passenger train over the new Soo Line made the run between this city and St. Paul. This gives four trains daily between the two cities, namely, the Soo, C.N.R., Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

Another Treaty.

Washington, Nov. 22.—The United States-German Arbitration Treaty will be signed to-day at the State Department by Secretary of State Hay and Baron Sternberg.

Died At 107.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 22.—At the age at 107 years, Mrs. Julia Zounski, probably the oldest white person on the Pacific Coast, died at St. Joseph's Hospital.

UNDERSKIRT TOOK FIRE.

Mrs. John Larkin So Badly Burned She Will Die.

Whitevale, Nov. 22.—A sad accident occurred just west of the village yesterday afternoon. Mrs. John Larkin was nearly burned to death. While putting chips from her apron into the stove her apron caught fire. She immediately tore it from her. She threw it upon the floor and in tramping the flame her underskirt took fire. Immediately she was a mass of flames. Being alone in the house, she rushed outside screaming. Her cries were heard nearly a mile away. Her husband and the hired man were plowing in a field nearby, and rushed to her, only to find the unfortunate woman lying on the ground with her clothing completely burned off. A physician found that the poor woman was so badly burned that she could not live.

Will Die From a Kick.

Windsor, Nov. 22.—Charles Janisse, aged 84 years, one of the oldest residents of Sandwich East, was kicked by a cow Sunday. Owing to his advanced age and the shock of the injury little hope is entertained of his recovery.

A Fatal Runaway.

Petrolea, Nov. 22.—A runaway horse yesterday came in collision with parties on our main street, seriously injuring James Berry, a young man. Berry cannot possibly recover.

Crew of Twelve Drowned.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 22.—The whaling steamer Harbor Grace, with a crew of 12 men, from Norway for St. John's, and now nearly a month overdue, is given up for lost.

Foundered With 15 On Board.

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—The British steamer Aros Castle, Captain Day, 57 days out from Java, with a cargo of sugar, arrived here yesterday and reported the probable foundering on Nov. 15 of the Spanish barque Tafalla, with her crew of 15 men, during the recent southern storm. The steamer stood by the sinking barque for two days, and on the second night the Spanish vessel disappeared.

Canadian Fruit.

London, Nov. 22.—The Nova Scotian Government has again arranged through the Agent-General of that province in London, for a fine display of apples and other fruit at the Canadian court in the Crystal Palace. To the same court has also been transferred the British Columbia fruit exhibit which obtained the Royal Horticultural Society's gold medal at the recent show at Vincent square. It is expected that an exhibit of fruit from Ontario, Canada's most advanced province in the fruit industry, will be received shortly. The Canadian Government is doing a useful work in thus bringing before the public practical illustrations of the many sided resources and capacities of our greatest colony.

Herrings On Pacific Coast.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—John J. Cowie, the Scottish expert on the curing of herring, who was sent by the Minister of Marine to investigate the herring fisheries on the Pacific Coast, returned yesterday morning. It has been reported that herring swarm in immense quantities on the coast of British Columbia, but Mr. Cowie's visit was made too soon to actually see them, as they do not come in towards the shore until the close of November. Mr. Cowie, however, examined samples at various points, and saw sufficient to justify him in stating that one of the largest herring industries in the world can be developed on the Pacific Coast.

He Will Hang.

Montreal, Nov. 22.—Unless his sentence is commuted by the Dominion Government, Antonio Giacconi of this city will be hanged on Jan. 20 next, for the murder of Theodore Duval on Aug. 20. On that date Giacconi shot and mortally wounded Duval during a row in a saloon on Notre Dame street. Giacconi's trial, which has been in progress in the Court of King's Bench for some days, came to an end last evening, when the jury brought in a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy. Judge Hall sentenced the prisoner to be hanged on Jan. 20.

Found Dead in Bed.

Harriston, Nov. 22.—James Everson, a Grand Trunk Railway section man, was found dead in bed last evening by his sisters, with whom he resided. He left here yesterday morning on the 5 o'clock train for Chesley, where he was engaged in work. He complained of not being well and the foreman advised him to return home on the mixed train, which he did. Nothing more was seen of him until his sisters returned home at 6 o'clock last evening. They found him dead.

Smash Up On the C.P.R.

Winnipeg, Nov. 22.—A bad smash-up occurred on the C.P.R. main line three miles east of Melbourne about 7 o'clock on Saturday morning. The wrecked train was a special freight, east-bound. The accident was said to have been caused by the breaking of the coupling of one of the centre cars. Eight cars were ditched, and, as there is a deep cut at this point, were badly smashed up. Neither the engine nor cabooses left the rails and no one was injured.

Thirty Thousand Destitute.

Amsterdam, Holland, Nov. 22.—The Talautse Islands, northeast of Celebes, Malay Archipelago, have been visited by a disastrous hurricane causing the sea to rise to such an extent that it flooded the islands and left 30,000 persons destitute, their homes, boats and plantations being destroyed.

Dominion Parliament Jan. 11.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Parliament has been announced to meet on Wednesday, Jan. 11. The order was passed at yesterday's Cabinet meeting, and an extra of The Canada Gazette will be issued at once

OUR "MOTHER OF THE SNOWS."

Great Snow Storm Raging in the United Kingdom.

Telegraph Wires are Down and Vessels Driven to Seek Shelter.

Special to the Examiner.

London, Nov. 22.—Keen frost and heavy snow squalls are reported from all parts of the United Kingdom. A gale raged all night long over the coasts, driving vessels to shelter and seriously dislocating the telegraph wires, especially in the north of England, and in Scotland blinding snow storms are causing deep drifts, and rendering traffic difficult in the country districts.

PRISON BROOMS NOT TO BE MADE.

A Decision of Considerable Interest to Peterborough.

Provincial Secretary Decides to Abolish Manufacture of Prison Brooms.

Peterborough, since it possesses a broom factory, that of Mr. Hamilton, Ward 5, will be interested in the decision of Mr. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, that the existing contract for the manufacture of brooms at the Central Prison by prison labour will not be renewed upon its expiry next June.

The Government has been influenced in deciding upon this course by representations made to the effect that prison labour so employed subjects those engaged in that industry in Ontario to unequal competition. When the broom-making under the contract ceases arrangements will be made to utilize the labour of the 50 or 60 prisoners at present thus employed in another way, and as beneficially to the Province and less injuriously to those engaged in a similar occupation outside.

THE WENTWORTH DECISION.

Judge Snider Decides the Case in Favor of E. D. Smith.

Hamilton, Nov. 22.—Judge Snider, who reserved his judgment in the North Wentworth recount case from Saturday until yesterday, decided in favor of E. D. Smith, the Conservative candidate. Sealey's original majority of twenty had been reduced to fifteen, and the ballots of one division, Valens, were in dispute, because the returning officer numbered each one according to the figures on the polling list, thus destroying the secrecy of the ballot. There were twenty-five ballots altogether, and it was decided to threw them out, thus electing Smith. Counsel for Smith cited similar cases, such as the Supreme Court's decision in the Bothwell case and Justice Armour's decision in East Hastings in 1878.

Blackely Wins.

Montreal, Nov. 22.—Ex-Crown Prosecutor J. P. Cooke yesterday morning dropped his proceedings for criminal libel against William Blackely, of Toronto, thus ending one of the most famous cases in Montreal's criminal records. The original hearing lasted nearly 20 days, and cost each side about $20,000. Since then a royal commission was appointed to enquire into Mr. Cooke's conduct in the matter, whose report is now before the provincial Attorney-General, Hon. Horace Archambault. Yesterday morning Mr. Cooke's counsel announced that he would not proceed with the case, in view of the matter being dealt with by the royal commission. Blackely accused Mr. Cooke, then Crown prosecutor, of accepting bribes.

THE "SOO" INDUSTRY RAILS OF GOOD QUALITY

The Progress not Affected by Manager Shield's Death.

The death of the late Mr. Shields will not seriously affect the Soo works, of which he was manager. He had things well in hand, and there will be no hitch. Speaking of this Mr. Drummond says:—"The coke blast furnace is now in successful operation, and the quality of pig iron that it is turning out is excellent. The rail mill, which is working on orders, is turning out over 600 tons a day, and I would not hesitate to say the quality is equal to any turned out in any rail mill in the United States." The success of the works is a tribute to the wisdom and foresight of the Ross government.

All Have Seen More Than Satisfied.

Who have returned from their trip to the Great World's Fair, St. Louis. You will not have another chance of seeing such a sight. The magnitude of the exposition cannot be realized until you have seen it for yourself, and this is the time to make your trip. Before making your arrangements call at the Grand Trunk city office, and secure handsome booklet, containing descriptive and illustrated literature, regarding the Fair. 24

Miss Rose Peterson, Secretary Parkdale Tennis Club, Chicago, from experience advises all young girls who have pains and sickness peculiar to their sex, to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many beautiful young girls develop into worn, listless and hopeless women, simply because sufficient attention has not been paid to their physical development. No woman is exempt from physical weakness and periodic pain, and young girls just budding into womanhood should be carefully guided physically as well as morally.

If you know of any young lady who is sick, and needs motherly advice, ask her to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., who will give her advice free, from a source of knowledge which is unequalled in the country. Do not hesitate about stating details which one may not like to talk about, and which are essential for a full understanding of the case.

Miss Hannah E. Mershon, Collingswood, N. J., says:

"I thought I would write and tell you that, by following your kind advice, I feel like a new person. I was always thin and delicate, and so weak that I could hardly do anything. Menstruation was irregular.

"I tried a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and began to feel better right away. I continued its use, and am now well and strong, and menstruate regularly. I cannot say enough for what your medicine did for me."

How Mrs. Pinkham Helped Fannie Kumpe.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it is my duty to write and tell you of the benefit I have derived from your advice and the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The pains in my back and womb have all left me, and my menstrual trouble is corrected. I am very thankful for the good advice you gave me, and I shall recommend your medicine to all who suffer from female weakness." — MISS FANNIE KUMPE, 1922 Chester St., Little Rock, Ark. (Dec. 16, 1900.)

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure any woman in the land who suffers from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous excitability, nervous prostration, and all forms of woman's special ills.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

(Lindsay Post.)

The announcement appears in the Globe that Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, has placed his resignation of his portfolio in the hands of the Premier and also the announcement that at the expiry of the present parliamentary term, he will not be a candidate to contest West Peterborough. The retirement of Mr. Stratton is an important event in Provincial politics and of especial significance to this district to which Mr. Stratton has been a very good friend. It is well known that previous to Mr. Stratton entering the Government, it was impossible for Lindsay and this district to get practical attention in the matter of assistance for the Lindsay, Bobcaygeon & Pontypool Railway and to him largely belongs the credit of such assistance being given and of the fact that we now have this line in operation. He has also done much to bring about satisfactory settlement of inter-county matters. No representative could have done more for his riding than Mr. Stratton has done for West Peterborough, and his work in this regard has not been confined to substantial advantage, but he has done much outside of the duties ordinarily expected of a representative, to promote the welfare of his constituents. It is well known that anyone needing assistance, no matter what his party, name or his standing in society, was sure to enlist Mr. Stratton's best efforts to meet his wishes. This trait in his character is perhaps the secret of the great popularity he has enjoyed and still enjoys at home and it will require a great deal more than calumny to displace Mr. Stratton in the esteem of his constituents. As a minister, Mr. Stratton has done splendid work. He has brought to bear his excellent business ability upon the management of his Department with the best results. Under this charge the public institutions of the Province have been placed upon a better footing than ever before and they are far more efficient, better managed, and better adapted to their work than they were when Mr. Stratton took charge of them. The number of institutions has been increased and this increased accommodation permits of the jails being relieved of inmates for which an asylum, not a prison, is a proper place. Every branch of his big department has received similar attention with good results, and it is only stating a simple fact to say that under no other minister have the affairs of Provincial Secretary's department been so efficiently and capably managed. With all the attacks made upon Mr. Stratton in so reckless a manner, and with so little evidence of justification, the boldest detractor has not ventured to hint an objection to Mr. Stratton's work as an administrator, and no one has been able to point to a single instance of one dollar of the several millions that have passed through his hands, being improperly or even unwisely spent. Mr. Stratton leaves office with a splendid record of administration.

RETIREMENT OF HON. J. R. STRATTON.

Brantford Expositor.

Although the general elections for the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, may not take place until some time in the new year, there is little doubt Mr. Ross expects to meet the Liberal convention with a reconstructed cabinet. Three, at least, of the present ministers, it is understood, will retire, but the only positive announcements thus far are those of Messrs. Davis and Stratton that they do not intend to hold seats in the next Parliament.

Mr. Stratton, in retiring, gives a very succinct and interesting review of the progress which has been made by the public institutions of the province since they came under his management and also sets forth that he has earnestly endeavoured to ensure a proper enforcement of the license laws.

The fact cannot be too clearly stated that Mr. Stratton has been one of the best departmental officers the province has ever had. There have been no scandals connected with any of the asylums or charities of the province while under his care, efficiency has been everywhere displayed and the most rigid economy practiced. That the retiring minister has sought to make the enforcement of the license laws effective, even Dr. Chown, who is usually an unsparing critic, has been ready to concede.

Mr. Stratton's name has unfortunately been associated more than once with charges of political corruption. Of the gravest of these charges, that of seeking to purchase the support of Mr. R. R. Gamey, a commission of judges, after full enquiry, has acquitted him. The other charges he has positively denied, and they have yet to be proved. Meantime it is only just to say of him that he possesses in a rare degree the confidence of the community in which he lives, that his friends are devotedly loyal to him, and that his conduct of one of the most important departments of government has been above reproach.

"I AM PROUD OF CANADA!"

Mr. A. Morgan, of Knox, Morgan & Company, sends the Hamilton Times, from Manchester, England, a London Chronicle editorial on the Canadian elections. The Chronicle is Conservative, but it is constrained to say:—

"In any case the main issue of the campaign—'shall I choose Laurier or Borden for the nation's representative at home and abroad?'—was bound to be decided in favour of the greatest of living Canadian statesmen. • • • The significance of this result is seen to be very great when it is remembered that Mr. Borden was, to use the American political phrase, a 'favourite son' of Nova Scotia and yet could not contrive to obtain the small boon of re-election for Halifax City. It is to be feared that he has lost not only his seat but also his position as Conservative leader, since a candidate for the Canadian Premiership is expected to be able to win in his own Province, just as a candidate for the Presidency of the United States must be able to carry his own State. The truth is that the crushing defeats of the Conservatives in this and the last general election were due to the undeniable fact that they lack men of ability not only in the Federal arena but also in the spheres of Provincial politics. • • • Sir Wilfrid Laurier recently expressed an opinion to the effect that 'greater treaty-making powers' would be required by the Dominion in the near future. His opponents used these words as an excuse for renewing the old charge of 'veiled treason;' they affected to believe that he wished to remove Canada from the jurisdiction of the Crown by dispensing with the political middlemen at the Colonial and Foreign Offices and so avoiding such contemptuous disregard of Canadian interests and such injuries inflicted on Canadian prestige as were shown in the appointment of the Alaska-Yukon Boundry Tribunal. The destinies of Canada are safe in his hands, and he will do what lies in the inclination of his people for the Empire."

The Chronicle is wise in panning its faith to Laurier, and its remarks show that it has not been misled by the Conservative charges of disloyalty. The good Government and truly British policy for which he stands is appreciated in Great Britain and is doing much to keep Canada in the foreground, for our benefit. Mr. Morgan has had his eyes open while in England, and he says in his note, "I am proud of Canada!" So is every true Canadian who notes the progress we are making in material things, in the hearts of all Britons, and in the estimation of the world. Onward Canada!

POLITICS IN ONTARIO.

Premier Ross, of the province of Ontario, has taken a wise course in calling together the rank and file of the Liberal party for consultation, counsel, advice, and the formulation of a new programme of political progress. The party of which he is by voluntary choice the leader, has stood always for enlightened enterprise and moral and social advancement. From period to period it has taken up and carried to successful issue reforms in governmental methods and public policies that have vastly contributed to the prosperity and welfare of the people. But parties cannot live and thrive upon the memory of past achievements. The changing conditions resulting from the march of progress and the evolution of material conditions create new issues, new necessities, new policies. That Mr. Ross has grasped and met these rising problems is evident from the energy and enterprise which have been displayed in opening up the New Ontario, and in providing needed facilities for settlement and commerce, as well as by enlightened legislation and an honest administration of all departments of the Government. Even the mud slingers who are behind Mr. Whitney in the race for power and perquisites — even the unspeakable Gamey — have not ventured to challenge the integrity, the capacity, or the usefulness of any single department of the Government of the province. The new era of development upon which Canada has entered, and, in which, thanks to the sagacity of Mr. Ross and his colleagues, New Ontario leads the van of Greater Canada, new issues, new problems, and new necessities, are to be confronted. In meeting these responsibilities, for their successful solution and administration, Mr. Ross seeks the counsel and advice of the part at large, and their mandate for a course of action for a new period of progress. He takes the sensible and common-sense view that not all the wisdom of the Liberal party is confined to ministers of the Government or members of the House, and he seeks the aid, advice and inspiration of the people who have made him the vehicle of their trust and confidence.

We anticipate not only a material strengthening of the party of progress through the deliberations of this convention, but a material contribution to the welfare and prosperity of the premier province of the Dominion.

PETERBOROUGH ARTISTS ENJOYED.

Norwood High School Annual at Home a Success.

Personal Mention and Other Items of Interest From the Eastern Town—Holiday Visitors.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Norwood, November 22nd. — One of the most pleasing features and the chief social event in Norwood is the annual "At Home and Concert" held under the auspices of the high school in the high school building. The evening's entertainment is made up of a one hour's reception and conversation, then a literary and musical concert followed by refreshments and promenade.

Not only pupils and citizens and their friends but ex-pupils from far and near attend this annual function.

The entertainment on Wednesday night, November 16th, was in every respect most successful. There were nearly four hundred present. After reception the programme was rendered by the following artists:—

Miss Helen Davies, A.T.C.M., Misses Moore and Best, all pupils of Dr. Ham, Toronto Conservatory of Music; and Miss Lena Craine, elocutionist, of Toronto.

Miss Davies possesses a beautiful, well-trained voice and in her rendering of the following selections, "Your Lips have said that Love Me," "Stars of Normandy", "Beloved Sleep", "Villanelle," delighted the audience, who showed their appreciation by repeated encores.

Misses Moore and Best, of Peterborough, sang sweetly two duets, "Tell us Merry Birds", "O Wert Thou in the Cauld Blast" which were well received and heartily encored.

Miss Moore's fine contralto voice showed to advantage in her solo entitled "When the Flowing Tide Comes In".

Miss Craine, as an elocutionist, excels in the light comic. She was heartily applauded and brought back after each selection. She has the power of personating her characters in a most natural manner. Her two vocal selections were well received.

Refreshments were then served in the armoury and after the promenade the audience dispersed, having spent a profitable and enjoyable evening.

Miss Maggie Tucker returned this week from an extended visit with her friends in Picton, Trenton and other places.

Mr. F. W. Wilkins, D. L. S., who with his sons Fred. and Festus have been engaged on a survey in the Northwest since last spring returned home Wednesday morning.

Croup Absolutely Cured.

"There is no remedy in my opinion that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup absolutely in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face with choking. It gave him instant relief and cure." — Mr. Wm. McGee, 49 Wright avenue, Toronto, Ont.

The Ancient Aztecs.

According to a medical writer, the ancient Aztec race of Mexico was far advanced in the practice of medicine. The native Mexicans practiced massage, splints were used in the dressing of fractured bones, inflamed gums were lanced with obsidian knives, aching teeth were extracted, salt was used as an antiseptic and ground obsidian as a dusting powder. Stiffness of the muscles and joints was treated by the sweat bath, wounds were sutured with human hair, the actual cautery was applied to the edges of the wounds and venom was drawn out of poisoned wounds by sucking, while bleeding was practiced in obstinate headaches.

B. O. LOTT ARRESTED

Charged With Conspiracy in the Ballot Box Cases.

REILLY IS NOT SERVED YET

Hon. J. M. Gibson Makes An Important Address—To Remain in the Government Without Portfolio—Ministers Resigning to Give Young Men a Chance—An Eloquent Tribute to Premier Ross.

Belleville, Nov. 22.—Mr. B. O. Lott was arrested yesterday by Inspector Chamberlain on a warrant charging him with conspiracy. Mr. Lott, who refuses to speak as to the charge, was arrested on a train at Central Ontario Junction on his return from a deer-hunting trip. Application for bail was made last evening before Police Magistrate Flint and County Attorney Anderson. Mr. Anderson agreed to accept substantial bail in two sureties of $1,000 each.

Mr. John Bremner, editor of The Bancroft Reporter, has been subpoenaed to appear here on Friday in the libel case against Mr. T. S. Carman. Detective Greer is in town.

F. T. Reilly Will Not Talk.

Kingston, Nov. 22.—F. J. Reilly, implicated in the bogus ballot-box affair, yesterday morning refused to discuss it, having been advised to keep silent. He disappeared during the day, and the warrant could not be served on him. H. W. Carefoot does not belong to Kingston. His home is in Prescott, and the proper spelling of his name is Kerfoot.

It is understood that an investigation has been begun into the bogus ballot-boxes said to have been used in Frontenac in nine subdivisions. Joseph Hawkey of Chicago, a wrestler, formerly of Glenvale, near Kingston, was returning officer at Ardoch, where one of the bad boxes is said to have been used. The boxes in the hands of Returning Officer Franklin are all right, however. They are at the Court House, and nothing wrong has been found with them.

Hon. J. M. Gibson Speaks.

Hamilton, Nov. 22.—A very enthusiastic gathering of the members of the Liberal Association of this city was held last night at the headquarters in Arcade Hall. The occasion was the annual meeting, and the turnout was large.

HON. J. M. GIBSON.

Hon. J. M. Gibson, Attorney-General, gave an address that was important. He said he was becoming a little weary of political life, and whilst he might not take as active a part in public affairs as he had done, he intended to stick to the Premier, the Hon. Geo. W. Ross. After fifteen years of being a member of the Government he had desired to be relieved of his portfolio. The Premier had desired him to remain with him without portfolio, and he had consented to do so. He hoped to be of some use for a while yet to the Government, and to the Province which he had served for the past 25 years. He and other members of the Government thought new blood should be introduced, and he wished to state that no member of the Ministry was being displaced by the Government or the people. They had acted solely on their own motion, in the belief that it would do good to give some of the younger men, who were able and willing to serve the Province, an opportunity to advance to the positions held for a long time by those now retiring. Mr. Gibson entered on something of a defence of his own course, and said he had never obtained anything from the Government for the corporations with which he was connected that any other man or corporation could not have got.

Reference to Gamey.

Mr. Gibson touched on Gamey. He referred to the fact that the Judges in the celebrated trial had ordered Gamey out of the witness box, because they had found him not a credible witness. "Is this the man," said he, "on whose testimony you are going to convict a Minister of the Crown, whose record for faithful, painstaking industry is one to be proud of?" He referred to the West Elgin case, and said the Liberal party was not responsible for the irregular, culpable and reprehensible acts in connection with that case. The Liberal party had been accused of burning the ballots, but the Conservative papers did not tell the public that the burned ballots had been discovered inadvertently and by mistake., while old ballots were being burned in the regular way. The Government was not given a chance to prosecute in the West Elgin case, because the Opposition party had taken the matter out of their hands and had failed to establish a case. No man could be prosecuted twice for the same offence.

Bogus Ballot Box Case.

With reference to the bogus ballot-boxes case at Belleville, he said the people could depend on a rigid prosecution either by the Dominion Government or the Ontario Government, and the perpetrators would be brought to book no matter what position they held. In conclusion he said Hon. Geo. W. Ross deserved a good working majority in the Legislature. He had sat under three Premiers—the late Sir Oliver Mowat, whom he greatly admired, Hon. A. S. Hardy, who had been one of the most scrupulous of public men, and under Hon. Mr. Ross, who need not take a back seat from any of his predecessors. No man excelled the Premier of Ontario in breadth of view and eloquence, and when Mr. Ross undertook anything he stuck to it till he brought it to a successful issue.

Food that Builds

Some folk never think of Mooney's Crackers as food. They class them as delicacies, because they are so dainty and delicious. Wrong!

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas

are made of Canada's finest wheat, rich in strength and muscle-building properties. Then, too, they're so light that even frail digestions readily assimilate them.

Certainly more of a food than bread, because made more carefully of finer wheat.

MRS. RBADLEY CAN EAT AND SLEEP

She was Rescued From a Terrible Condition by Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I am thankful to say I can eat most anything and can sleep comfortably." These are the words of Mrs. Jas. Bradley, of Smith's Cove, Digby County, N. S., but only those who know Mrs. Bradley's condition previously, can appreciate all those words mean, or how much she owes to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Let Mrs. Bradley tell of it herself.

"I had Dyspepsia for over nine years," she says. "I tried the best doctors and never got relief. I had to starve myself from eating. I had given up all hope of ever having any help. No tongue can tell what I suffered." Six boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and six of Dodd's Kidney Pills, completely restored my health."

If Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure extreme cases of Dyspepsia like that of Mrs. Bradley, how much more easily will they cure your Indigestion?

Company May Do It.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—The Board of Railway Commissioners has given its decision in the application of the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Company, for permission to fill in a trestle bridge crossing on the farm of William Anderson, in Ancaster township, Wentworth County, and to expropriate certain lands in connection therewith. The railway company wanted to close up an under passage-way which Anderson had for all time from the company for farm purposes.

Telegrapher Under Arrest.

Rainy River, Nov. 22.—J. Kealy, a telegraph operator, was arrested here on Saturday by Detective McDonald, chief of the Canadian Northwest secret service, on a warrant charging him with stealing money from the company. Kealy will appear before Magistrate Robertson. He is a young man hailing from Cranbrook, B.C., where he was in the service of the C.P.R.

Still Fast in the Sand.

New York, Nov. 22.—With her nose poked fast in the sand off Long Beach, L.I., the steamship Sicilian Prince last night was being lightered so that at the flood tide this morning she may be moved into deep water and brought to her dock in this city. Efforts to get the big ship free from the treacherous Long Island sands were futile yesterday.

LONDON'S FAREWELL

Banquet to Earl Grey, Canada's New Governor-General.

PROUD OF NAME CANADIAN

Lord Strathcona's Introduction of Canadians to Their Viceroy Elect—Lord Aberdeen On Canadians in South Africa—Earl Grey On Improved Mail Service and Other Great Projects For the Dominion.

London, Nov. 22.—(C.A.P.)—Some 230 assembled in the Princess Restaurant, London, at a farewell dinner to Earl Grey, Governor-General-elect of Canada. Amongst others present were the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Agents-General of British Columbia and Nova Scotia, the Earl of Aberdeen, the Earl of Litchfield, General Lord William Seymour, Lord Vaux of Harrowden, Viscount Bury, Baron Suyjatza of the Japanese Embassy, Rt. Hon. Sir John Brodrick, M. P., Sir Percy Girouard, Sir Neville Lyttelton, Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, Major-General Baden-Powell and J. G. Colmer, secretary to the Canadian High Commissioner.

Lord Aberdeen, in proposing the Imperial forces, drew attention to the splendid work done by the Canadians in South Africa. The Canadians combined pride in the British Empire with equal pride in the great Dominion to which they specially belonged. He emphasized the high opinion of them held by Col. Lake.

Sir Neville Lyttelton said Canadians were always ready to help the mother country, as was proved in the South African campaign.

Proud of Their Name.

Lord Strathcona, the chairman, read a letter of regret from Lord Lansdowne, who was unable to be present, owing to the death of a near relative. In the letter he said the new Governor-General would find the inhabitants of the Dominion proud of the name Canadian, and still more proud to be members of the British Empire. A short time ago he (Lord Strathcona) was desired by the Premier and Government of Canada, to say that Lord Grey would receive the warmest possible welcome. Lord Strathcona then proposed the toast, "The Dominion of Canada and the Governor-General-elect."

Lord Grey's Response.

Lord Grey, in responding, referred to the Anglo-French agreement and, remembering a third of the Canadians were French, he felt grateful to Lord Lansdowne for the manner in which the way had been smoothed. The Duke of Argyll, better known to Canadians as the Marquis of Lorne, had told him he was never so happy as when Governor-General of Canada himself. He was going to a country where there was a sky blue atmosphere sparkling like champagne. The Canadian winter was more exhilarating than the average English summer. In vastness of wealth, variety of resources and breed of men, Canada was not surpassed by any portion of the globe. He hoped to see by the conclusion of his term of office, the American mails reaching England through Canadian ports instead of vice versa, and was looking forward to the time when steamers would cross to Canada in four days.

He looked forward with the greatest zeal to five years in Canada, whose population, he said, there was every reason to expect, "in the lifetime of our sons, and perhaps even of some of us here present," would equal that of the United Kingdom.

The Archbishop of Canterbury dwelt on Canada's splendid prosperity, judging from her tremendous resources.

Mr. Brodrick, Secretary for India, also addressed the company, as did Vice-Admiral Sir Archibald Douglas, one of the lords commoners of the Admiralty, who had served in Canada in 1866.

A Note of Optimism.

The Times says Earl Grey struck a note of optimism at the Canada Club, and sees clearly the great destiny unfolding for the Dominion, the great west being eagerly taken up by settlers in a way giving some foreshadowing of the vast possibility of the future. It says Lord Grey approaches his task in the spirit of an Imperial patriot, well informed not only by experience gained in the Dominion, but also in different regions of the colonial Empire. The Times says the governor of a self-governing colony is not exactly an expensive figurehead, yet he has no room for intrusive political activity. No doubt every colonist can tell a good governor when he sees one.

Lord Minto's Farewell.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—The Secretary of State received the following message yesterday morning via Marconi Station, Cape Race:

"Secretary of State, Ottawa:

"We wish the people of Canada an affectionate farewell, and assure them that the interests of the Dominion will always be very dear to us. (Signed.) Minto."

Till Earl Grey Comes.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Sir Elzear Taschereau, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, will act as Governor-General in the interregnum before the arrival of Earl Grey.

Contracted Bad Cold. Doctor Said, Serious!

Wanted To Send Him Three Hundred Miles To The Winnipeg Hospital.

Bottle and a Half of

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

Cured.

Read what Mrs. A. G. Wheeler, Waseswa, Man., has to say about it:—"Please let me thank you for the great good that both my husband and my children have received from Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. One night when my husband came home from work he had contracted a very bad cold. He became so bad that he had to go to bed and send for the doctor. When the doctor came he pronounced it a very serious case, and wanted me to send him to the Winnipeg Hospital. This, I would not do, as it is about 300 miles to Winnipeg. I decided to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and got four bottles of it. He only took one-and-a-half bottles before he was all right again and only lost a few days' work. I always keep it in the house for the children. Even the baby, seven months old, takes it and seems to like it, and as for myself I do not know what I would do without it. I think that every good housekeeper should keep a bottle on hand, for I know it will save many a doctor bill."

Price 25 cents. Put up in a yellow wrapper and three pine trees the trade mark. Refuse substitutes.

LAST NIGHT'S STABBING AFFRAY

Frank White Was Seriously Wounded by a Drunken Italian.

Italians Insulted a Lady Near Corner of Aylmer and King Streets—Mr. White Interfered and was Stabbed in Thigh.

Another stabbing affray disturbed the peace of the town last evening and as a result Mr. Frank White of the White House, is lying in St. Joseph's Hospital in a dangerous condition suffering from the effects of a gash in the thigh. The guilty party who was an Italian has not as yet been captured, nor have the whereabouts of his companions, five or six in number, who were on the scene at the time of the affray been discovered.

It seems that about 8.45 o'clock last evening, Mr. White was walking south on Aylmer street between Charlotte and King streets. He noticed a gang of six or seven Italians on the sidewalk, apparently in a drunken condition and one of them shoved a lady off the sidewalk as she was passing the gang. Mr. White indignant at what he had seen, remonstrated with the man who became troublesome and Mr. White struck him. The former passed on but was followed by the crowd and when the south corner of King and Aylmer streets was reached he turned around and saw one of the gang draw up to him with a knife. He struck the villian a blow on the face with his fist, knocking him down, but not before the Italian had plunged this weapon into his left leg near the thigh, inflicting a terrible gash. The Italians at once made their escape and have not been heard of since.

Mr. White managed with great difficulty to walk to Dr. Gray's office which he reached in a very exhausted condition being quite weak from loss of blood. The wound was about one and one-half inches long and nearly four inches deep, two branches of an artery having been severed. The Italian had turned the knife after it had pierced the flesh with the hope of severing an artery. The blood was oozing from the wound very rapidly when the injured man reached the office and had he not received medical aid at once the result might have been fatal. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where he still lies in a precarious condition. To-day he is resting as well as could be expected but is still in a very weak condition.

Mr. White states that he has seen the Italian who stabbed him, on previous occasions, and could recognise him if he saw him again. He does not know his name, however, nor where he lives.

Unfortunately the police were not informed of the affray until nearly 10 o'clock, over an hour after the stabbing took place. The entire force then entered into a thorough search for the guilty parties, but so far have not met with success as the villian had plenty of time to make his escape. The police continued their search until nearly two o'clock this morning, visiting all the Italian settlements and examining the many freight cars where the Italians sleep, but their efforts met with no success.

A gang of Italians live on Aylmer street, near the scene of the affray, and it was supposed that the Italians connected with the affair lived at this place. A thorough search of the house was made but nothing was found to give the police any clue. About a dozen Italians were in the house having a good time, and were drinking, there being a keg of beer in the house.

Mr. White thinks the Italian would bear some mark of where he struck him, as he dealt him a rather powerful blow, and it was hoped that the guilty party might be identified through this means. The police will continue to investigate the affair, and if the villain is caught his punishment will be a severe one.

"SMITHONIAN'S" REPLY TO "STUDENT."

A Letter in Defence of Rev. Mr. Langfeldt's Position.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—I saw in last night's issue of the Examiner a letter signed by Messrs. Raymond and Heslam, who claim to have, until recently, lived in Smith. Now, Mr. Editor, could you inform us who these two gentlemen are or in what capacity they were residents, as in answer to an inquiry, the Assessor, who has assessed that township for years past, says he never knew of any such men as ratepayers; but they claim to know of the evils existing there. Could they have been hotel boarders? These men say that it is not a question of prohibition, but simply to remove the hotels beyond the boundary of the township. This certainly is surprising as we thought the object was more far-reaching.

These writers refer to the contrast at the council meeting, between the men favouring local option and those opposed to it, as having been a sufficient answer to certain questions, but if this is intended as a slur upon any person, I suppose it means those opposed to the by-law, but if the writers were there they must confess that those opposed to it were exceedingly quiet and inoffensive, and made no threats of serious consequences in case their wishes were not complied with.

The writer does not wish to enter into any controversy as to the merits of local option or the broader principle of prohibition, but thinks a letter from men who are not known, bordering so closely on libel, that you would not publish it in full, in reference to a parochial expression of opinion by a man of ability and genuine merit, such as Mr. Langfeldt certainly is, was quite uncalled for, and while their short stay in the Township of Smith, may not have improved the morals of the community very materially, it is hoped that the presence of men of their high and holy aspirations may be a lasting benefit to the city of their adoption.

SAFE WAS BLOWN OPEN IN OMEMEE

Two Young Men Suspected of Robbing McCaffery's Store

Only a Small Amount of Money was Secured—Safe Crackers may be in Peterborough.

Last night professional safe-crackers operated in Omemee, and the safe in McCaffery's grocery store was blown open, but the burglars got poor reward for their pains, for only about $2 or $3 was found in the safe.

The manner in which the job was performed led to the impression that it was not the work of amateurs, for they had gone about the work in a manner which showed them to be no novices in the art.

Suspicion has fastened itself upon two young men who have been in that town since last Saturday, and the last of whom was seen last night about 11 o'clock.

This morning when Mr. McCaffery went to open his store he found everything about the store in confusion, and he immediately knew that someone had been in the place during the night. In his tour of investigation he found that the primary object of the midnight visit of the intruders had evidently been the securing of the contents of the safe, but fortunately last night Mr. McCaffery had left only a very small sum of money in the safe, and this amount was all that was lost, although the safe was badly shattered, and will probably be a total loss.

One of the young men suspected was described as being 5 feet 6 inches tall, dressed in dark clothing, and wearing a black slouch hat. He was clean shaven, as was also his companion, who wore a light suit and light hat, and was about 5 feet 8 inches tall.

Police throughout the province have been advised of the burglary, and are asked to be on the look-out for the two young men described above, who are generally looked upon by the police authorities in Omemee, as having been the guilty parties. Chief Rossel requests any citizens who may notice persons answering to this description to notify any member of the force, as it is thought that they may be in Peterborough.

COLD STORAGE VERSUS SUGAR

Meeting of the Peterborough Cold Storage and Provision Company.

Questions Being Discussed at This Afternoon's Meeting of the Company.

This afternoon the Directors and Shareholders of the Peterborough Cold Storage are holding a meeting in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, the primary object of the meeting being to decide upon the future policy of the Company.

There is a disposition among a certain section of the shareholders to engage in the manufacture of beet sugar, and to take over the plant of the old Peterborough Sugar Company. While on the other hand there is in the minds of a number of shareholders a decided opposition to the course indicated above. It will be remembered that at a meeting of the shareholders held some months ago, a motion was passed authorizing the Secretary to wind up the affairs of the company, and return to all the shareholders who wished it, the amount of money paid for stock, less their share of the expense incurred up to that time. Some of the stockholders accepted this offer, and a great many still retained their stock. A meeting of the shareholders was called for to-day and it was proposed by some that once again the question of taking up the manufacture of sugar should be brought up and advocated, but on Friday, Mr. Martin, one of the shareholders, opposed to the proposition, sought and obtained an interim injunction from Judge Weller restraining the company from passing a by-law authorizing the engaging in sugar manufacture. The question is being threshed out at this afternoon's meeting.

SPLENDID MEETING OF YOUNG PEOPLE

St. John's Young People's Society Heard Debate Last Evening.

The regular fortnightly meeting of St. John's Young People's Society was held last evening in the school room. There was a large representation of the Society present and the meeting proved to be a most profitable one in every respect. The feature of the evening was a debate upon the subject "Resolved, that Women should Vote". The decision was given in favour of the affirmative. The affirmative speakers were Messrs. J. Pate, Dickinson, Misses Comstock and B. Dawson. On the negative side were Messrs. Broad Rane, Misses. J. Layfield, L. Wesley. All the speakers advanced logical arguments and the debate was very interesting to those present. A vocal solo, "Sing Me to Sleep" was sung by Mr. Chas. Devereux during the evening.

At the next meeting Mr. R. M. Denniston will be the speaker.

Dancing Classes.

Prof. Davis has had the Labour Hall, Water street, fitted up in a first class manner, and will hold his classes on Friday and Saturday of each week in future. The hall may also be had for use by societies and private parties for at homes and receptions. Ormond and Walsh are authorized to make arrangements, both as to the dancing classes and the letting of the hall. 6d114

NEW DAM NOT DECIDED ON.

Board of Water-Commissioners Have not Even Considered it.

Report of Engineer Will be Discussed To-night—Opinion of Mr. W. H. Moore.

Mr. W. H Moore, of the Board of Water Commissioners, informed the Examiner to-day, that, contrary to reports published in certain newspapers, the Commissioners had not decided to build a new dam at the water works power house, nor had they even discussed the matter at a meeting of the Board. It was not at all likely, thought Mr. Moore, that the Commissioners would take it upon themselves to decide definitely to build a new dam, costing so much money, without first submitting the proposal to the ratepayers for their approval and endorsement. The plans proposed by the engineer engaged have been received, and will be considered at a meeting of the Board to be held to-night, when it will probably be decided whether or not the Commissioners consider that a new dam is necessary.

The opinion expressed by Mr. Moore was that it would very likely be considered that it would be necessary to construct a new dam. During the past summer it had cost $2500 to keep the present dam in repair, and he believed it either meant a new dam or none at all.

He would like to see, providing the Board considers a new dam necessary, the bylaw authorizing its construction, voted on at the next municipal elections. He thought it hardly probable that the council would feel like taking the responsibility of authorizing the expenditure of such a large sum of money without first consulting the ratepayers.

BORN SAME YEAR AS QUEEN VICTORIA

Late Mrs. Wm. Drope had an Interesting History.

Mr. W. J. Drope, of "Lake Lodge," Grimsby, formerly on the staff of the Collegiate Institute, passed through town on Monday, on his way home from Roseneath, where he had been attending the funeral of his mother, Mrs, William Drope, of the 4th concession of the township of Alnwick. Mrs. Drope had a most interesting history. She was a native of Ireland, and was born at Coote Hill in 1819, in the same month as her late Majesty, Queen Victoria. On her arrival in Canada she settled in Cobourg, and came to the township of Alnwick, in 1831. Mrs. Drope's maiden name was Jane Coyle, and she was a relative of Mr. J. Coyle Brown, Public School Inspector. Mrs. Drope was the mother of thirteen children, ten of whom are living—five sons and five daughters—all of whom were present at the funeral on Sunday. Mrs. Drope must have been the maternal ancestor of at least three score direct ancestors, for at least a dozen of these are deceased, and she left living, 58, of which ten were children, ten, 46 grandchildren, and two great grandchildren. On Sunday Mrs. Drope's remains were carried to their last resting place, by six of her grandsons. The funeral services services were conducted by Rev. E. R. James, of Alliston, Simcoe county, of whose congregation Mrs. Drope was a member when Rev. Mr. James was incumbent of Hastings, whose high respect for his venerable former parishioner is shown by his coming so great a distance to conduct the funeral service.

Don't fail to hear the Jessie Maclachlan Concert Thursday, Nov. 24. The Boston Journal says of Miss Maclachlan:

The simple songs of Scotland were given with infinite feeling and Miss Maclachlan drew from her audience applause such as falls to the lot of few singers. When she gave the stirring martial air "Wi' a Hundred Pipers" the audience went wild. Men jumped on chairs, and waved their arms, shouting like mad, and for seven or eight minutes the applause was absolutely terrific. There were fully 5,000 people present.

MONTREAL'S LARGE MEAT CONSUMPTION

What Live Stock it Requires to Meet the Meat Demand of the Metropolis.

The Montreal Gazette says:—"There were slaughtered in Montreal last week for local use 2,173 horned cattle, 772 calves, 4,254 sheep and 3,243 hogs, a total of over 10,000 animals. Multiplying these figures by 52 gives over 150,000 cattle and calves, 220,000 sheep, and the same number of hogs, or over 590,000 animals in all, as the consumption by one city of the live stock product of Canadian farms. All of which goes to show that Montreal is a great city, and that the home market for cattle is not to be despised."

MEETING SHOULD BE WELL ATTENDED

Municipal Questions Will be Discussed To-morrow Night in Labour Hall.

The Secretary of the Trades and Labour Council has supplied the Examiner with the following notice with reference to the meeting to be held to-morrow night to discuss the advisability of placing candidates for Aldermen in the field, and also other municipal problems:

The outlook for the Trades and Labour Council meeting on Wednesday evening next, Nov. 23rd, is good. All persons who are interested in the cause of labour are cordially invited to be present. Questions of great importance will be discussed. The advocating of an Assessment Commissioner also of having a good competent building inspector to look after the sanitary conditions of the town is a matter to set the public thinking. A town of Peterborough's size needs one the worst way also to have our fire limit bylaw extended, to cover parts of the town not in it now.

The selection of candidates for the office of aldermen will also be thoroughly gone into.

A good meeting is looked forward and every working man should try and make it a point to be present, also anyone who is in favour of advocating these principles are cordially invited to attend, in Trades and Labour Hall, Schneider's Block, over Dr. Wood's Dental Parlours.

There was a very large [illegible] out of members of both societies, and a splendid meeting resulted. —The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says: Our Dominion election passed off very quietly. Perhaps there has been as much improvement in the way of conducting these elections as in anything at the present time. Sometimes the elections were held in Cobourg for the whole county, and sometimes in the eastern part. At one time it was held at Rice Lake. The late Aaron Hinman used to tell of his going there to vote, some twenty miles away, when he drove two horses on a lumber wagon, for there were no buggies then. A neighbour went with him, who belonged to the same political party that he did; but while Mr. Hinman was feeding the horses at the place, the other party offered this man his dinner for his vote, and he accepted at once. This man was a member of a church and the owner of 100 acres of land.

PARTY CONFIDENT IN EAST PETERBORO'

Mr. Wm. Anderson, M. P. P., Again Chosen as the Liberal Candidate for Legislative Assembly.

An Enthusiastic Gathering Held at Norwood Yesterday When Delegates to Toronto Were Appointed.

The Officers of the Association Elected --- Mr. John Lang, President---Resolution of Appreciation Passed

As was announced in yesterday's issue of the Examiner, the Liberals of East Peterborough held a most successful convention in Norwood, on Monday, and at it Mr. William Anderson, M.P.P., the sitting member, was again nominated to contest the riding in the approaching Provincial elections in the interests of the Liberal party. The convention, considering the fact that a very short notice of the meeting had been given, was well attended, every part of the riding being represented.

There was a perfect unanimity of feeling among those present at the meeting, only one name being submitted to the convention, that of Mr. Anderson, the mention of whose name as the candidate of the party, was received with great enthusiasm.

It was moved by Mr. Charles O'Reilly of Norwood, and seconded by Mr. Jas. Dewart of Dummer, that the convention tender the nomination to the present member, and this was the only name mentioned, consequently Mr. Anderson was unanimously chosen as the representative of the party in East Peterborough, and accepted it in a neat speech.

The meeting was held in the town hall, and was presided over by the president of the Association, Mr. Andrew Shearer, Mr. R. F. McWilliams of Peterborough, being appointed secretary pro tem., in the absence of Mr. M. E. Knox, who was out of town.

The chairman opened the meeting, and stated the objects of the gathering, which were to select a candidate, appoint delegates to the Toronto convention, and elect officers for the year.

The first business transacted was the choosing a candidate, resulting as stated.

After receiving the nomination Mr. Anderson addressed the convention briefly, thanking those present, first, for the honour they had done him in again choosing him as the standard-bearer of the party. He also thanked them for electing him by such a large majority in the last election — a majority much larger than he had expected. He believed that in the coming election, if the party worked, as he thought they would, he would again be elected, and his majority would be very little, if any, smaller, than it was in the last contest.

Concerning his record in the House, Mr. Anderson said that while during the two years that he had been a member, he had only addressed the House once, he had attended the sessions faithfully, and he believed that no member was more familiar with the business of the House that had been transacted than himself. He had watched the proceedings closely, and he believed that with the experience that he had gained during the two years in which he had been a member, he would be able to make a better representative in the future than he had in the past. The Premier had adopted a wise course in calling a convention, he believed, and he would like to see East Peterborough send its full representation to that convention on Wednesday.

Mr. Anderson again thanked the gentlemen for the expression of confidence in him, as evidenced by the tendering to him of the unanimous nomination, and he promised them he would do his utmost in the coming election, and expressed confidence in the result.

THE NEW OFFICERS.

The next business transacted was the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

President—John Laing, ex-M.P.

Vice-Presidents — E. Hawthorne, Dummer; Dennis Maloney, Douro; J. Johnson, Belmont.

Secretary—Dr. A. J. Robertson, Norwood.

Treasurer—M. E. Knox, Norwood.

The members of the Executive, with the above officers, are:

Norwood — Messrs: P. W. Reynolds, Thos. Fraser, Chas. O'Reilly, John Finlay, M. E. Knox, Jas. Haddon, Geo. Elliott, and Jas. Cumming.

Havelock — Messrs. T. Curtis, Jas. Bryans, Wm. Mathison, Jos. Rose, Ed. Chapman.

Asphodel — Messrs. Patrick Fallon, Wm. Buck, Patrick McNulty, M. Elmhirst, John Walsh, Wm. Sharpe, John McMillan, John Harrison, Wm. Oakum, Robert Tudhope, Jas. Moore.

Belmont — Jos. Johnston, D. D. Lewis, Wellington Burgess, John Brown, Andrew Hay, Caleb Bannon, Geo. Cochrane, W. Stewart.

Douro — John M. Walsh, D. Maloney, John Girvan, Thos. E. Jory, Wm. Condon, John R. Allan, Wm. Moher, jr.

Dummer — Wm. Girvan, Ed. Hawthorne, Garfield Crowe, Thos. Webster, Wm. Fitzgerald, Wm. Miles, Jas. Dewart, Edward Martin, John Kelly, Jas. Robb.

Otonabee — John Lang, Jas. Duffus, S. Armstrong, John Deyell, Thos. Johnston, Dave Crowley, Alex. Wood, T. Haslett.

Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos —Z. Tucker, D. Campbell, William Boulton, T. G. Eastland, John Menogue, J. R. Booth.

THE DELEGATES.

The election of the delegates to attend the Toronto convention was then proceeded with and resulted as follows:

Otonabee—D. Crowley, T. Johnston, S. Armstrong, Jos. Taylor, J. Deyell.

Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos —Messrs. Eastland, Booth, Menogue, Campbell, Tucker.

Belmont—Messrs. W. Burgess, J. Brown, J. Johnston, W. Stewart, A. Hay.

Dummer—Messrs. A. T. Choate, Z. Webster, Dewart, J. J. Crowe, D. Sedgwick.

Havelock—Messrs. T. Curtis, Bryans, Mathison, Rose, Chapman.

Norwood—Chas. O'Reilly, T. Finlay, G. Elliott, J. McNicholl, Thos. Fraser.

Asphodel—Messrs. W. Buck, W. R. Elmhirst, R. T. Tudhope, P. McNulty, Wm. Shea.

Douro—Messrs. J. M. Walsh, Wm. Condon, J. Allan, W. Garbutt, Wm. Moher.

NOMINATING CONVENTIONS.

A motion was introduced by Mr. Chas. O'Reilly providing that in future conventions for the selection of a candidate, such conventions shall be constituted by representatives from each polling sub-division in the electoral district instead of by a mass meeting.

This motion was seconded by Mr. Hawthorne, and was the subject of considerable discussion, the meaning being divided in their opinion as to which was the fairer way of holding conventions. Mr. O'Reilly's motion was finally passed.

A subsequent motion made by Mr. Curtis and seconded by Mr. Crowe to the effect that at nominating conventions there shall be five delegates from each polling sub-divisions, and that the arrangements for the appointing of these delegates be made by the Executive Committee was finally passed however.

RESOLUTION OF CONFIDENCE.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the convention on a standing vote, which was taken amid great enthusiasm being exhibited:—

Moved by J. Finlay, M.P., seconded by C. O'Reilly, and resolved:—

That this convention of Liberals of East Peterborough hereby declares and expresses its confidence in our honoured leader, Hon. G. W. Ross, and the Government of which he is the head, and its belief in the policy which he has applied to the government of this province in the past, with such excellent results in the clean, capable and effective administration of our affairs, the upbuilding of our province and the development of its resources, that we believe that a continued application of his policy to the government of the country will be in its best interests, and that this convention pledges itself to assist in its continuance by using every effort to secure the return of a supporter of the Ross Government from East Peterborough, in the election of the candidate who may receive the nomination of this convention.

AN EXPRESSION OF REGRET.

A further resolution was adopted by the meeting on motion of Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Dennis Maloney. This resolution was as follows:

Moved by Wm. Anderson, M.P.P., seconded by D. Maloney, and resolved:—

That the Liberals of East Peterborough take this the first opportunity of expressing its sincere regret that Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, has in the interests of his personal affairs, found it necessary to retire from the position of Provincial Secretary and also from the representation of West Peterborough, and in so doing to express its high appreciation of the excellent service he has given this province in his official capacity, by his capable and efficient administration, which has for its business-like and straight-forward character never been surpassed by that of any preceding occupant of the position. Although Mr. Stratton was officially the representative of West Peterborough, we would bear testimony to the warm interest he has always taken in advancing the interests of the East riding, also which has been expressed in many ways. We regard his retirement as a distinct loss to the public life of the province, and especially of this County and district, and trust that in the near future circumstances may permit of his return to the sphere of public usefulness in which he has been able to do so much to advance the interests of this province and this county.

The meeting closed after three hearty cheers had been given for the King, Mr. Anderson, the Premier and the Chairman.

"NEW BIRD" AN OLD FRIEND.

A Student of Bird Life Gives Some Interesting Facts.

Canadian Jay, or "Whiskey John" the Name of the Species Which at Present are so Plentiful.

In response to a request from the Examiner for some information with reference to an alleged new bird, a gentleman who has for years made a study of bird life, and who is therefore well prepared to give accurate information on the subject, has supplied the following interesting article:—

While in the country during the Thanksgiving vacation, many asked me if I had seen the new bird. Being a lover of birds I at once set about to make acquaintence with this new feathered friend, but was rather disappointed to find it an old settler; but because it appears in greater numbers, so as to attract the attention of the people, it is generally being looked upon as "a new bird".

For the sake of those interested, I venture to write the following account:—

The bird is about the size of a robin, its upper parts a dull leaden-grey; lower, dirty white; hind part of head and neck, a greyish black, while the throat and band about neck is greyish-white. Its Indian name is Wis-ka-Tjan, which when pronounced sounds like Whiskey John, and it has become peculiarly known as "Whiskey Jack". It is none other than our Canadian Jay, a first cousin to the dashing Blue Jay, whose sharp call is so often heard in the woods at this time of the year. The Canadian Jay is quite tame and frequents the camps of lumbermen where it feeds on the stray crumbs. In winter it has a hard time to find food and is often reduced to feathers and bones". I shall feel gratified if any who read this will spare poor "Jack" for I am afraid our "young sports" do take advantage of the easy mark. He has no bad habits that I know of and is quite an animation to our otherwise dreary woods. He is closely allied to the Magpie and if one watches him the similar traits can be noticed.

Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower
GREW THIS HAIR

Ottawa, Ont., April, 1904.
Seven Sutherland Sisters:—
Dear Ladies.—I had lost all my hair, the top of my head being entirely bald for three years. After using your hair preparation for three weeks my head was covered with a new growth of hair. Now my hair measures about thirty-six inches in length and is improving all the time. I find the Hair Grower a fine dressing as well as a tonic and can recommend it to all.
Yours truly,

MEN WHO WILL BE MISSED.

The Ballot Stain—Familiar Figures Vanish From the Capital With the Passing of the Ninth Parliament.

A motley company they will be, haunting the green chamber on the hill, the ghosts of the old Parliament. They have gone down in the warfare where no quarter is given. In the changes and chances of things political, some may find their way back to the old environs, but of many it may be said that the place that has known them shall see them no more forever.

The tenth Parliament can hardly number among its members such human studies as were some of those who went to Ottawa four years ago. There were remarkable men in the ninth Parliament, who will not answer when next the bell rings in the corridors. There was Gourley.

"Pap," said Gourley the younger, once, "What is an Independent?"

"A scoundrel, my son," said Seymour promptly, also mentioning what kind of scoundrel.

Yet Seymour Gourley, without the most remote intention of qualifying as a scoundrel, was essentially an independent. Erratic and half mad as his fellow members chose to call him, the man from Colchester yet had more than one sound notion, and where he had convictions he also had the courage of them. Gourley, the patriot had before him always, his country's honor and the cleanness of the flag. Wild unlicensed enthusiasm and extravagance of word and action made ridiculous the presentation of arguments secretly recognized as sound and honest. Seymour Gourley cared nothing for party discipline where his convictions were concerned. He was sincere always, often he was right, but what he said was lost on those who had attention only for the way he said it.

The clothes of Gourley were a feature of the ninth Parliament. No Hottentot ruler mixed the fashions in civilized apparel more recklessly than Gourley did. He set the seasons at naught, or rather he considered them all at once. He burst into the chamber once at a late sitting, clad in white ducks, a frock coat, overcoat, straw hat and a red necktie.

Clancy vanishes. The redistribution wiped out the riding of Bothwell and Clancy was forced to look abroad. He went into West Lambton to be vanquished by Dr. Johnston. In him there goes from the stage at Ottawa a man of much dryness of speech, addicted to figures and statistical lore. Jas. Clancy's orations were peculiarly suited for the pages of Hansard, but he was industrious and the Opposition found him useful.

Big Tom Mackie, the giant lumberman from North Renfrew, is one of the lost. As a member of the House Mackie broke once into speech. The subject is understood to have been the tariff, but the speech was of interest apart from the topic. Tom Mackie boasted that North Renfrew knew nothing of the campaign business till he taught it in '96. It was then that Hon. Peter White lost the seat which now he has redeemed. The capital will miss the great bulk of the ponderous, slow-moving lumberman. The Russell House will look for him in vain.

And Col. Andy Thompson is numbered with the slain. The man who once worsted Dr. Montague in Haldimand and Monk, has time to devote to law and the Haldimand Rifles. Far in the distance, it is said, the colonel was in the habit of surveying himself ruling over the Department of Militia and Defence—the Hon. Andrew Thorburn Thompson—perhaps Sir Andrew. A man named Lalor has wrought the change.

Col. Thompson was popular at Ottawa. Cabinet Ministers looked upon him kindly. Last year he moved the address, and expressed pleasure at the rarity of earthquakes in Canada. Part of the new Militia Act the country owes to Col. Thompson.

The influence which put the ex-member into the seat in Haldimand is gone. It was exercised less for him than against Dr. Montague. The man who exercised it took that means of avenging Sir Mackenzie Bowell on one at least of the bolting seven. The Senator is gone—and Thompson is down.

The fat form of Hon. Alphonse Alfred Clemew Lariviere will not obstruct the passages of the House during the lifetime of the tenth Parliament. The Hon. Alphonse sat in the front row of the Opposition, suffered in the hot weather, and was remarkable for his roomy trousers. The days of his Parliamentary activity evidently ended with the shelving of that epoch-marking measure, the Remedial Bill. Of late sessions his voice was never heard in the House, nor was he a power in the councils of his party, but there are things in Canadian history—many things in the history of Manitoba—wherein are the finger-marks of Alphonse Alfred Clemew Lariviere. Provencher, a Tory riding for a score of years, has at last rejected him.

He wore low shoes and the roomy trousers broke off abruptly above the ankle.

The retirement of Jabel Robinson takes from the House one of its most remarkable figures. The farmer member for West Elgin—successor to the late George Casey—went to Ottawa as an Independent. He looked and saw and became a political pessimist. Against his being a successful Parliamentarian there were several things. He would not ally himself with either party, because he found on both sides of the House evils which he bluntly denounced, but could not cure. He had honesty and courage, the twin souls of independence, and he looked in vain for kindred spirits. He was not cut out by education or address for the heavy task of pruning Canadian politics. So perforce he divided his time between sulks and protests, and did what he could for his conscience by attending regularly at the House, and being there in time for prayers.

Jabel Robinson will never go back to Ottawa, for two reasons. First, he is over the seventy-year mark; secondly, he will always adhere to his belief that "party politics are rotten." The House will miss the faithfulness of the disgusted old Granger. The long, wide walk will miss the spare, bowed form, the rolling gait, and the legs with the outward bend.

One of the Fielding victories in Nova Scotia was the downfall in Lunenburg of Charles Edwin Kaulbach, Lieut.-Colonel, a man of Shakespearean visage, and an in-growing voice. Being heavily interested in Nova Scotia fisheries Col. Kaulbach spoke chiefly on deep sea subjects.

The Huron changes take "Bob" Holmes and Dr. Peter Macdonald from the House at one fell blow.

Holmes, a moulder of public opinion in Clinton, Ont., was one of the tall men of Parliament, a Liberal whose voice and vote were found on the side of moral reform. He it was, according to the best authority, who, with the Sergeant-at-Arms in his train, invaded the cellar and closed Sam Cassidy's bar. Vendors of calamy maintain that this action on the part of the Huron member was designed less for the advancement of temperance than for the financial welfare of Sam Cassidy's waiters, because the bar being closed, thirsty souls went to the adjoining sitting-room, pressed the button, and were refreshed at an advance on bar prices of so much per wait. It is, however, improbable that this result was foreseen by Mr. Holmes.

The Deputy Speaker's defeat solves a problem. Dr. Macdonald got within one step of the Speakership, became of note by reason of his remarkable rulings, and was found to be an impossibility so far as promotion was concerned. He was passed over when L. P. Brodeur went into the Cabinet, and would have had to be passed over if Speaker Belcourt left the chair. The electors of East Huron have relieved the situation at the cost of a seat.

T. Chase Casgrain goes. Casgrain was reported to entertain a liking for the Monk office. A scion of the Parent family takes the Montmorency seat by virtue, so says Casgrain, of having promised to idemnify the natives for damage to their crops by hailstorms.

Hon. William Ross, the father of the House, Adam C. Bell, the Opposition strong man from Pictou, Capt. Hackett, the seafarer with the ruddy countenance and the voice like the four winds, these are among the missing. The ninth Parliament knew them. The tenth will not.—Toronto Telegram.

Aides to the New Governor.

Colonel Hanbury Williams and Lord Bury have been chosen by Lord Grey, the new Governor-General, as respectively military Secretary and aide-de-camp. The Viscount is the eldest son and heir of the Earl of Albermarle, is unmarried, twenty-three years of age, good looking, like most of the Keppels, and far from rich, says the Marquise de Fontenoy. He is a nephew of the Hon. George and Mrs. Keppel, and it is by no means improbable that he may seek a rich bride on this side of the Atlantic. Colonel Hanbury Williams is, of course, a much older man, and is married to an immensely rich wife, who is also very clever and tactful. When Lord Milner was Governor of Cape Colony and High Commissioner of South Africa, both during the war and the period that immediately preceded it, the colonel acted as his Military Secretary, and as Lord Milner was unmarried it was Mrs. Hanbury Williams who did the honors at Government House for him.

The colonel was specially designated by the King for the post of military attache to the British Embassy at Paris, but the appointment was cancelled at the request of the French Government and military authorities, who objected to it in consequence of the fact that Mrs. Hanbury Williams, who was a Miss Annie Reiss of Manchester, belonged to the Hebrew race, though not, I believe, to the Jewish faith. It was considered that, in view of the anti-Semitic feeling that still prevails among military men in France and also in certain Government circles at Paris, the fact that Mrs. Hanbury Williams was a Jewess would give rise to difficulties. King Edward, who entertains no prejudice whatsoever with regard to the Hebrew race, and who cannot understand intolerance of that kind, not only endeavored to atone for the affront by inviting Colonel and Mrs. Hanbury Williams to Balmoral, but likewise directly interested himself in their future. Indeed, it is understood that Lord Grey has chosen Colonel Hanbury Williams as his Military Secretary in Canada at the suggestion of King Edward.

Many Women Suffer Untold Agony From Kidney Trouble.

Very often they think it is from so-called "female disease." There is less female trouble than they think. Women suffer from backache, sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, and a dragging-down feeling in the loins. So do men, and they do not have "female trouble." Why, then, blame all your trouble to female disease? With healthy kidneys, few women will ever have "female disorders." The kidneys are so closely connected with all the internal organs, that when the kidneys go wrong, everything goes wrong. Much distress would be saved if women would only take at stated intervals.

Miss Nellie Clark, Lambeth, Ont., tells of her cure in the following words:—"I suffered for about two years with kidney trouble. I ached all over, especially in the small of my back; not being able to sleep well, no appetite, menstruation irregular, nervous irritability, and brick-dust deposit in urine, were some of my symptoms. I took Doan's Kidney Pills. The pain in my back gradually left me, my appetite returned, I sleep well, and am effectually cured. I can highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers from kidney trouble."

FOR CANADIAN LIFE.

Plucky Canadian Girl Is in Training to Make It Successful

An English gentleman went away to the far Northwest of Canada and there, almost within the shadow of the Rocky Mountains and alone, he turned up the unbroken prairie soil, and began to make for himself a farm.

There was a girl he left behind him—an English girl, of gentle birth and upbringing.

From her home of peace and comfort the girl was ready to go out to the wild, new land, and "rough it" by the side of the man she loved. "But this is an impossible thing," said her lover. "There is not even a house in which you could shelter. You and I must have patience."

When he had gone the girl did not give way to vain regrets. Instead, she sat down and very quietly thought the matter out.

Then she saw that the man had been right. She looked at her hands—long, white, slender hands with polished nails. They had never known the reeking washtub and the scorching cooking stove. She looked in the glass, and saw that her face had only the delicate comeliness of a maiden reared in a town.

She realized also what the man in his kindness had forborne to say—that she would be a hindrance to him in his work.

But her slender body held a stout heart and a high spirit. So she set to work to learn roughing it at home.

First she went to some volunteer friends and asked to be taught to shoot. They put a heavy service rifle into her hands, and laughed at her. But she was not to be laughed at. She glued herself to the range, and soon made some of the members of the rifle club—of which she was the only lady member—wonder at her skill. Later she went to Bisley.

That was at last summer's great meeting, and there Miss Florence Lewis—that is the girl's name—became the centre of interest in the camp.

It was an unwonted thing to see a pretty, blue-eyed girl lying on a firing mat and scoring "bulls" and "inners." All the men came to see her, and she was called the "lady shot."

From her shooting Miss Lewis claims that she has learned much. The handling of a loaded weapon, she says, gives her a sense of self-reliance and has taught her discipline and patience.

With this new stock of patience she set to work on less congenial tasks. She blackened her white hands on grates, and roughened them in the washtub. She cooked, scoured and darned.

Miss Lewis is not content with mastering all household work of the hardest kind. She means to be as useful as a "hired man" about the fields. So she is going down to a farm in Essex to work as an ordinary laborer. She will milk the cows, do dairy work, tend the sheep, and dig. The art of horsebreaking will be thrown in by way of a diversion.

"Then," she says laughingly, "when I am a good farm hand, I shall take my gun and be off to Canada in the spring. And I'll rough it with the best of them."

Best Egg Preservers.

In a test with various egg preservatives at the Ontario station the two leading successful substances were limewater and glasswater solution. Eggs put up in limewater scored 41 out of a possible 50, and those in water glass in proportion of one part to seven of water scored 48.2 out of a possible 50. The addition of salt to the limewater failed to secure as good results as the limewater alone, and greased eggs put in salt were not equal to the others mentioned.

To Loosen the Cough

AND BRING ABOUT A THOROUGH CURE OF COLDS, USE

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP of LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

It is sometimes dangerous to stop a cough.

The aim should be to loosen the cough, relieve the tightness and pain in the chest and aid expectoration so that the obstructing and irritating mass may be passed out of the air passages.

This is exactly what is accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

It is not a mere cough mixture, and not intended to stop the cough, but rather to cure the cold.

If you have tickling in the throat, pains and tightness in the chest, sensations of irritation, of oppression, or suffocation this great family medicine will afford almost instant relief and thoroughly overcome the cold which gives rise to these symptoms.

Not only is Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine a positive cure for croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma and severe chest colds, but is also a preventative of all diseases of the lungs.

It has time and again proven its right to a place in every home, and is the standby in thousands of families.

Mrs. F. Dwyer, Chestervills, Ont., says: "My little girl of three years had an attack of bronchial pneumonia. My husband and I thought she was going to leave this world, as her case resisted the doctor's treatment. I bought a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine from our popular druggist, W. G. Bahter. After the first two or three doses the child began to get better and we are thankful to say is all right to-day, after seven weeks sickness."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 3

TALK OF THE WEST.

Canada Northern Railway Adds 400 Miles This Year—Reaches Saskatoon—Prince Albert Branch About Completed.

Fresh from a tour of the Canadian Northern lines in the west, Mr. William Mackenzie recently talked interestingly of his accomplishments and plans in railway-building. It was evident that the progress his construction gangs had made this year pleased him, for he was able to say that 305 miles of track had already been laid this season, and to this they hoped to add another 100 miles before the bad weather steps in. "You know we can lay steel after the frost comes, though we cannot do any grading," he said. The Canadian Northern now had in operation and with track laid about 1,750 miles of line west of Port Arthur.

"I was pretty well over the western extensions," said Mr. Mackenzie. "Our main line has just reached the Saskatchewan near Saskatoon, by way of Grand View. We expect that in about three weeks we will reach the elbow of the North Saskatchewan and before the season closes we hope to lay the track 60 miles farther to Battleford. There may be some delay in completing the four large bridges on the main line. That at Saskatoon is now ready to run over. The timber is pretty well all at the Battleford bridge now, having been floated down from Edmonton, and it will be ready in the spring. We will put in steel bridges at these points, but first of all we have to put up wooden structures to carry the steel. We hope to reach Edmonton by October next year. The line is now graded to within one hundred miles of that place. After that we expect to go on beyond Edmonton."

Mr. Mackenzie spoke with pleasure of the settlement along the Canadian Northern. There is a very good settlement around Humboldt and in the neighborhood of the Quill Lakes. He understood the country was pretty well settled all the way from Battleford to Edmonton.

As to the progress on the Prince Albert branch, which leaves Manitoba at the northwest corner and passes due west, Mr. Mackenzie said grading was now done to the South Saskatchewan, fifteen miles from Prince Albert. "We are thus right on the edge of the famous Carrot River country," said Mr. Mackenzie. "I never saw a finer looking country in my life than at Melfort, which I saw this trip for the first time." Trains are running as far as Melfort, a new and flourishing town, 62 miles east of Prince Albert, and the track would be laid as far as the South Saskatchewan this year. They would get into Prince Albert, which is on the south bank of the North Saskatchewan, early next year. The bridge at the present end of the grading would be put in first thing in the spring. In other parts of Manitoba a few branch lines are now being finished up.

"Do you think there will be a grain blockade this year?" Mr. Mackenzie was asked.

"I think it will be doubtful if 50 per cent. of the grain will reach lake ports this year, judging by the way it has been moving up to the present. We have not by 750,000 to 1,000,000 bushels moved as much grain this year as last year to this date. The grain did not commence moving until three weeks later. It is coming pretty fast now, and may make up before the close of navigation. Where grain is moving out I never saw it so close to the market before. There is hardly any in store. That indicates that the facilities are greatly improved. There is no question about moving the grain in a reasonable time and in a reasonable way. If everybody wants to market on the same day there may be more or less difficulty," said Mr. Mackenzie, with a smile.

"The west is very prosperous indeed," he went on. "Everything is looking well. I met a Mr. Jansen of Minnesota, who has large interests in the Canadian west, and who told me there would be a bigger rush from the United States to Canada next year than we have had yet. He is a very well-to-do man, and knows what he is talking about."

Autumn in Northwest Ontario.

The air is deliciously soft and balmy after the long rain, but the sky is still cloudy. A Scotch mist hides the view of distant hills, but the nearer ones are clothed with autumnal splendor. The evergreens stands out sternly, grimly, as though frowning on the decay all around. Where the railroad track cuts through the rock, the rich, glowing crimson of sumach blazes. The sombre brown of birch is a foil for the bright yellow of the poplar. The mountain ash is like a sunset; yellow, orange, crimson and scarlet are blended as only nature can blend, and the large clusters of ripe berries hang temptingly among the bright foliage. Flocks of blackbirds alight on the garden, and strut proudly over the blackened potato tops and among the tall cornstalks, while scorces of sparrows are chattering in the thornhedge, now purple, after the heavy frosts of a week ago. The creek is like glass and the soldier-like rushes are mirrored in the clear water. The Russian poplar is still as beautiful as in midsummer, for the large polished leaves do not color till very late, and long after the other trees stand bare and shivering. A belated robin runs forlornly over the dew-laden lawn, but he is mute now. —Andante, in The Globe.

Radio Activity of Rain.

Rain and snow have been proved to contain a certain amount of radio active matter, probably carried down from the atmosphere. The activity as tested in newly fallen rain water was the same whether the rain was precipitated in large or in small drops, and the same when the tests were made at the beginning or at the end of a rainfall lasting several hours.

The normal weight of the liver is between three and four pounds.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, and Leucorrhea, that, after over a third of a century's experience in curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which he cannot cure.

IT STANDS ALONE.—The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone, as the one and only remedy for these distressingly common forms of weakness, possessed of such positively specific curative properties as to warrant its makers in proposing, and binding themselves to forfeit, as we, the undersigned proprietors of that wonderful remedy hereby do, to pay the sum of $500 in legal money of the United States in any case of the above diseases in which after a fair and reasonable trial of our treatment, we fail to cure. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee; no other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its manufacturers in making such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and turn your back on any unscrupulous dealer who would insult your intelligence by attempting to foist upon you some inferior substitute, under the plea that "it is just as good." Insist on having the article which has a record of a third of a century of cures and which is backed by those willing to forfeit $500 if they cannot cure you.

In cases attended by a leucorrheal drain a solution of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets should be used conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription." They are sold by all druggists, or sent post-paid to any address, on receipt of 25 cents in stamps. Send 50 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY, Buffalo, N. Y.

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ZADKIEL AND ASTRONOMY.

An Interview With the Prophet of the Almanac While He Was in a Brown Study.

From the depths of a big arm-chair the famous prophet gazed out upon the lowering sky. He was in a brown study.

"About the greater prophecies, doctor—the world-stirring events you have foretold?"

"Last year I predicted the outbreak of war between Russia nad Japan. I say last year because I wrote the predictions last year, and they were in the hands of the public months before the event, but they are, of course, in this year's almanac. I gave as the probable date of the outbreak of the war Feb. 16. War actually started on Feb. 8. You will find that under the 'Voice of the Stars' for July this year and I warn the Russian police to vigilantly watch for plots against rulers. On July 28 M. de Plehve was assassinated. There were several smaller instances, including the trouble between England and Russia as to British shipping and its settlement."

"Luck, doctor?"

"Luck, sir! Science, sir; accurate science, sir! There," and sadness tinged his tone, "I know people think I sit here and write down just what I please, throwing in a few sensations here and there, and veiling them in vague language."

"But, then, how do you do it, really, Zadkiel?"

"See, sir; this year I have predicted, on pages 76, 77, of the almanac for 1905 that peace will be concluded between Russia and Japan in the last quarter of next year. I also add that Russia will be tired of an unsuccessful war."

"The prophet's way of saying that Japan will win?"

"Such is the undoubted voice of the planets."

Something in my expression must have made Zadkiel fancy I was skeptical. With dignified indignation, he added, as he walked across to a deep drawer, and took out a large bundle of foolscap sheets closely covered with circles, signs, figures, and mathematical calculations, "I am going to show you that astrology is a serious science."

I took out my note-book.

"Four times a year, sir—at the winter solstice, vernal equinox, summer solstice and autumnal equinox, I draw the 'figures' for all the principal capitals of the world. Those 'figures' show the relative positions of the sun, moon, Saturn, Jupiter and Venus. Uranus and Neptune indicate rather more evil than good, but are undecided."

"But what makes you think these planets have any influence at all? They are mostly a long way off, aren't they?"

"Long recorded observations, sir, over 3,000 to 5,000 years prove the influences to be as I say."

"And how do they exert that influence, do you say?"

"We cannot tell the manner, but I believe it to be in some way electrical working on us by means of the atmosphere. The moon has sufficient influence on water to cause the tides; that is admitted. It is also known that Jupiter reflects fourteen times more of the chemical rays of the sun than the moon does. Why then, should it be impossible that the planets can influence matters, much less dense than water, such as the atmosphere and the human mind?"

"But how do you draw your inferences from the 'figures?'"

"Having, by accurate calculations, placed the constellations in their proper places on the chart I see what 'Houses' the different influences are in."

"Take the case of Russia and Japan."

"It is most simple. Obvious, in fact, at a glance. At the autumnal equinox next year Jupiter you see here (showing me the chart) is rising at St. Petersburg. He is in the 'first ascension,' which concerns the people. Well, Jupiter is the planet of peace. It is certain, therefore, that the Russian people towards the end of next September will be inclined towards peaceful notions."

"And how about Japan?"

"Conclusive proof of the accuracy of astrology. For we find here in the same date, that at Tokio Jupiter is in the 'Tenth House' approaching the upper meridian. That 'House' represents the monarch and Government. Consequently the Japanese rulers will be inclined towards peace at that time. But here, you will notice, is Saturn, the evil influence, in the 'descendant' at Tokio. Now the 'descendant' represents the enemies of Japan. Consequently Saturn is at work among Japan's enemies, and, strange to say, the ruling sign of Russia, that is Aquarius, happens to fall in the 'Seventh House' at the same time. Isn't it clear?"

"Perfectly clear," I murmured, "but where does the daily weather come in on these figures?"

"It doesn't; I have to make a separate calculation for each day to see what the weather will be."

"And what about fortune-tellers by astrology, 'Zadkiel?'"

"Humbug, sir; fraud, fraud. They cannot tell fortunes. They only bring a genuine science into disrepute; ought to be stopped. Astrology can tell influences, and from those influences we draw deductions. I was once consulted by a man who was going to Africa. I said, 'Don't go; if you go you will die.' He didn't go—saved his life. Wonderful science, beautiful. Glad to have told you all about it. Convert you some day, perhaps."

And as I shook hands Dr. Zadkiel's bright eyes flashed beneath his white-grey hair, while he said, "Awful pity people don't believe; but they won't, will they?"—London Daily News.

A Famous Whist Hand.

The most notorious hand of whist ever played is that known as "the Duke of Cumberland's hand." It has never been definitely settled how this hand came to be dealt, but such a peculiar combination naturally suggests suspicions of foul play. The duke, playing in the room at Bath, held in his hands king, knave, nine, seven or trumps (clubs); ace, king of diamonds ace, king, queen, knave of hearts, and ace, king, queen of spades, and yet was unable to secure a single trick and moreover, lost a bet of £20,000 upon the hand. This incredible result was achieved as follows: The duke of course led with a trump and found his partner void in that suit. His left hand adversary, whom we may call Y. having ace, queen, ten, eight, and his right hand adversary, Z., the remaining five trumps and no diamonds, the consequence was that Z. trumped diamonds twice, and Y., sitting over the duke with better trumps, after taking the sixth trick had the lead with the seven remaining diamonds, and thus Y. and Z. made the thirteen tricks.

An English Ghost Story.

A remarkable ghost story is told in the parish of Burton Agnes, England. There years ago lived three sisters of the name of Boynton. The youngest of the three exacted the promise from the others that on her death her head should be placed on a table in the hall. She met with an accident shortly after which resulted in her death. Her sisters neglected their promise to her, and she was buried, head and all. But on the night after the burial the hall was thrown into terrible confusion, and the dead lady appeared to her sisters with her head under her arm. She upbraided them with their neglected promise and, placing the head on the table, disappeared. In the morning the head was still there, and on the coffin being dug up the body was found to be headless. Any attempt to remove the head was followed by disturbances during the night. It was even buried at a distance from the house, but was restored by the ghost. Eventually the head disappeared, but the disturbances continue nightly in the hall.

Strong Minds and Bad Health.

Lots of success has been pulled off by invalids. Parkman, the historian, was a bankrupt in health before he began his life's work. Heine lived in a mattress grave for years. Was it not Pope who spoke of "that long disease, my life?" R. L. Stevenson pushed away death with one hand while he wrote and lighted cigarettes with the other. There are hundreds of like instances. Mr. Tilden always was a valetudinarian and never had any physical energy to spare. But he had mental energy. That is the main thing. A sound body makes for sanity of mind, but physical energy and mental energy don't always go together.

ANTI-DUMPING LAW FOR GOOD OF CANADA

Experience Needed to Get the Best Results.

Mr. Robert White, collector of customs at Montreal, and a former Conservative member of Parliament, in referring to the operation of the anti-dumping legislation, says:—

In coming to apply the legislation it was discovered that it was somewhat more far-reaching than Parliament contemplated, and that some classes of transactions of perfectly legitimate character were falling under the special duty clause. The Minister of Customs is now giving consideration to these cases, and provision is being made to relieve them from the application of such duty. Such cases are bona fide cash discounts; samples and goods purchased at a fair market price for shipment at a latter period. For example, linseed oil is contracted for early in the year for shipment during the season of navigation. The law as it now stands levies duty in the open market price at the time of shipment rather than purchase, and if the price has advanced duty has to be paid on such increase. Similiarly, if the price falls the duty is on the lower price. This class of transaction has been exempted from the action of the special duty when the value of the goods at the time of shipment is greater than at the time of purchase, provided always that the latter was the open market price.

When points like these have been arranged for, and the rough edges smoothed down, this legislation will prove most advantageous to the Canadian manufacturer by proving a substantial protection against unfair competition caused by dumping.

Mr. White thought that the operation of the clause would have the effect of leading foreign manufacturers to build plants in Canada for the market here, in the same way as the American Axe & Tool Company has decided to do. The customs authorities are being constantly called upon to enforce the regulations, and are thus freeing the market from the illegitimate competition it was formerly exposed to.

LEAGUE HELD GOOD SOCIAL.

An Enjoyable Evening Spent at George Street Church.

Under the Auspices of the Epworth League—A Splendid Programme Rendered.

There was a large turn out of the members of the George street Epworth League, and their friends, at the social held last evening in the school room. The evening's programme prooved to be a most enjoyable one for all present, and the affair was in every way a great success. The chairman of the meeting was Rev. Dr. Crothers, the pastor.

The programme opened with a vocal solo, "The Maid of Malabar," by Mr. Jas. Browne, who sang with his usual acceptability, and was heartily encored. Miss Alberta White's recitation, "When Pat went Courting," was popularly received, and she responded to an encore. Mr. Homer Herd sang, "Island of Dreams," in an effective manner, and was forced to give a second number.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin gave a short address upon some impressions of the World's Fair. The Fair at St. Louis was the last of a series of these events, the first of which was held in London, in the Crystal Palace. This was considered a most pretentious effort at the time, and the Fair was renowned for years afterwards, but it was small when compared with the one which was drawing to a close at St. Louis. The Chicago Fair, the first World's Fair in America, was a colossal undertaking, as was that at Paris, but the St. Louis Exposition out-shines all its predecessors in size and magnificence, and is, by far, the finest yet attempted. Chicago was called "The White City," its building having an almost total absence of colour. At teh Pan-American in Buffalo, some attempt was made to represent the Spanish-American forms of architecture, and to introduce colour, but the effect was not a most happy one, and at St. Louis the style went back to the classical, and the effect is most pleasing. Mr. Dobbin referred briefly to the beauty, size, plan and features of the buildings, which were erected on a most extensive scale. He described several of the most important buildings, and their contents, and the features which were especially interesting. The art gallery was of especial interest, and the paintings of the Canadian artists did not appear to suffer materially when compared with those of artists of world-wide reputation. The exhibits were the largest ever made. When visiting the Fair it was well to take along some information regarding one's own country, for at the Fair people of all nationalities are met, and one must be able to stand up for Canada.

Following the address a short time was spent in securing autographs, after which Mr. R. N. Jolliffe sang "Heroes and Gentlemen," and was encored.

Refreshments were then served, and an enjoyable social time spent.

As a Convalescent Food,

Mr. Wyman N. Thomas, Ompah, Addington .Co., Ont., writes: — "My wife had congestion of the lungs along with other troubles, and became very weak and run down. By the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, she was made as strong and well as ever. Of course I had a doctor, but she was weak, and it was Dr. Chase's Nerve Food which built her up."

DR. OSLER ON TUBERCULOSIS

Difficulty of Differentiating Between Ordinary Pneumonia and Acute Tuberculosis Pneumonia.

Dr. Osler lectured in Brooklyn this week on "The Acute Tuberculosis pneumonia." He said it was particularly hard to discern its early stage, and he had often been deceived. He warned the physicians present to refrain from talking to their patients too freely. He said that the only safe way was to examine the patient, note the symptoms and when questions were asked to shake the head, grunt and look wise. That suits some patients, especially if they are a little nervous, but others again are not satisfied unless the doctor tells them the worst.

FRASERVILLE.

The Rev. Mr. Roberson is conducting special services this week. A cordial invitation is given to all to attend the meetings.

Mrs. Samuel Pashy's sister, living at Garden Hill, who has been ailing for some time, quietly passed away on Thursday last. The family have the sympathy of the entire neighbourhood in their bereavement. The husband of the deceased died but a short time ago.

Miss Johnston has returned home from a pleasant visit with friends in Seymour township.

There are rumours that Mr. David Wood intends removing to Peterborough in the spring.

SOMETHING ABOUT DEER HUNTING.

Dry Season Made it Hard on the Hunters.

Hounds Could not Follow Trail—Deer not Scarce.

When the express companies have completed their returns of the number of deer carried southwards from the Muskoka Lake, the Magnetawan and the Haliburton districts, a marked decrease in the general average of game, will, no doubt, be noticed. The unusually fine, through dry weather, experienced during the fortnight's season just closed, proved a great handicap in hunting that noblest of Ontario game—the red deer.

In the district from Lake Rosseau in Muskoka northwards to the Magnetawan and French Rivers, perhaps as fine a deer cover as can be found anywhere in North America, the scarcity of rain or snow was particularly noticeable. An added feature which hindered greatly the success of the still hunter or stalker, was the wonderful covering of fallen leaves and twigs which even the most careful woodsman could not prevent from giving forth ominous sounds of his approach.

In using hounds on deer the dry season proved even a greater drawback, as the dogs were unable to follow at any great speed, and the knowing redskins played about, their heads and tails erect, evidently enjoying the fun. I have myself, while putting out the dogs in the northern woods in the season just closed, seen as good a pair of hounds as one could find, puzzling about and beating like a pair of pointers, in their efforts to find the track and all the while the buck was standing not 75 yards distant taking in the whole proceedings until a good old hound with a better nose than his mate got wind down and raced away on the trail. The crash in the brush off to our left made known his whereabouts, and a flash of his flag as he made off was the last we saw of him.

'Twas surely a find trial with the hounds this November, and as a test of a dependable nose and an untiring pair of legs, couldn't be surpassed.

Even during the earlier morning runs which, as all hunters of experience know, are most productive of results, the deer when straightened out would inevitably take uncovered runaways or even when following the old trails would gather a momentum that made shooting at any distance a matter of guess work. Not all of the deer shipped south are procured in this manner, however, else I'm inclined to think small bags would be the custom rather than the contrary. A great many deer are shot while swimming the rivers and lakes of the north in their efforts to delude the dogs. Perhaps the least said of this style of hunting the better, 'Tis unsportsmanlike at its best, and should be forbidden by law.

A fair, open shot within a hundred yards range and a true sportsman will not ask more, and the greater number of deer shot are killed within that distance.

Deer are not scarce, controversy notwithstanding, and the greater part of those secured this season are largely, due, no doubt, to the survival of the fittest, which the very severe winter of '03-'04 made only possible. A great deal of praise should be given to the shantymen and choppers from the lumber camps, who, in many instances, carried out hay and straw and fed the famished deer throughout the cold spell, thus accounting to a considerable extent for the large number of deer seen, even though their forces were sadly depleted on account of the heavy snows.

To the club members and individual hunters who have returned to the city with anything like their compliment of deer, I can only add my congratulations, because deer, though in goodly numbers, were hard to get within range, and success was only allowed after the expenditure of a great deal of labour.

Of small game, partridge, hare and fox, the woods contained a goodly number, though the coming of the deer hunter in November, at the latter end of the open season for partridge, gives him small chance of securing large bags, the covers having been well beaten long ere he arrives, and his efforts are rewarded with a few shots at single birds, or, at most, to chances in the swamps or thick woods where birds on the wing are very difficult to kill.

Of the sport of deer hunting none better survives and it has always been an inexplicable mystery to me why more of our townsfellowe do not take advantage of it. What better outing could one desire than a fortnight in the northern woods, when the autumn haze is on and the brisk November air invigorates and makes life worth living? An outing that adds colour to your cheeks, hardens your muscles, and sends you back to the city fit and willing with a rich experience and a fund of stories that never tire in the telling.—G. J. M. in Toronto News.

FUNERAL OF LATE JUDGE GEO. CLARKE

Took Place Recently in Cobourg and was Largely Attended.

The funeral of the late Judge Geo. M. Clark took place from his residence on Friday last to St. Peters Cemetery. The members of the Bench and Bar of the United counties of Northumberland and Durham showed their respect and esteem by attending in a body. Mr. A. R. Creelman, Mr. McNicholl and Mr. Angus McMurchy were present, representing the Canadian Pacific Railway, for which the deceased was for many years chief solicitor. Among the mourners were Mr. Clark Dennis, Master Oliver Dennis, grandsons; Judge Weller, Peterborough, brother-in-law; Mr. J. Weller, Mr. Galbraith, Mr. Chas. Wilmot, of Port Hope. The pall bearers were Judge Benson, Port Hope; Mr. R. R. Loscombe, Bowmanville; Judge Ketchum, Senator Wm. Kerr, Mr. M. B. Williams, Mr. H. F. Holland, of Cobourg. Rev. Canon Spragge, pastor of St. Peter's church, conducted the services at the residence and at the cemetery.—Cobourg Sentinel-Star.

FROM SOUTH AFRICH.

New Way of Using Chamberlain Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I can you the following: A neighbour of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

MR. LANGFELDT MAKES REPLY.

Was Not Making a Defense of the Bar.

Points out Fact That Temperance Hotels are not Patronized by Temperance People.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt was seen this morning with reference to the letter which appeared in last night's issue of the Examiner from two Toronto men, criticising the reverend gentleman's position on the question of local option in Smith township, and in an interview Rev. Mr. Langfeldt said:—

"The very fact" he replied, "that the letter was of such a libellous and malicious character that certain portions of it had to be suppressed should be sufficient to destroy anything said in favour of the contentions raised by the two young men in question. Let me make one point clear—I was not speaking in defence of the bar but in the interest of fair play and justice, which I desire to see meted out to everyone. The circumstances of this case are such that what may apply to other municipalities does not apply to the township of Smith. For instance, the situation of the township is such that its hotels, bordering close to Douro and Harvey townships, could easily continue, providing the bylaw is carried, by removing across the boundary line. The Kawartha Lakes have been the means of attracting a large number of tourists, who depend upon hotel accommodation. Proprietors of temperance houses have said that the support which they receive from temperance people amounts to nothing, and, as a general rule, so-called temperance hotels have but the most meagre accommodation. I make these statements, not in defence of hotels provided with bars, but simply to point out a fact patent to all, that many temperance people, in spite of their convictions on prohibition, after all, do little or nothing in the way of encouraging or patronizing temperance houses.

"The general tone of the letter indicates that the writers have rushed into a discussion of a matter which they have given no serious consideration. They are young men who are preparing themselves for their future calling and have a good deal to learn yet and the more they apply themselves to their books the less time they will have to meddle in affairs which they neither seem to properly understand nor are, at this stage of their development competent to pass judgment on.

"In conclusion I wish to say that I have no desire to enter into a controversy on this matter. I have given you my views because requested by you to do so. By them I stand and leave it to all fair-minded and unprejudiced people to judge me by them. I am not taking sides with any party or faction in this matter. I have seen so much of the inconsistency, political and otherwise of many so-called temperance reformers, that I can not say much in favour of their proposed measures. If a man like the late Principal Grant, who as a scholar and Christian gentleman had no peer, saw fit to denounce prohibition for reasons satisfactory to himself I can not make a mistake in the views which I hold regarding it."

HOCKEY MEET NG TO-MORROW NIGHT

Annual Meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club Will be Held.

To-morrow night the annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club will be held in the Oriental Hotel parlours. It is very desirable that there should be a large attendance of all those who are interested in the preservation of this winter game in Peterborough. The team has suffered some serious losses since last season, but there are still a number of players with which a good team could be formed, and the boys, in their efforts to provide hockey, should be encouraged, and the first way in which this encouragement might be shown, would be by attendance at the meeting to-morrow night, which will be held at eight o'clock.

HOCKEY.

The Examiner's advocacy of the City Hockey League seems to be meeting with approval of the hockeyists, and a third team has signified its intention of entering the league. To-day a representation of the "Farriers" waited upon the Examiner to say that that team would enter as soon as the league was formed.

A despatch from Pittsburg to the Toronto Globe, says that J. M. Brooks, a hockey magnate of Peterborough, Canada, is in Pittsburg, and called on the garden management relative to hockey matters last week.

CURLING.

That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones, call around and see us.

CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

Having purchased Mr. W. H. Knapp's interest in the Hotel Balmoral, I have entered into full possession and beg leave to respectfully solicit a share of the patronage of the Peterborough public.

With the view of giving assurance that the hotel and premises will be thoroughly equipped and refitted up to the requirements of a first-class house, it has been made conditional that improvements will be inaugurated at once on a scale sufficient to ensure the accomplishment of this object.

The fact that a series of changes in the proprietorship of this hotel has taken place within a comparatively short period, will not, I trust, be allowed to militate against the success of the new management.

THE GOVERNMENT IS REORGANIZED

Four New Ministers Sworn in at Government House.

PERSONNEL OF NEW CABINET

Hon. J. M. Gibson Remains Without Portfolio—Hon. F. R. Latchford, Attorney General—Mr. Charlton Succeeds Mr. Latchford, Mr. Graham Mr. Stratton, Mr. Mackay Mr. Davis, and Mr. F. E. A. Evanturel.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—The final step was taken in the reconstruction of the Ontario Government yesterday afternoon, four new members being sworn in by the Lieutenant-Governor, one member of the old Cabinet being transferred to another department and a second retaining his seat without portfolio.

The Cabinet is now composed as follows:

Hon. G. W. Ross, Premier and treasurer.

Hon. F. R. Latchford, Attorney-General.

Hon. Richard Harcourt, Minister of Education.

Hon. W. A. Charlton, Commissioner of Public Works.

Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture.

Hon. A. G. MacKay, Commissioner of Crown Lands.

Hon. George P. Graham, Provincial Secretary.

Hon. J. M. Gibson, Minister without portfolio.

Hon. F. E. A. Evanturel, Minister without portfolio.

Last Meeting of Old Cabinet.

During the afternoon the last meeting of the old Cabinet took place in the Council Chamber at the Parliament Buildings, all the members being present but Hon. Mr. Davis, who is at the St. Louis Fair. It was over at about 4 o'clock, and later the Premier, accompanied by Hon. Messrs. Dryden, Harcourt and Latchford, and the prospective Cabinet members, and Mr. J. Lonsdale Capreol, Clerk of the Executive Council, drove down to Government House, in the front drawing-room of which the swearing-in ceremony took place at about 5 o'clock. No others were present besides His Honor and those mentioned. The oath of allegiance and the oath as member of the Executive Council, respectively, were sworn to by the new members together. Hon. Mr. Latchford did not, of course, take these, having done so at the time of his appointment to his previous portfolio, that of Public Works. He, however, took the oath of office, and Hon. Messrs. Mackay, Graham and Charlton took it after him in the order named.

Mr. Capreol's First Swearing-in.

Mr. Capreol, who administered the oaths, did so for the first time in his capacity as Clerk of the Executive Council, though he had previously acted on similar occasions while Assistant Clerk. At the close of the proceedings His Honor congratulated the new members, light refreshments were partaken of, and the party soon thereafter dispersed.

The new Ministers with portfolio will assume their duties immediately. Hon. Mr. Stratton gave up his rooms to Hon. Mr. Graham yesterday evening, Hon. Mr. Latchford will to-day take possession of Hon. Mr. Gibson's rooms, and Hon. Mr. Davis' successor, Hon. Mr. Mackay, will at once take charge of the Crown Lands Department. The new members of the Cabinet are well known throughout the Province.

LIBERALS FLOCK TO CONVENTION.

Over One Thousand Delegates Have Registered Already in Toronto.

That the Liberal Convention, which opens at Massey Hall at 10 o'clock this morning, will fully realize the most sanguine expectations in point of attendance and enthusiasm was fully demonstrated yesterday. From early in the morning the delegates poured into the city by every train, and the Credential Committee were kept busy until a late hour last night at the work of registration. When the books were closed for the night it was estimated that a thousand delegates had been enrolled. Nearly as many more Liberals who had not the good fortune to possess the coveted credential entitling them to a voice in the counsels of the party in convention assembled had also recorded their presence as interested visitors to a gathering which all recognize will mark another and important epoch in the history of Liberalism. Large though the registration was yesterday, the bulk of the delegates have yet to arrive, and it is estimated that when the convention settles down to business this morning it will be composed of considerably more than 2,000 representative men, the flower of the Liberal party of Ontario.

REILLY FOUND IN HOSPITAL.

Wanted In Connection With Bogus Ballot Boxes—Arrested At Kingston.

Kingston, Nov. 23.—Soon after 9 o'clock last night Francis J. Reilly, the much-sought-after man, who it is charged made arrangements in Watertown for the purchase of the trick ballot-boxes, was located in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, but it was some time after that hour that his room was reached and he was found therein. He was under a doctor's charge, who had notified the hospital authorities not to permit anyone to see him. It was only after the medical man was seen that permission was granted to notify Reilly of his arrest. A guard is on the corridor and Reilly will remain in the hospital for the night. When he was subpoenaed on Thursday he said he was not F. J. Reilly, that he was not the man wanted, and that he knew nothing about the affair. Mr. Porter of Belleville was consulted and after a description had been obtained Reilly was again informed on Friday that he was the party required. He said he would go up to Belleville, but it would be a needless expense. He did not go, and then the warrant came to hand on Sunday night, but it had the wrong initials, and before the warrant could be rectified Reilly disappeared on Monday, and the final clue was only run down last night. The detectives came back from Harrowsmith at 10 o'clock. They did not find Shibley; he had driven away on Monday and that was the last seen of him.

Byron O. Lott Obtains Bail.

Belleville, Nov. 23.—Byron O. Lott, who was arrested Monday, spent the night in jail and was brought before Police Magistrate Flint yesterday morning. The case was not formally taken up. Crown Attorney Anderson asked for a remand until Friday, to which the Magistrate agreed. Bail was arranged for at the Court House an hour later. William H. Lott, Belleville, and George Whitly, Stirling, were the bondsmen. John T. Cockran, Madoc, came down and offered to deposit $2,000 as security for Mr. Lott's appearance, but the money was not needed. The bail is good for a week.

The Formal Charge.

The formal charge against B. O. Lott, and upon which he was arrested is as follows: That he did between the 1st day of October and the 3rd day of November, 1904, in the County of Hastings, County of Frontenac, and elsewhere, unlawfully conspire with one J. F. Reilly, T. E. Whalen, P. A. Lott, W. F. Shibley, and other persons unknown, or with one or more of them by deceit, or other fraudulent means to wit, the use of forged, fraudulent or counterfeit ballots and fraudulent ballot boxes with secret compartments, slides and devices therein, deceitfully contrive to have same substituted for the ballot boxes or some of them intended to be used at an election for the House of Commons for the electoral riding of West Hastings, holden, on the said 3rd day of November, 1904, to defraud certain unascertained persons entitled to vote at said election by substituting error ballots cast by such persons such fraudulent or forged counterfeit ballots by means of such fraudulent ballot boxes with secret slides or secret compartments."

NORTH SIMCOE RECOUNT.

When Count Closed Tuesday McCarthy's Majority Had Gained Two.

Barrie, Nov. 23.—The official recount for North Simcoe opened here before Judge Ardagh at 4 p.m. yesterday. The investigation is being conducted behind closed doors in the library at the Court House. Both candidates are present, with a formidable array of consul. Mr. McCarthy is assisted by H.S. Osler, F. Ford and R. Grant while Major Currie's interests are being watched by H. H. Strathy, K.C., H. Lennox and W. A. Boys.

Several irregularities have appeared in three divisions owing to the negligence or ignorance of deputy returning officers. Irregularities occurred in two divisions in Collingwood and in one division in Nottawasaga. The result involved is in more or less doubt, as in one booth the deputy returning officer allowed the ballots to go into the box with the counterfoil attached. This division gave Major Currie 17. In another the officers numbered the ballots, which affects Mr. McCarthy by 21.

When the court rose at 6 o'clock only the Township of Nottawasaga had been gone over, and McCarthy's majority had been increased by 2. This was at No. 9 Singhampton, where an incorrect count was made. The honors will be about even on the rejected ballots.

Hamilton, Nov. 23.—The Liberals say that they will enter a protest against E. D. Smith, who was elected in Wentworth by Judge Snider's decision.

LIBERALS ELECTED.

Two More Constituencies of British Columbia Follow Nov. 3rd's Lead.

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 23.—The elections yesterday resulted as follows:

Yale, Cariboo, Ross (Liberal), 1,314; Burrell (Conservative), 1290; Mills (Socialist), 372. Number of polls to hear from but Ross probably elected by small majority. Definite returns will not be had till Wednesday night.

Kootenay elects Galliher (Liberal) with 635 majority.

TUESDAY'S NOMINATIONS.

Muskoka—A. A. Mahaffy, M.P.P., Conservative.

East Nipissing—Dr. James, M. P. P., Liberal.

Off For California.

Montreal, Nov. 23.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier left last evening at nine o'clock for California, the Grand Trunk System placing a special train at the disposition of the Prime Minister, who was accompanied by Senator David and the Ministerial party. Mr. Morse of the Grand Trunk System was also one of the party.

Saved Four Lives.

Windsor, Nov. 23.—At the Council meeting last night Mayor Drake, on behalf of the Royal Humane Society, presented Leo Mernicale, the Sandwich East roadhouse keeper, with the society's medal for saving the lives of four people from drowning in the Detroit River in July and August of this year.

Japanese Army Rations.

The main dependence of the Japanese troops in the field is rice compressed into balls about the size of one's two fists for the sake of making it more portable, the instrument used for the purpose somewhat resembling a lemon squeezer. Before being converted into this shape the rice is cooked, so that in case of emergency it may be eaten without further preparation. But ordinarily the balls are either cut in slices and roasted or else dropped whole into the pot, when in the process of boiling they expand greatly.

ANSTRUTHER MAN SHOOTS A BEAR.

An Interesting Encounter Between a man, a dog and a Bear.

Mr. Bert Trotter's Capture of Bruin—A Hunter's Prowess.

An interesting story is related of an encounter with a bear, which Mr. Bert Trotter, of Anstruther, had a few days ago. Mr. Trotter was on a trip through the woods hunting partridge, when he ran across a bear, the animal being in the act of building a den under the roots of an upturned tree.

Mr. Trotter surprised the bear, and before bruin could recover himself the hunter got a shot at it, and broke its jaw. The only effect of this shot was to enrage the animal, and since Mr. Trotter had only a shot gun with fine shot, he considered it inadvisable to try to despatch bruin by that means. He saw that it would be dangerous to remain on the ground, and in the absence of any means of a sure despatch of the animal he decided that discretion was the better part of valour and climbed a tree, whereupon the bear now greatly enraged attacked the dog, but the latter was getting the better of the argument, the bear's broken jaw preventing him from doing the execution which he otherwise would have done. While the dog and bear were engaged Mr. Trotter slighted from the tree, ran home for his rifle with which he shot the bear after it had climbed a tree, up which the dog had chased it.

The bear was a fine large animal, and Mr. Trotter naturally feels proud of his capture.

THE POLICE FORCE AND PUBLIC RIGHTS

What are the Powers of the Policeman in Regard to Our Streets?

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—I suppose that, like ordinary mortals, the police force of Peterborough have their short-comings and lapses from good judgment, and that like other public servants, they are amenable to public criticism and consideration of their acts or refusal to act.

A matter came to my notice this morning which, unless susceptible of satisfactory explanation, invests the police with rather strange ideas of their duty. Last night a man—a stranger in the town, I think—after seeking entertainment all day, found it, and was to begin work the next (this) morning. On his way down town the police came across him and "ran him in" as a vagrant. He was, however, released and went to work this morning as per engagement. It was only at about ten o'clock that his employer found out that the poor fellow who had been working well for about three hours, had had no breakfast, not having any money to procure it. The employer was quite indignant with the police for arresting, as a vagrant, the man who was practically working for a living, and gave him money and sent him down town to get his breakfast. If the circumstances are as related, the police certainly showed zeal in this case, which is notoriously lacking under other circumstances.

While writing this I may add that yesterday a gentleman told me something of the manner in which the streets are looked after. It is the habit of many hoodlums to loaf on the streets to the annoyance of pedestrians, especially ladies. When these persons see a policeman coming they slink back into the recesses of shop doorways when they are allowed to remain, spitting tobacco juice upon the pavement and "jollying" passers-by, particularly if the latter be ladies or young girls, without escorts. The police, when remonstrated with, take refuge in the plea that these doorway recesses are private property and the police have, therefore, no right to take action to prevent or punish hoodlumism. If this contention is correct, it is a monstrous state of things and legislation should be at once procurred to remedy it. These recesses, especially after shops are closed, are to all intents and purposes, public places and a part of the street, and it does seem to be an iniquitous thing, if a gang of hoodlums, after misbehaving themselves on the street for hours, can, on the advent of a policeman, slink into a doorway, defy the guardians of the peace and with impunity, in the very face of a policeman, continue their obscene work of annoying decent passing pedestrians.

I should like to have the opinion of the Police Magistrate on this subject.

Yours truly,

CITIZEN.

Peterborough, November 23rd.

MR. H. LeBRUN IN GREAT LUCK

Sensational Bargains From Montreal.

This is the time of the year when the wholesale clothing and furnishing houses are holding closing-out sales, and many sensational snaps drop into the hands of the retailer who is lucky enough to be present. The firm of Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., always on the alert for these sales, was fortunate in having Mr. H. LeBrun on the spot just in the nick of time. Mr. LeBrun spent several days in Montreal last week, and secured many good lines at less than manufacturers' prices. Among these were fifty dozen workingmen's shirts in black sateen, cottonade and flannel, which they can afford to sell at 39 cents, or two for 75 cents. These shirts are well worth 50 cents and 75 cents each. Another splendid snap was a lot of one hundred and twenty-five pea jackets, regular wind-proof coats, made of frieze, nap and beaver. These will be sold for $2.50, $2.99 and $3.50; and are well worth $4, $4.50 and $5.50, just the thing for walking or driving in very cold weather. A big lot of fine white and coloured shirts were also bought at an extremely low offer, which will make them sell quickly at 39 cents and 75 cents each—worth double the money. Many other lines were bought at prices forced away down to rock bottom. Don't be behind hand. H. LeBrun & Co.

HON. MR. STRATTON'S RETIREMENT.

The Guelph Mercury says:—

"The Hon. J. R. Stratton has placed his resignation in the hands of the Premier, and the latter has consented to relieve him of his duties within a short time. Mr. Stratton has various business interests to which he wishes to devote his entire time, and has intimated to the President of the West Peterborough Liberal Association that he will not be a candidate for re-election in West Peterborough.

"Mr. Stratton has shown great adaptability to the work of administration. He has business ability of a high order, and had marked success as a business man before he assumed office as a member of the Cabinet. All his functions as a Minister have been performed with honesty and ability, and his opponents cannot point to a single case in which any money has been misappropriated in his department, or even misspent.

"During his time as a Minister the department he has presided over has made great strides, and the public institutions of the province are in a much better condition now than they were in when he assumed charge. They are better furnished and better equipped in every way. They are now better officered, and give forth much better results. New asylums have been established at Cobourg and Penetanguishene, and the Provincial institutions at Kelleville and Brantford have been greatly improved. The Mercer Reformatory has been remodelled, eight new houses of refuge and ten new hospitals have been erected, and at Woodstock an hospital for epileptics has been almost completed. An addition of ten has been made to the number of lock-ups in the unorganized districts. Improvements have been made in the administration of the Central Prison, and the license law has been impartially enforced."

MONEY IN EXPERT FARMING.

The resignation of Prof. Robertson the Dominion Dairy Commissioner, suggests some passing thoughts upon the needs of the times.

Canada's future depends mostly upon the development of its agriculture. There is no discounting the manufacturing resources and wealth of Canada. The industries employing five hands and more have grown from 7?0,000 to 818,304, the capital invested rom $303,000,000 to $447,000,000, and the value of the product from $309,000,000 to $481,000,000 in the ten years from 1891 to 1901. The increase in 1902-3-4 has been even more remarkable.

But the expansion in agricultural wealth, in the riches taken from the soil, has been simply astounding. The wheat crop in 1891 was 42,000,000 bushels, and in 1901, 55,000,000 bushels; the barley, 17,000,000 and 22,000,000 bushels; the oats, 83,000,000, and 150,000,000 bushels; the corn, 70,000,000 and 25,000,000 bushels; potatoes, and other roots, 103,000,000 and 131,000,000. During the same period the production of apples has grown from 3,000,000 to 18,000,000 bushels. The cheese exported in 1868 brought a little over a million; in 1903 the yield was $25,000,000. In the same period the butter export, in value, rose from $2,000,000 to $7,000,000; and the export of provisions generally from $9,000,000 to $50,000,000.

The country has before it large possibilities in regard to land productions. It is, therefore, warranted in all it has undertaken in the way of schooling its best people in the best methods of stock and crop raising. Prof. Robertson was attached to the Guelph College, which has gained in prestige and has been vastly increased in popularity by the gifts and equipment of Sir William Macdonald. The professor has been the medium through which Sir William has distributed his money in other educational schools, and now the millionaire proposes to put hundreds of thousands of dollars into the Ste. Anne, Montreal, farm and college, and make it an ideal centre of learning, and as such an attraction to the young farmers in the land.

Will it be more advanced and scientific than the Government farms in Guelph and Ottawa? Perhaps not. But the endowment is secured and the principal will be unhindered in any experiment he may desire to make in the interests of expert farming. This freedom of administration or government is calculated to give new life and interest to all competing institutions.

MR. STRATTON'S RETIREMENT

(London Advertiser.)

Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, has tendered his resignation to the Premier and announces that he will not offer for re-election to the Legislature. In an interview with the Globe, Mr. Stratton points with pardonable pride to some of his achievements since he was intimated with his present portfolio in 1899. The work of the Provincial Secretary's department in the last five years has greatly expanded, and Mr. Stratton has fulfilled his widening circle of duties with exemplary zeal and efficiency. New asylums have been established at Cobourg and Penetanguishene, and a hospital for epileptics at Woodstock; the Mercer Reformatory has been remodelled and many improvements have been introduced in the administration of the other great provincial institutions. The efforts to enforce the license act strictly and impartially have been commended by religious and temperance organizations. A large work has been done in sanitation and hygiene and enlightened legislation has been passed to encourage the erection of sanitaria for consumptives. The expenditure in the Provincial Secretary's department has averaged a million dollars a year, and he can honestly say that not one dollar has been misappropriated and that the Province has received full value for the money. Mr. Stratton may confidently appeal to his record. He has shown a high order of executive ability and every branch of the public service under his control has been stimulated by his energy and initiative.

The Opposition will, of course, seek to make political capital of his resignation. Not a blemish can be found upon the administration of the affairs of the province, but the most atrocious calumnies have been invented in the hope of discrediting the Government on the personal side. Mr. Stratton was singled out as the special victim of a conspiracy, the ringleaders of which got their suggestion from a blackleg who tried to sell his support to the Government, and who sought revenge when he found that he had been hoodwinked by Sullivan, and was denied any favours from the Administration. This is the long and short of the Gamey scandal. The money, a portion of which he flourished in the Legislature, was subscribed by his Conservative abettors, who might have been exposed but for Gamey's timely theft of the tell-tale leaf in the Crossin cash book. The attacks on Mr. Stratton were not estopped by the explosion of the Gamey charges. New slanders have been connected with every change of the moon. This policy of defamation has been pursued so clumsily, and carried to such extremes, that it has reacted in favour of Mr. Stratton and the Government. The Provincial Secretary may think that by eliminating himself he will draw some of the fire away from the Cabinet. If this is one of his motives, there is a touch of chivalry in his retirement, for it is purely voluntary, and he retains the full confidence of his colleagues. However, he has extensive private interests which claim his attention, and he cannot be blamed if he feels these should not be neglected in order that he may remain a target for the villifiers and mud-throwers of the Opposition. He can lay down teh burden with the satisfaction of knowing that he has given the province diligent and conscientious service, and has set a high standard of administrative integrity and efficiency.

MR. STRATTON'S RESIGNATION

(Windsor Record.)

It has been understood for some time that among the changes likely to take place in the personnel of the Ontario Government was the retirement of the Hon. Mr. Stratton. During the five years that Mr. Stratton has occupied the position of Provincial Secretary and Registrar in the Ross Government he has established an enviable reputation as a painstaking, active and thoroughly capable administrator. In his department are included the provincial license branch and the public institutions and charities. It will be seen that the department is a very important one and one that calls for the exercise of superior administrative abilities. That Mr. Stratton possessed such qualities and used them in the conduct of his department, and to the great benefit of our provincial affairs, not even his most unscrupulous political opponents would deny. This is the testimony of every person who has had relations with the department.

In the license branch every person who takes an interest in the proper enforcement of the liquor license laws feels that under Mr. Stratton's administration there has been a gradual and very manifest improvement. In his management of the public institutions of the province, which includes the annual expenditure of one million dollars, the same favourable testimony can be borne. The universal opinion of those in a position to judge, is that they have been well managed, and during Mr. Stratton's administration of the department there has not been a charge of wrong-doing against him or any of the officials under him. The annual searching investigations of the Opposition at each session, have failed to discover the misappropriation of one dollar of public money. This is a record that any Cabinet Minister might well be proud of and that the people of Ontario should, and do, appreciate.

It is much to be regretted that our public men are exposed to the attacks of such sordid and unscrupulous persons. It will not be easy for Mr. Ross to select a successor to Mr. Stratton, who will bring to the discharge of his duties the same activity and knowledge of affairs shown by him.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It looks now as if Massey Hall will not be large enough to hold all those who are to attend Mr. Ross' convention.

Ward Two Toronto Conservatives are having a regular cat and dog time. Dr. Beattie Nesbitt is fighting tooth and nail to avoid being turned down, and the decent element that wishes to rid itself of the odium of connection with Gamey is putting Edmund Bristol forward. The ward arena is full of yowls and tufts of fur.—Hamilton Times.

Judge Snider, by throwing out the entire vote in one division, Vaughan, Beverly township, in which Mr. Sealey had a majority of 25, gives the Wentworth seat to Mr. Smith. He holds that the error of the deputy-returning officer in putting a number on the back of the ballots, invalidates the ballots, disfranchises the 69 men depositing them, and allows the man with the minority of votes to take the seat. This decision may be according to the judge's reading of the law; but if the law contemplates that an official's error may disfranchise an entire division, and elect the man rejected by the people, the law is very far from just. In any event Mr. Smith will never be allowed to take his seat. The Liberals are confident that on the case being carried to the higher tribunal the wrong will be righted and Mr. Sealey will get the seat to which he was honestly elected. — Hamilton Times.

Now that Mr. Stratton has resigned the Peterborough Review, which to its lasting disgrace has been one of the most malignant and persistent of his slanderers and defamers, has already set about praising him. Hear it:—

"Hon. Mr. Stratton's large popularity was, and is, due to his personal qualifications as a man. Everyone recognizes (apart from political considerations altogether) his geniality, helpfulness, tact, breadth of view, and approachability. He is a staunch friend to his friends, a helper to those entitled to help, a master of policy, combined with large common sense and correct perception of public opinion."

What do decent people think of that from one of the would-be moral assassins of Mr. Stratton—from a paper that has hounded him day after day without ruth or pause, and sought to make him abhorred and detested that its party friends might profit? Isn't it a practical confession that it has been a lying libel and a conscienceless slanderer?—Hamilton Times.

SAPPHIRE MINE AGAIN DISCUSSED.

Senior Official Receiver in England Refers to it in Report.

Calls it "An Interesting Example of the Information of Capital"—The English Press Opinion.

The Ottawa Journal, editorially said in Monday's issue:—

This famous Sapphire Corundum Company will not down. Up it keeps cropping, to the injury of Canadian credit in England, and of legitimate Canadian openings for British capital. The latest publicity for Sapphire Corundum in England is in the annual report of the Senior Official Receiver in London, in companies' liquidation for last year.

The Senior Official Receiver in his report selects the Sapphire Corundum Company as "an interesting example of the inflation of capital," and as showing how shares of a company be saleable (at rascally prices to innocent people, or those unfamiliar with business) although the paper capital may be out of all proportion the value of the company, and the working capital may be practically non-existent.

The Official Receiver proceeds to detail the various steps to inflate the capital, much as The Journal gave them not so long ago, and winds up with the pertinent remark that "a number of shares were sold to the public," at a heavy discount to their face value, it is true, but at figures far above the real value.

And of course this receives due notice in the London press.

Rather a pity that some of ourselves, for instance a certain Judge Britton, can not see where the harm to Canada or anybody is in the sort of thing exemplified by the history of the Sapphire Corundum Company. Nor was that company so dab as some of the other things which came officially before Judge Britton had seemedf to him to deserve no condemnation.

THIRTY MILLIONS FOR FLOUR

Canada Spends this Vast Sum Annually for Bread, Cake and Pastry.

Since Canada spends thirty millions a year for flour and makes the best in the world, it would seem as if every Canadian Family could and would have this flour.

The Prince of Wales selected it for the royal household and hence its name.

No flour every became popular so rapidly.

It owes everything to the way it is made.

The best mills in the Empire grind it again and again to make it fine enough.

Process after process is applied and finally electricity to make it pure enough.

Electricity is a new idea in flour making.

It makes flour whiter, sweeter, purer and more nutritious.

This process is controlled in Canada by the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Limited, and used exclusively in making Royal Household flour, which has captured Great Britain, the Netherlands, Scandinavia, Finland, South Africa, Gibraltar, the West Indies, Newfoundland and even far off Fiji and Australia, and Canada from coast to coast.

Thousands of unsolicited testimonials pour in on the Ogilvie Company.

The best grocers certify to their customers that no flour is the equal of Royal Household for either bread or pastry.

The Ogilvie Mills at Montreal and Winnipeg, and its new mill being built at Fort William are taxed to their utmost to produce the famous flour fast enough, and yet their capacity is more than double that of any other flour concern in Canada.

Farmers are well pleased, the Dominion Government has been so strongly sustained.

The funeral of the late Edward Mahood, nephew of Robt. and Henry Mahood, of Peterborough, was largely attended yesterday from the home of the deceased's parents at Rosboro to Lindsay Cemetery. Death was caused from the result of a fall from a ladder while repairing the home. Injuries were sustained to the head and body, he being a heavy man. He was in his prime at 47. Great sympathy is felt and shown by all.

There are quite a number of delegates attending from East Verulam at the Reform Convention, Toronto.

There was a safe blown up in Chas. McCaffery's grocery store last night by professional burglars. The place had no person sleeping there. Only about $300 cash was secured.

The Presbyterians are already preparing a magnificent programme for their New Year's annual entertainment.

The Mechanics Institute concert is billed for Christmas day.

HURTLING MISSILE

Carried Away Back Portion of William Strickland's Head.

PART OF BURST FLY WHEEL

Singular Fatality in Toronto—Victim Was Walking 200 Yards Away When He Was Struck—Fly Wheel in Rogers' Engine Room Burst—His Fellow-Workingman's Miraculous Escape.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—William Strickland, a middle-aged man, a carpenter, living at 34 First avenue, was walking home from his day's work at Bell's brickyards, which he left at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. With him was George Innes of 24 Tiverton avenue. Innes was perhaps a foot in advance of his friend when a sharp explosion was heard.

"What's that?" Innes heard Strickland exclaim, but before either could turn to look in the direction from whence the sound came there was a sudden rushing noise, and Innes was horrified to see his companion, without a groan, fall in a heap on the sidewalk, with the back portion of his head literally carried away. For a minute or more Innes and others, who had seen the result of the accident, were at a loss to account for its cause, for the piece of iron had continued in its flight a space of six feet, then over a high board fence, and then buried itself 15 feet beyond in a plowed field. The sight of what proved to be a similar piece some 50 yards to the westward, which had torn up two heavy planks, afforded the revelation.

The fatality occurred on Gerrard street, about 50 yards east of Pape avenue, and the deadly missile came from the engine building in the Elias Rogers coal yard, on Pape avenue.

The employes in the engine building almost miraculously escaped, one of them only being struck by a splinter of wood from the roof which the fly-wheel shattered as it burst through.

Drove in Front of Express.

Comber, Nov. 23.—While driving across the Michigan Central Railway crossing at Ruscom station, five miles west of here, Conrad Knister, a well known farmer of Rochester township, North Essex, met with an accident. His team was struck by express No. 31, westbound, and cut into pieces. The wagon was broken and Mr. Knister was thrown some distance, receiving serious injuries, which may prove fatal.

Struck By a Stray Bullet.

Peterboro, Nov. 23.—Joseph Crocker, the 9-year-old son of Samuel Crocker, was struck in the face by a stray bullet while walking in Jackson Park with three companions. He will recover.

Succumbs to Burns.

Whitevale, Nov. 23.—Mrs. John Larkin, who was so badly burned here Monday afternoon, died at an early hour yesterday morning. She leaves a husband and two small children to mourn her loss.

Train Broke in Two.

Sarnia, Nov. 23.—The tunnel disaster on Oct. 9 last came near being repeated Sunday morning as the result of an eastbound freight breaking in two while passing through the big bore. The caution of the train crew and more favorable weather averted serious results. The trainmen managed to get out all right, but a drover in charge of a shipment of cattle, who was riding in the caboose, was unconscious when the caboose was removed from the tunnel. Medical aid was summoned, and after considerably difficulty he was revived and continued on his trip. The railroad men are very reticent over the affair and would not admit that an accident had occurred.

A Liberal Delegate Badly Hurt.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Wm. Blackhorn and W. H. Stinson were seriously injured by trolley cars colliding with their wagons yesterday, but the most serious trolley accident of the day occurred to D. Patterson of McKellar, Ont., a delegate to the Liberal Convention, who was crossing Yonge street at Elm. He became confused in the amount of traffic hurrying about him and was struck by a car and thrown violently to the ground. His head was badly injured. He is about 60 years of age. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital, where early this morning it was stated he was still unconscious and his condition was precarious.

Hamel Forged the Cheque.

Montreal, Nov. 23.—D. A. Hamel, the Montreal city paymaster, pleaded guilty yesterday morning at the Police Court to forging a cheque for $9,000. Judgment in the case will be passed by Judge Choquette in the Sessions Court Thursday. Hamel forged the cheque on March 1 last, and fled to Cuba, and the Montreal authorities spent $2,000 in extradition.

Making U.S. the Slaughter Market.

San Francisco, Nov. 23.—The collector of the port of San Francisco says that an exceptionally large amount of Japanese goods are coming here, and that the increase of importations has been so large that the customs officials cannot handle the goods. The Japanese are offering their manufactures at low prices to help raise money for carrying on the war.

New Vessel Sink.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 23.—Capt. Corbenals of the French ship Guervour, which arrived in the Royal Roads Saturday night, reports that last Wednesday he saw a four-masted ship founder north of the entrance to the Straits of Juan de Fuca. A hurricane was blowing at the time. It is thought the vessel may have been the San Francisco barkentine Metakwell.

As a Convalescent Food.

Mr. Wyman N. Thomas, Ompah, Addington Co., Ont., writes: — "My wife had congestion of the lungs along with other troubles, and became very weak and run down. By the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, she was made as strong and well as ever. Of course I had a doctor, but she was weak, and it was Dr. Chase's Nerve Food which built her up."

A UNITED STATES SENATOR

Used Pe-ru-na For Dyspepsia With Great Benefit.

HON. M. C. BUTLER,
Ex-United States Senator From South Carolina.

EX-U. S. Senator M. C. Butler from South Carolina, was Senator from that state for two terms. In a recent letter from Washington, D. C., he says:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine besides a good tonic."—M. C. Butler.

Peruna is not simply a remedy for dyspepsia. Peruna is a catarrh remedy. Peruna cures dyspepsia because it is generally dependent upon catarrh of the stomach.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

TESTIMONY CONFLICTING.

Inquest Began in Toronto's Street Car Disaster—Motormen Disagree.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—The enquiry into the street car fatality on Thanksgiving Day opened last night at Poulton Hall, before Coroner Cotten. There was a great array of counsel in different interests.

Motorman Armstrong swore the brakes and reverse had failed to work and that the regular man had reported the equipment bad. He did not look well and walked with a perceptible limp. His only apparent nervousness was the twitching of his hands, but he was evidently weak and his voice could not be heard even by the jury, counsel repeating his answers.

Motorman Maguire contradicted Armstrong in regard to the condition of the car and their conversation about it. He was very decisive in his answers and had evidently prepared himself for the examination. He swore, however, that he had no conversation with any official of the company in regard to the matter.

The evidence outside of these two men, was unimportant. Inspector Gregory swore to the identification of the body of the deceased conductor, McKay. Fred Linn swore to overhearing the conversation between Maguire and Armstrong, and Villiers Sankey, city surveyor, put in a plan of the scene of the accident.

The coroner at 11 o'clock, adjourned the inquest until Monday evening next, at 8 o'clock, in the same hall.

Armstrong, who has been under surveillance by the detectives at the hospital, was taken into custody after he gave his evidence and placed in jail. An application for bail will be made to-day.

The Reason Why?

London, Nov. 23.—(C. A. P.)—Speaking at a meeting of the Colonial and Continental Church Society, the Dean of Peterborough said the reason why the Church of England occupied the last place in the four great divisions of the Christian religion in Canada was because it was not eager enough to take up new positions. It was very desirable to have a sufficient number of young men trained in Canada, however, much able and experienced clergymen from home, might be welcomed. He urged English churchmen to be more earnest and awake about the great Dominion.

News From the West.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 23.—The trial of Robert Taylor for wife murder has been postponed to the spring sessions.

A Canadian Northern Railway operator was at Rainy River, Ont., yesterday sentenced to one year in the Central Prison.

Southern Manitoba is suffering greatly from the depredations of a gang of expert United States horse thieves and the farmers in the district have already lost many valuable horses.

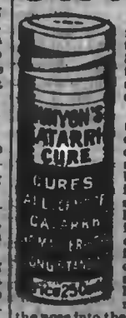
Sentence Commuted.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—The death sentence imposed upon Joseph Chartrand for the murder of Constable Irwin at Webbwood was Monday commuted to imprisonment for life. The Cabinet adopted the view that the killing of Irwin was accidental, Chartrand having previously sent one bullet through the window and another through the floor. The pistol then went off a third time, and the ball entered Irwin's heart, killing him instantly.

Fears For Seventeen Men.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 23.—The steamer Stord, coal laden, from Sydney, C.B., for St. John's, with a crew of seven men, is now seven days out, whereas the passage usually occupies only 48 hours. It is feared that the steamer foundered in the gale on Saturday and Sunday. The schooner Orpheus, fish laden, from Labrador for St. John's, with a crew of ten men, has met with the same fate.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH



I have been so successful in the cure of catarrh all over the United States, all over the world for that matter, that I almost feel that I can safely claim infallibility.

The symptoms of catarrh are plain. You cannot mistake the discharges from the nose and throat, the bad breath, the stuffy feeling in the nose, the pressure and pains in the head, dizziness, sneezing, nose-bleed, inflamed, watery eyes; liability to take cold; stupid, dull feeling in the head; nausea, deafness, and the hawking and spitting of mucus that drops from the nose into the throat.

I want every person who suffers from catarrh to get a bottle of my Catarrh Cure and take it according to directions, and see how quickly it will stop all catarrhal discharges from the nose; the dropping of mucus into the stomach; pains in the head, dizziness, inflamed eyes, nausea, deafness, hawking and spitting, and other disagreeable features of catarrh.

People who suffer with catarrh of the nose, head and throat should by all means get a package of my Catarrh Tablets and use them as a wash. This wash will cleanse, soothe and heal all sore spots, harden the membranes and prevent taking fresh colds.

I do not believe there is a case of catarrh, whether it is in the head, throat, lungs or stomach, that my Catarrh Cure and Catarrh Tablets will not cure.—MUNYON.

Munyon's Remedies—a separate cure for each disease—mostly 25c. For sale everywhere.

Important Redoubts Destroyed by Japanese Miners.

RUSS DEFENDERS RETIRE

To the Hills Back of Port Arthur, Although They Can Yet Dominate the City of Port Arthur With Their Golden Hill Guns and Prevent Its Occupation—Japs Lose 500 Men.

Tokio, Nov. 23.—The fall of Port Arthur may now be regarded as imminent. The Russian forces practically are all on the southern side of the city, encamped on the hills running out to the bay. On Sunday morning the Japanese miners were able to destroy the redoubts on the southerly side of Quail Hill and southwest of Rihlung Mountain.

This forces the retirement of the Russian defenders to the hills back of Port Arthur and into a series of entrenchments between Orlung and Laoluichui forts. From these points and from Golden Hill the Russian artillery can dominate the city of Port Arthur and prevent its occupation, but the northerly defences of the town are now shattered and every commanding hill is in possession of the Japanese troops.

The Imperial Army Board announces that on Sunday shells from the naval guns on Quail Hill battered the Russian warships. The vessels were towed out to Weiyuen fort, on the easterly side of Tiger's Tail, but shells at a high angle can be dropped even now among the fleet. The last of the entrenchments south of Rihlung Mountain were mined and destroyed on Sunday morning. These were the last remaining permanent fortifications due north of Port Arthur.

When Japs Lost 500 Men.

Zandagaw, Manchuria, Nov. 22.—(By courier to Mukden, Nov. 23.)—The Japanese lost 500 men in the attacks of Nov. 17 and 18 and were evidently disheartened. When they renewed the attack Nov. 19 the Japanese sent out several battalions from Doubel-Humped Hill, but their movements lacked decision. The Russians opened fire from Poutiloff (Lone Tree) Hill and a neighboring eminence. Several shells burst in the midst of the advancing Japanese columns and quickly checked them. The Japanese also tried a turning operation at Chanlintza, but there also they were dispersed. There was a slight encounter Nov. 20. Russian scouts penetrated a short distance into the Japanese lines, but without much result.

Japan Buying Welsh Coal.

London, Nov. 23.—Japan is buying Welsh coal at Cardiff. One purchase of 10,000 tons is recorded and other orders are reported to have been placed. The steamer King Robert, 8,500 tons, has been chartered at Cardiff for Japanese account.

To Create Naval Militia.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—The Minister of Marine will bring in a bill next session to create a naval militia. Next summer he will go to England for a couple of ships. In the meantime there will be a school cruise on the cruiser Canada from Halifax to the West Indies. It will start from Halifax about the 15th of December for the West Indies with 90 on board. Hon. Rayomd Prefontaine will also introduce legislation next session to abolish the harbor commissions at Montreal and Three Rivers, and bring the administration of the harbors more directly under the control of the department. Mr. Prefontaine leaves Montreal on Saturday for Toronto for a cruise on the lakes by the Vigilant.

Fortune in Unsealed Envelope.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—In a plain white envelope, unregistered and even unsealed, Ald. Askwith yesterday received by mail $1,086 in bank-note bills. The remittance came from one of Carleton municipalities in connection with a contract. The sender had forgotten to seal the envelope and it came to Ottawa by way of Cornwall and Brockville. When it reached Ottawa the postoffice people sealed it up.

The Value of Brains.

Brains are as necessary in the tailoring business as in any other.

And they're expensive!

We pay higher salaries than any other tailoring concern in Canada—either "Custom" or "ready-made," and the suits show the effect of the superior intelligence that tailor them.

The interior workmanship is more effective—the cloth shaped better and more stylishly—the permanence of the shape retained—and form—the intangible—hard to express quality that marks well tailored clothes is in each Semi-ready suit.

Made to the basting stage, each seam left with outlets—adjusted to your shape two hours after fitting.

Money returned for any cause.

Pitiful Helplessness.

Victims of nervous diseases are the most to be pitied, because their ailments usually terminate in mental or physical helpfulness. Paralysis, locomotor ataxia and insanity can only be avoided by building up the nervous system at the first sign of trouble, and there is no preparation so well suited for this purpose as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great nerve restorer.

OLD DAM IN A GOOD CONDITION.

Commissioners Find Waterworks dam is Better Than Expected.

Will Await Report of Chief Engineer Before Deciding Definitely, However —Meeting of Commissioners.

A meeting of the Board of Water Commissioners was held last night, when the report of the engineer engaged to investigate into the condition of the water works dam was considered. No definite action was decided upon by the Commissioners, pending a supplementary report which they have asked from the Chief Engineer.

Mr. W. H. Moore, one of the Commissioners, stated that one of the results of the meeting was that they had become convinced that the condition of the dam was not as serious as it was at first thought to be, and it may not be necessary to spend the amount of money required to construct a new dam, to place the present structure in a condition to withstand the demands made upon it for some years yet. Another meeting will be held possibly in a week or ten days in which time it is believed that the Commissioners will have been able to form an opinion, with the help of the reports, as to the most advisable course to pursue, with regard to the dam and the waterworks plant. In any case, if a new dam is to be built it will be necessary for the Board to submit a recommendation to the the council asking for such improvements as may be required, and the ratepayers will then be asked to vote on a bylaw authorizing the raising of sufficient money to provide the new works necessary.

A PECULIAR ACCIDENT A THIGH BONE BROKEN

By Apparently Violent and Sudden Muscular Contraction.

This morning about 10.30, Mr. Godfrey Coughlin, marble cutter, a young man about 20 years of age, who resides with his father, Mr. John Coughlin, of the firm of Coughlin Bros., Marble and Granite Works, 214 Hunter street, was the victim of a very peculiar accident by which his thigh bone was broken. He was alighting from an express wagon and in so doing met with the mishap mentioned. He fell to the ground and was picked up and conveyed in the Dan Spence Ambulance to his father's home 99 Aylmer street. A surgeon was soon in attendance and upon examination found that the thigh bone was broken. There was not the slightest mark of bruise or abrasion on the flesh of the thigh at the seat of fracture and it is assumed that the fracture was caused by some sudden and violent contraction of the muscles, an unusual but not unknown cause of fracture. The necessary surgical attention was given, but Mr. Coughlin will have to submit to a considerable period of enforced detention in the house. He was secretary of the T.A.S. Baseball Club, and his many associates, among whom he was deservedly popular, will learn of his mishap with sincere regret.

SUGAR MEN WON THE DAY

Peterborough Cold Storage and Provision Company to be Enlarged.

Will Ask to Have Charter Amended and Engage in The Manufacture of Beet Sugar.

An important decision was arrived at yesterday by the shareholders of the Peterborough Cold Storage and Provision Company, at its special meeting called for the purpose of considering the advisability of asking for enlarged powers. As was stated in yesterday's Examiner there was a division of opinion among the shareholders on the supreme question at issue, namely, that of expansion, or otherwise. A portion of the shareholders, led by some of the Directors, were strongly in favour of going into the manufacture of sugar, in addition to the cold storage business, and their reasons for advocating this, were that in their belief the two businesses would work in well together, and further, the partially constructed factory of the Sugar Company could be procured at a figure which would make its purchase advantageous.

On the other hand there were a number of the shareholders who were strenuously opposed to the embarking upon any business beyond that provided for in the original charter under which the company was organized, that of cold storage, and kindred branches of the business, and their belief was that to engage in the sugar business would have the effect of ruining the whole concern.

At yesterday's meeting the matter was fully discussed, and the result was that those who were in favour of the company being enlarged and engaging in sugar manufacture were successful and a petition will be presented to the Lieutenant-Governor, asking that letters patent be issued amending the charter of the Cold Storage and Provision Company, enabling it to manufacture, refine and sell sugar, syrups and other products of sugar beets, or sugar cane, and for the more economical carrying on of the company, to grow sugar beets, to feed, fatten and sell live stock and to manufacture lime.

The proposal is also being made to change the name of the company to "The Trent Valley Sugar, Provision and Cold Storage Company, Limited. A further meeting of the shareholders to ratify this proposed extension, and further details of the policy of the company will be decided upon.

The proposition as submitted to the meeting yesterday provides for the increasing of the capital stock of the company to enable it to purchase the plant and assets of the Sugar Company, and to proceed with the completion of the building and equipping it, and other necessary expenses, and it is understood that a large proportion of this capital is already in sight. It will be pleasing information that the sugar industry, which for some time has been in a most unsatisfactory condition is likely to be revived, and it is earnestly hoped that with the concern in the hands of a strong company it will prove the success which the promoters of the new company confidently hope.

TEMPLARS HOLD OPEN MEETING.

A Delightful Evening's Programme Last Evening.

An Address by Rev. J. C. Davidson on Temperance—Dan Spence Council's Progress.

Last night Dan Spence Council, Royal Templars of Temperance, held an open meeting in their hall, George street, and a most successful meeting was held, a large number of members and their friends being present.

A feature of the evening, which was much enjoyed, was an address given by Rev. J. C. Davidson. The chairman of the evening was Mr. John Carey, who addressed those present briefly on the work of the Order, and expressed the hope that the meeting might be the means of bringing the Order and its objects before the people, and that the result would be a deepening of interest in the cause for which it stood.

Following the chairman's address, Mr. Sutcliffe gave a solo, which was followed by a recitation by Miss L. Smith, both of which numbers were thoroughly enjoyed.

Rev. J. C. Davidson then delivered his address, in which he spoke of some of his experiences in temperance work in England, during the early years of his ministerial work, and gave instances of how well-directed efforts along this line brought successful results. He expressed his warm sympathy with the work of the Royal Templars, and hoped that in this work they would be successful.

Mr. Sutcliffe followed with a humorous solo, which was well received, and he had to respond with an encore.

Mr. Chas. Devereaux also gave a solo, which was rendered in his usual happy style and was encored.

Miss Smith again favoured the audience with a recitation, and Miss Percy rendered a vocal solo, which, with a recitation by Mr. Sutcliffe, closed a delightfully enjoyable programme.

Mr. Weir moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Davidson, and those who had contributed to the programme, which was seconded by Mr. Chas. Devereaux, and unanimously carried carried by the audience, after which the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

TO-NIGHT'S BIG LABOUR MEETING.

The Principal Business Will be Discussion of Municipal Matters.

Will Probably Place Candidates for Alderman in the Field—Other Matters to be Dealt With.

To-night the meeting called by the Trades and Labour Council to discuss a number of important questions in connection with the Labour movement will be held, and perhaps the question which will be discussed with greater interest than any other is the proposal to bring out Labour candidates for the position of alderman, in the approaching municipal elections in January. This is the first time in the history of Peterborough that the Trades and Labour Council as a body has taken any part in Municipal elections, and an official of that body is authority for the statement that it is not from a feeling that the Labour element is being discriminated against that there has been a proposition made to run Labour candidates, but the desire has been actuated by the belief that the time has come when the Council should contain at least some members elected to it as representatives of the Trades and Labour Council, which is the central body for the Government of the trade unionists of the town.

This question will be fully discussed at to-night's meeting, and it is desired that every working man shall as far as possible be present, as it is likely that the definite course of action will be decided at this meeting. There seems little doubt, however, that the Labour Council will nominate candidates for the Town Council in 1905, and it is possible that at this meeting the names of those who will be placed in the field and the policy which they will be expected to advocate after their election will be decided upon.

There will be other matters discussed at the meeting, one of which will be the proposal to appoint a building inspector for the town. The Trades and Labour Council has taken the position that it is in the best interests of all concerned that a Building Inspector should be appointed, who would be required to supervise all plans for buildings which it was proposed to erect, and see that they were constructed according to a standard to be decided upon by the Council.

Another question which will in all probability engage the attention of the meeting to-night, will be that of the appointment of an Assessment Commissioner who would give his whole time to the work of the assessment department. It is contended that by adopting this system the assessing will be done in a more equitable manner than is possible in the present system.

The meeting will be held in the Labour Hall, in the Schneider Block, over Dr. Wood's office, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance of all interested in the questions to be discussed.

MRS. BRYNER'S MEETINGS ON SUNDAY SCHOOLS

To be Held To-morrow Afternoon and Evening in Charlotte Street Church.

The Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner meetings to be held under the auspices of the local Sabbath School Association to-morrow, promise to be very helpful. There will be two sessions, one at 3 p.m. and one at 8 p.m., both of which will be held in the body of Charlotte Street Methodist Church. Mrs. Bryner will be accompanied by Mr. J. A. Jackson, B.A., Secretary of the Provincial Sabbath School Association, and Mr. E. A. Hardy, B.A., the newly-appointed Secretary in connection with Teacher Training. A collection will be taken at both sessions to defray expenses.

SEVERAL CASES AT POLICE COURT

Liquor Case Dismissed—Vags and Drunks Appear.

At the police court this morning, two young men, who have recently come to Canada from England, were charged with vagrancy. They were willing to work, they said, but could find nothing to do. They were willing to go to jail until the winter was over. The Magistrate, however, thought they could find work, and remanded them to jail for a week, and they will afterwards be given a chance to get work, or to go to Central Prison.

A case of non-support was remanded.

A young man with a beautifully discoloured left optic, pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and disorderly. Another young man pleaded not guilty to the same charge, as he claimed that the other young man had grabbed him by the nose about two o'clock this morning, and while he was simply defending himself, both were arrested. A fine of $2 was imposed on the guilty party.

M. C. Tooley of the Queen's Hotel, was charged with selling liquor to a minor on a day in November not named. It appeared from the evidence of three young lads that on some day before Hallowe'en that one of them, Hubble, had purchased a flask of whiskey, which the other two drank in a back yard a short distance from the hotel. At the close of the evidence for the complainant, the prosecution applied to have the information amended to conform with the facts as shown by the evidence. To this Mr. James Haverson, K.C., who appeared for the defendant, objected, and going further claimed that the information as laid, on the 10th of November, was insufficient, because it did not state that the liquor was obtained without the written consent of the parent, master or guardian of the minor, and that the amendment of the information on the 21st of November was too late, being after 30 days from the commission of the offence. His Worship adopted this view of the law and dismissed the informations. No evidence was called for the defence.

The meeting was a large and representative one and included many of the best curlers of the club. Among those present were:—Messrs. R. Neill, G. H. Giroux, R. Sturgeon, C. Rutherford, J. S. Knapman, S. Clegg, T. J. Mowat, A. Biade, M. Tooley, D. Davidson, R. C. Winch, R. M. Waddell, T. Brightman, D. Best, H. R. H. Kenner, W. G. Morrow, W. G. Ferguson, E. Eardly-Wilmot, R. J. Frost, Dr. Boucher, S. S. Moore, Dr. Greer, A. Hall, C. N. Brown, J. E. Fowler, G. B. Whiten, T. Rutherford, T. J. Wallace, D. Hall, J. Bogue, D. Hall.

The treasurer's report showed that the total receipts were $357.53 and that the balance on hand amounted to $35.54.

The report was received and adopted.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The election of officers resulted as follows:—

Patron and Patroness—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McGill.
Hon. President—R. Neill.
President—W. G. Morrow.
Vice-President—T. Brightman.
Secretary-Treasurer—R. Kerr.
Executive Committee—R. Neill, T. F. Matthews, W. G. Ferguson, Dr. Greer, H. R. H. Kenner, J. S. Knapman.

Col. B. B. Edwards and Mr. W. G. Ferguson were appointed as the club's representatives to the Ontario Curling Association meeting.

JUST ONE CLUB.

There was a long discussion upon the question as to whether it would be advisable to have the two divisions, the Granites and the Thistles. Last year there was practically the one club, though two entries were made for the Tankard series.

There were a few members of the old Granite club present who were in favour of having two clubs, as it would create rivalry and interest in the game and also give Peterborough two chances to capture the Tankard.

On the other hand it was argued that when there were two entries made in the Tankard competition the two teams were always in the same group and had to play against each other. It was more expensive to have two clubs and as there was objection from outside sources to the double-club idea, it would be better to have but one club with all working in harmony.

After a lengthy discussion on both sides of the question, it was moved by Mr. T. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. G. B. Whiten, that there be but one club—the Peterborough Curling Club—for the coming season. An amendment was moved by Mr. Giroux, seconded by Mr. Waddell, that the matter be left in abeyance until the Granite club had considered the matter. The amendment, however, was lost and the original motion was carried by a large majority.

It was the intention to have the Property Committee report as to the advisability of purchasing the rink, but as the committee was not prepared, the report will be heard at a later meeting.

A large number enrolled as members for the coming winter and the prospects for a successful season are of the brightest.

HOCKEY PROSPECTS WERE DISCUSSED

T. A. S. Will Likely be in Line Again This Winter.

A largely attended meeting was held in the T. A. S. rooms last evening when the subject of hockey was discussed. It was the general opinion that the society has plenty of material to again place a strong team on the ice and the hope was expressed that as the team had twice captured the championship of the Trent Valley League, an effort should be made to repeat the performance this year, thus becoming permanent owners of the trophy. A committee was appointed to confer with the Rink Company regarding terms for the coming season and if a satisfactory agreement can be made, the red and black will be into the game again as strong as ever.

HOCKEY.

Four teams for the City Hockey League. Who is next?

• • • •

It looks from this distance as though the City Hockey League would be a go.

• • • •

All Saint's Young Men's Guild is going in for hockey and will have a splendid open air rink in the south of the town. The Guild has some fine material and will likely enter a team in the City League.

• • • •

There should be no difficulty in getting at least six teams for the City League.

• • • •

Attend the annual meeting of the Hockey Club this evening.

• • • •

Cobourg will likely play junior O.H.A. again this year. A team may also be entered in the Trent Valley League again this year from that town.

• • • •

The outlook for hockey in this district at present is somewhat different from that of this time last year.

• • • •

Belleville has only one of last year's team in the city so 'tis said. Peterborough has also been badly affected by the exodus of players. We're minus Howell, Roy and Harold Armstrong and Whitcroft, almost a champion team in themselves.

• • • •

A fourth team has signified its intention of entering the City League. The latest team is the "Karnots" who through the m anager, Mr. Kingscote have informed the Examiner that they may be counted on to put a fair team in the league, whenever it is formed. A meeting will likely be called in a few days for the organization of the league.

During the winter season now about to open, the Examiner desires to publish reports of all athletic contests from the most important senior features down to those perhaps equally as interesting to the junior organizations from whose ranks will spring the men to uphold the honour of Peterborough town and county in the athletic world in years to come. Secretaries of hockey, curling bowling, skeeing, snowshoeing tobogganing and all other athletic clubs and associations will confer a favour by sending their addresses and any news of interest concerning the organizations they represent to the sporting editor of the Examiner.

BASKET-BALL.

The first Y.M.C.A. league game for the season commences Saturday evening at eight o'clock. There are four teams in the league this year, the Harriers, Brownies, Athletes and the Class Team. The teams are all pretty strong and we expect a good schedule of games.

The games commence at 8 o'clock, sharp, and continue until 10 o'clock. Two games will be played each evening. The team winning the most games in the schedule will hold the championship cup for the ensuing year. The games will all be played by the new rules. The admission will be 10 cents for each evening. Get a printed score card at the office.

RUGBY.

Another player who is qualified to speak on the merits of the two games is Ian Simpson, the crack half-back of the Tiger team, and an ex-Queen's player. He emphatically asserts his preference for the Burnside rules, and gives the following reasons why he believes them to be much better than the old methods:

1. Game is more interesting to the spectators, since they can understand it better without the continual scrimmaging.

2. There is no holding on the wing men, hence the wings are in a position to assist the back division to a greater extent, for they can follow up faster on kicks or take the ball directly from the quarter for a run around the opposite end, or through the intervening space. Thus the wings can greatly assist the back division in these plays, while in the old game such plays by the wings were almost impossible.

3. The ball comes out cleaner from the snapper-back than from the old scrimmage, and since the backs are surer of getting the ball, they have a better chance of starting brilliant combination plays.

4. In the old game, the team with a weak scrimmage was almost invariably defeated. The new game does away with this difficulty. In the old game a strong scrimmage was almost half of the team, while the new game tends now to develop the whole team, and make it strong in every department.

5. In the Burnside game, the team is almost entirely controlled by signals, which are a great help, as they acquaint the whole team with the play, and the wings are put on an equal footing. In the old game, a wing player had to be better than his check to help the backs any, and if he were only he was of very little assistance. In the new game every man can help at any time.

6. It does away with a great deal of buckling and mass play. Thus the weak or light team has a better chance against a heavy team. It has not been found to be the case yet where one team was able to keep up a continual buckling game against their opponents, even if their opponents were much lighter. The new rules lead to a more offensive game, and a good, fast, offensive game must be open.

7. The Burnside rules are much more easily learned than the old ones, and it is much easier to train a snapper-back than a whole scrimmage.

8. The teams require only twelve men instead of fourteen, as in the old, and it is, therefore, a benefit to small towns where players are few.

• • • •

Chris. G. Graham, secretary of Peterborough Rugby Club, says:—The Peterboroughs are strongly in favour of the Burnside rules and would not play the old scrimmage game again for love or, money.—Mail and Empire.

SPRINTING

The Burns-Williams five mile race will be run on Wednesday, Nov. 30, instead of next Saturday as at first proposed. Both men are feeling the effects of the heart-breaking race of Thursday last and have agreed upon the later date in order to get in a solid week's training prior to the re-running of the event. The race will take place at three in the afternoon over the same course as before except that the entrance to the Citizen building the finish will be at Queen street at instead of on Sparks street.

ST. LUKE'S GUILD.

Decided to Furnish a Guild Room for use of Members.

A meeting of St. Luke's Young Men's Guild was held last evening, when the question of furnishing a Guild Room was considered. The Guild has secured a large room on Hunter street which will be fitted up and made an attractive place for the young men to spend their evenings. The matter of a minstrel show was also discussed and it was decided to call a practice next week. There was a large attendance of members.

T. A. S. Entertainment.

The regular fortnightly entertainment in the T.A.S. hall will be held next Friday evening, Nov. 25, instead of Monday, Nov. 28, as formerly announced. The programme for the occasion has been prepared by a committee of the ladies, and promises to be of special interest. The ladies have succeeded in securing some of the best local talent, and a number of interesting selections will also be given by the children. 3d

Don't fail to hear the Jessie N. McLachlan Concert Thursday evening, Nov. 24. Plan of Opera House at Edmison's drug store. In order that everyone may have an opportunity of hearing the best concert of the season, the general admission has been placed at 25c.

A QUESTION OF PRECEDENCE.

Two Street Car Conducters and Their Troubles.

An Interesting Episode Which Occured Last Night on George Street Car Line.

The persons who went down town for their evening papers last night about half past seven were witnesses of an interesting scene in which the principals were the conductors to two street cars.

A car going south was met at the corner of George and Hunter streets by a car going north, and immediately an interesting discussion was entered into between the conductors of these two cars as to who should back up to the siding to allow the other to pass. The man from the north thought that the car coming north should have waited at the corner of Charlotte and George streets, for his car to arrive, while the man in charge of that car was equally as positive that he was running right, and that he should have been allowed to proceed to the switch at the Central Park, and while they were trying to decide among themselves just who was at fault another car came from the south, and lined up behind the first one from that direction. The conductor of that car joined in the controversy, and while it was at its heighth another car was seen coming from the north, and it too, was of course obliged to come to a stand still. It was now even up, two conductors and two motormen on each side, and a solution of the great problem as to who was to blame for the tie-up, and as to which side should capitulate, seemed impossible.

After about twenty minutes had been occupied in a sometimes heated discussion with neither party willing to give in one man decided upon appealing to the superintendent and went to the office to report and receive instructions.

Meanwhile the passengers, many of whom had become tired waiting for the cars to move on alighted, and went the rest of the journey on foot. Before the deputation of one returned from the office another car had hove in sight from the north, but it remained at the switch to await developments. The outcome was that the two cars going south backed up to the switch at the park, followed by the two going in that direction, and a crossing was effected, not, however, before the episode had been witnessed by a large number of interested spectators, one of whom supplied the facts to the Examiner.

THE NAVY OF BRITAIN

THREE OF ITS STRONG FLEETS IN WAY OF RUSSIAN BALTIC FLEET.

Ready for Emergencies—Admiral Fisher, Commander-in-Chief of British Navy—Vice-Admiral Beresford, of the Channel Fleet—The Baltic Fleet—Strength of the Squadron Which Attacked the British Fishermen.

The British Admiralty as soon as it learned of the attack of the Russian Baltic fleet on the Hull fishing vessels in the North sea sent orders to the commanders of the Channel, Mediterranean and home fleets directing mutual support and co-operation. Further orders looking to readiness for action followed. The British navy is composed of eleven squadrons, and the three mentioned are among the strongest. They are available for immediate use should the British desire to interfere with the progress of the Russian squadron or wish to use the warships for the protection of shipping against a possible repetition of the North Sea incident. The three fleets are disposed on or near the route of the Russians to the Orient.

The Mediterranean fleet contains twelve battleships, while the Russian Baltic fleet has but seven. It also has fourteen cruisers and a large number of torpedo boat destroyed. Until recently it was under command of Admiral Sir John Arbuthnot Fisher, K.C.B., who brought it up to a high state of discipline. Admiral Fisher about a year ago became senior naval lord of the Admiralty and as such active commander in chief of the entire British navy. He is sometimes called "the Lord Kitchener of the navy." His father was a captain in the Seventy-eighth Highlanders, who settled in Ceylon and married a high class Cingalese woman, and thus he has Oriental blood in his veins. He is sixty-three years of age and has been in the navy since he was twelve, serving in the Crimean War, the China War of 1859 and 1860 and in the Egyptain War of 1882, in which he commanded the Inflexible at the bombardment of Alexandria.

One of his officers once said, "His will is iron, and his nerves are Harveyized Krupp steel." This was illustrated when he was at Lisbon some years ago with a squadron and strained relations existed between Germany and England. Just as the English fleet was leaving a German fleet of twice its strength entered the harbor and with the idea of impressing the Portuguese drew up in double line off the town. Fisher exchanged salutes and the led his vessels out of the harbor at full speed between the two German lines, with only twenty or thirty yards clear on either side. It was a dangerous manoeuver, but he knew he could trust the discipline and skill of his squadron, and not a vessel swerved a yard from the wake of his flagship.

The Channel fleet, comprising six battleships and six cruisers, is under the command of Vice-Admiral Lord Charles William de la Poer Beresford, K.C.B. He, too, was at the vombardment of Alexandria, where he commanded the Condor and with it rescued a British ironclad which had gone aground right under the guns of the Marabout batteries, an exploit for which he received the sobriquet of "Condor Charlie." He is fifty-six years of age, was born in Ireland and has rendered eminent service as naval officer, author, member of Parliament and Commissioner to China of the British Chambers of Commerce.

Vice-Admiral Beresford and Admiral Fisher are not at all alike and do not get along well together. Admiral Fisher does not believe a naval officer should talk about the the navy and has never been interviewed. Vice-Admiral Beresford says whatever he pleases, whenever he pleases and in Parliament has not hesitated to criticise the Lords of the Admiralty, his superior officers. Some years ago the Prince of Wales invited Lord Beresford to dinner. The bluff sailor did not care to go and sent this audacious message: "Can't come. Polite lie follows by mail."

When Russia's second Pacific squadron, known as the Baltic fleet, fired on peaceful British fishermen in chief command was Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky, and the squadron commanders were Rear Admirals Enquist and Voelkersam. Although the departure from Cronstadt, at the head of the gulf of Finland, took place about two months ago, the fleet on Oct. 21 had only reached a point about 200 miles off Hull, on the eastern coast of England, and thus had proceeded but a small part of the 15,000 marine miles it must traverse to reach the Yellow Sea. It was here that the attack on the fishing vessels occurred.

It is well known to all seamen that the North Sea off the English coast is filled with fishing craft. The fishing industry is an important one, and it is estimated that close to 500 steam trawlers ply these waters engaged in taking fish. A recent estimate put the value of the annual product of the fleet at $12,000,000. The steam trawlers are a species of fishing vessel built in recent years, with hulls of steel and containing large refrigerating plants. They carry purse shaped nets with wide mouth, kept distended by a wooden spar, and are worked by powerful tackle and engines. Into these nets the fish are drawn by thousands. It was a fleet of these vessels upon which the Russian warships opened fire.

The Baltic fleet is an armada compared with which that sent by Philip of Spain against England was but an insignificant and harmless force. It is composed for the most part of splendid fighting machines, though the ability of officers and men in handling them remains to be tested. It is said that very few of the officers, engineers or men behind the guns have felt the shock and stress of a genuine naval battle. There are seven battleships, the tonnage of each ranging from 10,000 up to nearly 14,000. There are two armored cruisers, two protected cruisers of the first class, one of the second and three of the third. There are twelve destroyers in the fleet, of 350 tons each, with a speed of from twenty-six to twenty-seven knots. There are also nine auxiliary cruisers, a hospital ship, repair ship and colliers, the fleet comprising nearly fifty vessels.

A few facts about Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's flagship, the Knais Suvaroff, may be given to illustrate the character of the battleships in the fleet. The Suvaroff was built in 1902 and has a tonnage of 13,516. It has four twelve-inch breechloading guns, twelve six-inch quick firing guns, twenty twelve-pounder quick firing guns, twenty three-pounders and one one-pounder. The seven battleships cost an average of $6,500,000 each, or nearly $50,000,000 for this part of the fleet, the cost of all the vessels in the armada being placed at about $85,750,000.

Compared with the Channel, Mediterrancan and home squadrons of the British fleet, now practically surrounding it, the Baltic fleet is a mere pygmy. The Channel squadron, under Vice-Admiral Beresford, consists of six battleships and six cruisers. The Mediterrancan fleet, under Admiral Sir Compton Domville, is composed of twelve battleships, fourteen cruisers and twenty-four torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers and the home squadron numbers eight battleships and five cruisers, a total of twenty-six battleships and twenty-five cruisers, as opposed to the seven battleships and eight cruisers of the Baltic fleet.

You can make dirty picture frames, or any other such articles, look like new if you clean them the Sunlight way. Chop very finely a piece of Sunlight Soap and put it into a bottle with a teacupful of hot water, shaking it well and adding a wine glass full of spirits of ammonia. Paint the frames with this liquid, let it stay on a few minutes, then wash off with a soft brush and cold clean water, and polish with clean chamois leather. Sunlight Soap is the only soap that can be used successfully in every cleansing operation in the household.

Advising a Doctor.

Dr. Blank—maybe I'd better call him Dr. Proteid, since to advertise his real name might be to do violence to the ethics of the medical profession—well, then, Dr. Proteid is himself a sufferer from rheumatism, which for a long time has resisted all his skill. The other day a big Irishman came hobbling up his steps and was admitted by an attendant, who ushered him into the office and called the doctor from another part of the house. Presently the doctor came limping in just as the caller had done.

"Well, my man," said he, "what is the matter with you?"

"Begorra, sor," the Irishman answered, "I'd first like to know phwat's the matter wid you."

"I have rheumatism," the physician admitted.

"Well, then," said the visitor, rising from his chair with many a grunt and groan and laboring painfully toward the door, "they's two av us that ought to go to some docther who has sinse enough to cure the both av us."

The Patient Brain.

The brain is one of the most patient and industrious organs of the body. It can be induced by good treatment to perform prodigies of labor. Few realize its capabilities and endurance. But it is sensitive. It will not long brook abuse. It briskly responds to the whip at first, but if the lash is laid on too hard and often it balks. It insists upon having plenty of good, red blood when it works hard, and good, red blood is made from wheat and roast beef, not from pie a la mode, lobster salad and cocaine or whisky. The most essential thing for the man who works with his brain is plenty of sleep. Only in sleep does the brain find the rest and refreshment that are necessary to maintain its vigor and integrity.

Monkeys and Water.

Monkeys never wash or bathe, though they have, as a rule, every chance to do so. Possibly experience has taught them to be afraid of crocodiles, which are pretty generally distributed on monkey haunted rivers. It is said that a number of Indian monkeys watched a party of Europeans in a boat who washed their hands and brushed their teeth. Next day the monkeys were seen to come to the riverside and go through the form of washing their hands and of brushing their teeth with bits of stick.—Nature.

Can Eat Anything Now.

How many Dyspeptics can say that?
Or perhaps you are dyspeptic and don't know it.

Have you any of these symptoms?

Variable appetite, a faint gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach, unsatisfied hunger, a loathing of food, rising and souring of food, a painful load at the pit of the stomach, constipation, or are you gloomy and miserable? Then you are a dyspeptic. The cure is careful diet; avoid stimulants and narcotics, do not drink at meals, keep regular habits, and regulate the stomach and bowels with

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS,

Nature's specific for Dyspepsia.

Miss Laura Chicoine, Belle Anse, Que., says of its wonderful curative powers:—"Last winter I was very thin, and was fast losing flesh owing to the run-down state of my system. I suffered from Dyspepsia, loss of appetite and bad blood. I tried everything I could get, but to no purpose; then finally started to use Burdock Blood Bitters. From the first day I felt the good effect of the medicine, and am now feeling strong and well again. I can eat anything now without any ill after-effects. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, for I feel it saved my life."

"Papa Will Worry," He Said.

"Papa will worry," said James K. Brown, a farmer, living at Morganville, in Monmouth County, New Brunswick, when he woke up in the Middlesex County jail there the other afternoon, on recovering from a spree. He is 62 years old.

"Where he we?" asked the grey-haired farmer, addressing Warden David Messler. "It looks like a stable, with big stalls, but I don't see no hosses."

"This is the famous Middlesex County jail," replied the warden, "and you are likely to stay here as long as the roof holds out."

"I can't stay here," said the farmer. "I must go home. My father will be worried about me. He never allows me to stay away overnight."

"Your father!" exclaimed the warden. "For the land's sake! How old is he?"

"He's 91, and as spry as the next one," replied the farmer.

"I hope your grandfather is enjoying good health," remarked the warden. "We will try to get word to papa, so that he will not worry."

The farmer said he lived fourteen miles away. He arrived with a load of pears, accompanied by Daniel Brannan, 85 years old, whom he referred to as "the boy." The two farmers were found asleep in their wagon and sent to jail.

It was learned that old Mr. Brown had been greatly exercised over his son's absence.

Possible Way Out.

"John," said Mrs. Bjonkins, looking up from the evening papers, "you know how many dishes Kate has broken lately?"

"Yes," said John. "What of it?"

"Well," continued Mrs. Bjonkins, "there is something in the paper here about steel plates. I don't know just what they are, but I should think they might be indestructible."

CUTS OF BEEF.

Some Information For the Housewife About Steaks and Roasts.

A carcass of beef is cut in nineteen pieces. All the pieces and the names are in the dictionary. Look at the list, and you will find the names "tenderloin" and "porterhouse," two names that the inexperienced buyer has always on his lips. The porterhouse is a delusion and a snare in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred. The tenderloin is the thick part of the sirloin after a few round bone steaks have been cut off and is called the filet de boeuf. It makes a choice piece for roasting, but if not sold in a lump is cut into sirloin steaks of three grades. The first and second grades are technically "hip sirloin steak" and "flat bone sirloin steak." These are the tenderloin steaks that the young housewife pays extra for. There are not over six of each kind in one carcass, so the chances are that she pays her good money for a third cut, or "round bone" sirloin, which is itself a capital steak.

Porterhouse steaks are cut from the small end sirloin steak, and one carcass contains but a few of them. Ingenious butchers understand the knack of cutting the small end sirloin so as to include other portions of the beef, thus enabling them to sell both at porterhouse prices.

Good beef has a juicy or sappy appearance, with a fine, smooth grain, which is easily noticed. The fat, both outside and through the muscles, presents a clear, straw colored appearance. The flesh should be cherry red. When meat rises quickly after being pressed, it may be considered prime. When the dent made by pressing rises slowly or not at all, depend upon it the beef is poor.

What Is a Lady?

A lady is simply the highest type of a woman. She will be gentle and modest, mistress of her temper and curiosity. She will know and honor her own place in the social order as the divinely appointed molder, teacher and refiner of men, and out of this beautiful and noble place she will not seek to move. To fit herself for her place she will cultivate body and mind—the body in health and vigor, that she may take her share of burdens and be cheerful under them and that her work in the world shall be as fairly done as her hands can do it, and the mind in knowledge, accomplishment and taste that she may be a delight and a help in her home.—American Queen.

Animal Swimmers.

The elephant is a good swimmer, and the wild animals of the cat family, the tiger, the panther, the jaguar and others, do not hesitate to cross lakes and rivers. On the other hand, the domestic cat shrinks from immersion and drowns quickly. The nostrils of some small animals are so placed as to render breathing very difficult when they are in the water. Among these are mice and rabbits, which will drown without sinking beneath the surface. Rats are excellent swimmers.

Almost all birds except those which are distinctly natatorial are nearly helpless in water. Small birds in particular have no power of propulsion, and, though they do not sink, they drown quickly. Even many species of waterfowl rise from the water with difficulty or not at all when their wings are wet. After a sea gull plunges and returns to the surface it stretches its wings so that they may be dried by the wind and sun before it attempts to fly.—Success.

Mr. J. Law, 247 Hunter street, Peterborough, and who is employed with the Peter Hamilton Company, states:

"For a long time I was troubled with severe splitting headaches, and suffered a great deal with pains in the region of my heart, caused no doubt by indigestion. I procured a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and began using this treatment. Since using this preparation for some time I can say that I feel quite different and my health is very much improved. My digestion is good and the headaches and pains about the heart have not troubled me at all of late. I can sincerely recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a thorough cure for nervous dyspepsia and its accompanying symptoms."

THE DOER.

When earth's first picture was painted—perhaps on the bark of a tree—
And the people gathered around it and stood on tiptoes to see,
No doubt there were those among them who called it a daub and who Gave pitying looks to the artist and knowingly murmured "Pooh!"

When the first of the world's brave poets scratched out on the side of a stone
The first sweet measures that ever a soul had claimed as its own.
We may be sure there were people who solemnly turned aside,
Believing the poet's efforts and time had been misapplied.

Brave soul, be strong and be faithful in the work that is given to you.
The critics will shrug their shoulders and scoff at the thing you do,
But the world's first artist was followed by others who glorified art,
And the world keeps on having poets whose lyrics men learn by heart.

WOMAN'S WORLD

MRS. MARIE DE HART.

A Cincinnati Woman Who Has Become a Master Mechanic.

A master mechanic in skirts! Whoever heard of such a thing? No, not a man masquerading, but a real live woman of high birth, culture, education and refinement, plying her chosen vocation in Cincinnati.

With her sleeves rolled up to her elbows, dainty hands soiled with the grime and grease of a machine shop, Mrs. Marie Gregory De Hart, scion of an illustrious southern family and daughter of an ex-judge of the supreme court and United States senator from Indiana, prides herself on her skill in the manipulation of machine tools and knowledge of the all round practical workings of a shop.

Aside from her penchant for handling the cold chisel and operating the lathe, she is the patentee of a hollow tire for bicycles, carriages and automobiles which she claims will revolutionize the business.

Mrs. De Hart was born in Kentucky and at the age of twenty was left a widow with two children. Twenty years ago, at the death of her father, Judge Robert C. Gregory, who succeeded Senator Pratt of Indiana in the United States senate, Mrs. De Hart found herself with a small fortune at her command. Turning to art, literature and music, she spent several years in Europe in pursuit of her studies. On returning to America she took up newspaper work and has been employed on many of the leading dailies in the United States as a critic in music, art and the play.

Five years ago Mrs. De Hart conceived the idea of an airless tire.—She at once took up the study of mechanics, became an expert machinist and opened a shop of her own, devoting her time mainly to perfecting her tire scheme. Where hundreds of men failed she has succeeded, with the result that after an expenditure of a fortune in development she has a commodity with which she hopes to revolutionize the tire business.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Saleswomen.

Unquestionably more women of capability and intelligence look upon salesmanship as a life work than was the case ten or even five years ago. A visit to any one of the better class of stores is sufficient to prove this to the satisfaction of even the casual observer. One does not get the impression that the salesgirl is simply working at a small salary until she can marry or find some other employment, but one sees thoughtful saleswomen, who are trying to make their occupations worth something, who intend to sell goods as a business and not as a transient occupation.

The result is that they get better pay than before, and many of them are earning better salaries than they could in any other way. The discrimination between men and women in salaries becomes less and less, for the modern tendency is to regulate the remuneration by the work done without reference to who does it.

Many women as heads of departments get good salaries, and it is no uncommon thing to see a woman of fifty years or more in such a position.—Salesmanship.

Getting Into One's Clothes.

To get into one's clothes is an art. To stay in after the necessary number of pins have been put in place is a still greater art. To become efficient in these arts practice the following:

Dress slowly.

Use plenty of safety pins as near the color of the gown as possible. Let them vary in size.

When the blouse is adjusted, pin down in front, at each side of the back and on each side of the front if necessary.

Pin the skirt after hooking it firmly to the waist on each side of the back.

When the belt is put on take time to see that the band of the skirt is covered. Pin it if necessary, but this is not necessary if the belt is not too tight.

Be sure that the skirt is hooked up the back and that the bodice cannot come unhooked or unbuttoned at the front.

It pays to take a little more time and to use a few more safety pins and to have each garment stay where it is fastened.

Your Everyday Toilet.

Your everyday toilet is a part of your character. A girl who looks like a "fury" or a sloven in the morning is not to be trusted, however finely she may look in the evening. No matter how humble your room may be, there are eight things it should contain—namely, a mirror, washstand, soap, towel, comb, hair, nail and tooth brushes. These are just as essential as your breakfast, before which you should make good and free use of them. Parents who fail to provide their children with such appliances not only make a great mistake, but commit a sin of omission. Look tidy in the morning, and after the dinner work is over improve your toilet. Make it a rule of your daily life to "dress up" in the afternoon. Your dress may or may not be anything better than calico, but with a ribbon or flower or some bit of ornament you can have an air of self respect that invariably comes by being well dressed.

Four Points in Making Tea.

The president of the American Tea association, writing in a well known trade journal, says: "There are four exact rules to be followed in making tea, and the neglect of any one of them will render the article valueless. Nearly every housewife neglects at least one." The four rules are these: The water must be freshly drawn from the faucet. It should boil hard for five minutes before pouring on the tea leaves. It should remain on the leaves not less than seven and not more than ten minutes and should then be poured off into another heated teapot. Use one teaspoonful of tea for each cup of water unless a weak infusion is desired.

The Woman Without a Home.

A woman advanced in life without a home and without occupation is a picture without a frame. A home of her very own is what every woman craves whose impulses have not been vitiated by a false motive in life. Despite the multiplication of boarding houses and the allurements of private apartments in well conducted flats, love of home is as inherent in woman's nature as the instinct of nest building in bird nature. It is all the better if there is a congenial husband to share it, but home and happiness for a woman are inseparable.

Old Walnut Furniture.

If you have any old walnut furniture keep it by all means. It is becoming rarer and more valuable all the time. Most of the pieces are ugly, because when walnut was in fashion taste was at a low ebb. An old bureau, table or chest of drawers may be made a thing of beauty with a little expenditure. In the first place the wood must be scraped of its disfiguring varnish and brass or glass knobs put on. Some pieces may have to be entirely remade, but this is frequently done with mahogany and other valuable woods.

Be Stylish.

It is the duty of every woman to make the best of herself. The question is how to do it, and, unfortunately, many fail. It is no good to be beautiful and have no style. A plain woman can often carry all before her. If she achieves style she is very apt to leave an ordinarily pretty woman miles behind. What is meant by a smart woman is generally one who develops, says the London Queen, her good points, with due regard to the fashions and the modes of the moment.

A Dry Salt Bath.

That salt possesses tonic qualities is well known, but it has remained for a woman suffering from nervous prostration to use a dry sea salt rub with beneficial results. She soaks a coarse wash cloth in a strong solution of the sea salt, then dries it. After her cold bath of a morning she wipes off the moisture with a towel, then rubs with the salty wash cloth till her skin is in a glow. She says she has found this to be far more invigorating than the more usual bath in salt water.

The Child's Room.

In the endeavor to secure beauty in the home it should never be forgotten that the room of every child should be made attractive with pretty chints and rare photographs, so that on waking and on going to sleep the first and last sensation may be of pleasantness, and that the mother's room, which is, after all, the principal room of the house, should be rendered memorable with its loveliness and its aspect of peace.—Success.

Recalling a Councilman.

Councilman J. P. Davenport of Los Angeles recently was removed from office under what is known as the "recall" feature of the city charter. His successor was chosen at a special election. The charter gives the electors of a ward the right to "recall" a councilman who has acted contrary to their interests. Upon the presentation of a petition to the city clerk having the signatures of 60 per cent of the bona fide voters of the ward the council must then order a special election.

Yankee Bluejackets In London.

London is much impressed by the absolutely new type of Yankee bluejackets seen in her streets, Westminster abbey, the Tower and other places lately. They were sailors from Admiral Jewell's fleet on shore leave. Handsome, tidy, well set up fellows going about, with Baedekers in their hands, looking up the historic "points of interest," they have delighted Englishmen by their intelligence and singular use of their privileges.

Plenty of Legs.

Mrs. Barron was one of the new "summer folk" and not acquainted with the vernacular. Consequently, she was somewhat surprised, upon sending an order for a roast of lamb to the nearest butcher, to receive the following note in reply: "Dear Mam—I am sorry I have not killed myself this week, but I can get you a leg off my brother (the butcher at the farther end of the town). He's full up of what you want. I seen him last night with five legs. Yours respectful. George Gunton."

A Plant That Quells Hunger.

In Peru is found a singular plant, capable of quelling hunger or thirst for several days. It is named Erythoxylon coca. A decoction of 100 grains of this plant produces this effect for forty-eight hours, the muscular energy being preserved. The plant appears to narcotise the nerves of the stomach and suspend the digestive functions without affording nutriment.

Marriage.

We have been asked if marriage is a failure. We have not found it so. We don't know what our better half thinks of it. Our opinion is that only when a man marries a sealskin woman on a coonskin income does he find marriage a failure.

Why He Kicked.

Mrs. Newlywed—How dare you object to my bills? Papa pays them all, Mr. Newlywed—Yes; hang it! But I haven't the nerve to ask him to pay any of mine while you are touching him up all the time.

Impossible.

"You should sleep on your right side, madam."

"I really can't do it, doctor. My husband talks in his sleep, and I can't hear a thing with my left ear."

All Made Up.

Fred—When I proposed she asked for a little time to make up her mind. Madge—Oh, so she makes that up, too? —Chips.

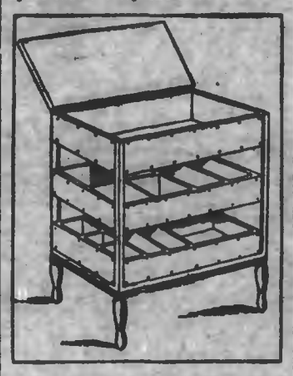
SEWING TABLE.

How One May Be Fashioned Out of Ordinary Wooden Boxes.

Take three light wooden boxes, such as can be procured at any grocery store, all being the same length and width. One foot wide by two feet long is a convenient size. Have two of them three inches and the other six inches deep.

Use four upright strips for the frame and fasten the boxes one above the other to these corner pieces, the lower box being about nine inches above the floor and the others at such distance apart that the top one is at a convenient height to reach into when seated. The upright posts can be made as fancy as desired.



HOW TO MAKE A SEWING TABLE.

Have the deepest box at the top, and fit it with a hinged cover. It can be used to hold small pieces of unfinished work as well as the pieces of goods needed in the regular weekly mending. It should be lined with suitable material, pockets being made on each side to hold materials for fancy work, and a needle book and small pincushion should be fastened to the lining of the cover.

The second box should be divided into compartments to hold spools, scissors, papers of needles, pins, tape, knitting needles, crochet hooks, etc., while the lower one has one-half divided into small compartments to hold different styles of buttons, the other half being left undivided to hold the tools and materials for stocking mending. When completed, the whole affair should be stained with black walnut stain and then varnished, and casters be added or not, as desired.

To Clean Jewelry.

Any jewelry containing precious stones (not pearls) may be beautifully cleansed as follows: Rinse it in benzine, then wash it in soap and water then in clear water to remove the soap, and put it in a cloth for a little while to drain. Then dip in alcohol to evaporate any remaining water and leave it in jewelers' sawdust till perfectly dry.

Kitchen Tables.

Kitchen tables are no longer considered desirable when they contain only the one drawer, as in years gone by. Many are quite elaborate cabinet affairs, while a happy medium has four drawers, with the lower ones rounding down to hold a whole bag of flour or twenty pounds of sugar.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

We don't put Scott's Emulsion in the class of advertised cure-alls; it doesn't belong there. We hardly like to use the word "cure" at all, but we are bound to say that it can be used for a great many troubles with great satisfaction. Its special function is to repair the waste of the body when the ordinary food does not nourish, and this means that it is useful in many cases which are indicated by wasting.

HOW IT SPREADS.

The first package of Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid (the infallible Pile cure) that was put out went to a small town in Nebraska.

It cured a case of Piles that was considered hopeless.

The news spread and although this was only two years ago the demand prompted Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, of Lincoln, Neb., the discoverer, to prepare it for general use. Now it is being sent to all parts of the world.

It will cure any case of Piles. There is a month's treatment in each box.

Sold for $1.00 with absolute guarantee.

HAVELOCK DOINGS.

Removal by Death of one of Havelock's Prominent Men—A Delightful Concert—Other News.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Havelock, Nov. 22.—Mr. John Farmer, of Watertown, New York, is spending a few days in town renewing old acquaintances.

Mrs. A. Rose, and daughter, Olive left on Friday last for a short visit to friends in Toronto.

Mrs. William Hacking, of McAdam Junction, and two daughters, made a short visit to Mrs. Jos. Borricotts on their way home last Thursday.

Miss Lora Renton left for a short visit to her friends in Bowmanville on Wednesday last.

Mr. J. McIntosh spent Thursday and Friday of last week visiting friends in the Queen City.

Mr. Henry Williams left for a short visit last Thursday to friends in Belleville.

Mrs. W. H. Hicks, of Tweed; Miss E. Hicks, Trenton, and Mrs. McCombe, of Springbrook, were the guests of Mrs. Johnston Brown for a few days last week.

Mr. Burnett Cooper has returned home from his two months' visit to the west, where he has been spending the summer with friends in Killarney, Man.

Mrs. E. Reynolds, of Clydesdale, and Miss Puffer of Hastings, spent Thanksgiving at Mrs. H. Lancasters.

Dr. Brown, and sister, of Maberly, were the guests of their sister, Mrs. A. Carmichael for the past few days.

Mr. J. Horrigan, of Smith's Falls, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Richard Nolan on Thanksgiving.

Dr. J. McLean, of Bancroft, was in town on Wednesday and Thursday of last week, renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. George Lee, of town, spent Thanksgiving at his home in Smith's Falls.

Mr. John Boylan is to be congratulated on the birth of another son. The event took place on Tuesday morning.

Mr. John Caret has returned from his deer hunt with his allowance of two of the finest specimens of game that has been seen here this fall. One buck which he shot weighs 250 lbs. dressed. Mr. Carey is to be congratulated on his luck.

Another old land mark passed away by the sad death of Mr. James Campbell, who died after an extended illness caused by a stroke of paralysis while tying his horses to a tree at Koshamagamog Lake, about four months ago. Mr. Campbell was in the act of tying his horses to a tree after driving some parties out to the lake when he was stricken down with a stroke. It happened that Mr. P. Lancaster, editor of the Havelock Standard, was there at the time, or just drove in at the time the occurrance took place, or else he would likely have lain there indifinitely, as it was a place not very much frequented. Mr. Campbell was brought home and cared for. About two weeks ago he was so well that he was able to walk about, in fact he went out as far as the barn a couple of times. About a week ago he took suddenly worse and all his family were called home and he passed away on Wednesday morning. Mr. Campbell has been a resident of this place for the past eighteen years or more, and has been assessor and tax collector for the village for the past ten years or so, until last year when on account of failing health he had to give it up. The Masonic Order, of which deceased was a member, conducted the funeral, and the remains were laid at rest in the Maple Grove Cemetery, Friday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock. He leaves a wife, two sons and four daughters, all grown up, to mourn his loss.

A very exciting time took place in the Dineen House on Saturday evening last, when a travelling gentleman made things very interesting for a few minutes. This man, who gave his name as Martin Ryan, was in the Dineen House sitting room, when he commenced to sing. Mr. Dineen is said to have told him to stop, but instead of doing this he proceeded to make as much noise as possible. Mr. Dineen then went to the telephone to call up the police when Ryan picked up one of the heavy earthenware cuspidors and threw it at Mr. Dineen, but as it did not strike him, and smashed against the wall, he proceeded to make things interesting by throwing another one which struck Mr. Dineer in the back. He then came up saying that if he had a gun he would kill Dineen, or something to that effect. He was arrested and put in the lock-up to await trial. He was led to appear before the magistrate, Mr. William Mathison, on Tuesday afternoon, when it was postponed for trial on the 12th of December in Peterborough. Ryan is a large well built man of about 30, with one leg off just above the knee.

Mr. Garfield Haggarity was called home on Saturday evening by the news that his mother had been shot. It seems that his younger brother while playing with a gun which he did not know was loaded, let it go off, striking his mother in the right arm, the ball going right through and lodging in her side. If blood poisoning does not set in the doctors have hopes of her recovery.

Our town cartoonist, Mr. F. Chapman, has some of his fine work on exhibition at the C. P. R. station. The cartoon is a representation of a shooting match and is well done.

The concert given in the town hall by the young people of the English church on Thanksgiving evening, was a success. Rev. Mr. Tandy gave an address, and a well given recitation. The soldiers' chorus by the entire company took fine. A duet by Mrs. W. Webb and Mr. Samuel Cross, entitled "Life's Dream is O'er," was certainly "a dream." A double sextette, "The Pretty Maiden" from Floradora opera, was rendered by Misses, C. Barlow, A. Bryans, E. Scott, M. Wager, and E. Lancaster, and Messrs. S. Cross, Lanigan, Somerville, Barrett, Ghent and Lancaster. This in the musical part of the entertainment was the hit of the evening. The ladies were all dressed in white, trimmed with roses; the gentlemen wore white ducks, sailor hats and black coats. The caste was excellent, and the encores which followed were so great that they had to come out the second time and sing the last chorus over again. Mr. Mat Swaine in "Mr Butt In," made his usual hit, and had to respond to an encore. A musical sketch entitled, "Two Chappies," by Messrs. Coleman of Peterborough, was very laughable and much enjoyed. A character quartette entitled "The Fortune Teller," by Mrs. Barrett, Miss Lancaster, Mr. Barrett and Mr. Cross was fine. The male chorus, entitled "Ilcidelberg," from Prince of Pilsen Opera, sung by Messrs. Barrett, Cross, Lanigan, Somerville, Lancaster, and Rev. W. R. Tandy, was appreciated by all. The event of the night was the comedietta, entitled, "Who's to Win Him?"

Cyril Dashwood ... ... Mr. Gabriel
(A young officer in search of a wife.)
Mr. Prattleton Primrose...T.P. Lancaster
(A middle aged bachelor of an undecided turn of mind.)
Squire Brushleigh ... Mr. C. E. Lanigan
(A country gentleman.)
Rose... ... ...Miss Maud Wager
(Brushleigh's daughter.)
Sylvia ... ...Miss Annie Bryans
(A young lady fond of sport.)
Minuetta ... ...Miss Eva Lancaster
(A young lady fond of dancing.)
Musidora ... ...Miss C. Scott
(A young lady fond of romance.)
(Last three neices of the Squires'.)
Arabella ...'... ... ...Miss Eva Bryans
(A friend, a young lady fond of flirtation.)

The run of the play is that the last four named young ladies are all anxious to marry Mr. Dashwood, on account of Mr. Prattleton, who has been for the last ten years trying to make up his mind which one of the Squire's three nieces he will marry, but on account of his not making up his mind the young ladies all fall in love with the handsome young officer. The Squire's nieces, have by common consent, got Arabella, who is also in love with Dashwood, to sound him, and find out just in what kind of a person his choice lies. She of course sits down and writes a note to each of them to the effect that he likes a lady of sport, to Sylvia; that he likes a lady fond of dancing to Minuetta; and that he likes a lady fond of romance to Musidora. And as for herself she tries to work her own case "on the side." Then the laughable part comes in where each of the girls comes in and begins a conversation with Dashwood, and they all take the different parts which the characters will show. And just as each one thinks that he will propose to her in comes Primrose, with a bunch of flowers and getting down on the carpet spreads a large red handkerchief, which he kneels down on. He now thinks it is about time to propose before someone else gets them, but after making the pretty speech made up for the occasion he is rejected with disdain. And one after another with the others he does the same thing, only to be refused. In the meantime Dashwood sees the kind of a girl he cares for in his old playmate Rose, to whom he proposes and is accepted. When the other girls hear of it they are so mad that they do not know what to do. And now that Primrose has been rejected by the other four young ladies he leaves disgusted, and with the firm intention of proposing to the cook as soon as he reaches home.

Miss Annie Bryans as a sport, looked charming in her riding habit and played her part well. Miss M. Wager, who was the heroine of the play, received great applause on winning Dashwood when she least expected it. As far as good acting went, Mr. Lancaster and Miss Eva were the favourites as they both had the most difficult parts; their acting was excellent. Miss C. Scott, as a lady of romance, was good, and that drawl of hers would set anyone laughing. Miss Eva Bryans as the deceived and gengral all-round good fellow for herself, did good work in this line. In fact there was no fault to find anywhere; the people getting it up are to be congratulated. The people claim that it was the best thing of the kind ever put on in the town hall.

TORTURING DISFIGURING

Skin, Scalp and Blood Humours

From Pimples to Scrofula, from Infancy to Age

Speedily Cured by Cuticura when All Else Fails.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurements, as in acne and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt-rheum—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy, have made them the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent, to cool and cleanse the blood. This complete local and constitutional treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning and scaly humours of the skin, scalp and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent and economical cure when all else fails.

Cuticura Resolvent, Pills and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. "How to Cure Every Humour."

THE PLANET MARS.

What We Know About Its Physical and Climatic Conditions.

We can draw all the geographical configurations, seas, coasts, islands, peninsulas, mouths of rivers or canals of Mars with accuracy, and we can anticipate what district will appear in the lens of the telescope, for the length of the rotation of the planet is known to the hundredth part of a second. As the planet turns upon its axis more slowly than ours, the calendar of the inhabitants of Mars is composed of two consecutive years of 668 days and a bisextile one of 669 days.

It is not many years since Mars entered into the sphere of our observation. And one can also say that there is but a small number of the inhabitants of this world who have observed it in all its details, and of these the most experienced is Signor Schiaparelli, director of the observatory at Milan.

The geographical map of the planet Mars has just been made with infinite care by the above mentioned astronomer. One might really consider it a terrestrial sphere of continents, islands, coasts, peninsulas, gulfs, waters. Moreover, clouds, rains, inundations, snows, seasons, winters and summers, springs and autumns prevail as they do here, and the intensity of the seasons is absolutely the same as with us, the inclination of the axis being the same as ours.

Our problem of the habitability of the stars is limited to observing the celestial bodies upon which the conditions are such that organized matter can exist in a durable form.

In the planet Mars the density of a cubic meter of water, earth or any matter is only the seventeenth of what it is here, and the weight is only thirty-eight one-hundredths. A kilogram transported to Mars would therefore only weigh 376 grams there, and a man or woman weighing seventy kilos would only weigh twenty-six there. The years are nearly twice as long as upon our planet, and the climatological conditions seem much more favorable than they are here.

The conditions necessary to life are, we know, multiform, as the structure of the organic matter is so complicated. —Camille Flammarion in Harper's Magazine.

The "Plague of Women."

When the war between Japan and Russia broke out the Japanese government did not desire the assistance of foreign nurses.

A certain number of American nurses went to Japan. They were received with courtesy and compliments by the polite officials at Tokyo. But the New York Medical Record says that "the medical department of the Japanese army has been frightfully embarrassed by their attentions." It declares that their ignorance of the Japanese language and their inability to eat Japanese food or to live in Japanese style have proved an almost complete bar to their usefulness.

The London Hospital unfeelingly remarks, "Nurses should show more discipline when wars occur, or they may come to be classed with the 'plague of women' type."

Raising Trout Creps.

There ought to have been more than a suggestion to some farmers with an available water supply at hand in the tank containing trout six months, one, two and three years old, shown by Lewis Johnson & Son of West Brattleboro, Vt., at the Valley fair. The three-year-olds weighed two pounds apiece, and at market value they are worth $1.50 each in season. Mr. Johnson claims that he is making more from the sale of his trout each year than many a farmer gets from his entire establishment. Some raisers insist that trout can be put on the market for "the price of pork."

That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones, call around and see us.

GREATEST CONVENTION IN LIBERALISM'S HISTORY.

5,000 Delgates Have Gathered in Toronto From Every Corner of Ontario—Premier Ross was Given an Ovation Yesterday---Convention Condemns Unsparingly Electoral Corruption and Calls for Punishment of all Offenders---Ministerial Changes Approved ---Hon. Mr. Stratton Addresses The Convention and is Given a Grand Reception---Development of New Ontario to be Hastened by Liberal Regulations.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—First in size, first in enthusiasm, and first in its effectiveness among party gatherings dealing with Ontario politics is the great convention in session at Massey Hall. Five thousand of the most enlightened Liberals of the Province have gathered to formulate a platform, upon which—as the Provincial Secretary put it yesterday—the Liberal party shall stand or fall at the coming election.

The delegates must have smiled when they saw themselves designated as the henchmen of the Government. The most casual observer could see—from the moment when they first began to stream into Massey Hall in the morning until the Chairman put his last question at night—that the assembled leaders of Liberalism were hewers of wood and drawers of water for no man; that they were independent to the utmost degree, and were not there to approve of anything that did not appeal to their judgment as in the interest of the people on Ontario.

To Keep Ontario's Soul Alive.

The spectacle presented by the convention was most inspiriting to those who, to adapt the quotation used by Mr. Rowell, believe in keeping the soul alive in Ontario. There were hundreds of greybeards present, who had fought under George Brown and Alexander Mackenzie, and who remembered the stern battles of Liberalism in the old days against corruption, and privilege and class government in every form. There were hundreds, too, of young Canadians entering upon political work, to whom the brave days of old are but traditions, and the great men of old noble ideals to be lived up to.

Not Blaming Other People.

They were not disposed too greatly to dwell upon the shortcomings of either people. Their mental attitude was not the "you're another" one. Altogether the delegates, by their behavior at the afternoon session, gave ample evidence that the heart of Ontario Liberalism is as sound as ever, and that the party, whether in office or out of it, has still work to do.

The reception accorded to the Premier and his new and old colleagues was a magnificent one, but not more enthusiastic than was to be expected at the hands of men who know the great work that they have accomplished in governing Ontario wisely, progressively and economically during a time when, as Mr. Evanturel so aptly said, the sister Province of Quebec has piled up so great a debt that her interest bill amounts to a million a year.

Ross' Great Personal Triumph.

Just as the last Dominion election was a rally around a leader whom every class respected, and whom the Liberals loved, making him the centre of a campaign of personal triumphs, so did the Liberals of Ontario yesterday accord Premier Ross, Ontario's grand old man, a personal demonstration without a parallel in the politics at least of this Province. "God bless his dear old heart," shouted one enthusiastic delegate from the gallery at the mention of the Premier's name early in the day, and the sentiment was cheered to the echo. The summit of the Premier's gratification must have been reached at the evening meeting, when as he rose to speak he was cheered and applauded, and hailed in song, and saluted by a standing animated multitude for three full minutes.

The Work of the Day.

The speeches of the day were all brief, except for the hour's address by the Premier in the evening. In that he frankly stated his difficulties in carrying on Government with so narrow a majority, and declared that unless it was increased to comfortable proportions he would have to give over the reins of office. The addresses by the new members of the Cabinet were creditable in every way, and the enthusiasm aroused indicated the welcome with which they were received by the great convention. Although much was done during the day, the great temperance issue and many other planks remain untouched by the main body, and the whole of to-day at least will be required to complete the work in Massey Hall. The smoothness with which business progressed after it was well started shows that the preliminary arrangements by the general committee were well executed. The Executive work was also creditable to the large and rather unwieldy body. Senator J. K. Kerr presided as temporary Chairman in the forenoon under rather difficult conditions. Senator Gibson of Beamsville was then elected permanent Chairman, and the sessions of the afternoon and evening were under the direction of the Vice-chairmen, first of Lieut.-Col. Thompson, ex-M.P.P. for Halidmand, and in the evening of Mayor Urquhart.

A Progressive Policy.

As soon as the convention had delivered its opinion on corruption in thunderous tones, in the resolutions appended, it set itself to devising a new platform. The extent and variety of the resolutions submitted leave no doubt that, however excellent the administrative work has been in the past, there is a work for the future advancement of social and economic conditions in Ontario in which the Liberal party will never take a seat behind any organization.

The first resolution carried favored strongly the development of Ontario's educational system along modern lines, paying special attention to technical education of those engaged in agriculture and industry. The second reaffirmed the party's abhorrence of corruption, and declared against the employment of organizers from outside the ridings. The third and last of the afternoon declared that railways should bear a share of municipal and other taxation in the same proportion as other taxable property.

A New Department.

In the evening resolutions were adopted in a few minutes, calling for the establishment of a separate service in connection with the construction of colonization roads, the location of town sites, the protection of water powers, and all other matters affecting the future development of the new district; calling for the extension of the Temiskaming & Northern Railway to Hudson's Bay, the giving of all timber except pine on farm lands to the settler; affirming the party's allegiance to Provincial rights, particularly with regard to the incorporation of local companies; favoring the appointment of a Provincial Commission to guard against over-capitalization of companies operating as public utilities; favoring the consolidation of the various labor branches of the Provincial Government; favoring changes in the timber regulations; more liberal terms for the prospector for minerals; affirming implicit confidence in the administration of the Ross Government.

Will Not Recommend Abolition of Bar.

The Committee on Resolutions assembled about 9.15 p.m. and discussed the various temperance propositions submitted, which numbered about half a score. There was undoubtedly a strong feeling in favor of a considerable advance along temperance lines, but the proposal to abolish the bars was not adopted. At midnight the committee adjourned without coming to a definite conclusion, and agreed to meet at 9 o'clock this morning to endeavor to arrive at a unanimous decision on the propositions for further temperance legislation to be laid before the conference.

DAY'S IMPORTANT RESOLUTION.

Condemns Bribery Unsparingly and Suggests Probable Remedy.

Moved by N. W. Rowell, K.C., Toronto: "That this convention, representing the Liberal party of the Province of Ontario, repudiates and condemns in the most unqualified terms, every form of bribery by which electors are illegally or corruptly influenced at elections to the Legislative Assembly, and all fraudulent schemes to defeat the honest purposes of the electorate as being a violation of the fundamental principles of responsible Government and contrary to the spirit and traditions of the Liberal party. (Hear, hear.) And this convention would also call upon the Liberal members of Parliament to devise the most ample means whereby election trials shall be continued until every offender is duly convicted and punished, and that no political or other considerations be permitted to stand in the way of the fullest vindication of the sanctity of the ballot and the protection of public morals."

Capt. Hunter's Remedy.

Moved by Capt. Hunter, Toronto: "That any candidate bearing the Liberal colors should try to complete his organization out of reputable men residing or having business connections in his own riding—(hear, hear)—and that it is an active duty of every Liberal candidate to see that no person who has been judicially noted for corrupt practices is included in his electoral organization or brought into political contact with his constituents." (Cheers.)

Confidence in Education.

James Chisholm, Hamilton, moved a resolution of confidence in the educational policy of the Government. It commended the special courses in agricultural instruction, and the introduction of manual training and domestic science. The agricultural training disseminated through farmers' institutes, dairy schools, fruitgrowers' and similar associations was approved. H. H. Miller, Hanover, seconded it.

Delegate Patterson Recovering.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—David Patterson, the Muskoka delegate to the Liberal Convention, who was struck by a street car while crossing Yonge street on Tuesday, is reported to be progressing favorably at the Emergency Hospital, although he is not yet out of danger.

SUGGESTION OF PHIL LOTT'S MOTIVE

His Anger at the Government's Refusal to Remit a Fine Imposed Upon Him for Selling Whiskey Without a License.

The following extract is taken from an interview with the Toronto Star given by Bryon O. Lott, on the occasion of his visit in connection with the Belleville bogus ballot box case:

He was asked what he thought of the whole thing in general.

"If I were giving an opinion," he said, with some deliberation, "I would say that some one is out for the stuff. Further than that I do not care to go at present."

"Did you ever approach any of the deputy returning officers, asking them if they would use those ballot boxes at the polling booths?"

"I should say I did not. I never did any such a thing."

Mr. Lott recalled a visit made by himself, his brother Phil, and a man named Weese of Bancroft to The Parliament Buildings, for the purpose of seeing Hon. J. R. Stratton with regard to getting Phil's fine of $50 for selling liquor without a license remitted. Phil in his story had said some things about Weese. Byron said he had seen Weese at Bancroft on his way down, and Weese had said that the statements were absolutely untrue. What he did recall, though, was the rage that Phil Lott was in as they walked down from the Parliament Buildings after Mr. Stratton had refused to remit the fine. In one of his outbursts Phil had exclaimed, "I will get even with that Ross-Stratton outfit, if it sends me to hell!"

NEW PROVINCIAL SECRETARY

No one familiar with the thoroughness and efficiency which the late Provincial Secretary brought to the discharge of his official duties, will deny that his successor will need to be alert to maintain the standard. He will, however, be greatly assisted by the excellent system to which the complex machinery of a many-branch department has been reduced by his predecessor. Hon. Mr. Graham will bring to the new work he assumes a large experience in the legislature and what will perhaps count more, the priceless experience gained in conducting a live newspaper. No occupation develops the good in a man, gives a man a keener insight into human nature, gives a man better qualifications for dealing successfully with the public in an official relation, than that of a newspaper editor or conductor. Hon. Mr. Graham, as a newspaper man is cordially welcomed to the responsible position he has assumed, with the belief that he will satisfactorily discharge its duties and maintain the prestige of the position. He is a fluent and ready speaker, quick to grasp the salient points of a question, and with a vein of humour which makes him persona grata to his audience and commands attention for the solider argument which he is capable of presenting.

SOUTH WENTWORTH.

In South Wentworth, where, in the late Dominion election Mr. W. O. Sealey received the majority of votes, he has been unseated because a deputy returning officer broke the election law by numbering the ballots in his sub-division. So far as the letter of the law is concerned, this result is right, but the point is that the law is not right. Every safeguard possible in order to secure a fair and honest expression of electoral opinion, should be provided by law, but it seems that the object aimed at would be more desirably obtained by amending the law, in such a way that the responsibility and punishment of a breach of the law should rest upon the election official who breaks the law and not upon the innocent candidate, with the added result of disfranchising the electorate and defeating their purpose in casting their ballots. In South Wentworth it would appear that the deputy returning officer, undertook his duties with a very imperfect understanding of what was required of him, and the practical unseating of Mr. Sealey is directly due to the mistake he made of numbering the ballots, not perhaps with any sinister intention, but simply, it is to be assumed because he considered that course the proper one. If the election law were so amended as to make a deputy responsible for even so much wrong-doing, and to provide proper punishment, the spirit of the law would be better met. It is not to be argued that the law as it stands should not in the case in question be enforced, but it does seem an injustice that a large number of electors should be disfranchised, and an innocent candidate penalised by being deprived of a seat to which it was the intention of the electors he should be elected. Mr. Sealey's opponent may gain his seat on a technicality, but his acceptance of it, so far as the spirit of the law is concerned, is on all fours with the action of a man who, pleading the permission of the law, takes advantage of the statute of limitations to escape the payment of an honest debt. In the West Durham case Mr. Smith declined to take advantage of the technicality which deprived Mr. Thornton of his seat, but unseated him on other counts, and was re-elected. Mr. Smith has a good precedent to guide his action in the premises.

MR. STRATTON'S RESIGNATION

(Belleville Ontario.)

To-day's Globe contains the announcement of the resignation by Hon. Mr. Stratton of the portfolio of Provincial Secretary and also the statement that after the present parliament ceases to exist, he will not offer himself as a candidate in West Peterborough. Mr. Stratton's reason is that his private business interests demand more attention than he has, as a minister, been able to give them. This reason is a good one, for Mr. Stratton has large business interests and it is well known that he devoted himself to his official duties so diligently that his time was pretty fully occupied. This fact is well known, as is the fact that Mr. Stratton has been one of the most, if not the most, hard working and capable members of the Government, and strange to say, this has led to his being attacked as a member of the Government whose usefulness, for political reasons, was to be destroyed. Therefore, he has been made the target of the most persistent personal attacks. No matter what political wrong doing may have been committed, Mr. Stratton was as a matter of party policy, for no other reason than a desire to weaken his influence, made responsible for it by the reptile Opposition press and the professional calumniators of the party. Matters with which he could have no possible connection have been laid at his door. All this, however, cannot obscure the fact of the splendid administration Mr. Stratton has given his department. He has worked faithfully and done his work on sound business principles, with the result that he leaves all the interests of the many branches of his Department in a better state than he found them. His management of the license Department has, as is acknowledged by those concerned, both the temperance and the respectable hotel element, been marked by good faith and an earnest desire to enforce the license law as it exists, and to all the branches of his Department the same strong and painstaking administration has been given. The Province will be a loser by the withdrawal of Mr. Stratton's services as a minister, and West Peterborough will lose the services of the best and most popular representative it ever had. Mr. Stratton's popularity at home, which has not been impaired by the attacks made upon him, is well deserved. He has not only served the more substantial interests of the riding faithfully, but has been a good friend, either in prosperity or adversity, to anybody among his constituents who had occasion to make a claim upon his good offices.

CONSERVATIVE CORRUPTION.

St. Thomas Journal.

The dear old St. Thomas Times continually flounders into statements which display the vastness of its political ignorance or the depth of its malevolent deception. On Saturday night it referred to the time "when McGreevy and Connolly were convicted of irregularities." Irregularities forsooth! Irregularities just so far as offences against the moral and criminal codes are irregularities. We may next expect the Times to refer to the "inaccuracies" of Ananias, and the "mistakes" of Satan.

The McGreevy-Langevin and McGreevy-Connolly scandals, were the most degrading disclosures in Canadian public life, thieving by contractors, sharing by ministers of the Crown, and the Conservative campaign fund.

The McGreevy - Langevin scandal needs only the figures, which speak for themselves:

Cost of the country of the work...	$3,138,234
Cost to the contractors ...	$2,184,259
Contractors' profits, a great part of which went into the Conservative campaign fund...	953,975
Loss to the country after deducting fair profits...	700,000

In the McGreevy-Connolly scandal McGreevy, the member for Quebec West, agreed to secure for the contractors the Levis graving dock contract on condition that he should receive all over $50,000 of the amount received under the contract. The Conservative Government paid them in all $189,000. The contractors paid $22,000 into the Conservative campaign fund.

The Times refers to the "frenzied attempts of the Liberals to connect Sir Hector Langevin with it." There were no "attempts." The sworn evidence showed $10,000 left for Sir Hector on his plans. Sir Hector was forced to resign immediately and retire into private life.

The Birmingham Gazette, (Eng.,) was constrained to remark, "Rascals out of office defraud the public in order to bring rascals in office, and rascals in office prostitute themselves—sacrifice their honour and forsake their trust in order to keep on good terms with the rascals out of office."

These were not isolated instances.

The Carran Bridge Scandal—Estimated cost, $122,000; Government estimate of reasonable cost, $180,000; (these were both made by appointees of Conservative Government) actually paid $630,000; loss to country and gain to Conservative campaign fund, $370,000.

The Wet Basin Scandal—on $[illegible],000 contract, contractors' profits, $174,787. McGreevy, treasurer of campaign fund, received $[illegible],000 from the contractors.

Esquimalt Dock Scandal—contract price, $674,000; amount paid $581,841; contractors' profits, $240,979. Donation to Conservative campaign fund, $[illegible],000.

Hesketh Land Job—Paid $200,000.—Crerar swore its value was $93,401.

St. Charles Bramb—14 miles of railway; estimate $350,000; revised estimate to include all claims for compensation, extras, etc., $900,000; actually paid $2,200,000.

A list of the further scandals which characterized the Conservative administration would fill this paper, and they were all proved on oath. No wonder the London Echo, (Eng.) remarked no country can prosper where public departments are in league with fraudulent contractors, and where ministers are open to offers; and the Graphic Despatch, (Eng.) "Even Tammany Hall smells sweet and clean in comparison with the huge stink-pot of the Conservative Government."

And yet the Times holds up that Government as our model!

SHE WAS IN BED FOR THREE YEARS

Pain-Racked Woman Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Strong Statement by Mrs. Jas. Hughes, of Morley, Ont.—She's Strong and Healthy Once More.

Morley, Ont., Nov. 23, (Special.) — What Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing for the suffering women of Canada will never be fully known. It is only when some courageous woman breaks the secrecy that covers woman and her troubles that a passing glimpse of their great work is given. For this reason a statement made by Mrs. James Hughes of this place, is of more than ordinary interest.

"I was a great sufferer for four years," says Mrs. Hughes; "I was treated by five doctors and a specialist from the United States. I tried nearly every kind of medicine I could hear of, but none seemed to do me any good.

"I was in bed for nearly three years. I had pains in my spinal column, in my head, over my eyes, across my back, and through my left side. I took fourteen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and now I am strong and able to do a good day's work, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Bow Bells.

To be born within the sound of Bow Bells has been a distinction for centuries. The famous old bells which have rung so long over London, it may not be generally known, are situated in Cheapside, where they may still be seen and heard. The street which passes beneath them is today the busiest in all London and is wholly given over to business, so that few people today are actually born within the sound of the famous bells.

Civil Service in the Kitchen.

"Maria," said Boggles to his wife, with an idea of instructing her in political economy, "do you know what civil service is?"

"Jumper," said Mrs. Boggles, with memory of recent contact with the cook, "there isn't any."

STRUCK BY RAILWAY FLOAT.

Ocean Liner Laden With Passengers For Sunny Italy.

New York, Nov. 24.—Fourteen hundred Italian steerage passengers returning to Italy on the La Valcos Line steamship Nord America, were thrown into excitement yesterday when the ship was rammed by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Float No. 6, in the harbor off Liberty Island. The float struck the steamship about 40 feet from the stern and two feet above the water line, tearing a hole 20 feet long and six feet high in her plates and making it impossible for the vessel to continue her voyage without extensive repairs.

After the Nord America squared an even keel and the passengers were quieted the vessel returned to her pier. The float, which had apparently suffered but little in the collision, continued on its course. The Nord America will have to be docked and returned and cannot resume her trips for some time.

REILLY TO BE THERE

Believed He Has Agreed to Tell Everything He Knows.

AT BALLOT BOX INQUIRY

In a State of Nervous Collapse, Though Suffering No Bodily Pain—Did Not Realize When He Went Into It the Diabolical Nature of the Political Plot—Kerfoot's Strong Denial.

Kingston, Nov. 24.—Government Detectives Chamberlain and Greer are still here. Yesterday morning they had a consultation with Dr. Williamson, the physician of Francis J. Reilly, one of the alleged ballot box conspirators, who is lying ill at the Hotel Dieu, and it was arranged that Reilly should be taken to Belleville on Friday to appear before Magistrate Flint.

Attendants at the hospital say Reilly is in a state of nervous collapse, arising out of his connection with the case. He has been in bed since Monday, but is suffering no bodily pain. Being of a nervous disposition, the realization of the awkward position in which he has been placed by the revelations of Phil Lott caused the breakdown. There is very little doubt that the prosecution will be very materially assisted by the evidence of Reilly, who, it is believed, has agreed to tell everything he knows about the ballot box case and has been promised protection.

His friends say he regretted having gone into the scheme, and that when he realized the diabolical nature of the plot he left it to others to go ahead.

H. W. Kerfoot, a Model school teacher at Prescott, denies all knowledge of the bogus ballot boxes. His name has been used in connection with the shipment made by Whelan to Kingston. Ten of the bogus boxes were consigned to W. H. Carelpot and delivered to the Albion Hotel. As to who received the shipment there is considerable doubt. The express messenger is not sure who signed for the package, but thinks it was Carey, the bar clerk. Carey denies it. He has been called as a witness in the case.

Seeks to Be Defended.

Brockville, Nov. 24.—J. E. Whelan of Prescott, of the Inland Revenue Department, who is out on bail to appear at Belleville next Friday to answer to a charge in connection with the famous bogus ballot box scandal, visited Brockville yesterday and waited upon a firm of barristers for the purpose of retaining their services to defend him.

Sir Percy Sherwood At Watertown.

Watertown, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Col. Sir Percy Sherwood, of Ottawa, chief of the Dominion police, is stopping at the Woodruff House, the leading hotel here, investigating the matter of the making of the trick ballot boxes. The local police state that they have had as yet no request for the arrest of any person in connection with the alleged crime. Colonel Sherwood refused to divulge what results he had obtained, though he admits he has made a tour of the furniture shops and tinsmiths.

North Simcoe Recount.

Barrie, Nov. 24.—Argument in the North Simcoe recount was almost finished at 6 o'clock last night, and the judge's decision will be published this morning at 9. The matter has simmered down to a question of five or six votes all told. Major Currie claims the seat as his no matter how the decision is given on numbered ballots and ballots with counterfoils. Mr. McCarthy makes a similar claim. To-day will tell.

New Way of Using Chamberlain Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I can you the following: A neighbour of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

As a Convalescent Food.

Mr. Wyman N. Thomas, Ompah, Addington Co., Ont., writes: — "My wife had congestion of the lungs along with other troubles, and became very weak and run down. By the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food she was made as strong and well as ever. Of course I had a doctor, but he was weak, and it was Dr. Chase's Nerve Food which built her up."

PIERCE PRAIRIE FIRES.

Twenty Square Miles of Territory Burned Over in Manitoba.

Rosser, Man., Nov. 24.—Prairie fires, fanned by a furious gale yesterday, have devastated the country to the northwest of Rosser in a terrible manner. The conflagration was awful, as the flames swept along. Fire guards were of no avail. Hay-stacks went up like rockets, when touched off by tongues of fire, which leaped yards ahead of the oncoming blaze. The whole population fought valiantly to stem the destruction and succeeded in saving Grosse Isle station. The heaviest losses are Messrs. James, 100 tons; Robert Harvey, 80 tons; Tait Bros., 50 tons; Robert Kellett, 50 tons; Styles, 20 tons. Messrs. Bain were losers. Hundreds of acres of good bush were destroyed and miles of fences ruined. The fire is still burning, though the wind has abated. The origin of the fire seems to have been a C.P.R. engine. The extent of country burned is some 20 square miles. Excitement was intense while it lasted, but the people are calming down now.

Laborer's Skull Fractured.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—The new powerhouse at Yonge and Davenport streets was the scene of another accident yesterday which had a fatal result. Peter Wood, a builder's laborer, residing at the corner of Queen and Sherbourne streets, was wheeling a barrow across a beam on the ground floor when he fell through to the basement, striking his head on the concrete floor. When picked up it was found that the victim's skull had been fractured, and he died within a few minutes. He leaves a widow and three children, the widow being at present in the hospital suffering from an abcess. An inquest will be held.

Snow Buries Britain.

London, Nov. 24.—Unprecedented snow falls continue in the British provinces. Many places and villages are isolated and everywhere in the north railway communication is delayed, and, in some parts, entirely stopped. There are instances of funerals being snow bound between the house and the cemetery, and children have had to be dug out of drifts between their houses and the schools. Even in West Cornwall and the Island of Jersey, where snow is a rarity, heavy falls are reported. Ten to twenty degrees of frost were registered in the United Kingdom Tuesday night.

Seven Sutherland Sisters:

Dear Ladies,—

I take pleasure in acknowledge the great benefits which I have derived from the use of your Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner. Ten years ago my hair, which was of an ordinary length, started to fall out so badly that I was in despair. A friend advised the use of your preparations, and after a couple of weeks, my hair stopped falling out and started to grow so beautifully that I have kept on using your preparation with the result that to-day my hair as my photograph will show, is six and one-half feet long, thick and glossy. In a word beautiful. I gladly say your preparations are wonderful.

MAJOR KEEFER'S INTERISTING LECTURE

Fortnighty Club's Opening Lecture Next Monday Night.

Major Keefer, who delivers the opening lecture of the Fortnightly Club course this winter at the Y.M.C.A., on Monday night, was a sergeant for many years in one of the regiments of the British Indian Army. He is a very acute observer of men and things and has embodied an enormous amount of information and entertainment in a lecture which has been described as an accurate description of the life and people of the original home of Orientalism and mystery. There is something very peculiar about India. It is unlike any other country under the sun. The eastern mind is proverbially different from the western and the people of India although seemingly oppressed and in a sense degraded, have nevertheless reached the highest pinnacle of Yogriam or the spiritual.

The ticket for the full course of lectures is only $5c., and is, of course strictly non-transferable. The sale of two or three hundred tickets enables the Club to pay expenses of their lecturers but no more.

Miss B. F. McWilliams will have the entire winter programme completed in a few days.

WORKINGMEN WANT FULLER REPRESENTATION

At Least Three of the Aldermen Should be Representatives of the Labouring Class—Opinion of Last Night's Meeting in Trades and Labour Hall—Question of Sanitary Inspector, Building Inspector and Assessment Commissioner Discussed—All of the Speakers Agreed that More Labour Candidates Should be in Municipal Field—Six Were Nominated as Candidates but all May not be Endorsed by Trade and Labour Council—Platform Will be Issued Shortly—Very Large Meeting.

The Trades and Labour Council Hall was crowded last evening when a public meeting was held for the purpose of discussing the advisability of bringing out more candidates for the coming municipal elections. It is the opinion of the working class that they should have better representation in the Council that their interests might be looked after more carefully and the object of the meeting was to have a free expression of opinion in the matter and also to discuss what platforms the Labour candidates should advocate in entering upon the field. As a result of the meeting several candidates were nominated and their names will will be considered by the Trades and Labour Council and those supported who are in favour of the platform agreed upon by this representative body. The meeting was unanimous in its opinion that there should be better representation and a great deal of interest in the subject was awakened and meetings of a similar nature may be expected in the near future to further discuss the best course to be pursued.

THE PRESIDENT.

Mr. Geo. Sloan, President of the Trades and Labour Council was in the chair. He explained the object of the meeting as being to consider the advisability of putting more candidates into the field at the coming municipal election. About 90 per cent. of the ratepayers in the town were working men and he thought they should have better representation in the council. At present there was only Ald. Johnston as a champion of the working men and it would be only right to have two or three more at the least. The chairman invited all to take part in a free discussion on the subject.

ADAM DAWSON.

Mr. Adam Dawson said that if anything were desired from a municipal Council or a Government, it was wise to have as strong representation as possible in that body. The Council should be composed of all classes of men, lawyers, merchants, working men, etc., in order to have the best legislation. He favoured the idea of more working men as Aldermen.

T. J. BEGLEY.

Mr. T. J. Begley quite agreed with suggestion to bring out two or three more Labour candidates and it behooved the working men to bring out as strong candidates as possible, men of sound common sense and good judgment. The town was bound to grow and many questions would come up from time to time affecting the working classes. The question of an Assessment Commissioner was a strong one. Many claimed they had been ridiculously assessed during the past year and he would like to know how the plan of the Assessment Commissioner had worked in other places. Men should be sent to the council who would back up any proposals for better assessment. The council had been a good one during the past term and the representative of the labour men, Ald. Johnson, while he had not said a great deal, had had his eye open and had looked after the interests of the working men and shewn himself to be a capable representative. He should have one or two more to assist him.

W. BREMNER.

Mr. W. Bremner raised complaints about franchises being given to large companies and manufacturing concerns who were exempted from taxation and made large profits while the working man had to pay the taxes. He referred to the Street Railway and to some local manufacturers which he claimed had contracted to employ a certain number of men all the year around and had not done so. The working man did not get the profits from the manufacturing establishments and why should not all pay taxes. The Trades and Labour Council's duty was to look after the working men who were too slow in speaking up for their rights.

MR. DAWSON REPLIES.

Mr. Dawson took exception to some of Mr. Bremner's statements. What the latter had said regarding certain manufacturing establishments not holding to their agreements was not correct for he was in the council when the agreements were made and knew what he was talking about. It was the finest thing that ever happened to Peterborough when the Canadian General Electric Works and American Cereal Works located here. It was these establishments and others like them which built up our town which otherwise would now be like Lindsay and Port Hope. If the corporation did not encourage these manufacturers to locate here the town would not grow as it has done.

W. BREMNER AGAIN.

Mr. Bremner in reply said that it was the fact that Peterborough had the advantage of both C.P.R. and G.T.R. railways and not the C.G.E. Co., or Cereal Works which made the town as prosperous as it is at present.

W. S. ROBINSON.

Mr. Robinson was not in close touch with the unions, but he was entirely in sympathy with the plan of putting more labour candidates in the field, believing that the working class should have a fairer proportion in the council. If there was not sufficient representation to guide the council as to the needs of the working class, which was the greater portion of the ratepayers, this class would have to bear many burdens. Large manufactures had been brought here by a system of bonuses and he did not think that the council lacked wisdom in bringing these concerns to town for while large sums had been expended and the taxes consequently increased, it was possible to get more work by the labouring class. He was not in favour of the bonusing but if other towns followed this policy, our town must do it also to keep in the running. We want to make our town grow and to do this it was well to have manufacturing industries locate here even though the taxes are made higher as a result. He thought that one-third of the council at least should be labouring men and his advice to the union was bring forth strong men, and support them nobly, being sure that they are elected before any votes are cast for other candidates.

A MOTION.

At this stage Mr. Bremner moved, seconded by Mr. Tighe, that Mr. Robinson be a candidate at the elections, as he was in perfect sympathy with the working classes, and would be sure to look after their best interests.

Mr. Robinson thanked the mover, but said it would be impossible for him to accept the nomination were it endorsed by the council.

Mr. B. Hilliard asked if it were necessary for the candidates to be union men.

The chairman said he did not think it was necessary, but it would be a matter of circumstances.

MR. J. BUTCHER.

Mr. J. Butcher agreed with the suggestion made that at least one-third of the Aldermen should be of the working class. It should make no difference whether or not the candidate were a union man provided he was in sympathy with the cause of the labourer.

FOUR QUESTIONS.

There were four important questions which the chairman hoped the speakers would deal with. They were:

1. Should there be a Sanitary and Building Inspector?
2. Should there be Assessment Commissioners?
3. Should Peterborough be incorporated as a city?
4. How many labour candidates should be in the field?

ALD. JOHNSON.

Ald. Johnson spoke regarding the Assessment Commission. He said he had discussed the question recently with Aldermen from places in Western Ontario, where the plan was in force, and had found that it was working satisfactorily. In Hamilton, where the population was 60,000, there were three Commissioners, and it was the opinion of the aldermen from that city one Commissioner should be sufficient for a town of the size of Peterborough, especially after the first year. One Commissioner could keep in perfect touch with the work, as three or four could not do, and being better acquainted with the work, could give better results, and the properities would be more equally assessed.

MR. H. CARVETH.

Mr. H. Carveth agreed that more representation was required. Men often got into the council who knew no more about business than the man working on the street. He thought the time would soon come when there would have to be a Sanitary Inspector.

A LIKELY CANDIDATE.

Mr. J. Crowe had been asked on several occasions to enter the field and upon the request of the Moulders' Union he had decided to do so. He was willing, however, to abide by the decision of the Trades and Labour Council. He thought the Assessment Commission was the correct idea, the only objection being that when a man is appointed he might monopolise the position for life, and be continually demanding a raise in salary.

MR. B. HILLIER.

Mr. B. Hillier, speaking concerning the manufacturing establishments, thought that they should not be exempt from taxation, and that every man should pay his own taxes. He thought a Sanitary Inspector and an Assessment Commissioner were both needed badly, and he hoped that the meeting would bring out men pledged to support the interests of all parties, and by so doing the working man would have his rights upheld.

MR. T. M'KEE.

Mr. T. McKee had been one of the assessors for fifteen years, and he related some of his experiences, and the manner in which the value of properties had changed of recent years. The rich man's house was assessed just as near its real value as was the poor man's. The assessors tried to do what was right. He believed it unfair to have two or three men to bring in the value of the properties in seven or eight weeks, with other work to do. Assessors should be appointed to assess for the next year and if they did anything wrong let the council put them out.

In reply to a question as to what manufacturing establishments had a fixed assessment.

Mr. McKee said that the C. G. E. works were first assessed at $175,000. The Court of Revision took $25,000 off this, and the judge afterwards took off an additional $50,000, leaving the assessment value at $100,000. Regarding the George Matthews Company, on the new building the first year, the full assessment for school taxes was $50,000. The Court of Revision struck off $20,000, and the building was again assessed for $50,000, and $10,000 was struck off this. The Cereal Works had a fixed assessment. Ackerman's factory had a full assessment for school taxes. The Lock Works had a fixed assessment at present. The Peter Hamilton assessment was not high, and had been raised this year according to the general raise in assessment. The Carbon Works had been raised this year while the William Hamilton and Auburn assessments were fixed.

Mr. Begley asked for information regarding the Sanitary and Building Inspector and Assessment Commissioner.

Mr. Dawson said that a good plumber was required for the Sanitary Inspector, to see that all plumbing was satisfactorily done. He thought the Town Engineer was the Building Inspector at present.

THE PRESIDENT.

Mr. Sloan thought that a Building Inspector should look after the erection of buildings, and see that proper precautions were taken for the preservation of life. There should be sufficient scaffolding, etc., and it required a competent man and one who had time at his disposal, to look into the matter.

Mr. Carveth said there were those in the council who were too extravagant, and if more of the working men were aldermen there would be more care taken in this regard. It was all a question of taxes with the working man.

COL. MILLER.

Colonel Miller thought that meetings of this nature were of great benefit to the working men, for they could discuss questions and receive much information which could not be had otherwise. It had been stated that the taxes were high, and that was true, because of the improvements which were being made. He was not in a position to say whether or not the money had been spent lavishly. He thought it would be a good idea to have the assessment roll published. He saw no reason why a working man should not be as eligible for the council as the man at the desk. The former worked with his brain along practical subjects. The working man as a rule, was at a disadvantage because he was not accustomed to public speaking. Seventy-five per cent. of the population of the continent were working people and they made the wealth for the minority. The working man was brainy if not fluent, and could do just as good work in the council as the man at the desk. The working men should stand by one another, and it would be their own fault if they did not elect men to represent them. Peterborough was now verging from a town into a city, and the expenses were bound to grow. The working men could not help this but they could elect men to see that every dollar was spent aright. A man could prove he was a good union man on election day by the proper use of his ballot, and if good labour men were not elected it would be the fault of the working men themselves.

MR. D. HARVEY.

Mr. D. Harvey said he did not think it wise to bring out too many candidates. Three should be the outside limit. He thought it would be well to have the assessment roll published.

ABOUT ASSESSMENT.

Regarding high assessment, Mr. Dawson said it was a man's own fault if he were assessed too high. If a person believed he had been wrongly assessed he could appeal to the Court of Revision, and afterwards to the judge, and if his case was a fair one he would be fairly dealt with. He did not favour the idea of publishing the assessment rolls. He said that they would lie in the Town Clerk's office, as did the auditors' reports at the present time. If anyone wanted to know how his neighbour was assessed in comparison with his own assessment he could call at the Town Clerk's office and receive the desired information.

ALD. JOHNSON.

Ald. Johnson thought it would be wise if a resolution were passed at the meeting giving unanimous approval of the Assessment Commissioner plan. He thought the duties of the Building Inspector could be performed by the Assessment Commissioner also. He said it would not add to the expenses to have the town become a city. He thought the working men should have more representation in the council and that the men should be taken from the different parts of the town. The working men should not be ashamed of their position. About 90 per cent. of the people of the town earned their bread by the sweat of their brow and why should they not have better representation? The man who looked down on the working class did so through ignorant pride. During his term as Alderman he had learned a great deal and though he did not say as much as some others, he had always looked after the interests of the working men to the best of his ability. The town would grow into a city in the near future in point of its population, and he did not deem legislation necessary. He favoured having the business transacted by the Council in committee more publicly known.

NOT IN FAVOUR.

Mr. Dawson did not agree with the idea of an Assessment Commissioner. If four men could not do the assessing satisfactorily he did not think one man could.

NOMINATIONS.

Nominations for proposed candidates were then asked for and the following were named:—W. S. Robinson, W. J. Johnson, Jos. Crowe, H. Carveth, William Henry, Geo. Tovey, A. Dawson.

Mr. Robinson asked to have his name withdrawn. He did not desire to run for Aldermanic honours at present, but had thought of running as School Trustee, and if so, would be pleased to receive the support of the labouring men.

Mr. Carveth asked to have his name withdrawn also.

Mr. Tovey was not a union man, his position as forman preventing him from being such. He had not come to the meeting with the intention of speaking or of being nominated, but he intended to enter the field.

Mr. Tovey's nomination is consequently not sanctioned by the Trades and Labour Council.

Mr. Henry was not present at the meeting.

Mr. Crowe will enter the field through the request of the Moulders' Union and his nomination will be endorsed by the Trades and Labour Council.

The Trades and Labour Council will meet shortly and bring out a slate and also a platform for their candidates. Those nominated will be considered and it will then be definitely decided what labour candidate will be in the field.

REPORT FROM THE CONVENTION.

Mrs. J. S. Knapman Gave Report of Primary Work.

Ontario Sunday School Convention Recalled by Report Presented Last Night.

Last night at the George Street Methodist Church, after the prayer meeting, Mrs. J. S. Knapman, one of the delegates to the Ontario Sunday School Convention, at Hamilton, gave a report of the proceedings, with reference to the primary work, in which Mrs. Knapman takes a deep interest. Her report as presented, deals with primary work, and since this subject is one of great interest at the present time, and the topics discussed are directly in line with the modern ideas of primary Sunday School teaching, the report of Mrs. Knapman is given in full:

The Provincial Sunday School Convention was held in Hamilton Oct. 24, 25, 27. On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Foster, the state Primary teacher, of New York, was welcomed on the platform by the Chautauqua salute. Mrs Foster spoke of the early training of the little child in the home—parents train the little ones obedience early, for we all know how the child likes to have its own way in every thing and whose fault is it if the little ones are not taught obedience, good behavior in their early years. Home is the place for that. Yes, home affects the child life, if home is cheerful and pleasant, the parents happy, so will the child be for they receive from the parents the example. Happy is the home where the children are early trained.

All teachers soon know the child that is trained, at day school as well as the Sunday school. The little children should have a good teacher for the child forms good habits with a good teacher, even with this you may fail to win the child. How can a child be made to love the King and not the Bible. The smallest child can be made to love which ever is the most attractive. A teacher cannot teach all she knows. Do you know the home? Do you learn the lessons to suit the children?

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Mrs. Foster asked how shall we teach temperance to little children. To cure little boys, be temperate yourself of drinking and eating candy, then you touch his everyday life. Try and make your lesson simple, strong, pure, sweet, calling every day life with the lesson to suit the children.

Mrs. Foster then gave an example of how she would teach a temperance lesson to little ones not over nine years of age. I will try and give it as she did at the convention. We cannot reach the child ways, so get away so many years, say 25, 30, yes, 40 years. Would that I had the power, said Mrs. Foster, to wave over your heads a flaming magic wand and bring you all back to your childhood days and have boys and girls before me.

I have a beautiful gift here on the platform—God's gift. You need it, and I need it. You had it for breakfast and so had I. We cannot do without it. Can anyone tell me what it is? Yes. Pure water. God's gift. You see what I am going to do. It is good to drink, is it, What else is it good for? Yes, it is good to wash your hands and it is good for many things, What are these? (horses drinking) Yes, animals need it. Now, what are these? Birds? Yes, you have seen birds drinking water. They need it. What is the matter with this flower and these they were cut the same time one died because it did not get it, the other lived because it got it. Now you see the need of water for the flowers. What else is good to drink? Milk is good for boys and girls, beer, yes man takes the hops to make them with strong drink. What else, wine? Yes, man make grapes with wine. Now if any of you take a glass of water you will find it cool to the mouth and throat, and it is good for you, if you take the same of the stronger drink you will find it burns the mouth and throat and make you weak if you take to much and you will not know what you are doing because they choose the stronger drink or we can choose, pure cold water.

Our Father gives us the choice, which are you going to choose?

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

The teacher's threefold Preparation was the subject. It is not the only thing to come prepared, the greatest is the home kept in touch with the home the child is the one to bind home to the Sunday school, parents should be in close touch, see to it that you have a roll and visit their homes. Mrs. Foster said do not call on Monday, it is washing day or a busy day, but rather choose a day later on in the week, because the mother would more likely enjoy your visit, take all manner of gains to see what the mother can do for you class she will send them out on time see they have the golden text and are there every Sunday in their place. Get the mothers out often but no show, have a little tea and spent a family hour; the mother will go half way to help the teacher.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The subject was "My Primary Class—what shall I do with it?" First thing, love the little children in your care, if we must know the boys and girls, both in school and out of it. If must be firm we must interest them as well as instruct them. Many thoughtful things have to be done, start right, teach order, obedience fellowship with one another, always start on time. Call order by music. Mrs. Foster is in favour of a library in the Primary class books to suit the little ones it brings the home in touch with the class, its cost is very little, but many a home has pleasure.

Mrs. Knapman read an order of service which Mrs. Foster had prepared for use in the Primary Departments of Sunday Schools.

General admission for the Jessie M. Maclachlan Concert Company, tonight, only 25c. Ample seating accommodation for everybody. Don't miss the chance to hear these art's s.

WIGHTMAN—McKEE

Quiet Wedding of two Popular Young People Last Evening.

A very quiet wedding took place at 7.30 o'clock last evening at the residence of Mr. R. B. McKee, 315 Rubidge street, when his daughter, Miss Helen Maud, was married to Dr. Harry Wightman, of town. The officiating clergyman was Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's Church. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present, and the bridal couple were unattended. Dr. and Mrs. Wightman will reside at 297 Park street.

MR. H. LeBRUN IN GREAT LUCK

Sensational Bargains From Montreal.

This is the time of the year when the wholesale clothing and furnishing houses are holding closing-out sales, and many sensational snaps drop into the hands of the retailer who is lucky enough to be present. The firm of Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., always on the alert for these sales, was fortunate in having Mr. H. LeBrun on the spot just in the nick of time. Mr. LeBrun spent several days in Montreal last week, and secured many good lines at less than manufacturers' prices. Among these were fifty dozen workingmen's shirts in black sateen, cottonade and flannel, which they can afford to sell at 39 cents, or two for 75 cents. These shirts are well worth 50 cents and 75 cents each. Another splendid snap was a lot of one hundred and twenty-five pea jackets, regular wind-proof coats, made of friese, nap and beaver. These will be sold for $2.50, $2.90 and $3.90; and are well worth $4, $4.50 and $5.50, just the thing for walking or driving in very cold weather. A big lot of fine white and coloured shirts were also bought at an extremely low offer, which will make them sell quickly at 50 cents and 75 cents cash—worth double the money. Many other lines were bought at prices forced away down to rock bottom. Don't be behind hand. H. LeBrun & Co.

MR. STRATTON DEFIES CRITICS.

Report of His Remarks at The Great Liberal Convention Toronto.

He Sets Forth His Past and Present Relations to The Liberal Party.

The following is the Globe's report of Hon. Mr. Stratton's speech at the great Liberal convention in Toronto yesterday:

There were many calls for a speech from Hon. Mr. Stratton, and the chairman, yielding, called upon the retiring Provincial Secretary. Mr. Stratton expressed great pleasure in having an opportunity of looking into the faces of what he considered to be the best elements of the Liberal party in Ontario. It had been a pleasure to him to be associated with the leader of the Liberal party to-day. "It had been said," continued Mr. Stratton, "and I suppose it will be said, and like a good many of their other sayings it is untrue, that I have retired from the Government because it has been the wish of the premier. I desire to say, and I know the premier will agree with me, that long before I was attacked at all I had intimated to the premier that it was my desire to withdraw at the conclusion of the present Parliament, and I said to him that I thought I should let him know of my desire, so that when I did withdraw I would not embarrass him in the least, and he would have an opportunity of looking over the House with a view of selecting someone to succeed me. The Conservative press will no doubt say that I have retired because of the attacks, because of the abuse that they have endeavoured to heap upon my head, but if they cared as little as I care for their attacks, they would perhaps have not been as plentiful as they have been during the past three months. I have defied, and I repeat it to-day, any Conservative in Ontario to put his hand upon one corrupt act of mine." (Applause.) Mr. Stratton pointed to the neglect of the Conservatives to call him to the witness box after he had been subpoenaed in bye-election cases, as a proof that they could not find anything against him. During his five years in the ministry he had had charge of the largest spending department, and he defied any man to put his hand upon the fraction of a cent that had been misappropriated or misspent. (Cheers.) He could also say that after 19 years of public life no man could say he had broken his promise with anyone. In his whole service, too, he had only missed three votes in the House. "Therefore," said Mr. Stratton, "I can look the Liberal party of this Province in the face and I can say—and I am sure that the Liberal party of this Province are behind me to-day—(applause)—that as a humble member of the Liberal party, while a member of the House no man had fault to find with the course that I pursued."

As time rolled on, Mr. Stratton added, it would be found that what he said was absolutely correct. He was sorry that certain men here and there were inclined to believe the charges, but they were originated by the greatest gang of corruptionists that ever existed in Ontario. The other day his name had been connected with the ballot-box cases at Belleville. It was a most unblushing falsehood. He desired to say that whoever was guilty thereof should be punished to the extreme limit. (Applause.)

The Premier of Ontario has been privileged to see established and in operation the first steel rail mill that had been placed in operation in this country. "I desire to say to you one and all that there is no hard feeling between the Government and myself; that I approve of everything that the Premier has done in the selection of members of the Administration who have been chosen to replace the retiring members of the Government, and to say that I wish him and that I wish every member of the Government and of the Liberal party most unbounded success in the campaign that will no doubt take place before the snow leaves the ground. I desire to take this opportunity of saying to this great convention, the greatest that has been held in the Province, that if each and every Liberal will do his duty there can be no possible question as to the result. I desire in parting from you as a Minister of the Crown to say that I am not parting from you as a Liberal and as a follower of the present Administration. I shall continue to do all I possibly can to see that Hon. Geo. W. Ross and his Government are returned to power by a handsome majority. (Cheers.)

LETTER WRITING.

Charming Art of Ancient Days Appears to Have Lost Its Vogue—Mrs. Frank Leslie's Views.

"A charming letter!" How seldom nowadays we hear such a spontaneous compliment paid to an epistle or have occasion to pay it ourselves! When we do, a hundred to one it is called forth by either a favorable business communication or its opposite pole—a love letter—two species of composition in which, of course, the charm for the happy individual addressed is quite irrespective of literary merit.

In the good old days before Rowland Hill invented postage stamps, and even subsequently, when those necessaries of life used to cost anywhere from threepence to a shilling or two, people felt bound to write their money's worth, or perhaps their correspondent's money's worth while they were at it. Cheap postal facilities have accomplished the ruin of those scriptory morals which the hurry and fret of modern life had already undermined. Septration, the grand motive of correspondence, no longer means what it did in the Shakespearean time when Romeo's removal to a place twenty-five miles, the actual distance between Verona and Mantua, away from Juliet's abode, was regarded by both these ingenuous young lovers as a "banishment" worse than death. Since then steam and electricity, not to speak of the Postmaster-General, have abolished the ocean itself as an obstacle of distance and brought the four quarters of the globe together. We telephone or "wire" one another or "throw off a line" at odd moments, not even our own odd moments perhaps, but rather those of the stenographer or private secretary.

But, you exclaim, are we to assume, that human nature, which underlies all letters, has changed? Don't people have as bright ideas today as they did a century ago and as much literary skill? Of course they do. Indeed, in the latter respect the average standard is distinctly higher. The difference is simply that this efflorescence of bright ideas in the present age takes its legitimate form of published literature. The innumerable magazines and lighter periodicals which play so conspicuous a part in modern life are the expression of what formerly found its restricted outlet in private correspondence. Peas from which flow bright and chatty letters are in demand for well paid "copy."

With her graceful gift of expression and vivacious fancy, who can doubt that if Mme. De Sevigne were living to-day she would syndicate her articles, write short stories for the magazines and confine her written communication with her daughter to half sheet notes and ten word telegrams?—Mrs. Frank Leslie.

cost was £4,000, and was defrayed by a national subscription inaugurated by a local committee in Sunderland. The cross, designed by Mr. Clement Hodges, the architect of the Caedmon, Hexham, and Rothbury crosses, forms, as it were, a picturesque history of the life and art and learning of the north in Bede's time.

The Joy of Feeling Rich.

"It's a queer thing, this belonging to a club," said a man who had just paid his first dues. "But it's fine to feel rich, even once in a while.

"Take the simplest thing in the world—going into the house. All my life I've been used to fishing around for a latch-key, wriggling out of my own overcoat and hollering to know who was home.

"But when I go into my club—notice 'my club,' I can say it easily now—when I go into my club, as I say, I don't even push open a door. Some one in livery does that and bows as I stalk past. I am allowed to lift my hat off, but that's about all. And everyone says 'Sir' to me until I feel as if part of the universe was mine.

"Same way if I eat there. Takes a head waiter and at least one everyday waiter even to get me into a chair. And as for wondering what we're going to have for dinner and if Sunday's roast of beef isn't about finished—why, I can have roast beef fresh every day.

"You can do all that in a fine hotel or restaurant, but you don't get called by name unless you're more of a rounder than I am—and what's worse is that you're not expected to sit around and be waited on unless you're spending money when you're in such a place.

"Oh, it's great to feel rich now and then, and I don't know that it makes home seem any worse."

Easy.

She—So you think men are smarter than women, do you? He—Some men, but not all. She—Well, what men are smarter? He—Oh, bachelors.—Sydney Town and Country Journal.

HOUSES IN MOROCCO.

They Are Seldom Wholly Finished and Never Repaired.

In Morocco they build and make, and they do both things beautifully and well, according to one who has been there. But they seldom finish. "In a house dainty with fountains and arabesques and colored tiles," he says, "you will still find a corner uncompleted, a pillar which lacks the delicate fluting of the other pillars, an embrasure for a clock half ornamented with gold filigree and half left plain. And if they seldom finish they never by any chance repair. The mansion is built and decorated within. Artists fit the tiles together in a mosaic of cool colors and carve and gild and paint the little pieces of cedar wood and glue them into the light and pointed arches. The rich curtains are hung, and the master enters into his possession. There follows the procession of the generations. The tiles crack, the woodwork of the arches splits and falls, and the walls break and crumble. The householder sits indifferent, and the whole house corrodes. So in the narrow streets holes gap and the water wears a channel where it will and the mud lies thick and slippery on the rounded stepes. The streets run steeply up and down the hills, wind abruptly round corners and dive into tunnels."

CONTROL THE UNIVERSE.

Opposite Forces of Nature That Hold All Things in Balance.

Gravitation, if considered as a force of attraction only, is a force which balances its opposite, repulsion. The attraction of the sun balances the momentum which would otherwise project the earth on a straight line into space. This balance holds the earth steadily in its course around the sun. Opposite forces of attraction and repulsion, centripetence and centrifugence, exist in the world in its greatest and smallest parts, alike in constellations and in atoms. Science is compelled to recognize repulsion as being as universal as attraction. To account for these contrary forces has so far baffled investigation, Newton's great discovery accounting only in part. Science knows only this—that these forces exist, that they meet, offset, neutralize and regulate each other, sometimes mildly or imperceptibly, sometimes violently and with fearful convulsions, and that in their influences, contacts, struggles and wars they hold all things in balance.—From "Balance: The Fundamental Verity," by Orlando J. Smith.

Why Men Hunt and Fish.

It has been said that every man has within him something of the savage, indicated by longings to return at times to primal conditions of life. Certainly to many there come irresistible yearnings for the haunts of nature, for the searching of forest and stream for the dainty food, depending on one's prowess for his dinner. In the gratification of this desire there is a zest which makes of a vacation a rejuvenation. If the appetite for this sort of thing be lacking or dormant it should be cultivated or aroused.—Senator William P. Frye in Independent.

Niceties of the French Language.

A writer in the Cornhill Magazine has found some delicacies of the French language in a handbook of etiquette for French children. The pupils are warned not to say, "I have been eating cheese and calf's head, monsieur," or "He was riding on a donkey, my lord." This construction of the sentence is "very rude," for it implies an intimate relation between the calf's head or the donkey and the personage who is addressed. To avoid this one should say, "I have been eating cheese, monsieur, and calf's head," or "My lord, he was riding on a donkey." That useful but ridiculous beast must be kept behind the nobleman. Tourists in France must be careful where they put the calf's head or they will imperil the entente cordiale.

Severe Chest Colds And Painful Coughs

Demand Prompt and Active Treatment.

The great danger in troubles of this class is "delay." Don't neglect a Cough or Cold, it can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected—Bronchitis, Pneumonia, Asthma, Catarrh and Consumption will surely follow the neglect to cure.

The first dose of

will ease the cough, soothe the inflamed throat and loosen the phlegm.

Mrs. Joseph Paradis, Blackwell, Ont., writes:—I had such a bad cold I could hardly breathe. I noticed Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised, so had my husband get me two bottles—I had only used one before I was cured. I recommended it to a friend, and two bottles cured her after other remedies had failed—we both keep it in the house now and would not be without it. It is the best cough medicine I have ever taken."

Price 25 cents per bottle.

PUZZLING "PI."

A Story About the Original John Walter of the London Times.

A story about the original John Walter of the London Times when beset by a strike of compositors and pressmen is told in London Opinion. On a certain day the "copy" fell short by half a column. There was none at hand ready to fill up with, and time passed. With the inspiration of genius Mr. Walter laid hold of a column of printer's "pie" and prepared it in the most expeditious way, so that it might pass muster for an article in a foreign tongue. He popped it in with a few lines of introduction, declaring this incomprehensible mass to be a paper in some Hindeostanee dialect, translation of which would follow in the course of a few days. No "translation" ever appeared. Ten years after Mr. Walter was on a visit to a noble earl in Cheshire, where he was introduced to a most learned pundit and oriental scholar. "Ah," said the latter, "I have long and ardently wished to solve the problem which has puzzled me for the last ten years!" And drawing from his pocket a tattered old copy of the Times he pointed out to the embarrassed proprietor of that journal the alleged Hindoostanee article, which, he confessed, had baffled his most strenuous and assiduous efforts to make anything of, although he had tried every known dialect of the language. How Mr. Walter explained the matter is not recorded.

An Impossible Condition.

An artist, speaking of the blunders women writers make, said: "I remember that I once had to illustrate for a small publication a woman's story about a brave and amorous Texan cowboy. He loved a fair maiden, whom one day he lifted up before him to the front of his saddle, and they kissed and rode away.

"Poor, unfortunate ladylove! To readers who have seen a Texan saddle no explanation is needed. It comes up in front to a pommel. As for sitting on that peak, I would as soon sit on the point of a spear, especially if the horse were to gallop. I wouldn't ask a puppy dog to sit on that saddle-horn, much less any girl who loved me."—Pearson's.

When Hoar Pulled Wires.

"The only time I was ever guilty of wire pulling," said Senator Hoar once to a friend, "was when I so used my influence that Thucydides instead of Herodotus received honorable mention on the facade of the public library in Worcester, Mass., as the representative Greek historian. Why did I want to carry that point? Oh, only because I've always had an especial fondness for Thucydides."

Was not that deliciously characteristic? Is there another man in American public life today who would pull wires for—Thucydides?—National Magazine.

The Poetical Indian.

Despite the belief to the contrary the Indians are a poetical people. One evidence of this is the fanciful names they give their rivers. For instance, Mississippi means father of waters; Minnehaha, laughing water; Housatonic, winding waters; Horicon (the Indian name of Lake George) means silver water, and Ohio means fair to look upon.

Not Humorous.

"I see," said the man, "that you don't use the mother-in-law joke any more."

"No," admitted the humorist. "When I set up in business I was told that she was one of the dozen or so original jokes, but since my marriage I find that she is no joke at all."

A Cure For Obesity.

"It has been suggested that excessively fat people should be taxed."

"It would do them good. They'd worry enough about the taxes to work off some of the superfluous flesh."

Mean, the Brute.

Hunker—Actually, Uncle George, I haven't anything fit to wear. Uncle George—Yes, I've noticed that all your gowns are in the height of fashion.

THE CORSET.

Placed on Trial and Found Guilty of Heinous Offences.

Physical Culture magazine has put the corset on trial and found it guilty of even more heinous offenses than most of its ardent haters have ever dreamed. Here is the true bill found against this molder of the feminine form by the magazine:

It lessens and sometimes ruins the digestive powers.

It restricts development of the lungs to almost half their normal size.

It destroys absolutely the normal power of breathing.

It ultimately injures and makes shapeless, flaccid and nerveless the flesh of the waist line.

It destroys the beauty lines of the body, of the limbs, arms and bust by restricting nourishment, by interfering with normal circulation and thus lessening vital power, and by the continuous and unnatural support of the bust in an abnormal position.

It is absolutely in most cases the direct cause of weaknesses peculiar to women, from which every corset wearer suffers at some time in her life.

It greatly weakens, sometimes destroys, or makes abnormal the instinct of sex.

It produces tumors and the inflamed condition from which women so often learn to expensive and dangerous operations.

It causes serious displacement.

It prevents the return of the venous blood from parts below the waist line.

It weakens and sometimes kills unborn babies.

It is one of the principal causes of marital miseries and divorces.

Behind the Bars.

If you are an amateur photographer and have a negative of some friend whom you would like to see locked up for a long term, put your printing frame just inside a wire mosquito netting when you print the next picture from the negative. The result will be a print showing your friend behind the bars. The effect will be almost startling.

Mistaken.

Jack—I thought that the author of this book was famous for his keen understanding of women. Jane—Well, do you doubt it? Jack—Of course. He says that the heroine suffered in silence.

Rapid.

"They say that he has a past," said Miss Priml, and there was awe in her voice. "Well," said Miss Speedson, "if he has one he's going so fast now that it will never overtake him."—Exchange.

Free Fiction.

Mrs. Muggins—Do you read much fiction? Mrs. Buggins—No; I get all the fiction I want listening to my husband's reasons for coming home late.

Honest.

He—It's hard to keep a secret sometimes, isn't it? She—I don't know. I've never tried it.—Detroit Free Press.

THE MIRROR.

Some Things That Would Be Avoided by Studying It.

It should be remembered that there is an enormous difference in mirrors. The mirrors of our great-grandmothers, charming though they may be, cannot be truthfully said to be satisfactory reflectors to the maiden of today.

The shape of a glass and its frame have a great deal to do with the beauty of the reflection of the face within, and a heart shaped glass is the most becoming of all. Again, some glasses have a green or yellow tinge which adds an unhealthy glow to the face.

But, on the other hand, a woman should not aim to have a glass which hides or glosses over her imperfections. She should have a pure mirror of large dimensions set full in a good light, and in this make a thorough examination of herself, for thus she will appear to a close observer.

Then let her take a small diminishing hand glass. In this she can judge as to how she will look to a casual passerby.

But, above all, let her have a long glass that can reflect her full figure. How many women are seen with sagging skirts and dropping under petticoats or unsightly strings hanging beneath who would have been spared much conscious or unconscious criticism had they possessed a mirror large enough to admit a full length view.

MOP FAIR AT STRATFORD-ON-AVON, ENGLAND.

Modern Manners Are New, However, Apparent at the Ancient Hiring Fair—Many Visitors Go to See the Sight of Roasting An Ox Whole in the Streets—This Mode of Cooking Is Very Simple.

At Alderminster, one of the prettiest villages on the way from Banbury to Stratford-on-Avon, the scene on "Statty" day, as they term it, is one which reminds the stranger of our own London roads on a Derby day, says a writer in Lloyd's Weekly. Traffic is great and varied, the roads are wide and good. Four miles and then you reach Stratford-on-Avon. Midland "Mops" are not, as a rule, the most desirable of festivals, but there certainly seems to be no prospect of the Stratford-on-Avon "Statute" Fair declining in popular favor, for, if anything, Wednesday's Fair proved more attractive than ever. Excursion trains from all parts landed some thousands of visitors to view this ancient hiring Fair. Very little hiring is, however, now done openly, with the exception of a few farm hands, who this year asked for an increase in their wages. The registry offices claimed the majority of female servants, very few standing in the market-place for hire as was the usual custom. Many of the visitors go to see the very rare sight of roasting an ox whole in the streets. On Wednesday there was the usual quantity of bullocks and pigs openly roasted. In nearly every street one came across a structure of clean red bricks partly open at the top to allow of sparks, smoke, &c., to escape from the hot furnace in front of which the animals are roasted. The mode of cooking the carcase is very simple. The ox or pig is run through lengthways by a spit, resembling a scaffold-pole, which is kept in place by chains or iron bands. The animal's legs are cut at the knees, but the horns of the beast remain. The pole is laid horizontally in front of a wood and coal fire backed by a wall of bricks. At the end of the spit is a cart or truck wheel, which enables the "helmsman" to turn it at will. The gravy falls into a long zinc tin, from which the cooks collect it in large ladles and baste the revolving mass. The chefs begin slicing the meat off by noon, and then there is quite a rush with plates. It is estimated that nearly seven hundred people, at a shilling a time, are supplied from one ox. Thirty-five score some of the bullocks have weighed. In addition to the oxen and pigs, fried fish, sausages, and fried potatoes are most plentiful, so that one can imagine the aroma that catches the visitor soon after leaving the railway station. Even Henley street, in which Shakespeare's house is situated, has been the scene of many of these roasting exhibitions. Mr. Chaplin, a Stratford-on-Avon photographer, took a photo of this novel cook-shop, which will give one an idea of how the roasting is carried out. The pleasure part of the Fair was as great as ever, with its stalls and side-shows galore. The roundabout organs rolled "Bill Bailey" out, whilst in the evening a novel sight was that of youths rushing about the Fair brandishing ribs from the oxen. A large crowd was present from Birmingham and Wolverhampton. The day was most ideal, and, generally speaking, the "mop" of 1904 can be put down as one of the very best. It should be stated that the eight beasts and the eleven pigs represented about £900 worth of meat, which was publicly disposed of. A pig was again roasted just opposite Shakespeare's house. Another feature is that on Tuesday night Clarke's switchback opened in aid of the Stratford-on-Avon Hospital and secured the handsome sum of £24 4s. 10d. being handed over.

We seldom fear a danger that we cannot see. The danger of being run-down by a horse is a very real one to everybody, the danger of being murdered by a microbe does not trouble us. And yet the minute microbe is more dangerous than the wildest horse.

The only people who can afford not to fear the microbes of disease are those who keep their blood pure and rich. These are practically immune from the attacks of most microbes.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies and enriches the blood, and gives the body a vigorous vitality. It cures scrofula, eczema, boils, pimples and other eruptive diseases which are caused by impure blood.

"I had been troubled for about four years with eczema, or a skin disease, which at times was almost unbearable as it would itch so," writes Mr. John Lasleur, of 113 Powhatan St., Dallas, Texas. "I concluded to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and after using five bottles found that I was entirely cured. Please accept many thanks."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the blood.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation and its consequences.

Frightful Dreams.

Dull Headaches.

TERRIBLE PAINS AND A FREQUENT DESIRE TO URINATE. Such were the troubles of Mr. Joseph Leland, Alma N.W.T. He happily found relief in

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Here is what he says:—"I was troubled with dull headaches, had frightful dreams, terrible pains in my legs, and a frequent desire to urinate. Noticing Doan's Kidney Pills recommended for kidney trouble, I decided to give them a trial. I procured a box, and was very much surprised at the effectual cure they made. I take a great deal of pleasure in recommending them to all kidney trouble sufferers."

Doan's Kidney Pills help the Kidneys to drain off the poisonous impurities which have collected, thus cleansing out the kidneys, bladder, and all the urinary passages. They correct inability to hold the urine, and thus obviate the necessity of getting up many times at night to urinate. Their good results will be immediately felt in all cases of kidney trouble.

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25. At all dealers, or will be mailed direct, on receipt of price, by THE DOAN KIDNEY PILL CO., TORONTO, ONT.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for "847 Rogers Bros." Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

1847 TRADE MARK ROGERS BROS

The above trade mark has been stamped on every article of the original and genuine Rogers Bros.' goods for over 50 years. Get this and you get the best that is made.

Lenbach's Independence.

A Berlin banker once asked Lenbach, the great portrait painter of Munich, what he would charge for painting his portrait. Lenbach mentioned an unusually large sum, this being a trick of his when disinclined for a job to avoid being obliged to give a direct refusal. "But surely that is too much?" blurted out the millionaire. "I bought a portrait which you painted of Prince Bismarck for less than half that price." "That may be," replied Lenbach quietly. "It was a pleasure for me to portray him. But surely, without offense, you do not imagine that it would be an equal pleasure to me to paint you?"

Lenbach was not impressed by rank. He refused an invitation of Czar Alexander III. to go to St. Petersburg and also a request to journey to London to paint Cecil Rhodes. "Let him come to Munich," he said.

He Resisted Temptation.

Willie—"I met our new minister on my way to Sunday school, mamma, and he asked me if I ever played marbles on Sunday."

Mother—"H'm! And what did you say to that?"

Willie—"I said, 'Get thee behind me, Satan!' and walked right off and left him."—London Tit-Bits.

Plant Life.

Plant life is much more tolerant than animal life of extremes of temperature, growth having been observed in some instances as low as zero and in other instances as high as 72 degrees C. It is perfectly true that a freezing process does not destroy life. A fish or a frog will be frozen solid and on rethawing become quite lively again. The seeds of plants can actually undergo for hours a temperature of liquid hydrogen, the coldest temperature known, and yet retain their germinative power.

The Oldest Living Twins.

Scotland claims to have the oldest living twins in the world. It had been reported that the brothers Benham of Bridgeport, Conn., who are eighty-seven years old, were entitled to that distinction. Scotland's aged pair are Thomas A. and George Hill Melville of Fife. They are in their ninety-fifth year. George is the frailer of the two and has been totally blind for the last seven years. A year or two ago, too, he was unfortunate enough to break his leg, and he is permanently confined to bed.

SLEEP FOR CHILDREN.

The Youngsters Should Retire and Rise With the Chickens.

There are many who will agree with a well known doctor who declares that half of the ailments of children arise from insufficient sleep. He recognizes that the same difficulty exists in the case of adults, and in a recent conversation upon the subject said: "It is not only children, but adults, that are falling into nervous insanity from this cause. They live too fast, and it affects people of all ages. St. Vitus' dance, which is one of the most wearing of diseases, is the consequence of lack of sleep, although it is often wrongly ascribed to lack of proper nourishment. Children live in such a rush that they are worn out before they arrive at maturity."

"What would you do to remedy this state of things?"

"I would keep them in bed and give them plenty of sleep and tonics. I would make the youngsters go to bed with the chickens and get up with them. In addition I would see that they got a two hours' nap in the afternoon. Plenty of sleep is the panacea for most of the ills of childhood, particularly those of a nervous nature."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Never put fish in your refrigerator unless you wish to spoil the butter.

Yacht mops are great conveniences for dusting the bare floors so universally used now.

An undercover of rubber sheeting or marbleized oilcloth under the linen cover preserves the top of a washstand.

Brush alcohol in which a little collodion has been dissolved over the silverware to keep it from tarnishing. The thin invisible coating the solution leaves can readily be removed by dipping the article in hot water.

An excellent way to brighten smoky looking, slender necked glasses or carafes is to fill them with water and a number of bits of paper. Shake hard, and when the contents are removed the glass will be found to glisten like new.

Rice Blancmange.

Boil half a pint of rice in as little water as possible, till all the grains lose their form and become a soft mass. Next put it into a sieve, drain and press out all the water. Then return it to the saucepan and mix it with a large half pint of rich milk and a quarter of a pound of powdered sugar. Boil it again till the whole is reduced to a pulp. Then remove from the fire and stir in while hot a wineglass of rose water. Dip molds into cold water, then fill them with the rice and set them on ice. When quite firm and cold turn out the blancmange and serve it in dishes with a sauce tureen of sweetened cream flavored with nutmeg, or it may be eaten with boiled custard or wine sauce. If preferred, the blancmange can be molded in breakfast cups. Always dip the molds in lukewarm water for a moment before turning out.

A Shabby Bedroom.

A good way to completely transform a bedroom when the furniture has become old and shabby is to give everything a coat of enamel paint. White is always pretty for a sleeping room, and a dainty room can be made by having all the furniture, woodwork, picture frames and boxes painted with white enamel. Get a pretty little rosebud spotted muslin and of it make bedspread, dresser covers, curtains and cushion covers. You will find that with very little trouble and small expense you will have a bower so dainty that any one might envy you.

For the Linen Closet.

For each shelf and drawer of the bed linen closet make pads to fit, consisting of two thicknesses of cotton batting covered with cheesecloth and sewed together around the edges. Before doing this spread thickly between the layers of batting lavender flowers with which a little orris powder has been scattered. A delightfully delicate odor of lavender and violets will permeate the contents of the closet, and the bedrooms will always be faintly suggestive of those flowers.

FIVE YEARS IN THE ICE.

Fate of a Young Norwegian in the Arctic Glaciers.

Had Ole Sjostron's tomb of ice on an arctic island in the Bering sea remained undisturbed a hundred thousand years, at the end of that ponderous stretch of time the face and form of Ole would have looked as natural and lifelike as at the moment of the fisherman's death.

Five years ago this young Norwegian, Sjostron, disappeared from Baranoff station. Nobody knew what became of him, and finally people ceased to wonder. A few weeks ago the body was found completely imbedded in the ice and so thoroughly preserved that not even the slightest indication of change had set in.

The barkentine City of Papette arrived from Baranoff, and the news of this remarkable discovery was brought by her first mate, Knute Petersen.

"Five years in the ice," said Petersen, "has not made a bit of difference in his appearance. When they found him he looked as though asleep, but sure enough he was cold in death—even more so than the ordinary dead man. They suppose that he lay down on the glacier while intoxicated and fell asleep and that after he had frozen to death the ice formed over him."

Strange as this story may seem, the incident is not strange to those who know the arctic ice fields. Bodies of the mammoth, the Elephas primigenus of an ancient epoch, have been found similarly imbedded in the ice and so well refrigerated that after a lapse of time which is regarded as not less than 20,000 years, possibly a very modest estimate, even the flesh of the animal was all there.

The sailor's information about the finding of Sjostron's body is meager, but it is presumable that instead of being caught and imprisoned in the glacial ice the fisherman died on the soft soil of the tundra and that his body became covered up and frozen with it.

Alexander Torsen, formerly third mate of the City of Papette, disappeared at Baranoff early this year, and his old associates think that he, like Sjostrom, met death on a glacier and that his body is held unchanged and unchanging in the ice, probably to astonish discoverers in some far later century.—San Francisco Cor. Chicago American.

Lipton Must Give Place.

Sir Thomas Lipton has unquestionably found an enormous advertisement in challenges for the America's cup and in his frequent statements that he means to try again. There are those, chiefly on the other side, who believe that there has been more of the advertiser than the sportsman in his whole cup campaign, and of late there have been indications of a feeling among British yachtsmen that it is time for him to stand aside and let others try. It is also intimated that Sir Thomas will find it difficult to induce a first rate designer to take up another challenger for him. It is made tolerably plain that others who would like to challenge will do nothing while he is in the field, and it is possible that he will have almost prohibitive difficulty in obtaining a club through which to challenge if he persists in the face of the feeling which exists.—Hartford Times.

CHIEF REPLIES TO "CITIZEN"

Explain s Circumstances in Connection with Case Cited.

The Chief of Police, replying to the letter in last night's issue of the Examiner, signed by "Citizen," to which he takes exception, states that the man referred to in "Citizen's" letter, came to the police station, and asked to be taken in for the night, and he was taken in and registered as a lodger, not as a vagrant. He told the police that he had a job to which he was going, and asked to be allowed to go in time to commence work, which request was complied with by the officers.

The Chief is of the opinion that the police know their business, and resents the statements made by "Citizen."

HOCKEY PROSPECTS IN PETERBOROUGH.

Annual Meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club Held Last Night, When it was Decided to Again Enter the O. H. A.—Officers Elected for the Year—Mr. Hollinghead Again President—Team This Year Will be Almost Equal to That of Any Previous Season—The T. A. S. and Peterboroughs Join Hands—The Delegates to The Annual Meeting of The O. H. A.—A Very Successful Meeting.

The winter season of 1904-5 will again see hockey in Peterborough. This was decided last night at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club, which was held in the Oriental Hotel parlours, which were filled with a large and enthusiastic crowd of players and lovers of the national winter game.

The prospects for hockey during the coming season, judging from the enthusiasm shown at the meeting last night, are certainly bright, a pleasant contrast to the feeling which had taken possession of the enthusiasts prior to a few days ago, and the feeling now is, and it is substantiated by evidences which are considered reliable, that the team to represent Peterborough in the hockey arena, will be almost, if not quite, as good as that of last season, and which, according to the testimony of even the opponents of Peterborough's team, was the best in the Intermediate series of the O. H. A., and which the team itself demonstrated in games with senior teams, was equal to, if not superior to any team in the Association in whatever series.

W. F. CROWLEY C. G. GRAHAM
Two Delegates to Annual Meeting of the O.H.A., Representing the Peterborough Hockey Club.

An Amalgation.

It is understood that this season the T. A. S. team will not enter the Trent Valley League, and last night two members of last year's T. A. S. team were elected to offices in the Peterborough Club, and it is believed that this season the two senior teams will join hands and enter one team in the Intermediate O. H. A.

It has been felt that with the losses that the team has sustained through the removal from town of a number of their players, the team this season would be in a crippled condition, but events that have transpired since have changed the face of things considerably and where a few days ago there was pessimism among the supporters of the team, to-day they are feeling elated over the prospects, as a result of the meeting last night.

An Enthusiastic Meeting.

The meeting was attended by about thirty-five players and supporters of the team, and the enthusiasm shown augurs well for the success of the team in the coming season.

Mr. A. A. Hollingshead, the president, was chairman of the meeting, and in the absence of Mr. R. M. Glover, the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. C. G. Graham, the assistant secretary, filled the office of secretary, and presented the report of that officer, which was a financial statement of the past season, and showed that after the expenses had been paid a credit balance was in the treasury. A detailed statement has been prepared, and the president stated that anyone interested might have access to that statement, but that it was too lengthy for presentation at the meeting. A report from the auditors also accompanied the Secretary's report, both of which were, on motion of Messrs. Clarke and Hall, adopted.

The New Officers.

The next matter for business was the election of officers for the year, the result being as follows:—

Patrons and Patronesses—Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. H. LeBrun, and Mr. and Mrs. John Crane.

Hon. President—Mr. R. M. Glover.

President—Mr. A. A. Hollinghead.

1st Vice-President—Mr. W. Crowley.

2nd Vice-President—Mr. E. Wasson.

Secretary-Treasurer —Mr. C. G. Graham.

Chaplain—Rev. W. Major.

Members of the Executive—Messrs. F. A. Clarke, George Lynch, Dr. Wightman, W. Cavanah, J. J. McCabe, with the officers elected.

The auditors of last year, Messrs. Green and R. P. Watt, were re-elected.

The delegates to the annual meeting of the O.H.A. will be Messrs. W. Crowley and C. G. Graham, who will go unfettered, both in the matter of the policy to be adopted by the Association, and the election of the officers.

To Interview the Rink Managements.

A motion made by Mr. Harry Morgan and seconded by Mr. Lynch and passed by the meeting provided that a committee composed of the President, the secretary and Mr. Clarke be appointed to interview the managements of both the Brock street and the Charlotte street rinks, with a view of finding out upon what terms they would give the Hockey Club the privileges of the rink. This committee was instructed to report to the Executive a week from last night.

The City League.

A lengthy discussion took place over the proposal to form a City League. The general impression being among those who spoke that while it would be a good means of developing the younger players, it might complicate matters in the way of securing practise hours at the rink, and it was also stated that the senior team might want to draft players from the City League, but this would be impossible unless the City League were affiliated with the Peterborough Hockey Club, since the rules of the O. H. A. provide that no players in that Association shall have played during the same season in any other league or association. No definite action was taken on this matter, however, and it will be left with the Executive to deal with in whatever way that may suggest itself to them as being in the interest of the Club.

Votes of thanks were moved to Mr. Graham for the use of his parlours, the caretakers of the rink, the retiring Secretary and the Press, after which the meeting adjourned.

Splendid Prospects.

Mr. Hollingshead, in opening the meeting addressed a few remarks concerning the record of the team last season, which, he said, was the best team in the Association, and he was decidedly optimistic regarding the prospects for the game in town this season. Mr. Hollingshead stated that he believed there was material in town for a team which would be every bit as good as that which represented the town with such credit last year. He recalled the year when, at the beginning of the season when the team entered the senior series, it was ridiculed by other teams, but it went through the season with a splendid record, defeating a number of teams which had considered themselves, and which had been considered by others as far superior to the Peterborough aggregation, and it was only by an accident that the senior championship that year did not rest in Peterborough.

He saw no reraason why a winning team could not be put on the ice this year, and the enthusiasm evidenced by those at the meeting, was, he thought, a good sign that the game had not lost its hold upon the people, and that it was, if anything, more popular than ever.

WILL O. H. A. ACCEPT ALL AMATEUR PLAYERS?

An Interesting Question to Peterboro' at the Present Time.

The Toronto Star yesterday had an article which should prove of interest to Peterborough at this particular time, when there is a proposal made to organize a City League. The Star says:—

It is surprising the growth of hockey in the towns and cities during the last few years. In every centre of business the game is flourishing to an unprecedented extent. Shop leagues, financial leagues, manufacturing leagues, church leagues, and bank leagues are as numerous in the wintertime as baseball and lacrosse teams in the summer. The vast ary of hockeyists that play in these organizations are debarred from the O.H.A. by virtue of a rule which was designed to meet conditions existing some years ago. The O. H. A. is for the encouragement of amateur hockey throughout the Province, and there should be no limitations to its scope. An amendment will be introduced at the forthcoming annual meeting of the association to remedy this state of affairs, and it should meet with the approval of all the delegates. No amateur player in an O. H. A. town should be barred from playing in an O. H. A. match.

HOCKEY.

Things look better after last night's meeting.

Plenty of material in town yet for a winning septette.

Peterborough simply can't exist without a hockey team.

* * *

Lindsay is already beginning to tremble.

* * *

The boys are very enthusiastic over the game. There will be some tall hustling to catch a place on the team.

* * *

With players such as Morgan, Graham, Cavanah, Glover, Wasson, Lynch, Crowley, Parker, Parnell and other fast ones in the game, we should have a pretty speedy septette.

* * *

Last year's team is badly shattered but there are others.

* * *

Last night's meeting was most enthusiastic.

* * *

It is probable that during the Christmas week or shortly after Queens and Varsity teams will be here to play the locals.

* * *

The Lindsay papers have been laughing up their sleeve at the apparent prospects for no hockey team in Peterborough this winter. But just wait. In a couple of months we'll send a team up to Bougovville which will just about knock the everlasting tar out of that bunch of world-beaters in Lindsay. That is, of course, not including what our press team will do.

* * *

The Toronto Telegram says:—As a matter of fact, the professional league looks likely to be an influence for good. It will act as a safety valve, carrying off that element that must have the money. That the great majority of hockey players in western Ontario play the game for the love of it, everybody believes. The professional league will carry off the balance. And the beauty of it is, that once they go they are gone for good, so far as Ontario hockey is concerned.

* * *

The Toronto News says:—The Canadoo will spare nothing to get together a good team for the professional Hockey League this winter, and when the gentleman who will manage that club was over here last week he saw many of the Canadian players about signing contracts to play with his club. He was successful in securing Schaffer, who played last season with Barrie, and it is more than likely that Whitcroft and Corbett will go to the Soo. Brown and Taylor, of Brantford, were also seen, and they would not give any decided answer, until they saw what steps were taken by the O.H.A. with regard to their playing in the Association games this winter. If they are professionalized, it is more than likely that this pair will be at the Soo. This is the information handed out by Mr. Mooney, who was looking after players. He would like to have come to some arrangement with Hugh Lambe, of last year's St. George's, but that gentleman was not anxious to play professional hockey, and was not seen by the Soo representative. The club is corresponding with players in the Canadian Hockey League as well as the West.

RUGBY.

The Torontos expected to make a much better showing in Hamilton last Saturday than was the case in last week's game.

* * *

In the five games played by the locals this season the team scored 89 points as against 73 of their opponents. The team outclassed the Argonauts in the two games by 36 to 12 while in the three games with the Torontos the total score was 46-45 in favour of the Queen City team.

—To-night the new T.A.S. Hall in Ennismore will be opened. It is likely that there will be a large attendance from Peterborough.

EKO CAMP "AT HOME" VERY ENJOYABLE

About 50 Couple Spent a Delightful Evening.

Eko Camp gave a most delightful at home last evening, in the Foresters Hall. There were about sixty couple present, who "tripped the light fantastic" for several hours, and most heartily was the occasion enjoyed. The young men of the club proved to be excellent hosts and everyone appreciated the pleasure afforded to the fullest extent. The hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion and presented a brilliant spectacle.

The music for the dancing was supplied by the Misses Dorris, in their customary very acceptable manner, and added much to the success of the affair.

The committee who had the arrangements in charge are to be congratulated upon the very successful issue of the affair.

That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones, call around and see us.

THE GREAT LIBERAL CONVENTION CLOSES

Temperance Plank Adopted Removes Local Option Obstacles

A Policy by and for the People—No More Licenses for Unorganized Ontario, and no New Ones in Older Municipalities Except on Petition of Half the Ratepayers—Resolutions on Colonization and Labour and Public Utilities—Establishment of Department of Colonization—Central Association to be Re-organized—Closing Scenes of the Great Convention.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—The great Parliament of the Liberal party of Ontario, called to form a policy by the people and for the people, concluded its labors shortly before 6 o'clock yesterday, and passes into history as a splendid gathering for the promotion of the political and social welfare of the Province. Conceived in the conviction that there was yet a work for the party of reform to accomplish, the result shows that the fires kindled by Mackenzie, Baldwin and Brown have never died, but that they are burning in every Liberal breast with an intensity which regards electoral wrongdoing as a matter for shame, and makes the best interests of the sovereign democratic people the first, last and constant object of the party.

A Radical Platform.

The platform as it goes to the people may even be called radical. It is the fruit of years of keen observation by scores of public men and publicists, and embodies the latest ideas for the protection of the people against the encroachments of grasping corporations and the sinister influence of unsavory political workers. It voices the desire for a forward policy on temperance. That it was a great representative body of thinking, earnest men was shown by the sustained interest and full attendance to the very last, and by the excellent order with which arguments contrary to the views of hundreds of delegates were received.

As had been expected, the temperance resolution created the greatest interest and caused the longest discussion. It was not until the afternoon that the Resolutions Committee were prepared to report, therefore most of the morning session was devoted to speeches by representative Liberals from various sections of the Province. The eloquence and brilliancy of many of these addresses kept the convention in a state of high enthusiasm, and revealed unfamiliar forces in the great cause of Liberalism in the Province.

The Great Problem.

When the temperance resolution was presented by Mr. Robert Holmes, ex-M.P., parts of it were at once received with mingled feelings, which showed the extreme difficulty which surrounded the whole question. A section of delegates representing in the main eastern Ontario gave voice to their opposition to the clause calling for a general compulsory vote on local option in January, 1906, and speaker after speaker rose and declared the impossibility of carrying their ridings with such a plank. In the meantime the great majority of the delegates had shown their ardent desire for some advanced step, and the problem was how to reconcile the two views. The Chairman, Lieut.-Col. Thompson, handled a difficult body in an electrified atmosphere with a skill, courage and decision that marked him unquestionably as the man for the position, and to his work may in no small measure be ascribed the harmonious issue. The result of the three and a quarter hours' discussion on the temperance resolution was the passing of the report with the clause referred to struck out.

The Temperance Reform.

As it stands it affirms the efficacy of the principle of local option, and calls for a vote in any municipality on a request from twenty-five per cent. of the ratepayers, without reference to the municipal Council, with further alternatives of Government control of the sale and restrictions to the existing law; that no new licenses be granted in unorganized new Ontario for all time to come; that no new licenses shall be granted in licensed municipalities except on petition of fifty per cent. of the municipal electors, and the forfeiture of a license after two convictions. As Mr. Graham happily expressed it, the stumbling-block to local option is removed.

Premier Ross accepted the policy in a frankly-worded address, and in general terms he declared that the spirit of progress had been embodied in every plank of the platform. He said that the election would come soon, and thought the platform would electrify the people of the Province.

A Policy For the People.

Three other resolutions of the day gave him every reason to speak hopefully of the party's prospects. The plan of reorganization adopted before final adjournment provides for an entirely reconstituted central association, of which the President of every riding association will be a member, with an additional twenty-five men to be named. Another resolution calls for greater facility for the repurchase of public utilities by municipalities, and for the limitation of all public franchises granted by municipalities, while a third requests the appointment of a Minister of Colonization and Labor, for whom valuable work will be found in connection with the development of our northern districts, and in adjusting the disputes which inevitably arise in connection with industry.

Conventions Wanted Oftener.

The convention separated in the spirit of harmony and enthusiasm for the progressive platform upon which they would shortly appeal to the people. It was so great a success, and settled in the main so satisfactorily questions which had vexed the party for years, that the general feeling was that conventions should be held by the party every few years in the future.

TEXT OF THE RESOLUTIONS.

Recommends Appointment of Minister of Colonization and Labor.

Lieut.-Col. Munro and Major White of Woodstock, moved this resolution, without comment, and it was carried unanimously: "That in the development of New Ontario it is of primary importance that active measures should be adopted for the settlement of its agricultural lands by judicious selection of the best class of immigrants from the old world, and by directing from the older counties of the Province those who might otherwise settle in other Provinces or in the United States; and as all movements of population either within the Province or from abroad to the Province, unless carefully controlled, may injuriously affect the laboring classes, and disturb the balance between the supply and demand for labor, skilled or unskilled, this convention would recommend the appointment of a Minister to be known as a Minister of Colonization and Labor, to whose department should be attached the immigration and colonization branches of the Government, and also the Bureau of Labor, factory inspection, and any other branches of a kindred character that may hereafter be established."

Public Ownership Resolution.

Moved by J. McD. Mowat, Kingston, seconded by George A. Aylesworth, Lennox:

"That it has been the policy of the Legislative Assembly under the direction of the Liberal party to give the greatest liberty consistent with safety to municipalities in regard to all matters of a local or municipal character.

"That for over half a century the municipalities of Ontario have had the right of ownership in toll roads and bridges constructed for the use of the municipalities, and during recent years, under Liberal legislation, a similar right has been conferred with regard to such public utilities as water, heat, gas, electric light and power, telephone, street railways, public parks, libraries, etc.

"That where these utilities were in the hands of private companies or corporations power was given to municipalities to take them over and operate them for the municipalities and the ratepayers.

"That in 1902 provision was made whereby any municipality, either by itself or in union with other municipalities, could lease or own franchises of waterpowers for generating and transmitting electricity, and a committee of several municipalities is now considering how this power may best be exercised in connection with the generation of electricity in Western Ontario in connection with Niagara Falls.

"That the Government obtained authority from the Legislative Assembly to construct at the expense of the public treasury the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway for the purpose of opening up the northern districts of the Province, which railway is now owned by the Province.

"That this convention, while approving of the legislation so adopted, desires to express the opinion that any difficulty which experience has shown to stand in the way of ownership by municipalities of any franchise which a majority of the qualified ratepayers in that behalf declare to be in the public interest should be removed (due regard being had to the private interests involved), and that all franchises for any public service of any kind whatsoever hereafter granted by a municipality shall be limited to a period not exceeding 30 years, with the right of purchase at any time within that period on such equitable terms as a properly constituted Board of Arbitrators might determine.

Charters For Big Cities.

"Frequent demands having been made in the past by the City of Toronto for a special charter, and the Government having intimated during the past two sessions its willingness to grant a special charter to the City of Toronto, this convention approves of this action and of a similar course in the case of any city where geographical conditions or other circumstances would warrant the same."

The resolution was carried.

Liberal Temperance Platform.

The following is the temperance resolution adopted by the Liberal convention:

That this convention desires to place on record its unqualified conviction that intemperance is an evil with which there should be no compromise; that the temperance sentiment of the community, as evidenced by votes taken from time to time, has shown that the people are prepared for advanced legislation. And without reciting numerous amendments to the License Act, on which there should be no difference of opinion, this convention declares that any legislation which affords a well-grounded hope of being effective in curtailing and restraining the treating habit, in reducing the consumption of intoxicating liquors, in closing drinking resorts, and in preventing the sale of liquors on Sundays and during prohibited hours, and the most vigorous enforcement of the license law in every particular would meet with its approval, as in the interests of public morals, the domestic comfort and the material wealth of the people of Ontario.

That this convention further believes that the power given to municipalities to close bars and shops under what is known as local option, if generally exercised, would greatly tend to remove the evils of intemperance, and this convention would approve of legislation whereby the vote of a municipality must be taken under local option on the petition of 25 per cent. of the ratepayers without reference to the municipal council, and, further, that in case of submission under the local option system there be provision made for offering the alternative of Government control or for the acceptance by the people of restrictions such as, further shortening of hours, reduction of licenses, or Government control of business now carried on under shop licenses or otherwise.

That no new licenses should be issued in unorganized New Ontario for all time to come. The Government should take charge of the necessary sales for medicinal purposes, etc. In granting land for hotel sites it should be stipulated that no liquor is to be sold in them.

That no new licenses shall be granted in licensed municipalities, except on a petition of 50 per cent. of the municipal electors of the polling subdivision where it is desired.

That any license-holder convicted of violating the law twice shall hereby forfeit his license.

Premier Closes Convention.

Hon. Mr. Ross closed the convention with a short speech.

A resolution introduced by Messrs. Flynn and Evans congratulating Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his recent victory was passed.

New Liberal Organization.

D. J. McDougal of Ottawa, then brought forward a motion providing for the reorganization of the Ontario Liberal Association. He moved that the organization consist in future of the president of each riding association, and the members of the Provincial Cabinet, with power to add 25 members to their number, and that as temporary executive be appointed to consist of H. M. Mowat, K.C. (convener), W. S. Calvert, C. M. Bowman, Hon. G. P. Graham, Col. Thompson and the mover.

The motion carried without debate.

Votes of thanks and the usual cheers then brought the convention to a close.

THE PREMIER'S TRIBUTE

Hon. G. W. Ross, Premier of Ontario, in addressing the great convention in Toronto on Wednesday said:—"The Provincial Secretary, who has been so much maligned—(applause)—need not ask any compliment from me or from anybody, friend or foe, for the faithful manner in which he has discharged his duties. (Applause.) Had he been the scoundrel—and I want to use the word applied to him by the Opposition press—had he been the scoundrel he is said to be, how could he have spent a million dollars a year in the five years he has been in office and be able to-day to challenge his opponents to show that a single dollar of that has been spent dishonestly? For business ability, for close attention to his duties, for faithful service to his country, instead of being maligned by the press he should have been exalted to one of the most eminent positions which a public man can be called upon to fill. (Applause.) I predict that he will yet be exalted to some such position. (Hear, hear.) He deserves it."

PARTY UNITED AND DETERMINED

Mr. F. D. Kerr on The Recent Great Convention.

Delegates Cheer Hon. Mr. Stratton—The Affectionate Regard for the Premier.

Mr. F. D. Kerr, of be firm of Denistoun, Peck, Kerr and Stevenson, who was the representative from West Peterborough, on the Committee on Resolutions, at the great Liberal convention at Toronto on Wednesday and Thursday, returned to town last night and was interviewed by the Examiner to-day on his impression of the gathering. Mr. Kerr was found in his office, and though busy as usual, gave the Examiner a few minutes to tell a few of the outstanding facts referring to the convention. He said that he was strongly impressed with the interest in as well as the intelligence of the convention. It represented the best thought of the great Liberal party of the province, and its strong feature was the enthusiastic, almost affectionate regard for the Premier, Hon. Geo. W. Ross, who was accorded a magnificent reception on the occasion of his speech on Wednesday night. The whole gathering as one man rose and cheered and it showed conclusively that he had never possessed the confidence of the party to a greater degree than at the present time.

Another prominent feature which impressed Mr. Kerr was the grand reception that was given to Hon. Mr. Stratton. He was repeatedly called upon by the audience for a speech and when he responded to the demands on Wednesday night his rising was received with thunderous applause, and his speech is characterized by Mr. Kerr as having been magnificent. The net result of the convention according to Mr. Kerr will be that the party will go into the approaching contest with a greater determination and unbounded confidence in their leaders and the result.

The new Ministers won their spurs at the convention, and were warmly received.

No resolutions were crowded down the throats of the delegates, all of whom were allowed free expression and were unfettered. The delegates came away from the convention highly satisfied with the result, and with a more fixed determination than ever to enter the contest with enthusiasm and confidence.

Delight Your Friends.

If you want to be kindly thought of by your friends at a distance, leave your order at the Peterborough Bookstore for some of the beautifully illustrated Christmas papers,—Holly Leaves, London News, The Graphic, Pears Pictorial, The Globe, etc. Last year many were disappointed in not getting copies of the highly prised "Annuals"—Boys' Own, Girls' Own, Leisure Hours, Sunday at Home. Place your order here, and at once, for what you want this year. A. H. Stratton & Co.

Miss Nellie Holmes, treasurer of the Young Woman's Temperance Association of Buffalo, N.Y., strongly advises all suffering women to rely, as she did, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:— Your medicine is indeed an ideal woman's medicine, and by far the best I know to restore lost health and strength. I suffered misery for several years, being troubled with menorrhagia. My back ached, I had bearing-down pains and frequent headaches. I would often wake from restful sleep, and in such pain that I suffered for hours before I could go to sleep again. I dreaded the long nights as much as the weary days. I consulted two different physicians, hoping to get relief, but, finding that their medicine did not seem to cure me. I tried your Vegetable Compound on the recommendation of a friend from the East who was visiting me.

"I am glad that I followed her advice, for every ache and pain is gone, and not only this, but my general health is much improved. I have a fine appetite and have gained in flesh. My earnest advice to suffering women is to put aside all other medicines and to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—MISS NELLIE HOLMES, 540 No. Division St., Buffalo, N.Y.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

THAT "BUSINESS" CONFERENCE

The Conservatives seem to be adepts at making fine distinctions. Mr. Whitney, whose public utterances are broadside in their character, has split orthoepic hairs, describing the difference between tweedle-dum and tweedle-dee, in the shape of convention and conference. He says the Conservatives do not propose holding a convention, it is merely a conference, as if a convention were not a necessary incident dent to the holding of a conference—unless wireless telegraphy, or telepathic communication is to be the medium of conferring. We are further informed by the Mail and Empire, that "Business is the object of the conference," and in effect, that a few men can formulate plans that the faithful of the rank and have to adopt. What is the "business" these few "gentlemen of Conservative leanings," will transact? Will it be the raising of a corruption fund, as was done at the last general elections, to secure purity of elections? The Mail hints that the heavy "business" of the conference will be the "solution of the ballot box problem." The Conservative party solved the problem of the ballot box, when they originated, and put into operation, the spoiling of Grit ballots by means of a fragment of lead pencil fastened with wax under the finger nail of the deputy returning officer. But perhaps that way was only effective when that noble party of purists "had the printing of the ballots." Now, perhaps, some other method of "solving the ballot box problem" demands the attention of the "business" conference of the Conservative machine managers.

The conference seems to have no "business" with devising a policy upon which to base an appeal to the people—the old policy, "we want office," is so well known and covers the ground so completely, that it is not worth while interrupting the various "businesses" of the conference to trifle with so small a matter as the formulation of a policy.

A STRIKING CONTRAST.

There's a striking contrast between the attitude of the Liberal party and the Conservative party, respectively, in relation to the destruction of electoral corruption. The Conservative leader, Mr. Whitney, and his followers—who follow him in the matter with a suspiciously energetic zeal—while vigorously denouncing corrupt methods direct their denunciation solely to their political opponents, thereby inferentially asserting that there is no political corruption committed by or in the interests of the Conservative party. In taking this attitude they ignore the fact that the practical forms of electoral corruption which have become too deplorably prevalent, were originated, copyrighted and persistently practiced by the Conservative party, a party which has not repented, but, on the contrary, claims to be ranked as pure as the driven snow and especially commissioned to purify the body politic. Repentance is the first condition of forgiveness for a sinner—not a brazen assumption of self-righteousness and defiant "not as other men" attitude. Conservative sincerity in regard to purifying electoral methods could be more respectfully regarded if the known sinfulness of that party in this respect were not repudiated and ignored and a sort of stop-thief solicitude shown for denouncing and convicting their political opponents.

In striking contrast with this hypocritical attitude is the stand taken by the Liberals at the great convention in Toronto upon this subject. (Perhaps this could not be better shown than by using the words of the Globe in an article on the convention:—

"Equally emphatic and significant is the attitude of the convention on the question of political morality. In the very serious temper of the meeting, in the straight-from words of repudiation and condemnation directed against corruption both without and within the Liberal ranks, and in the action approved for the better management of election campaigns, there were made manifest the true heart and real spirit of the Liberal party. No man can say that the resolution adopted was a mere formal or insincere declaration. It has in it the profoundest sentiment and the most resolute determination of those thousands of men. In the discussion of it scarcely one false note was struck. The misdeeds of the Opposition, many and discreditable beyond compare though they be, were plainly of less concern to the Liberal delegates struck. The misdeeds of the Opposition who name and call themselves Liberals. In that frankness of self-criticism and honesty of resolve is the hope of the party, both as a political organization and a force making for the good of Canada."

HOW OTHER WINTERS BEGAN

Last Year at This Time There was Sleighing.

Mr. Walter Peters, the local representative of the Dominion Weather Bureau, furnishes the following interesting information regarding the beginnings of our winters for the past eight years:

As the season is getting advanced, the prospects of soon hearing the jingle of the "merry sleigh bells" are becoming brighter.

Last year the ground was covered with snow on October 26th. This snow, however, only lasted a few days. On Nov. 19th there was a fall of about three inches, and Mr. Sam Jordan, the florist, had the honour of being the first to bring out his sleigh. More snow fell, and by the 23rd cutters and sleighs were out in large numbers. The snow remained, but sleighing was not good until Dec. 9th, when sufficient had fallen to make good slipping. The sleighing then continued good until spring.

In 1902, the first snow fell on Nov. 23rd,; on the 26th sufficient fell to make good sleighing, but it did not last. After Dec. 8th, the sleighing was considered good.

In 1901, we had sleighing beginning on Nov. 29th, and lasting for about a week. During December the sleighing was poor.

On Nov. 13th, 1900, about five inches of snow fell, and cutters were out in large numbers. By the way, on Nov. 16th that year we had it 2 degrees below zero, an unusually early date, but, although the winter appeared to set in early, and we had some cold dips, the snowfall was light, and sleighing consequently poor.

In 1899, sleighing began Dec. 15th. In 1898 cutters and sleighs were out on Nov. 11th, and sleighing remained fair the rest of the month. A big snow storm with a northeasterly gale, completely tied up the street railway on Dec. 5th, about 14 inches falling on the level.

In the year 1897, sleighing began Dec. 20th; and in the previous winter not until Jan. 23rd.

KIND WORDS FOR RETIRING MINISTER

Press Opinions and Tributes of Esteem for Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Warm Appreciation of His Administrative and Representative Record.

Hon. Mr. Stratton's retirement from the portfolio of Provincial Secretary has brought forth a liberal display of kindly feeling and generous appreciation by the press of the province, and it is not mere vanity that suggests their reproduction but an aim to show that faithful public service is appreciated:

(From the Peterborough Review.)

The daily papers of to-day print the formal resignation of Hon. Mr. Stratton as Provincial Secretary, and also his expressed intention not to be a candidate for election at the approaching Provincial contest. It is understood that the resignation was prepared and tendered to Premier Ross over a month ago and at the same time placed in the hands of the President of the local Reform Association, Mr. Peter Hamilton. For reasons not assigned these documents were held over, and are now made public. Mr. Stratton accompanies his letter of withdrawal with a general review of the work done by him, in connection with the duties of his portfolio, and points out what he believes to have been accomplished in administrative work.

Hon. Mr. Stratton has represented this riding continually since his first election in 1886, and for the last five years has been Provincial Secretary. He has been prominently before the people of the Province during his term of office, and while a member of the Ministry. That he is popular with the fellow Ministers is evident, that the gifts and the energies which he brought to their use and assistance were welcomed and utilized cannot be denied. No one will question his administrative capacity in the government of his department. That is generally recognized and was to be expected. The ability to engage and direct in such matters would not be less manifest than in larger things. The larger part of what Mr. Stratton points out may be freely accepted as fact. The Province has no quarrel with the retiring Minister on the score of departmental laxness or incapacity. Quite the reverse is the case.

Hon. Mr. Stratton's large popularity was, and is, due to his personal qualifications as a man. Everyone recognizes (apart from political considerations altogether) his geniality, helpfulness, tact, breadth of view, and approachability. He is a staunch friend to his friends, a helper to those entitled to help, a master of policy, combined with large common sense and correct perception of public opinion. He has made an able representative for this riding, and is not responsible for the things said at his door, the most wrongly abused man in the Province to-day.

Rightly or wrongly public opinion is fixed in the belief that his introduction into the Cabinet inaugurated a state of affairs that has culminated in the position now reached by the Ross Government. In the effort to stay the hand of the electorate from dropping the axe, methods were set afoot and used that have worked its downfall. If Hon. Mr. Stratton is pilloried as the author and finisher of these works, and if he be wrongly accused, his fellow Ministers were content to profit thereby, when profit could be found. To his great credit be it said, and this a spirit that men applaud, he has refused to shift the blame from his own shoulders and his colleagues have been too weak-kneed to assume even a share of the blame. Men respect a fighting man, no matter on which side he fights, and that the Ross Government is falling to-day, is not due to any reluctance on the part of the Provincial Secretary to hold up his end, and do more than his share of the work.

Hon. Mr. Stratton states that he retires to devote his time and energies to business, but certain political rewards are due to those who have borne the burden and heat of the strife. It is not now probable that the Ross Government can, at this juncture, dispense gifts, but there are others, and Hon. Mr. Stratton's friends and this section generally will no doubt be prepared to hear that his services will be recognized in the near future.

(Walkerton Telescope, Nov., 17.)

The dinner given by Hon. Mr. Stratton last night in the Speaker's Chambers in the Parliament Buildings was a most enjoyable affair, and the testimonial of esteem presented to the Provincial Secretary was as well deserved as were the kind words Hon. Mr. Ross said of his colleague. Against Mr. Stratton the Conservative machine, and the more unprincipled organs, have conducted a bitter campaign of personal abuse. No scruples have been allowed to stand in the way of befouling his reputation; they have hesitated at no falsehood in the attempt to make better worse and right wrong in their war of vilification. The Gamey job was but the culmination of a long course of detraction, and the elaborateness of the plot as disclosed in the investigation shows how important to the Conservative party the conspirators against a good man's name and honour regarded the destruction of Mr. Stratton. The plot failed, and the miserable tools employed are now an encumberance on the party, but the Conservative press still continues to extract capital from the infamy—a result which the good sense of the people of Ontario will prevent.

The Conservative press pretended to look for Mr. Stratton announcing his retirement last night, and some of its duped readers actually believed it. Instead of that, we had the Premier paying well-deserved compliments to the Provincial Secretary, whose ministerial career has been marked by great success, and against whose management of the office not a single charge has ever been successfully made. Mr. Stratton gave no intimation that he intended to retire from public life; Mr. Ross said it was not his wish that Mr. Stratton should retire. This may be disappointing to the Conservatives, but it is good for Ontario. Often a great many sticks and stones are found under certain apple trees, but that is not an evidence that they bear poor fruit and should be cut down. The bitter war conducted against Mr. Stratton is a tribute to his worth. The policy of the Conservative machine has been to make a concerted attack on one Minister at a time in the hope of deceiving the unwary into the belief that he is unworthy. If the war had not been made on Mr. Stratton another would have been the target for attack.

Conflagration Caused by Naval Gun Shelling.

THE FALL OF PORT ARTHUR

Information Sent to the Czar By Gen. Stoessel That It Is Inevitable—The Garrison Is Being Starved Out—Forts Held By Japs Contain Two That Are Permanent.

Tokio, Nov. 25.—Telegraphing yesterday, the headquarters of the army before Port Arthur reports: "The conflagration in the buildings near the arsenal caused by our naval guns, which, as reported yesterday, began about noon, Nov. 22, continued until 2 o'clock on the morning of Nov. 23. It is probable that the coal stores have been burned."

Port Arthur's Fall Inevitable.

London, Nov. 25.—The correspondent at Moscow of The Daily Telegraph claims authority for the statement that Gen. Stoessel's despatch sent by the torpedo boat Hastoropny informed Emperor Nicholas that the Port Arthur garrison was being starved out, with other frank details of its actual condition, showing that the fall of the fortress is inevitable.

Japs Hold Two Forts.

Headquarters of the Third Japanese Army, before Port Arthur, Nov. 14, via Fusan, Nov. 25.—The only permanent forts in the possession of the Japanese are the two Panlun forts captured in August. They hold the advance works of the Rihling redoubt, called Fort Kuropatkin, an entrenched hill, miscalled P Fort, Kobu Hill, Sachitakiyama and One Hundred and Seventy-four Metre Hill. They also occupy the Caponiere galleries and the moats of the two Rihling Forts and North Keekwan Fort.

Bumped By the Russians.

St. John, N. B., Nov. 25.—The Donaldson Line steamer Alcides, which arrived yesterday from Glasgow, brings word that another Donaldson Liner, the Indrani, was bumped by one of the Russian Baltic fleet in the harbor of Havre just after the outrage of firing on the Hull fishing fleet off the Dogger Bank.

Chinese Bandits Lose.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 25—(2.05 a.m.)—Unofficial advices only bring affairs at the front up to Nov. 23 and the absence of official news of later date, either from the Japanese or the Russian side, arouses the belief that more important operations than heretofore may be progressing. Reports from correspondents at the front indicate renewed skirmishing, culminating the night of Nov. 22 in a fresh attack on Pentilof (Lone Tree) Hill, in which the Japanese were repulsed with heavy loss and also a severe fight with Chinese bandits near Kaisan, in which 200 Chinese were reported killed.

BROWNING OF FOUR MEN.

Crowded Into One Small Boat They Went Down in the St. Clair.

Sarnia, Nov. 25.—The St. Clair River claimed four more victims yesterday morning as a result of the reckless bravado of a party of young men in crossing in a rowboat when a high sea was running.

At about 5 o'clock a party of young men roused Waterman William Briggs of Port Huron, who makes a business of ferrying belated parties across the St. Clair River, and asked to be ferried over to the Sarnia side.

Briggs objected, but his objections were over-ruled, and the party started out. When the boat got to the landing it became necessary to turn the boat into the trough of the sea to make a landing. A moment later a wave came in and the seven men were struggling in the water. Four of the party were drowned, two managed to swim ashore and the ferryman, who stayed with the overturned boat, was picked up at a point a mile further down the river.

Those who escaped are Dan Fisher, conductor, Pere Marquette, and J. T. Dodson, engineer, Pere Marquette, and the ferryman.

Niagara Falls, Nov. 24.—Alfred Cullen, better known as "English Albert," one of the best known hotel runners on the Canadian side of the river, died last night at Niagara Falls, Ont. While the attending physician states that pneumonia was the cause of death, it is stated that his end was brought on by excessive cigarette smoking. It was nothing unusual for him to get away with "50 "coffin nails" a day. Cullen was about 35 years old.

Anarchy in Macedonia.

Washington, Nov. 24.—An official report says that a state of anarchy prevails throughout Macedonia, that public security has not been restored and that assassinations of Christians not in sympathy with the Bulgarian revolutionary movement occur daily. Greeks generally are the victims, and large numbers of them have been tortured, with the result that they have started bands across the frontier of Greece, with retaliation in their purpose.

STORY IS TO BE TOLD

Of the Manufacture of Twenty Trick Ballot Boxes.

THE WORK DONE AT NIGHT

Manufacturer At Watertown, N.Y., Will, of His Own Motion, Come to Canada to Testify As to His Connection With the Scheme—Price Paid For the 20 Was $300.

Watertown, N.Y., Nov. 25.—This community is all agog over the ballot box scandal that is now the talk of Canada. The sensation is accentuated by the fact that although the boxes were made in this city at the reputed price of $50,000, but few know the makers, and the local papers have as yet been unable to ascertain their names. No request has been made to the police for the apprehension of any one connected with the case.

The bogus ballot boxes, twenty in number, were made the first week in October, the job requiring the combined efforts of three tinsmiths four nights. The work was done entirely at night, and the contract taken and work performed by the C. L. Roof & Company, tinsmiths, in the employ of E. B. Erwin, a leading hardware merchant. The work was done on overtime, and Mr. Erwin states that he had nothing to do with it, and did not share in the profits, the amount of which he refused to disclose, describing it as "enough."

The tinsmith firm consists of Claude L. Roof and Hamilton Roof. The reputed price paid for the boxes is two hundred dollars. The senior member of the firm will, it is said, go to Canada of his own motion and testify as to his connection with the scheme.

Col. A. P. Sherwood of Ottawa, of the Dominion Detective Force, has been in this city since Tuesday investigating the case. He refuses to discuss the case, and will admit nothing save that he is a detective and at work here on the ballot box scandal.

The boxes were sent by American express and crossed the border at Prescott. The shipping is said to have been in charge of F. J. Reilly of Kingston, and the boxes were designated for use in the Dominion election in three ridings, West Hastings, Frontenac and Durham. Reilly is a frequent visitor with relatives here.

North Simcoe Recount.

Increase in Immigration.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—There was an increase in immigration to Canada for the four months of the fiscal year of 1904 over the same period last year. The total from ocean ports, 29,954, and from the United States, 10,926, making a total of 40,880. For the corresponding period last year the arrivals from the United States were 13,827, and from ocean ports 24,965, making a total of 38,792. So that while there has been an increase in the total immigration there was a decrease for the United States of 2,901 souls.

Public Worship in France.

Paris, May 25.—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday voted by large majorities the details of the budget of public worship as drawn up by the Government. The feature of the debate was Premier Combes' declaration in reply to motions to suppress or reduce the budget. The Premier said he was determined to suppress and not to reform the concordat, and therefore asked Republicans to be patient and not complicate matters by partial modifications, but to await his bill for the separation of church and State.

Wayfaring Britons Found Frozen.

London, Nov. 25.—The temperature in some districts of the United Kingdom during the night, although only 25 degrees below freezing point, was the lowest ever recorded here. The distress is general and the local authorities are organizing relief works. The interruption of road communications in the country continues and the isolated villages are suffering severely. In a few it is said wayfarers have been found frozen to death in the snow.

Kruger Had Money.

London, Nov. 25.—Paul Kruger, late president of the Transvaal, left a fortune of $3,750,000. The Amsterdam correspondent of The Daily Mail telegraphs that he bequeathed $126,000 to various societies in Holland, and sums to all funds opened after the South African war. He also made bequests for the maintenance of the Dutch language.

Croup Absolutely Cured.

"There is no remedy in my opinion that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup absolutely in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face with choking. It gave him instant relief and sure." — Mr. Wm. McGee, 49 Wright avenue, Toronto, Ont.

DENOUNCED GOVERNMENT.

Leaders Speak At the Provincial Conservative Conference—Honors Equal to Mr. Whitney and Mr. Gamey.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—Fierce denunciation of the Ontario Government, a declaration by Mr. Whitney that his policy on the liquor question was the same as that he advanced in the Legislature during the discussion on the Referendum Bill, namely, strict enforcement of the License Act, and the removal of those charged with that duty from the influence of party politics, and Mr. Gamey's statement that he would make personal charges against Hon. A. G. Mackay at a meeting to be held in this city, at which he hoped the Commissioner of Crown Lands would be present, were the features of the Provincial conference yesterday in Association Hall. The Government were charged with almost every crime in the calendar. No new policy was hinted at by any of the numerous speakers, and it is not expected that the Resolutions Committee, which met at the Queen's Hotel after last night's meeting, will when the conference resumes at 10 o'clock this morning, bring forward motions suggesting any radical departures from the tenets now held. The delegates to the Liberal Convention at Massey Hall were referred to by Mr. Whitney and several other speakers as a vast army of office-holders and contractors.

The attendance at the afternoon session was large—it was said that over 1,000 outside delegates were present—and many men stood throughout.

Italians Sent to Jail.

Palmerston, Nov. 25.—A most brutal assault was made on D. McNicoll, an implement agent, yesterday by Italians who have been engaged on the new sewers here. Mr. McNicoll was badly cut and bruised about the head by a club or stone in the hands of one of them. The windows of the Albion Hotel were also badly smashed. They were finally captured by a squad of special constables, assisted by F. W. Minton, G.T.R. ticket agent, and lodged in jail.

Charged With Murder.

Brantford, Nov. 25.—James Jamieson, an Indian, was arrested in the Indian reserve near here yesterday on a charge of murder said to have been committed in Erie County, N. Y., last September. The prisoner, who is almost a giant in proportions, is in Brantford jail. It is likely he will be taken to the States to-day unless extradition proceedings are taken against him.

Married Montreal Judge.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 25.—Augustine Gauthier, a girl, charged first with infanticide, was sentenced yesterday morning by Judge Hall to three years for manslaughter. She had an infant out at nurse last spring, and left it in a wood-shed, where it froze to death. The judge only gave a light sentence because of the jury's strong recommendation for mercy.

Thought They Were Samples.

He was a typical backwoods farmer. His first visit to a city restaurant, however, had taken away none of the appetite he had at home, where everything was placed in large dishes, which the farmer cleaned up in turn. Settling back in his chair, he hailed the passing waiter.

"Hey, there, young man! your samples are all right. Bring on the rest of the stuff."—Judge.

LEGAL MARRIAGE TANGLE.

Trouble in Quebec Province Over Licenses Issued in Ontario.

The necessity for an Imperial marriage law has been illustrated by a case brought to the attention of the Ontario Provincial Secretary's Department the other day.

A young couple procured a marriage license in Ontario. This gave them authority to contract the union to which they aspired. It also authorized any properly constituted Dominion parson to celebrate it. Then they went to Montreal and had a clergyman there tie the knot.

It became necessary in a business matter to send a certificate of the marriage to England, and an attempt was made to procure the document from the Province of Quebec authorities. Those officials flatly refused to recognize the ceremony at all, declined to register it, and disputed the possibility of a marriage having occurred on the sacred soil of Lower Canada under an Ontario warrant.

The young couple heard the fact with consternation, and having stood aghast, and been torn by conflicting emotions, got busy in an effort to have the ceremony put on a sound basis. They don't know whether they are married or not. They can't prove they are married. It is against common-sense and absurd to say they are not. But the province where they were married refuses to recognize the act, and the province where they were not married has no jurisdiction, and if they go to another province and get married again; they fear being arrested for bigamy or abduction or ultra vires, or sub rosa, or some other awful crime.

The only advice the Ontario officials could give them was to consult a Quebec lawyer; the remedy of a hair of the dog that bit them. Meanwhile imperial federation seems to be not sufficiently far advanced to federate the sons and daughters of the Empire into holy matrimony. It is thought that a great many more couples may be in a similar predicament. A new issue of licenses, which are in the hands of the Government printers, have been stopped, pending some unravelment of the problem.

Distinguished Visitor.

A distinguished medical man and soldier in the person of Sir Felix Semon, London, England, Physician Extraordinary to His Majesty King Edward since 1901, was a guest in Toronto the other day. Later he left for Guelph with his son, Mr. Person Semon, who will enter the Ontario Agricultural College, there to pursue the regular course. Sir Felix is a specialist in diseases of the throat, having studied at Berlin, Vienna, Paris and London. He is now a professor to the National Hospital for Epilepsy and Paralysis, London. He is a native of Dantzic, Prussia, was a volunteer in the 2nd Uhlans, Prussian Guards, during the Franco-Prussian war, and was present at the battles of Amiens, Bapaume and St. Quentin, and at the sieges of Metz and Paris. He was awarded the Franco-Prussian war medal, and is a Knight of the Prussian Red Eagle, third-class.

HAD TO CLOSE SITTING.

Disturbances Marked Session of the Austrian Lower House Yesterday.

Vienna, Nov. 25.—Disturbances marked the session of the lower house of the Reichsrath to-day and this evening the president abruptly closed the sitting amid great excitement. The uproar commenced the Socialist member, replying to the president's strictures on language used during the last few days, said that social democrats never attacked the wearer of the crown, but would never be prevented about telling the truth about the Camarillo, who ruled Austria.

During the consequent disorder the president declared the session closed. The galleries created tremendous confusion by shouting and showing the house with slips of paper inscribed "Down with the clerical spoilers of the schools."

Early in the sitting Premier Von Koerber, defending his policy, dealt with the difficulty of reconciling the conflicting aspirations of the various parties. With reference to Innsbruck he said that practically the Italian faculty there was no longer in existance, and that neither international or other weighty considerations stood in the way of its formal suppression. He hoped the Czech representatives would abandon obstruction and for that reason he had advised the emperor to appoint a Bohemian national minister. For the rest the government could only assure those concerned that it contemplated the sacrifice of no German interests. In conclusion the premier strongly exhorted the members that energetic work for the pressing needs of the empire was the best means to heal party differences.

Canada Is Angry.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, Nov. 24.—In proposing the health of Ambassador Choate at the Thanksgiving day banquet, Sir Edward Clarke said "Why American ambassador?" The adoption of this term by the United States was like their modesty. (Laughter.) After all the United States was not so large as our Dominion in North America. It would not have occurred to him as so serious a question if he had not traveled in Canada and found his fellow subjects there grievously angered at the people of the United States arrogating to themselves a term involving dominance in the whole western hemisphere. (Laughter.)

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the city market were large, 103 car loads, composed of 1103 cattle, 2887 hogs, 2100 sheep and lambs, with about 30 calves.

Four or five loads of exporters sold from $4.50 to $4.60 per cwt. the most of which were sold by Maybee & Wilson. Export bulls sold at $3.50 to $3.75 per cwt.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Nov. 24.—About 100 head of butcher cattle, 12 calves and 200 sheep and lambs, were offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day; some of the cattle were offered on Monday and yesterday and will likely be held over until next Monday, as their owners are not willing to accept the low price offered here this week. Most of the cattle would bring over 3½c per lb., and not over a dozen of them would bring over 3c per lb., and from that down to less than 2c per lb. for common stock. The calves were all grassers, and sold at from 2c to 3½c per lb. Sheep sold at 3c to 3½c and the lambs at 4½c to 5c per lb. There were three milch cows offered, but they were rather poor looking milchers.

BEFORE GOING TO BED.

What to Do to Secure a Refreshing Night's Sleep.

We are always dining into our children's ears that in order to carry a thing through properly they must devote their whole attention to the matter in hand, and yet we do not always set a good example. We retire for the night with the object of resting our tired bodies and brains, and instead of doing the latter we make up our minds for a good thing or indulge in a quiet read. Now, a book may have a very soothing effect on some people, but it is decidedly bad for the majority and only excites the brain, so that when we finally lie down sleep refuses to come to us. There is a time for everything, and after a long trying day it is most important for our own health and for the well being of our families that we sleep well, but to do so we must retire with this object only in view. We must make up our minds not to think, never to read, but to secure that refreshing sleep which is nature's way of preparing us for whatever vexations we may have to face on the morrow. Breakfasting in bed, also, unless one is really ill, is a most unhealthy habit and should not be permitted.—Exchange.

IN THE SICKROOM.

Wear soft shoes, but those which will not shuffle.

Write down the doctor's orders so as to allow of no mistake.

Wear plain wash stuff gowns which are at least two inches above the floor.

Do not have much starch in the wearing apparel or the rustle may annoy the invalid.

Remember that a sick person is painfully aware of disorder about the room or the nurse.

In any long illness keep plenty of disinfectant around the room to render it fresh and sweet.

Keep the patient well supplied with clean bedclothing, as it is not only sanitary, but refreshing, to have clean linen.

Be careful not to betray any nervousness or fuss about drafts or medicines. Do everything in a quiet but not stealthy fashion.

The Doctor's Affidavit.

An amusing incident occurred not long ago in a certain police court. Two men were summoned for being drunk. Rising to speak on their behalf, their solicitor said: "My clients can prove that they were sober. Upon being told by the police that they would be summoned they at once went off to be examined by a doctor, and I hold in my hand a letter from him which, with your worship's permission, I will now read to the court."

Instantly the solicitor on the other side sprang to his feet and protested against the admission of such a letter as evidence. The objection was held to be a good one; but, the evidence against the men being deemed insufficient in other respects, the case was dismissed. Had the letter been admitted they would undoubtedly have been convicted, for their legal representative had simply "bluffed" the court. The letter from the doctor ran as follows: "The two defendants came to me, and I regret to say that I found that they were both very drunk."—London News.

Two Very Important Acts.

A magazine editor, seeking an increase of circulation, sent to each of his 3,500 subscribers this query: "What was the most important act of your life? Twenty pounds for the best true answer." He received more than a thousand replies, all but one relating some particular deed of which the writer was proud. The exception and prize winner was brief and to the point. "Being born," he wrote. Encouraged by the success of his scheme of advertising, the editor sent out a second query, offering a further twenty pound note for the best answer. This was the question: "Last month you stated what was the most important act of your life; now tell us what is the most important act of your life." The varieties of replies would have made several pages of rare humor, but the winner solemnly wrote, "Breathing."—London Chronicle.

LOCAL ARTIST'S GOOD VOICE

Miss Helen Davies A. T. C. M. at Dr. Ham's Recital.

The Mail and Empire Says She has a "Mezzo" Soprano Voice of Beautiful Quality and Rare Compass.

The Toronto Mail and Empire to-day reporting a recital given by the pupils of Dr. Ham, said:—"The bulk of the work fell upon Miss Helen Davies, A.T.C.M., a young lady with a very beautiful stage presence and a mezzo soprano voice of beautiful quality and rare compass. Her chief number was the noble aria, "Hear Ye, Israel," from Mendelssohn's "Elijah," in which she was accompanied by Dr. Ham at the piano and Mr. Cyril Ham at the organ. Her rendering not only displayed rare vocal skill but a sincerity of feeling that thoroughly delighted her listeners; she also sang with much grace, Schuman's "My Love is Like a Red, Red Rose"; Robert Frans's "The Dark Blue Eyes of Springtime," and other exquisite little songs."

Commenting upon the character of Dr. Ham's teaching and the effect upon the pupil the same paper says:—"Perhaps a most salient feature of last night's recital was the refinement and clarity of utterance which characterized every singer. Nicety of phrasing and a delicate appreciation of the many dainty lyrics that were sung was also a characteristic feature."

A MONUMENT TO TOTAL ABSTINENCE

Brilliant Opening Concert at the New Hall of St. Martin's T. A. S. Last Night in Ennismore—A Monument to The Services of the Work of Faithful Priests Who Have Laboured For the Cause—The New Building a Handsome Structure Designed by Local Architect—Will be Used as a Town Hall and For Parish Gatherings—A Galaxy of Priests at the Opening Event — Rev. Father McCall Chairman, and Rev. Dr. O'Brien Delivers an Address—A Splendid Programme.

The reputation for sobriety, industry and good citizenship generally, which the township of Ennismore enjoys, was emphasized last night by the highly successful event — which represents the concrete results of local total abstinence sentiment — the opening of a handsome new township hall. It is called the T. A. S. Hall, because it is largely due to this splendid organization that this hall is in existence to-day. The moral and industrial condition of the township, as referred to, is largely due to the zealous work of the parish priests, past and present, conjoined with the loyalty of their parishioners to their teaching. In later years this work has been greatly assisted and its good results confirmed by the existence of St. Martin's Total Abstinence Society, a strong and aggressive organization with a membership of between 250 and 300, a standing with which the efforts of Rev. Father Fitzpatrick are to be liberally credited, the respected and zealous parish priest of Ennismore.

The splendid new T.A.S. Hall, which was last night formally opened, is indeed a credit, not only to the township at large, but to the T. A. S. in particular. It was characterized by the speakers last night as a monument to total abstinence, and as such it is certainly one of which that cause might well be proud.

The new hall is a substantial frame structure, on stone foundation, with large basement under the whole building which is 35 by 72 feet in size, and cost to erect in the neighbourhood of $3,000, the greater portion of which has already been paid or provided for.

It is an interesting fact that the old hall, which it replaces, as a town hall, and which was built 31 years ago by the Ontario Government, and presented to the township, cost to build, $800, and it was sold last spring to Mr. J. Flood, for $720, which sum went into the township treasury. The old hall was used for 12 years as a school, in earlier years, and some of the now prominent men in the province received their early education in this building, including the Rt. Rev. Bishop Scollard.

Last spring, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, recognizing the necessity for a larger and more commodious hall, for the gatherings of the parish, and for the other public gatherings of the township, conceived the idea of erecting a building, which could be used for the double purpose of a town hall and a gathering place for the T.A.S., approached the township council with a proposition, which was accepted by that body. The council granted $1200 towards the cost of the new hall, on the condition that the council meetings should be held there free of charge. The remaining $1800 is to be contributed by the parish of St. Martin's, and this amount has been nearly all paid, only a small balance yet remaining; $700 was raised for this purpose by a picnic held last summer, and another $100 from an excursion which Father Fitzpatrick ran to Lindsay.

The architectural design of the hall is a very pleasing one, and reflects great credit on Mr. E W. Argus, of Peterborough who prepared the plans. The hall is surmounted by a tower at the front end, and at the rear a large stage extending at each side beyond the width of the main hall has been constructed, and equipped with a drop curtain, beautifully painted by Mr. Fred Cook, of Peterborough, who also did the entire painting on the building. The hall is comfortably seated, and heated, and will supply a long felt want for a large public hall, where all the gatherings of the township may be held. Mr. Samuel Young had the contract for its construction, and did the carpenter work, while the other branches of the work were done by Messrs. B. McNeilly, of Peterborough, masonry; Wm. Barby, of Peterborough, plastering; Fred Cook, Peterborough, painting; Jas. Murty, Peterborough, plumbing. The excavation for the foundation and basement was done by the members of the society who gave voluntary labour. The Building Committee, the members of which were on the platform last night were:—Messrs. Ed. Corkery, Reeve of Ennismore, Samuel Killin, Michael Purdue, D. Kennedy, W. Cavenagh; while the T.A.S. Committee was composed of Messrs. Peter Flood, M. Crough, sr., Stephen O'Reilly, D. Quinlan, Eugene Murphy, Daniel Crough, Jas. Moloney, John O'Reilly, Paul Costello and Wm. Sullivan.

A GOOD PROGRAMME.

The new hall last night was crowded to the doors, many being present from outside the bounds of the Ennismore parish, from Emily parish, Young's Point and Peterborough. Among those present from the latter place being Messrs. H. LeBrun, J. C. Sullivan, J. Lynch, R. Farr and a number of others. The chairman of the evening was Rev. Father McColl, Rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough, and on the platform in addition to those already mentioned were Rev. Fathers Fitzpatrick, Phelan, Young's Point; Bretherton, Downeyville; O'Sullivan, Victoria Road; McGuire, Hastings; Scanlan, Grafton, and Rev. Dr. O'Brien, of St. Peter's, Peterborough.

A splendid programme was given, contributed to by local talent supplemented by artists from Peterborough, who were well received. After a few opening remarks by the reverend gentleman, who congratulated the people of Ennismore upon the magnificent hall they had erected, the first number on the programme was a vocal solo rendered by Mr. Wm. Ball, in a manner which pleased the audience, who demanded an encore. This was followed by another vocal solo by Miss Gertie Moloney, one of Ennismore's rising musicians, which also was encored. Miss Theresa Guiry sang in excellent voice, "Sing Me to Sleep," after which the address of the evening was deliverted by Rev. Dr. O'Brien, of St. Peter's.

REV. DR. O'BRIEN'S ADDRESS.

The reverend doctor said that he was greatly pleased to be present at the opening of the hall, which had been erected as a monument to to total abstinence in Ennismore. The speaker then dwelt upon the great benefit of total abstinence which he said was an agency teaching man to rise in society and elevating him to a place of dignity in the world. In Ennismore there is not a single place where intoxicating liquor is sold, and this is due to the work of the valiant priests who have laboured for 25 years in support of this cause.

It is no exaggeration to say that thousands of souls perish yearly because of their indulgence in an excess of liquor. Ninety per cent. of the prisoners in our jails are there directly or indirectly through the use of intoxicants. More than one half the inmates of our asylums are there as a result of the same indulgence either by themselves or their ancestors. The speaker criticized the use of alcohol for medicines and said that any doctor who cannot alleviate pain without alcohol is more or less of a quack. He did not say that it was wrong to take one glass of liquor, but he did say that men are always better from total abstinence. The people in Ennismore have done a good work in building the hall, which was opened last night, and its opening recalled the time when the noble priests of Ennismore found the liquor sellers and forced them to leave the township. It must be a grand sight in Heaven, he thought, to see a whole township enrolled under the banner of total abstinence. The hall would always bear the title of "St. Martin's T.A.S. Hall," and he would that it might have been erected upon a hill from where the letters could be seen shining in gold by all who passed on their way, and to whom it would serve always as a reminder of their pledge.

Then this hall would serve another purpose, which, however, was a secondary one, that of bringing out the latent talent possessed by the young people of the township, and of providing a place where they may meet for social pleasures. In conclusion the reverend doctor advised all present first to take the pledge and then keep it, and closed by congratulating Father Fitzpatrick upon the crowning success of his labours, the T.A.S. upon the beautiful hall and the people of Ennismore upon the harmony and co-operation evidenced.

Mr. George Lynch, of Peterborough then favoured the audience with a humourous recitation, "Kelly's Dream," and was heartily encored. Miss Celia Twomey rendered a delightful vocal solo, and responded to an encore. A character song by Mr. J. K. Galvin with violin accompaniment by Mr. J. P. Flood and piano by Miss Ida Galvin, literally brought down the house, and was encored.

Rev. Father Bretherton, of Downeyville, followed with a short address, after which Miss Lizzie Scollard rendered a vocal solo with splendid effect.

A very pleasing number was a song and dance given by Mr. Samuel Hoolihan of Peterborough, who was very warmly received and encored. Rev. Father Phelan followed with a short address, in which he congratulated the people of the parish on the splendid and lasting monument to total abstinence and to the zeal of the pastor and people of the parish. He brought greetings from the old parishioners of Rev. Father Fitzpatrick.

A solo rendered by little Michael Fitzpatrick, a nephew of the parish priest, was thoroughly enjoyed, and the little lad had to reappear. "When the Heart is Young," was a solo splendidly sung by Miss Ida Galvin, who, in response to a demand gave an encore.

Rev. Father O'Sullivan then gave a short but humorous address. Master Frank Moloney sang a humorous song, "Imagination," rendering the number in excellent style, and was enthusiastically encored for his effort. Mr. E. W. Argus followed with a vocal solo, which was also highly appreciated.

Rev. Father McGuire, who is always a favourite with Peterborough and Ennismore audiences, then gave a short but intensely humorous address, in which, however, he gave the people some good advice and something to think of. He congratulated the parish upon the splendid hall that had been erected.

Miss Lavinia Hallihan of Peterborough, then favoured the audience with a vocal solo, which was well received and heartily applauded, and this local vocalist graciously responded with an encore.

A chorus by six young ladies, Miss Mary Crough, Celia Twomey, Fannie Scollard, Evelyn Carew, Zeta Galvin and Lottie Scollard, was the next number and was well rendered.

Mr. Samuel Hoolihan again favoured the audience with a second song and dance, after which Rev. Father Fitzpatrick addressed the audience briefly reviewing the events leading up to the erection of the hall, which was a proof of the fact that the people of the township were in favour of total abstinence. He thanked the township council for their interest in the cause, as evidenced by their treatment of the committee and the society. He hoped that for all time to come the people would live in harmony and concord, and thanked the visiting clergymen, and others, who were in the audience.

The entertainment closed with the National Anthem, after short addresses had been given by Peter Flood, president of the T.A.S., and Ed. Corkery, Reeve of the township.

The accompanists of the evening were Miss Ida Galvin, Miss Lottie Crough, Miss Gertie Moloney, Miss Lewis, Peterborough; Mrs. J. P. Flood, Mrs. E. W. Argus, Peterborough, all of whom gave good satisfaction.

Will Have but Three More Sundays in Peterborough.

Rev. J. A. Wilson, who has resigned his position as assistant pastor of St. Paul's church in town, to accept the pastorate of St. Andrew's church, Hamilton, received a telegram this morning from Hamilton to the effect that it is desired to have his ordination and induction service on Tuesday, December 13th. This date is somewhat earlier than Mr. Wilson had expected, as it had been his intention to continue his work here until the end of the year, but as the church of which he is to be the pastor, is at present without a pastor, and as he has been urgently requested to be present on the above date, he will leave Peterborough probably on Monday, December 12th, and will preach his farewell sermon on the 11th December, giving him but three more Sundays in Peterborough. It is to be regretted that Mr. Wilson is to have such a brief stay in town previous to his departure from our midst, but he feels called upon to enter upon his work there at the time he has been requested. Mr. Wilson's departure will cause deep regret in Peterborough, and all will join in wishing him every success in his future field of labour.

REV. J. A. WILSON,

IN INTERESTS OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Largely Attended Meetings in Charlotte Street Church Yesterday.

Three Well-known Speakers Gave Addresses at Afternoon and Evening Meetings.

The meetings held yesterday afternoon and evening in the Charlotte Street Church in connection with the local Sabbath School Association were of a most interesting and helpful nature. The attendance, considering the inclemency of the weather, was very encouraging, and the fact that it was in advance of last year speaks well for the interest that is being taken in Sunday School work. The speakers at the meetings were Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, of Peoria, Ill., Mr. J. A. Jackson, B.A., secretary of the Provincial Sabbath School Association and Mr. E. A. Hardy, B. A., the newly appointed secretary in connection with the Teacher Training, all are splendid speakers and their addresses were listened to with much appreciation.

MR. J. A. JACKSON.

Mr. Jackson spoke briefly upon the Provincial work and its growth during the past year. He was gratified at seeing such a large gathering of Sunday School workers as evidencing the interest which is being taken in the work in Peterborough. The same interest and sympathy were being manifested throughout the province wherever he had been. There were now three paid secretaries in connection with the work, the latest addition being that of Mr. Hardy. A rearrangement and new appointment of officers had resulted during the past year and had had the effect of stimulating the spirit of the work. During the past year the conditions had prospered as never before. He and Mr. Yellowlees had attended about forty more conventions than was the case last year and five new cities had been added to the list of nine previously visited yearly. Never had the work in New Ontario been reached as it was last year and a hearty sympathy and response were found from the people there. The speaker came into contact with over thirty schools which as representative of the society had touched for the past eight years. The conditions there were difficult to master, but the progress made had been most encouraging. In one town of about 500 inhabitants there was not a single road leading to or from it excepting the C. P. R. and as a consequence all the working men but two left the village were directly connected with this railroad, which necessitated their being absent often on Sunday and thus it was difficult to promote satisfactory Sunday School work. But, nevertheless, the growth and interest had been remarkable. The society was everywhere meeting with success and the prospects were bright.

MR. E. A. HARDY.

Mr. Hardy was pleased to come to Peterborough, which was quite near to his home in Lindsay. He had visited our town with the curlers and in connection with Sunday School and Christian Endeavour work, but he was never so pleased to be present as on this occasion. Mr. Hardy said where was a need for skilled workers in our Sunday Schools, workers who had undergone a course of training. Teacher training meant the training of the whole working force of the school and we should aim at this because we ought to match our best skill against the forces struggling against our children who had many evils to contend with. The liquor habit was one of the greatest evils to the young and the cigarette habit was also having a very bad effect, especially upon the boys. Bad literature, bad company, bad examples and other such evils were forces fighting to draw the children downward and these agencies must be opposed. The home, the church, the school, the public libraries, the press, were helpful to the children, but there was no agency to touch the child's life such as the Sunday School could do. He was not speaking of what ought to be the case, but of what actually was the case, and the greatest agency for spiritual and moral culture was certainly the Sabbath School and because of this it was necessary for the locals to have the best possible training. Teachers as a rule have zeal, interest and spirituality but lack the best of skill in their teaching, whereas skill added to their other qualities would make them ideal teachers. He believed to be a successful teacher one must have a course outlined and to undergo training as for any other such work. The course of training as placed before the teachers now by the Association was in four departments—old testament outline, new Testament outline, elements of teaching and Sunday School organizing and management. To take up this course it would be necessary to sacrifice a certain amount of time, energy and pleasure. He hoped to make the arguments in favour of the course so strong that all teachers would be convinced of its value.

MRS. M. F. BRYNER.

Mrs. Bryner gave an illustrated talk upon the best method of preparing Sunday School lessons. There should be a plan followed in preparing the lessons and the teachers should not simply prepare a lesson for the coming Sunday and know nothing of the lessons to follow, but at the beginning of the quarter, it was well to have an idea of the nature of all the lessons of that quarter. The speaker spoke on seven points in connection with preparing lessons, enlarging upon each and applying the points to the lessons of the present quarter. The points were,—(1) Read all the lessons of the quarter. (2) Notice from what book they are taken. (3) Observe the characters to be studied. (4) The general location of the quarter's lessons. (5) The length of time. (6) Repeating the thought of the quarter. (7) The Golden Text of the quarter. When preparing each lesson it was well to think of the past problems, the present parallel and the permanent principles. The scholars should be taught to read their Bibles at as early an age as is possible.

EVENING SESSION.

There was a much larger attendance at the evening service which was one of much interest. Addresses were delivered by Mrs. Bryner and Mr. Hardy whose remarks touching Sunday School work were very timely and if the suggestions made would be carried out by the Sunday School teachers generally there would be better results in the work.

TEACHER TRAINING.

Mr. Hardy spoke of the reasons for teacher training, encouraging all who could find it at all possible to undergo a course of training in order to better fit them in their work which was of so great importance. New problems were certainly opening out and the best minds were seeking plans for their solution. The Sunday School work was of fundamental importance to the church and to the state. The development of the young mind along proper channels was very essential and in order to best direct and guide the young, the teachers in the Sunday School whose influence if properly directed was indeed a great one, should be well fitted in their work. The teacher was the greatest factor in Sunday School work yet how often this important fact seemed to be overlooked and those who were far from being gratified to successfully teach the children the Biblical truths were placed in the responsible capacity of a teacher. There were a woeful lot of inefficient teachers and workers in all departments of Sunday School work, but it was encouraging to note that a great deal of this inefficiency was of a type that could be remedied if the proper means were made use of to make the improvement. More skill was needed with the majority of teachers, who if they would undergo a course in teacher training would become perfect and efficient in their work of instructing the young.

MRS. BRYNER'S REMARKS.

Mrs. Bryner spoke on several interesting points with reference to Sunday School work. The school room should be made as pleasant and attractive as possible and should be such that the children will feel they are being helped and educated along the lines for which the Sunday School is intended. An effort should be made on the part of all the officials and teachers to be as punctual and prompt and regular in attendance as possible. The teachers were an example to the children and the power of example with the children was a strong one. The necessity for a well prepared lesson on behalf of the teachers was of great importance. They should have a knowledge of all the lessons in the quarter, should be versed in the events intervening between the lessons from week to week and strive to awaken as much interest as possible with the students. The teaching should be plain and personal and the aim behind it all must be held constantly in the mind,—the true conversion of the scholars. Some teachers are wont to overlook this, the most important factor in connection with Sunday School work. One of the objects was to have the scholars acquire as full and accurate a knowledge of the Bible as possible, but beyond this was the conversion of the scholar, which was far more important.

The chairman of both meetings was Rev. J. A. Wilson, president of the local Sabbath School Association.

Mr. Hardy, whose addresses yesterday, were listened to with great interest will preach at the Charlotte Street Church on Sunday evening.

FINE ARTISTS IN OPERA HOUSE.

Jessie Maclachlan Company Gave a Delightful Programme Last Evening.

Three Splendid Artists Were Enthusiastically Received—St. Andrews Y. M. C. Concert A Great Success.

The unbounded enthusiasm which was displayed at last evening's concert in the opera house, was ample testimony of the satisfaction and delight of the very large audience which was gathered there. Those who were of Scottish birth, must have felt their blood tingle as the well-known and ever-popular airs rang out through the hall with a stirring and impressive effect. But whether one was Scotch or otherwise, the programme as presented by the Jessie Maclachlan Concert Company was very enjoyable.

Jessie Machlachlan has always been a prime favourite with Peterborough audiences, and on her return last evening, after an absence of two years, she was tendered a most flattering reception. She has lost none of her old time charm of manner, attractive appearance and magnetic personality, which have contributed so much to her success. Her charm of expression, and distinct enunciation were great factors in her singing, and these combined with a masterly delivery of the fortissimo strains of her stirring Scottish numbers, aroused the audience to great enthusiasm. She was heartily encored upon every appearance. Her numbers were "Sing to Me the Auld Scotch Sangs," Cronan," an ancient Lochabar lullaby, sung in Gaelic; "Blue Bonnets," by Scot, a very popular number; "The Last Chord," by Sullivan, with 'cello obligato.

Mr. Douglas Young, the Scottish tenor, created a very favourable impression with the audience, and his numbers were all received very popularly. He possesses a rich tenor voice of good compass, with a resonant tone and of considerable power. Some of his notes bordered on the "throaty" quality, but this defect was not very noticeable. While lacking somewhat in expression his numbers were sung with pleasing effect. His selections were "Afton Water," by Hume; "The Lass o' Gowrie," by Nairne; "When the Cows Come Home," each of which was heartily encored.

Miss McLachlan and Mr. Young were heard in a very enjoyable duet, "The Crooket Bawbee," by Nimmo, a humourous number which was vociferously encored. The singers responded with "When Ye Gang Awa Jamie."

As fine a 'cellist as Mr. John McLinden has not been heard in Peterborough for many years. This young artist is a really brilliant performer and from a pure musicianly point of view was perhaps the artist of the evening. He produces a tone of liquid purity and sweetness, remarkable for its breadth of volume and sympathy. Mr. McLinden was a master of the instrument, his technique being brilliant while he seemed to put his whole soul into the music, interpreting each selection with delightful expression. There is something in the well-produced tone of the violincello which appeals sympathetically to all who hear it, and this effect was plainly noticable last evening. Perhaps the most delightful number was the intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana which was exquisitely played. Each number was enthusiastically encored. The imitation of the bagpipes was very clever and the Scottish numbers were played with a true spirit. His numbers were, "Echoes of Ayreshire," by Blair; "The Swan," by Saint Saens; Tarantelle," by Popper, and "Highland Echoes," by McLinden.

Miss McLachlan was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers upon her second appearance.

The concert was under the auspices of the Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's Church and this society is to be congratulated upon the success of the affair and upon securing such a talented company. It had been the intention to have the concert on St. Andrew's Day, but it was found impossible to secure the company for that date.

Mr. Robert Buchanan, accompanist, performed his duties very efficiently.

TO-MORROW'S CONVENTION.

A convention of the Liberals of West Peterborough will be held in the spacious Liberal Committee Rooms to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, to nominate a candidate to contest the riding at the approaching general elections. Among the names spoken of informally as possible nominees are those of Mr. G. M. Roger, Mayor, Mr. D. O'Connell, Mr. J. J. Hartley, Mr. R. F. McWilliams and Mr. F. D. Kerr. There should and doubtless will be a large attendance, and if the same spirit that animated the selection of delegates to attend the great Liberal convention in Toronto, still exists the gathering to-morrow will be a large and enthusiastic one. With such excellent material as that represented by the names suggested, the nomination of a strong candidate should be the outcome of the meeting. With unanimous and earnest support of the best available candidate there is no doubt that West Peterborough will, as it has been for the past twenty years, be kept in the Liberal column. With a good Premier, a good Government, a splendid administrative record, and a good policy upon which to base an appeal to the people and united effort, there will be no difficulty in carrying West Peterborough again.

GEN. KODAMA'S VIEW

Port Arthur Will Harbor Japanese This Winter.

WHY RUSSIANS HOLD FIRE

Gives An Inkling Into the Difficulties Encountered in Reducing Port Arthur —Russian Defenders in a State of Demoralization According to Deserters to the Japs—Big Battle South of Mukden.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—The Daily News correspondent with the Japanese troops outside of Port Arthur, sends an interview with Gen. Kodama, chief of staff, who pointed out some of the difficulties of taking the fortress, but declared that the Mikado's troops would winter inside. When asked why the Russians did not use their guns against the Japanese fleet, he replied, sketching Port Arthur with semi-circular parallel lines representing the outer harbor:

"The outer line shows our mines, the inner the Russian mines. Our series of electric mines is laid counter to theirs. If struck by shells they would explode and set off the Russian series, damaging the coast defences of the harbor. Thus checked by mines and countermines, the Russian coast defences and our navy must remain inactive. The Russian fleet is unwilling to take the initiative and so the enemy has turned not only the coast defence guns, but even his naval guns landward. In reply to this I brought from Japan our coast defence mortars and naval guns. You will see two great naval equipments fighting on land. I wish I could bring all the world's tacticians to witness these lessons for future warfare. The question is, are our naval guns and guns of position and reinforced field artillery more powerful than the Russian naval and coast defence guns now reinforcing the forts?"

"In the end, however," the correspondent suggested, "is not the 'boy in khaki' the deciding force. Your infantry loss thus far has been heavy, and your infantry must finally take the fortress, if it is ever taken."

"No," said Kodama, "this is a question of strategy, tactics and engineering. I have an army large enough to take Port Arthur. The enemy has about 20,000 troops. We have about 60,000—three to one—a sufficient force, even considering their defences. It would be impossible to use more men. The outcome now depends on ammunition and generalship.

"The Russian forts are well built on the Belgian model. The general situation of the forts also is similar to the Belgian forts. They are ironplated towards the sea; towards the land there are only earthworks, with some masonry and a little concrete. A clever engineer designed them. We find them absolutely changed since the China war, when we took Port Arthur in one day. Then one fort, Itsushan, was the key to the whole position. Once that had been taken, all the others fell. Now we cannot say that any single fort is the key. All are so arranged that we must take them in detail. The capture of one means only the capture of that individual fort, not of a series as formerly. Study as we may, we find it difficult to locate their weakness, they have carried fortification to such an extent."

Russians Desert to Japs.

London, Nov. 24.—A despatch from Tokio to The Standard reports increasing desertions from the Port Arthur garrison into the Japanese lines, the stories the deserters tell indicating the demoralization of the Russian defenders. The same correspondent says the Russian forts on the sea front of Port Arthur no longer fire on the approach of Japanese warships.

The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Port Said says the Russian warships, when berthed, will be completely isolated from other shipping, and that they will be allowed to take on water and provisions, but the correspondent adds that it is still uncertain whether they will be permitted to coal.

The Japanese, according to a despatch from Chefoo to The Chronicle, are reported to have captured the British steamer Tungchow, laden with 30,000 cases of canned meat for Port Arthur.

Big Battle Due.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 24.—Appearances again point to the possibility of a big battle south of Mukden. The Japanese, according to an official report, have received a severe set-back in the vicinity of Sintsintin, in which direction they apparently were attempting to execute a wide turning movement.

Military opinion scarcely believes it possible that the two great armies can winter less than a rifle shot from each other, though the heavy defences on each side made it extremely difficult for either to assume the offensive. It is believed, however, that if the deadlock is to be broken, Gen. Kuropatkin will let Field Marshal Oyama take the initiative, as the Russians have the better of the present position, namely, a strong line of defence and Mukden behind them, making satisfactory winter quarters, where the Russian reinforcements are now accumulating for an advance next spring. The Japanese also are strongly reinforced.

The rivers are already frozen sufficiently to permit of the movement of artillery and commissariat trains, so that the country actually is better adapted to a Japanese advance than during the summer.

CAN YOU TELL WHAT AILS THIS MAN.

He Is Only One in Hundreds of Thousands. Watch Well Your Own Individual Self.

He has a tremendous appetite, yet has no desire to exert himself in the least. He seems lazy and indolent. His sleep is fitful and restless. He has pains under his shoulder blades and a bitter taste remains in his mouth. His tongue is often furred and coated. He is dizzy when he goes up to walk or arises from sleeping over. One day his bowels may move, but the next day he is constipated. The natural sewers of the body become clogged up, the bile in the stomach not being able to pass out through the natural channels is absorbed into the blood. If you said "he is a bilious man," you would be exactly right, but how few there are who know what to do for such a condition. See here! Read carefully and you will find out what to do. If you have similar feelings, take as directed Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills, which are an infallible remedy for biliousness and all other forms of liver trouble. Their effects are quickly seen in a complete change of spirits, regular daily movements of the bowels, refreshing sleep and a rapid return of healthy appetite and digestion. Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills are purely vegetable. Nature's true laxative. They always cure stale headaches, constipation and biliousness in one night. 25 cents at all dealers.

DRUNKEN RUSSIANS.

Reports of Their Disorderly Conduct At Crete Are Confirmed.

London, Nov. 24.—A news agency despatch from Canea, Crete, confirms the previously published report of the constant drunkenness of the crews and several officers of the Baltic fleet while it was at Canea. One Russian seaman was killed by his comrades, and several others were severely injured. Some of the men undressed in the public square, and insulted the wife of a foreigner, who was maltreated when he tried to protect her. The authority of the officers was ignored and the Russians were wholly without discipline. Many of the seamen were left behind or deserted when the fleet sailed.

Montreal, Nov. 25.—Alphonse Hamel, the ex-paymaster of the city of Montreal, who absconded after forging a cheque on the city for ten thousand dollars, and was recently brought back from Cuba, was sentenced by Judge Choquet yesterday to serve seven years in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary.

Austria Buried Under Snow.

Innsbruck, Austria, Nov. 25.—Snow has been falling incessantly for thirty hours. Telegraph and telephone communication is interrupted at many points. The trains to Vienna and Italy have been stopped. A train is snowed up at Brenner Pass.

Foul Play Feared.

Woodstock, Nov. 24.—John Edwards, a shoemaker, 60 years old, was found dead in a slaughter-house, west of Woodstock, last evening. He disappeared on Saturday last. At that time he had $18, and when found last night there was not a cent on him. The authorities entertain suspicions of foul play, and the police are at work on the case. An inquest will be opened to-day.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 24.—The steamer City of Seattle, bound from Juneau to Skagway, went ashore at Eagle River yesterday, staving a big hole in her hull just beneath her boilers. No lives were lost and the vessel is reported resting easily. She is owned by the Pacific Coast Steamship Company.

Japanese Conception of Poetry.

A Western poet wandering through a pine forest at night and suddenly perceiving in the utter darkness a gleam of silver light might compare the moon shining to some fairy palace with glittering window panes—in short, to some object of his experience or imagination. The Japanese poet, on the other hand, would compare the glimmering light to "a moonlit crag of Fusiyama."

The Japanese always remains an observer. He never becomes one with nature. He does not possess the faculty of endowing inanimate objects with life. To invest clouds and woods with human thoughts and desires, as, for instance, Shelley has done, seems bald and meaningless to him, and such a sentence as "Aurora, veiling herself in clouds, like a blushing girl," he would consider in very bad taste. He looks at the world with the eyes of an ideal realist, or, rather, of an impressionist. Life passes like the dissolving views of a magic lantern, showing one beautiful landscape after the other, each one containing sufficient material for an exquisite vignette.—Reader.

"Othello" in a Malay Theater.

A correspondent writing in the Australasian thus describes a performance of "Othello" in a Malay theater: "It was all in Malay, of course, but where they had got the European costumes from I cannot imagine. They were of all kinds and descriptions. Othello was dressed as a toreador, with tennis shoes on; Cassio, as Henry VIII.; Iago in a black velvet court suit, with a barrister's wig well down over his nose; Desdemona, in a short Spanish dancing girl's dress; Roderigo, a green Druid's gown, with pink stockings and tanned boots. But the joke of the whole thing was the music. There was a Malay orchestra of banjos, mandolins, etc., but they played scarcely any native music. They all simply love European music, to which they set their own Malayan words. The whole play was interspersed with songs, just like our comic operas."

Charitable Doctors.

Doctors give away more than any other class of men on earth. It is stated that the gratuitous services of physicians last year to one large Philadelphia hospital amounted to over $200,000 at ordinary fees. Upon this the Wisconsin Medical Recorder remarks that "If any individual or any society had given $500,000 to any cause the fact would have appeared in all the dailies with large headlines, but this free work of the physicians has come to be considered as too common for notice.

"And this was only one hospital in one city. How enormous this free work in the whole country must have been last year!"

A Japanese Hint.

The proverbial politeness of the Japanese has resulted in the development of a number of neat little customs. One of the best is the manner in which one hostess gets rid of an unwelcome guest. She does not hint that the time is about up for his stay or that she is going visiting soon, but sets to work preparing a dainty luncheon, which she packs in a little box, ties up with ribbon and paper and hands to the guest some morning. It isn't an insult, either; it's just a hint, and one that is always taken.

A SAVAGE CUSTOM.

Curious Food Laws That Obtained In the South Sea Islands.

A singular distinction was established between the sexes in accordance with the general savage theory of the inferiority, social and otherwise, of the female, which is found to have prevailed universally in the south sea islands at the time of their discovery and for long afterward during a period covered by the early missionary voyages and labors. Setting aside cannibal feasts at the end of a successful war expedition, when captives and victims were abundant and were roasted and devoured, the usual food of the men of these islands in ordinary circumstances was hog's flesh, with a variety of fish from the surrounding ocean, together with cocoanuts and plantains, but the women were forbidden to eat or touch the provisions sacred to male consumption, and an infringement of this usage was rarely overlooked, but met with the penalty of death.

The system of food taboo denied, under the same penalty, to the sex the use of the fire at which the warrior's meal was prepared, the house in which he sat to eat and the basket in which his provisions were stored. Such items of food as native custom assigned to the women were preserved by them apart, deposited in distinct baskets, to be cooked when required at a separate fire and devoured in solitude in a little but specially erected for the purpose.

A Father's Rebuke.

"As severe a rebuke as I know of," said a judge, "was one that a New York millionaire administered to his son. The son, like many millionaires' sons, is a hard drinker. He does no work. Most of the day he lounges at one or other of his clubs, taking a brandy and soda every hour or so, and in the evening, after a good deal of wine with his dinner, he drinks steadily until bedtime. Nevertheless he is a young and handsome chap, and he goes out during the season a great deal. One day he received an invitation to a bal masque, and that evening he discussed with his family the various disguises that he might reasonably wear. After a good deal of talk he was still undecided and, turning to his father he said, 'How would you advise me to go to this masque, sir?' 'Go sober,' the father answered bitterly."

A Typographical Error.

A pompous Englishman entered a fashionable New York restaurant and ordered a meal. While disposing of his soup he discovered a needle in the soup and registered his complaint with the head waiter.

"I say, old chap, that's rawtber hard on a fellow. There's a needle in the soup," exclaimed the Britisher.

"Oh, not so bad, after all," replied the head waiter; "not so bad, simply a typographical error. It should have been a noodle."

Five Popes.

There are five great religious heads on the face of the globe. They are the pope of the Latin church, the schismatic or orthodox pope of the Greek church, the father of the faithful, ruling at Constantinople; the pope of Tibet, who has 500,000,000 subjects, and the schismatic pope of the Mohammedan world, who reigns at Morocco.

His Whistful Look.

"My husband is getting to be a scientific whist player."

"Is he? I've been wondering lately what made him look as if there was not much more left in the world that was worth trying for."

A Plea For the Boy.

We see much in our periodicals nowadays about beautifying our back yards—a most commendable reform—but to what out of the way corner has the small boy's precious belongings been relegated? Surely the little fellow's rights are to be respected, but we see no indications in the numerous photographs of ornamental back yards of a vine covered workshop where the saw, the hatchet and bits of wood, etc., so dear to a boy's heart, are to be found. The boys should have a portion screened from the rest of the garden by a high trellis or fence of chicken wire, which would be a thing of beauty when covered with blossoming vines; then they will not be driven so often to find amusement on the streets.

Afflicted with Erysipelas For Ten Years.

Cured by Four Bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mrs. N. Peister, of Brighton, Ont., was Cured Two Years Ago and Has Had No Return Of It Since.

Read what she says:—"It is now about two years since I was cured of a terrible attack of Erysipelas, with which I had been afflicted for about ten years. I had tried almost everything, including medicine from several doctors, but could get no relief. I had given my case up as hopeless, but I procured five bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, and it completely cured me. In fact, the cure has been permanent. It is now two years since I took Burdock Blood Bitters, and I have not had the slightest sign of the disease returning. I fully believe that your wonderful remedy has taken it so completely out of my system that I shall never be bothered again with it. I have the greatest of faith in Burdock Blood Bitters."

STINSON'S DIPLOMACY

By Curran
Richard Greenley

Copyright, 1904, by Curran Richard Greenley

The real boss of the campaign committee leaned across the table and wagged a heavy forefinger under Brackett's nose.

"I've cinched the finest wire that was ever pulled, and when them wire get done pullin' Bill Garret's chances are dead and rained on or my name's not Jim Stinson. I've interviewed Miss Elizabeth Heath, and she's ours."

The emphatic finger stopped as Brackett sprang to his feet.

"You—you interviewed Miss Heath in my favor?"

"Yes. Why not? She's a power, she is, with them fellows' wives down in the Tenth ward, an she's a lady right, you bet."

Brackett dropped limply into the chair behind him, while Stinson poured out the history of his call upon Miss Heath, the president of the Hypatia, in a mixture of slang plentifully sprinkled with "sez I" and "sez she." Stinson took much glory to himself that he should have thought of this clever stroke just at the critical point of the campaign. Miss Heath's influence in certain quarters was unbounded. Down in the Tenth ward, where the tall tenements gloom above the river, the little children of the poor watched for her coming, and the tired mothers told her all their trials and troubles, all their simple ambitions and little joys, finding a ready sympathy. Stinson had heard of Miss Heath through that channel, and it was to those poor, tired mothers that he looked for a controlling vote in the vote that would go up from the Tenth ward. Stinson had also counted on the lever wielded by Miss Heath as president of the Hypatia, the woman's club that led not only in the city, but in the state federation. The federation's interests once aroused and its influence brought to bear would mean a powerful leavening at work for his man from one end of the state to the other. All this and more he poured into the unheeding ear of Brackett, whose mind was engrossed with the one thought, the intolerable shame that this man should have appealed to Elizabeth Heath in his name. Beyond all considerations of the governor's office, of his political future, his mind reeled with the intensity of this one thought.

Stinson's last words as he stood in the doorway recalled him:

"I told her that you would call in a few days and discuss the matter further. She seemed right willing to take a hand after she had chewed the rag a bit, and I saw as how a call from you would sorter clinch it. Women folks has to be made up to. I reckon you know all about that? Well, so long, Mr. Governor," and Stinson was gone.

John Brackett turned off the light and sat still in the glow of the fire. The warm rays danced over his fast silvering head, bringing out the lines of the tired, old-young face and accentuating in grotesque shadow the droop of his shoulders.

"Her name on the lips of this coarse man! Out of the silence of the years to hear it for the first time in this manner!" He had been away so long in the lower part of the state that he had quite lost sight of the changes that must have come to her as well as to himself. So she was a social leader now, a club woman. He remembered the pleasant family circle as he had known it and wondered if it yet remained unbroken. Out of the coals sprang the picture of the girl, Elizabeth Heath, as he had last seen her, that night when he had told her goodby forever. He could almost hear himself speaking the slow, fateful, reluctant words, in which he had told her that the bond between them must be broken for reasons over which he had no control—a half confidence that, in the light of present knowledge, he knew to have been far more cruel, more cowardly, than a silence that would have left her the poor solace of believing him utterly unworthy.

He had scarcely thought of her when returning to the old town. He had made the move for political reasons, and one hotel is much like another to a man who had forgotten the meaning of home. Like one groping through the dark, picking up the tangled thread of a dropped web, John Brackett threaded back through the mazes of fifteen years—fifteen!

* * * * * * *

Brackett's tread grew less resolute, and his feet seemed to drag just a little as he turned into the well remembered square and saw the white columns of the Heath home among the trees. Old Peter opened the door. A little grayer about the fringe of wool, a little more stooped, but the same old Peter, shuffling down the hall ahead of him.

The house was painfully familiar. There in the corner was the little settee among the palms where they had sat that rainy day. He remembered the shadows that shifted over the pale blue gown that she had worn and felt again the touch of the soft hand in his—the hands that were like no other hands in all the world.

Old Peter's shuffling steps had died away and the house was stilled. Then he heard her step upon the stair and down the hall, and Elisabeth stood before him, unchanged, except for the graver lines about the firm, sweet mouth and a deeper light in the dark eyes. Brackett grasped her hand with an almost painful force.

"You have been quite a long while in claiming your old friends in Warafield, Mr. Brackett."

It was a merely banal greeting, but the commonplace served to place Brackett on the right footing.

"Most certainly, and yet I feel that I should apologize for this intrusion, had I not come to make apology for a greater one that was made in my name."

"You allude to Mr. Stinson's call?" she laughed lightly. "Mr. Stinson does me the honor to consider me a force in the political situation. I assure you I appreciate the compliment, as the president of the Hypatia. But as Elizabeth Heath, I must beg to decline it."

Brackett made a slight movement toward her. "I beg you to consider the man and his total ignorance as to the enormity of what he was doing. It was a distinct shock to me to hear your name upon his lips, and"—

"I understand," she replied quickly. "Believe me, I did not connect you with it in the least. In fact, when he mentioned that you would call to discuss the matter I was very certain that you were entirely innocent of all knowledge of his errand here."

Brackett flushed darkly.

"I trust you will treat this incident as if it had never happened, and of course there need be no question of your support in a political sense."

Here they both laughed uneasily.

"So much so," she responded, "that I will use every effort to further the cause of Governor Brackett."

Brackett sprang to his feet, his dark face aglow. "Elizabeth!"

Miss Heath held up a warning hand. "Mr. Brackett, fifteen years have come and gone since any man has held the right to call me by that name. We were speaking of politics."

Brackett submitted mutely as she led the talk around to other questions of the day lightly and easily, giving him time to find himself in the talk of old friends and places.

"And the general, how is he and your mother?"

She looked at him wonderingly. "Is it possible that with all of Mr. Stinson's information he did not tell you that I am living here alone with only Aunt Jane? Father and mother died within one month of each other ten years ago."

Brackett turned abruptly and walked to the window. He understood many things now, all the loneliness and the beautiful truth of this woman, who had lived her life so bravely. The sunlight in the square was blinding. Perhaps that was why his eyes were wet as he walked swiftly down the long room and drew her hands into his.

"Elisabeth, there was fate in Stinson's call, the fate that has watched us both through all these years. There were ghosts that knocked and waked my starved heart last night, ghosts that would not be silenced. I was a coward then, a coward not brave enough to humble my pride and tell you of the burden that lay between us, and when death removed that burden it was too late, I thought, but I am here now to plead my case afresh, here at your mercy. We are older now, and there is little youth left us, and for God's sake don't let pride stand between us and that little. Will the president of the Hypatia work for me as my promised wife? Will she, Elisabeth?"

Old Peter shuffled down the hall unnoticed and stood in the doorway a brief second, then he ambled away, mopping his eyes.

"I thought that was Masa John Brackett. I's certain now for sumb!"

Four Boxes of

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills

They are a specific for all troubles arising from a weak condition of the heart or from the nervous system. For troubles such as Palpitation of the Heart, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Faint or Dizzy Spells, Shortness of Breath, Starting in the Sleep; Cold, Clammy Hands or Feet, Brain Fag, etc., we would strongly advise the early use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, as this remedy, taken in time, has been the means of saving many a life, and restoring strength to those who were weak, nervous, health-shattered invalids.

Mrs. R. Elliser, Humberstone, Ont., writes:—"Allow me to tell you of the great results I have derived from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Isabella is brilliant in yellow,
Isabella is dainty in pink,
And when she wears red
She goes right to my head—
Bella's dearest in scarlet, I think.

Purple sets off the fringe of her lashes,
And orange becomes her well, too,
While a violet gown
Makes the envious frown—
I never am "blue" when she's blue.

She's stunningly svelte in a black dress
She's equally slim in a white,
And if you should ask me
I think it would task me
To say when she isn't all right.

What is it you hint? "I am partial?"
Oh, skeptics, you quite take the cake
Yes, of course, bet your life,
Isabella's my wife.
What diff'rence on earth does that make?

A Considerate People.

"They are such considerate people in Chicago, you know," said the old lady, as she returned to her village after a shopping excursion to that metropolis.

"You got your right change every time, did you?' was asked.

"La, yes, and I must tell you how they treated me in a 'brick-a-bat' store. I went in there to look at some Indian relics, and the clerk took the greatest pains to show me everything. I finally mentioned that when my dear husband was crossing the plains twenty years ago he was killed and scalped by the Indians and that clerk almost wept for me."

"That was indeed kind of him. After he had almost wept, did he want to sell you any goods?'

"He left it all to me. He said he was awfully sorry about my husband being killed, but as they had the scalp-lock of the Indian who killed him and as it seemed to be a sorrowful case I might have the relic for $7 to hang on the parlor wall."

How Far Did He Ride?

Pop and Edward watched the laughing girls and "grownups," too, as they swung round and round, perched on the backs of mettlesome horses, fierce lions and awe inspiring, long legged giraffes, on the merry-go-round.

Pop, turning to comment upon a small sized youngster astride a huge tiger, noticed the serious look on his heir's usually smiling countenance and said to him, "Son, what makes you look so thoughtful?"

"I was just wonderin'," replied Edward, who had just enjoyed a ride on the merry-go-round and, having a ticket in his pocket entitling him to another ride, was anxious to use it to the best advantage, "whether I would get a longer ride than I had on that horse in the inner circle if I rode one of the lions on the outside row."—St. Louis Republic.

Buffalo Bill's Title.

Two Kansas papers, the Wichita Eagle and the Lawrence Gazette, are trying to establish for William Matthewson of Wichita the right to the title of "Buffalo Bill," now worn so conspicuously by Colonel Cody. "Matthewson was known as Buffalo Bill long before Cody was heard of," declares the Gazette, "but Cody took the name and made money and fame out of it; while Matthewson sought neither. There is not an old settler on the border but knows that Bill Matthewson earned and for years carried the title that afterward made Cody famous."

WHAT THE SIAMESE EAT.

Rice and Putrid Fish Highly Seasoned Their Main Food.

Siamese food principally consists of dried, frequently rotted, fish and rice done into curries which comprise a little of about every kind of condiment and especially a very popular sauce called namphrik, a chutney-like and thoroughly mixed thing made of red pepper, shrimp, garlic, onions, citron, ginger and tamarind seeds. The only reason for the fish being putrid is because the natives like it so, for fish are plentiful in their rivers and fishermen numerous, though their ways of catching are rather amusing and antique. One favorite method, borrowed from the Chinese, is beating the waters with long bamboo sticks to frighten the fish into an eight or ten foot squarish net which is lowered into the river from a framework on the bank by a system of wheels and ropes and pulleys and hoisted up again when the catch is complete. I must confess that when the fish in the curry chanced to be dried instead of decayed I found the concoction decidedly toothsome. In fact, a really good curry is in a class apart, and one must go to India or the far east to get it at its best. Sometimes the natives eat pork and oftentimes chicken, but for the most part rice and the fish curry constitute their chief diet, supplemented by the fruit of the country, of which there are many kinds—mangosteen, mango, pineapple, banana, orange, breadfruit and that most healthful and serving of all Siamese fruits, the papaya, which grows back from the water and is a greenish oval melon that suggests cantaloupe when opened.—Outing.

DEATH OF CAPT. MARSH.

President of the Huntsville and Lake of Bays Navigation Company.

Huntsville, Nov. 22.—Capt. George Francis Marsh, one of the best known transportation men in the Province, and President of the Huntsville & Lake of Bays Navigation Company, died at his home here, "The Maples," on Saturday morning, and was buried yesterday with Masonic honours. Capt. Marsh was 66 years of age, and until about six months ago took an active part in the management of the navigation company here. The funeral was one of the largest in the history of the town, and was attended by representatives from the Masonic Order, the Canadian Workmen and the I.O.F., in all of which the deceased took an active interest. The floral tributes were many, and included a magnificent wreath from Manager Duperon and the directors of the navigation company, of which the captain was the head. Besides a widow, the deceased leaves a grown up family of three boys—Capt. Fred Marsh and Mr. Peter C. Marsh, both of Huntsville, and Mr. W. A. Marsh, President and Manager of the Marsh Manufacturing Company, Toronto. Four daughters are also left—Mrs. J. R. Morrison of Little Current, Mrs. Capt. John Fraser, Mrs. W. B. Strachen of Huntsville and Mrs. Charles Frost of Peterborough.

The late Capt. March was born at Richmond Hill, March 16th, 1838, where his early days were spent. When a young man he entered mercantile life, and opened a business at Cannington, which he conducted successfully for some years. During the greater part of his life he was identified in the mercantile, lumbering and transportation business in Muskoka. His dream was a rail connection between Peninsular Lake and Lake of Bays, over what is known as the "Portage," and he lived to see the ideal realized, for a few months before his death the last spike was driven, and freight and passenger traffic was carried on under through tickets from Huntsville to all Lake of Bays ports. In politics Captain Marsh was a staunch Reformer, and, though he never sought political honours, his name was frequently mentioned in connection therewith. He had been a subscriber of The Globe since 1858. In religion he was a Presbyterian.—Globe.

TWO TEAMS ARE AFTER WHITCROFT.

Chas. Collins Will Play With Canadian Soo.

Maltman Will Keep Goal for Canadian Soo—Other Good Players Secured.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The Michigan Soo's hockey team for the coming season is now complete. The players are all signed and in the city waiting for ice. The seven will be considerably stronger than last year, and its enthusiastic supporters express confidence of its being able to carry off the championship honours in the International League race. The club has nine men under contract. Five of them were with the team last winter. Four are booked for regular positions while the other will be given an opportunity to hold a position against the competition of the new men signed.

"Chief" Jones will again keep goal in front of him at point will be "Pud" Hamilton, formerly of Kingston and Pittsburg. Eddie Howell will play cover-point. Howell played with the original Portage Lake team and when he returned to Paris the club of that town was successful in getting him reinstated by the O. H. A. and he played with it when it won the Intermediate championship of the O. H. A. in 1902-3. Last winter he played in Peterborough. Joe Stephens will play rover, with "Jigger" Robinson, formerly of Ottawa and Pittsburg, at centre. Sweitzer, the Stratford boy, will again play on the left wing. Other candidates for the forward line are Meinke, last year with the Soo; Whitcroft, of Peterborough, and Corbett, of Victoria Harbour.

The line-up of the Canadian Soo team will not be given out officially until all the players are signed. The management gives assurance that it will be as good as any in the league. Three players are already here. They are Maltman, the Woodstock goal keeper; Charles McLurg, last winter with Woodstock, and Charles Collins, of Collingwood. Both these have good reputations as forward men. Collins is said to have been the best forward in the northern district of the O. H. A. last winter.

MR. J. M. BROOKS IN PITTSBURG.

A Peterborough man Renews Acquaintance in American City.

Some Racing in Which Mr. Brooks was Interested Recalled.

The Pittsburg Press says:—"George H. Smith, the veteran sprinter, has been entertaining for several days past J. M. Brooks, owner of the Palace Hotel, of Peterborough, Ont., once famed as a backer of foot races.

"I have not been in Pittsburg for several years" said Mr. Brooks, "I was here at Frank Herdic's noted sprinting handicap. Perhaps that was in 1886, or a year later. I brought in Gus Carruthers, who was then running in fine form. My man scared the promoters of the affair and forced them to let him in on the good things."

"Mr. Brooks had an intimate acquaintance with all the famous sprinters. He says that Bethune is somewhere in the West. Boyd is in Canada.

"Mr. Brooks, back in the late '80s backed Pittsburg racers when they met men in his section of the country. He was the Canadian manager of Edward McKirk, the half-mile runners, when the latter was in his prime. Brooks arranged McKirk's great race at Buffalo with a man named case. On that occasion McKirk was in such fine fettle, that his supporters feel that he could have beaten any man living. He ran the half mile in great style, checking up to the last 100 yards. Smith thinks that the new dandy on the Pennsylvania are. squad could have covered the distance in 1.45 that day. "Billy" McClure and others from this city witnessed the race.

HOCKEY.

As predicted, the loss of two or three players cannot keep a good hockey town like Peterborough out of the game. The club down there has reorganized and will start out with a lot of youngsters, some of whom will doubtless prove to be quite as stellar as anything the town has ever owned.—Toronto Telegram.

BASKET-BALL.

Don't forget that the basketball league games start at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday evening, November 26, 1904, at 8 o'clock. Two games between the four teams of the league will be played. These games will be played every Saturday evening until Christmas. A new schedule will be made for the New Year. The admission will be 10 cents each evening. Ask for a score card at the office.

AGED FATHER BLIND SON.

Living Five Miles From Nearest Neighbor in Burleigh.

A Pitiable Condition of Affairs—Father Almost Blind and Son Totally Blind Living Alone in Deserted District.

There is a condition of affairs in the township of Burleigh, which is such that some immediate steps should be taken for the relief of the parties concerned. The situation is of a nature which will appeal to the sympathy of all and no doubt something will be done to relieve the case.

Living at a distance of five miles from the nearest neighbor and at a distance of about 12 miles by road to the nearest village, Apsley, are two men, a father and son. The father is a man of over 70 years of age with rapidly failing eyesight so that at present he can move about, not without great difficulty. His son with whom he lives is totally blind and furthermore is in poor health. They have a small farm from which they manage to secure food for their existence, but being in poor circumstances and afflicted as they are, their lot is a hard one. The young man has a brother living on the Burleigh road at some distance away, but the brother, even though he were in a position to render assistance, has been refused this privilege by his brother and father.

With the approaching winter in sight, the outlook for these two unfortunate men is a serious one. It will not be long before the father is totally blind and when this is the case, the two will be utterly helpless and being five miles from any settler, would simply starve to death in their plight.

An effort was made some time ago to have these men taken to the Protestant Home, but through lack of accommodation there, this could not be done.

The case was brought to the attention of County Constable Cochrane, who is looking into the matter and if there is any government home to which these unfortunate men can be sent, this will be done. The old man is anxious to be relieved and have his property given over to the home. They are respectable people and when able, were hard-working and industrious, but their present condition is one which demands immediate attention before the long winter sets in.

These bales are sent annually for these institutions and the thoughtfulness of the Auxiliary if greatly appreciated as the clothing can be most profitably made use of in the Home and Reserve.

Sale of High-Class Millinery.

Most unusual values in high-class millinery are offered to the ladies of Peterborough for the next two weeks. Miss Delaney has had to arrange for important alterations and improvements in her store that cannot wait for a more convenient season. In consequence, the stock must be moved out of the way of the workmen without delay. It has, therefor, been deemed expedient to reduce prices on this stylish millinery to a point that will make a clearing sale do the moving, and do it quickly. Every hat in the show room has been re-marked down to about half former prices. They represent a diversity of the best styles of the season. Thins a positive sale and will last only two weeks.

Business Changes Hands.

Mr. A. F. Dorland, who has carried on a grocery business at the corner of George and King streets for some time past, has disposed of his stock to Mr. D. Kennedy, formerly of Oakville. The purchase was effected some two weeks ago, and Mr. Kennedy arrived in town with his wife and family on Monday, and will occupy the whole of these corner premises as a store and dwelling. Mr. Kennedy has had a large experience in the fruit business, and is well known among the fruit growers, selling largely on commission, and intends devoting special attention to Peterborough in that industry, as well as in groceries and allied lines. He has been favourably impressed with Peterborough as a business centre, and the "Examiner" welcomes him as a live, and enterprising addition to the business ranks of the town.

BAND CONCERT DECEMBER 9TH

A High Class Musical Entertainment Announced.

From pleasant experience we know that the 57th Band itself never furnishes any but high class music. And it may claim to provide high class music, in view of the concert under its auspices announced for December 9th in Bradburn's opera house. The contributing artists on this occasion will be Mr. Edward Barton, baritone, a vocalist of the first rank, Miss Evelyn De Latre Street, daughter of Mr. Justice Street, and Mrs. K. Eardley Wilmot, a town vocalist fitted by the quality of her work, to rank with visiting artists. Miss Alice Roger will act as accompanist. The band itself will also contribute two entirely new numbers in the finished style of which it is capable, especially after long rehearsal. The calibre of the artists and the music promised, promises one of the best concerts of the season. Reserved seat plan at Edmison drug store, George street.

BUSINESS MEN'S GYMNASIUM CLASS

A Class was Organized Last Night at Y. M. C. A.

A number of our most prominent business and professional men got together last evening for a gymnasium class. If you had been there you would have seen bank managers, school teachers, merchants and professional men, all going through their drill; running, jumping and playing games, and forgetting that they had grown somewhat older than they used to be. One man was heard to remark to-day:—"I haven't felt so good for a long while; it is just the thing that I need, and it didn't make me feel lame and sore, either. And besides there was a whole lot of fun in it." Men who are confined to their office all day are much in need of exercise. This class is for you, business men. The work will be simple, but practical. There will be no danger of becoming strained, and it will be given so gradual that, little lameness will be felt. The doors will be locked and no spectators will be allowed. Classes Mondays and Thursdays from 5.15 to 6 o'clock p.m. There is no extra charge.

OBITUARY.

Infant son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Mitchell Died To-day.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, 22 Bolivar street, will be grieved to learn of the great bereavement which befell them at noon to-day, when their son, Lawrence Weir Mitchell, aged nine months, died after a brief illness from pneumonia. The arrangements for the funeral had not been made upon going to press.

TIMELY HINTS ON SNOW PLOUGHING

"Charlotte Street" Makes Some Most Thoughtful Suggestions.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—It may be a little early yet to talk about snow-ploughs and snow-ploughing, but there is nothing like, as the old proverb says, taking time by the forelock.

If I am not mistaken, our council has not as yet advertised for tenders, or awarded any contracts, for snow-ploughing for the coming winter, and before they do so, as a citizen and a tax-payer, I would like to make a few observations.

Now, it is a well-known fact, patent to any person who keeps his eyes open, that the snow-ploughing done in the sidewalks of this town, is about as bad as it well can be; I speak more especially of the streets away from the business portion of the town. There are several reasons, I believe, which conduce to this state of affairs. One is, the sections are much too large for one man and a horse and plough to cover, and do efficient work. Another reason is that the old wooden ploughs used by some of the contractors, are almost useless for the work. Instead of cutting through the snow-drifts, they simply ride over them. In this connection, I have noticed a number of shade trees on Reid street, which were barked by the snow-plough last winter. The gashes in the bark of the trees range from two feet, six inches to three feet six inches, actual measurement, above the sidewalk at the present time. These old wooden affairs should be consigned to the corporation junk heap at once, and new iron ones (several of which are in use, and do good work) obtained.

Another matter which should be attended to, is the removal of the slush that forms after a mild winter day, seldom is any attempt made by the contractors to do this.

I think the principal of letting the contracts by tender for so much for the season is wrong. The would-be successful tenderer sits down, and figures that there will be so much snow, and that he will have to make so many trips. Weather prophesying is proverbially risky, and the chances are that he has woefully mis-calculated the fall of the beautiful. Before the winter is half over he finds that he has already done as much work as he will get paid for, and grows careless, and naturally does just as little as he possibly can.

I think a fairer way to the contractor, and one which would result in better service to the town, would be to give these men, so much a day. We have about four months of the year with snow on the ground. The great majority of us have to walk. And should not that walking be made as light as possible? In a matter that affects 95 per cent. of our people the council should not deal with this question in a parsimonious manner.

Yours etc.

OVERCOAT WEEK

of the Season

BELOW, we mention some of the representative lines in our great Overcoat section. The many new creations shown by us this season make this store of special interest to every man who desires garments that have an exclusive tone and character that place them away above the ordinary ready-made garments usually sold. The more you compare them with what others offer, the more you will be convinced of our supreme position in matters pertaining to male attire.

$8.50 This Overcoat is equal to any garment sold at $10 by any competing firm in Canada. We make this assertion without any hesitation, and we ask all intending purchasers of a garment at about this price to make most critical comparisons. The fabric is all-wool Canadian frieze, velvet collar, long loose Raglanette style, linings fully guaranteed.

$10.00 Many men reckon on paying $10 for an Overcoat. We have always made it a point to show the best value at this popular price that experience and money could possibly produce. Full length, square shoulders, full skirt, Oxford gray and black frieze; also black Cheviot. Equal to any $12 coat elsewhere. Make comparisons.

$12.00 Buys a really high-class coat, made from pure all-wool Scotch Cheviot, guaranteed thoroughly shrunk; in mid and dark gray, olive and black shades; is extra long and loose fitting, with belted or plain back.

$14.00 At this price we show a magnificent range—Overcoats that would do credit to the finest custom tailor. They come in grey and black Cheviots, and swell patterns of English and Scotch tweeds, broad shoulders, extra long, with full skirt, plain or belted backs, extra fine Italian linings, and the fabrics are all guaranteed fast colors and thoroughly shrunk.

$18.00 No need to pay custom tailors $25 when you could get no better results than from one of these elegant Overcoats at $18. The fabrics are the very finest imported Cheviot, Beaver, Melton and Tweeds. The tweeds are both loud and modest in colors and patterns; the Cheviots come in black, Oxford and mid-gray; the beavers and meltons come in olive, gray and black. Tailoring and trimmings guaranteed of the highest order—VERY SPECIAL VALUE.

$20.00 Our Overcoats at this price are of a character which most men who are particular about their clothes imagine are to be had from only high-priced tailors. We will be most happy to show you how quickly and perfectly you can be fitted—at a saving of $10.

Every Department will contribute to make this week a triumphant business victory!

That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilled attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones, call around and see us.

PREMIER ROSS IS SATISFIED

Hon. Geo. W. Ross Gives an Interview in Which He Expresses Perfect Satisfaction as to Results of the Greatest Convention Ever Held in Ontario—Free Liberal Expression---Will Appoint a Member of Colonization and Labour if Returned, and Make Hon. Mr. Evanturel Commissioner of Public Works---Mild Temperance Resolution Passed by the Conservatives at Their Conference---Their Platform.

Toronto, Nov. 26.—Perfect satisfaction with the results of the great Liberal Convention was voiced by Hon. Geo. W. Ross in an interview yesterday. In every respect he believed it had operated for the good of the party and of the Province. The platform was progressive and meets with his hearty approval. Coupled with this opinion, Mr. Ross announced his endorsation of the recommendation for a new Minister of Colonization and Labor, and said it was his intention to appoint one if returned to power, and to give the office of Commissioner of Public Works to Hon. Mr. Evanturel.

"The convention was in every respect a success," said the Premier, in reply to a question if he was satisfied. "It was representative in the fullest sense of the term. The different ridings seem to have sent their picked men, not confined to a class, of no particular age, for they were old and young, not confined to any particular calling, for the farmer and the doctor and the lawyer and the clergyman were there. No convention could have been more widely or more wisely representative, and perhaps there never was a body of as many men in the Province, assembled for any purpose, representing so much business ability and solid sense."

Convention Raised Itself.

"Do you think the convention was satisfied with the way the business was conducted?"

"I think thoroughly so. The announcement that went out from the headquarters indicated that there were to be no resolutions cut and dried, nor any attempt made to lead the convention in any particular direction. It was really a convention of Liberals conducted by Liberals, and in the way that the majority wanted it done. The representatives were quick in declaring their aversion to any proposition and equally quick in showing their approval. They were never impatient of speakers so long as the speaker discussed the subject before the chair, and no convention could have been more generous in its applause when anything pertinent or good was said. The Chairmanship of the convention was admirable. Col. Thompson by his tact and geniality could make almost any kind of a convention a success."

A Practical Platform.

"What do you think of the platform?" the Premier was asked.

"It is most satisfactory," he replied. "As I stated at the close of the convention, it is a progressive platform. There was no attempt to invent a policy for the sake of effect, but everything proposed was practical, and, if carried out by the Government, as no doubt it will be, would be of great advantage to the Province. It is a great relief to me personally to feel in advance that when the campaign opens I will be advocating a policy that has already received the sanction of such a representative convention. Indeed, I think it is only fair to the leader of a party that a party should give instructions, or suggestions at least, in some authoritative way as to the line of policy which they wish their leader to pursue. Of course, things will arise in the interval where the leaders must exercise their independent judgment, but on main questions a convention is useful, helpful and instructive to a leader."

New Minister Proposed.

"The convention recommended the appointment of a Minister of Colonization and Labor?"

"Yes, I am glad of this. I see Mr. Whitney suggests a Minister for new Ontario. That is practically what the Minister of Colonization and Labor will be, although in the matter of labor, his supervision will extend to old Ontario as well as new Ontario. The resolution itself sets forth the necessity for such a Minister. If a private corporation owned 100,000,000 acres of land it would no doubt appoint 100 agents to look after its development and improvement. The staff for the Minister is already in existence under the head of colonization in Crown Lands, and the Bureau of Labor under Public Works and factory inspection under Agriculture.

"Acting on the recommendation of the convention, these branches will be consolidated. If we carry the country it is intended that one of the present Ministers or some other person to be chosen shall be assigned to this new portfolio, and that Hon. F. E. A. Evanturel shall have the Commissionership of Public Works. There may be other internal adjustments of the departments in order to perhaps apportion the labor of Ministers better, but this is the general outline which I have in my mind should Parliament give me authority to create another Minister.

"To sum up briefly, I believe this was the greatest convention without doubt ever held in Ontario, or even in Canada. It was harmonious from start to finish, thoroughly independent in its action and left itself on record as the friend of the municipality, the champion of political morality, the regulator of corporations, the builders of another Ontario to the north, and the promoter of temperance in accordance with an advanced and enlightened public opinion."

CONSERVATIVE PLATFORM.

Mild Temperance Resolution Passed At the Conference—Confidence Expressed in Mr. Borden and Mr. Whitney.

Toronto, Nov. 26.—As expressed in a series of resolutions, which were rushed through at yesterday's closing session in Association Hall, the platform adopted by the Conservative Provincial conference is as follows:

"That this convention expresses its high appreciation of the work performed by J. P. Whitney in the interests of good Government, popular rights and administrative reform. That it pledges itself to uphold him in his patriotic fight for a better condition of things, and that it undertakes to urge upon the people the necessity of aiding his endeavors and of thus rescuing Ontario from a situation that is both intolerable and

A COSTLY OPERATION

Japanese Ordered to Take Port Arthur at Once.

KUROKI'S BODY AT YINKOW

Apparent Confirmation of the Rumors of His Death—All Port Arthur Coal Is Lost—Japanese Hold All the Permanent Forts—The Blockade Perfect—Two Ladies Precipitate Ships Captured.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The Associated Press learns on excellent authority that the Japanese army has been ordered to renew its attack on Port Arthur at once and to take the main fortifications at any cost.

Russians Centre Direction.

Tokio, Nov. 26.—It is reported that the Japanese sappers directed against Rihlung Mountain, Sungshu Mountain and East Keekwan Mountain have reached the base of the centre ditches. The defensive works outside the parapets of Rihlung Mountain and Sungshu Mountain have been captured, leaving the Russians in possession of the parapets only. The Japanese guns are shelling the parapets and inflicting heavy damage. The occupation of the forts is expected shortly. If the forts are taken, the capture of Port Arthur seems to be assured within a short time.

St. Petersburg Expects It.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 26.—The report that the Japanese are concentrating their energies for a desperate assault on Port Arthur in view of the approach of the second Pacific squadron is quite generally credited in official quarters.

Kuroki Dead Again.

Berlin, Nov. 26.—The Loka Anzeiger's Mukden correspondent telegraphs as follows: "According to a report brought by Chinese to Russian headquarters, the corpse of Gen. Kuroki has arrived at Yinkow."

All Port Arthur Coal Lost.

Tokio, Nov. 26.—The usual daily bulletins were received yesterday from the third army headquarters before Port Arthur, and the news indicates that the conflagration caused on Sunday by the naval gun fire from Chungshoo destroyed not only the magazines of the army buildings, but the only coal supply that remained in the fortress. After it was seen that the army buildings were ablaze, shells were constantly dropped upon the scene, so as to make powerless any effort to extinguish the fire. The buildings continued to burn until 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and it is practically certain that all the coal stores were destroyed.

Japs Hold Permanent Forts.

Telegraphing in a second bulletin from army headquarters, General Nogi's chief of staff says: "All the permanent forts are now in our possession. We hold all the advance works on Rulin Mountain and on the entrenched hills farther south, including old Fort Kuropatkin, Kobu Hill, Petou Mountain, Antsze Mountain, Chungshoo fort, all the galleries and mouths of the fort on Keekwan Mountain, the two main forts on Rulin Mountain, Sachitakiyama, and 174 Metre Hill. The enemy is now attempting to defend the city from the redoubts on Kwang Hill, Golden Hill and the forts on White Wolf Hill, which are being bombarded by our fleet off the harbor.

Blockade Perfect.

"An attempt at midnight on Monday to rush our entrenchments between Quail Hill and Orlung fort was repulsed after 40 minutes of fighting, the Russians leaving 30 dead. The blockade of the city from the outer harbor, owing to mild weather in the last week, has been unusually successful. Two ships carrying 25,000 tins of meat and three junks with provisions have been captured. No Russian soldiers remain in Port Arthur proper, except in the westerly entrenchments. Our bombardment yesterday was continuous, and the Russian warships were repeatedly hit by shells. An explosion took place on one of the second-class cruisers. Eleven deserters came in from the Russian line before dawn. They say food, ammunition and water are lacking.

North Sea Convention Signed.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 26.—The North Sea Convention was signed at the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon by Foreign Minister Lamsedorff and Ambassador Hardinge.

Mrs. Beawell Killed By Engine.

Windsor, Nov. 26.—While driving into town Friday morning, Mrs. Edward Beawell, who lives on the Huron line, in Sandwich West, about six miles from Sandwich, was struck by a passing train on the M.C.R., and received injuries from which she died at Hotel Dieu in the afternoon. Mrs. Beawell was accompanied only by her grandson, who escaped with serious injuries.

Missing For a Week.

Windsor, Nov. 26.—William Carley, express messenger for the Canadian and American express companies, has been missing since the 19th inst. No one can account for his disappearance; he gave no intimation of his departure. His accounts are straight. Carley was a drummer in the 21st Fusilier bugle band. Detective Mahoney is investigating the case.

Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1904.

DESPICABLE TACTICS.

It is clear that some Conservative papers are anxious that their readers should not know what actually did happen at the Liberal convention in Toronto. The reports of the proceedings published in a few of them are, says the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, a disgrace to Canadian journalism. No newspaper that is worthy of public confidence will wilfully misrepresent the words and actions of those to whom it is opposed. It may attack them in the editorial columns. But it is not fair fighting, and certainly very far from good newspaper work to misreport what they do and say. That excitement did run high at times at the Toronto gathering is true. That is to be expected when four or five thousand men very much in earnest in regard to the questions that arose for discussion are assembled together. It is not an easy matter to control them. Of course if everything had been cut and dried beforehand and the delegates had looked upon their part in the proceedings as of a purely formal character, there would have been no stirring scenes. Fortunately they came there to make their views felt, and they did so. In the two days occupied a great deal of most important work was done and as a result the Liberal party in the province to-day stands on a better basis than has been the case for many years. It has given emphatic expression to its opinions and these have been incorporated into the platform on which the Government will now face the electorate. The application of democratic principles to the organization, we believe, will result in invigorating it to a remarkable extent. The ideas for which Ontario Liberalism stands to-day have not been imposed upon it by any individual or group of individuals but have been adopted by a body as thoroughly representative of the whole party as any assembly could be. From a great popular movement such as this nothing but good can result to the province. A fair-minded person will not bother himself with enquiring whether good order was maintained at all stages of the proceedings or not, but he will ask to what principles the convention committed the party. Let him examine these and he will find what an advance in our politics the assembling of this great gathering has marked.

KIND WORDS FOR RETIRING MINISTER

Press Opinions and Tributes of Esteem for Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Warm Appreciation of His Administrative and Representative Record.

(Lakefield News.)

It has long been known to many in this riding that Hon. J. R. Stratton has been desirous of retiring from public life in order to give the time which he could otherwise not give to the exacting demands of his private affairs. He has at last decided to retire and in Friday's issue of the Globe appears the announcement of his retirement as Provincial Secretary, with the reasons for his step. As a Minister Mr. Stratton enjoys the reputation of being the best Provincial Secretary who has occupied that position, and proof of this is afforded by the fact that no hostile criticism has been made of his administration of the department, simply it would appear, because no complaint was possible, or it would have been made, because the better work a Minister does, the greater the desire of his political opponents to minimise its merits. While Mr. Stratton will be missed as a Minister, his place as a representative can hardly be filled, that is by a man who will take such a keen interest, such liberal views and do so much effective work in advancing the interests of the riding he represented. No representative could possibly do more than Mr. Stratton has done to advance the interests of all his constituents, irrespective of party, who came to him. He has been faithful to his friends, and his thousands of friends will join in the regret we express at his retirement from public life and the representation of West Peterborough.

(Havelock Standard.)

Among the political sensations of the day, although intimated some weeks ago, is the statement appearing in his own paper, the Examiner, that Hon. J. R. Stratton has resigned his place as Provincial Secretary in the Ontario cabinet, and when the present parliament goes out, he retires from public life and will not run again. In one sense, we are sorry to hear that, for Mr. Stratton seems to have made a good minister, doing his work well and looking carefully after the public business, as well has he done this that we do not remember of any fault being found with him on this score, even by the opposition papers. We all know that he is the "white headed boy" in West Peterborough, where he was elected at the last election by a majority of 1200. He is personally very popular and the cause of this is not far to seek. He is very public spirited and always loyal to his friends and even generous to a fault otherwise. He has a habit of doling kind acts and of being generous in encouraging good objects, it would seem for the sake of doing good. To illustrate our point, witness his gift of a handsome cup to the local Rifle Association to encourage shooting in Havelock. He did not seem to have anything to gain by that for he gets no votes from the East Riding. In fact he is a very friendly man and has looked well after the interests of West Peterborough, and it seems to us that if he wanted to be elected there again, he could easily find votes enough to enable him to so. Altogether, Mr. Stratton has done a lot of good as a public official and there will be many sorry to hear that he has decided to drop out of public life.

(Catholic Register.)

The Peterborough Review, a strong Conservative journal, referring to Mr. Stratton's retirement, acknowledges not only the administrative capacity, but the departmental straightness of the ex-Provincial Secretary. It is pleasant to have this concession voluntarily from the political opponents of a man whose record in connection with the government of Ontario was eminently fitted in regard to sectarian influence, which is not too much to say is frequently if not constantly brought to bear upon all heads of government departments in this province and country. The fact is that the Hon. Mr. Stratton was broad-minded, liberal, and just in his attitude towards the religious minority in this province. While he has not shown favoritism in this regard, he has always taken the equitable view of legitimate claims of the minority, has meted out even-handed justice and has been signally fair if not generous, in both his official and personal capacities and always with a view to the best interests of the people of the province at large. For this reason, but by no means solely for this reason, Mr. Stratton's retirement from the Government and public life is to be extremely regretted. He has shown himself to be a most capable, industrious, energetic and efficient minister. The administration of his many-sided department has involved a large amount of arduous toil. His general discharge of the important trust reposed in him has been marked by thoroughly business-like methods and his capacity for organization has been applied with the result that the machinery of his Department has been reduced to an admirably smooth working system with results of the most gratifying character, both from an administrative point of view and from the point of view of the public interest concerned. Mr. Stratton's management of the public institutions of the province has been gratifyingly successful. The greatly improved condition of the inmates, of the equipment of the buildings, of the efficiency of the staff and of all the general features of management, are due to the untiring energy, close attention to details, and systematic supervision that have been employed by the Minister. Under his management, the accommodation for unfortunates has been largely extended, and in all respects the public institutions of the province of all kinds are in greatly better condition than they were when Mr. Stratton took charge five years ago. In this regard and in respect of all the multifarious duties of his office, the public have received splendid service, and it is to be added as enhancing the credit due to Mr. Stratton, that of the five millions of dollars that have passed through his hands for expenditure on public services, not a dollar can be pointed to as misspent or in the slightest degree deverted from the purposes for which it was appropriated. It must in these venal days be a great source of satisfaction to a minister, laying aside the active duties of office, to leave behind him so excellent a record of honest, effective and painstaking administration and fruitful service in the public interest. The claim that Mr. Stratton was the most hard-worked and hard-working member of the Government is justified by the efficiency, thoroughness and promptitude of the interest of the public service that have resulted.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

New Way of Using Chamberlains Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbour of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cure of the baby. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

LABOUR COLUMN.

Ald. W. J. Johnston Reports to The Labour Gazette on The Labour Conditions in Peterborough During the Month of October—Extension to Industries—Labour Well Employed.

Ald. W. J. Johnston, the local correspondent to the Labour Gazette, sends the following report for the month of October :—

The month has been notable for continued activity in all outside trades. Sufficient men could hardly be found to carry on the work in the building of houses.

The Matthews Company has added a large outbuilding to its premises for the sheltering o fthe large shipments of hogs which continue to pour into its establishment. This firm does a very extensive local and export trade. Extensive additions and alterations have been going on in and around St. Peter's Cathedral; about 2,000 feet of concrete walks have been laid to the several entrances, also improvements in the way of repainting, pointing stone work and new plumbing. The grounds around the edifice have also been rearranged.

A large amount of concrete work is being carried on at the locks dam, deepening the channel and making a permanent structure. A large concrete platform has been laid down all round the Grand Trunk Railway Company's station. Seventy-five carloads of gravel and 500 barrels of cement were used on the work.

Peterborough is to have a new industry, called the Shovel and Tool Company, which has been incorporated with a capital of $80,000.

The Canadian Kodak-China Telephone Company is making good progress in putting its wires under ground in the business part of the town.

Transportation companies and banks reported business very active, and wholesale and retail trade was good in all branches.

The labour market was free from strikes or disturbances of any kind.

CONDITION OF LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

Agriculture.—Farmers were very busy with fall ploughing and threshing. Markets were well patronized and farmers' produce plentiful, excepting potatoes, which, in some parts of the district, were rotting very badly.

Lumbering.—This industry was exceptionally busy. The lumber firms here are putting in their winter camps.

Manufacturing.—Manufacturing concerns in all metal departments (excepting the lock works) were very slack. The lock works were very busy, and could scarcely fill orders quick enough to meet the demand.

Mining.—A rich deposit of corundum has been discovered in the township of Methuen; its value has been placed at $500 per ton. Samples of it will be placed among the government exhibits at Ottawa.

Railroad construction and employment.—The overhauling of railway crossings, the putting in of new ties, and the putting of the several railroads in proper order before the frost sets in has been in progress for some time.

Other industries.—The Peterborough Canoe Company was very busy. The Gerdage Works were exceptionally active. The Central Milling Company was also very busy, and the Colonial Weaving Company received several large orders.

CONDITION OF PARTICULAR TRADES.

Building trades.—All of the building trades were very busy. During the past month it has been very difficult to secure sufficient men to carry on the several works.

Metal, engineering and shipbuilding trades.—Iron moulders experienced a slackness, the men working about 3 days a week in some shops. Iron workers and helpers, machinists and engineers, boilermakers, shipbuilders and bicycles makers were also experiencing distress in trade. Steam engineers were fairly busy. Electrical workers and linemen, metal polishers, blacksmiths and sheet metal workers were busy, but tool sharpeners were not actively employed. Shoemakers were busily employed, and jewellers fairly so.

Woodworking and furnishing trades.—Woodworkers in all lines were actively employed. Upholsterers, varnishers and polishers, carriage workers and coopers were busy. Wood carvers, pattern makers and sliders experienced a slight depression in their lines.

Printing and allied trades.—Printing trades and allied workers in all branches were fairly busy, but not as busily employed as in this season last year.

Clothing trades.—Journeymen tailors were very slack, garment workers were fairly well employed, with hat makers active, and boot and shoe workers very busy.

Food and tobacco preparation.—Bakers were exceptionally busy, and on October 1st raised the price of bread to 1d cents for a 4 lb. loaf, and 10 cents for a 5 lb. one. The best flour is quoted here at $5.10 per barrel. Butchers and meat cutters were also busily employed. Ice handlers experienced [illegible] cuts. Cigarmakers' work here is principally exported.

Leather trades.—The leather trades had a slack period.

Miscellaneous.—Barbers did a good business, and broom makers, clerks and stenographers, hotel and restaurant employees, delivery employees and laundry workers were busy. Furriers were also busy, with some help wanted.

Transport.—Trainmen and telegraphers, switchmen, trackmen and freight handlers were fairly busy. Steamboat transportation was exceptionally active. Street railway employees, cab drivers, hackmen and expressmen were busily employed.

Unskilled labour.—Work was fairly plentiful.

DISTRICT NOTES.

October cheese sold at 9 1-8 cents per lb. There was some 4,000 cheese put on the board for the month. Wood of all kinds continues to sell at very high prices, and coal at $7.00 a ton.

The Lakefield Cement works were exceptionally busy. Apples were a particularly good crop here, and were very plentiful.

The steamer "Sovereign" had a mishap, being overturned in a windstorm. It was bringing a cargo of 200 bushels of pease and 150 bushels of potatoes to Peterborough market; the cargo was badly damaged.

DR. YOAKUM IN TORONTO

Faith Hustler Conducting Services in The Queen City.

Blesses The Editors of Newspapers—Some of The Cures Reported.

Dr. Yoakum, who was recently conducting services in Bethany Tabernacle, here, is now in Toronto, and the Telegram reports a meeting conducted by him as follows :—

"I've seen insanity untharoned, for insanity is only the devil in the mind. The reason we see so much insanity is because people don't know the power of the devil."

So spoke Dr. Yoakum, of Los Angeles, to the Christian Workers in Bethel church last night, as he expounded a portion of the Scriptures relating to the casting out of devils. He has cast out devils. He told of one red-headed woman who had come to him and complained of an irascible temper.

"Come out of her, you devil, you," roared the doctor, and she could ever afterward put her arm round her mother-in-law and say: "Mother of my gracious husband, I love you."

Dr. Yoakum told of a time when he was called to treat a hotel-keeper who had a mania for cutting his throat.

THE STRENUOUS LIFE.

"Everybody else cleared out when I got there, and left just me and the man and his wife. Above us flickered a single lamp. 'What are you doing here?' asked the man. 'I'm going to cast the devils out of you,' answered I. 'Well, you just can't, they're too strong for you. They are dragging me down to hell, and I am glad of it. Well, I called on the devils to come out, and something immediately knocked me down, and the man was knocked down, and the wife was knocked down. And there we lay. And the lamp went out. Every pane of glass in the house rattled, and the old building shook as though a hurricane had struck it. Then the man rose, and said: 'I am delivered. There go the devils out of the door.'"

Dr. Yoakum does not look like one who is gifted with supernatural powers; in fact he looks like an American. His well-filled, middle-sized body is surmounted by an oval head. He wears a closely cropped grizzly chin beard and moustache. His black hair is full and closely brushed. Parted almost in the middle it forms an arch on either side of his high forehead and runs down thickly on the nape of his neck. As he tells his reminiscences he strolls up and down the platform where once Dr. Wild used to preach. He has the nasal drawl that shows his origin.

CURES FOR WEALTH.

Above [illegible] and lady were present [illegible] church was not filled. [illegible] Ryan seated and another [illegible], the congregation knelt in prayer. The prayers are emotional, punctuated by groans, sobs and exclamations from all parts of the congregation.

"We'll now have a prayer for the sick that you are burdened with, the absent ones," quoth Mr. Yoakum. He took a long slip of paper into his hand, and a pencil, calling for any who wished his prayers.

"Salvation for a brother," came from a girl.

"Salvation for a brother; yes," repeated the doctor as he wrote.

"A child, hard of hearing," came a mother.

"A child hard of hearing. Yes?"

"Son a backslider."

"Son a backslider. Yes?"

"A boy."

"What's the matter with him?"

"I don't know, but I think it's cancer of the stomach—but," added the man who had proffered the request, "there's not a thing too hard for the Lord."

"Not a thing," acquiesced the doctor.

BLESSED THE EDITOR.

When the list was complete the doctor knelt and prayed with trembling voice that the long list of sick ones might bear upon their hearts. He blessed, too, the newspapers that gave a notice of the meeting, blessed the reporter that wrote the blessed words, and blessed the editor who allowed them to appear. He prayed for those in authority, naming the King, all presidents, the Mayor and the policemen.

When testimony was called for there was none from those cured the night before. But one cheery fellow said that shortly after noon yesterday he had run into a wagon on his wheel. He limped home. His leg stiffened. His wife suggested that he rub it with oil. (Laughter from the doctor.) He had gone to Pastor Fisher and asked him to pray for it. (That's it" from the doctor.) In four minutes he could swing his leg.

"And this is the leg," he added triumphantly, standing on one and swinging.

The doctor explained how the devil got into people.

"I remember once I said a bad word about a neighbour. I said the bad word, and then I felt a pain in the side. That's how he gets in—through the mouth, d'ye see?"

Ask Convalescent Food.

Mr. Wyman N. Thomas, Ompah, Addington Co., Ont., writes: — "My wife had congestion of the lungs along with other troubles, and became very weak and run down. By the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food she was made as strong and well as ever. Of course I had a doctor, but she was weak, and it was Dr. Chase's Nerve Food which built her up."

A $5,000,000 Gift.

Ottawa, Nov. 26.—Prof. Robertson will address the Canadian Club here on the 28th inst. His subject will be, "What is Being Done for the Betterment of National Life by the Macdonald Funds for the Improvement of Education." It is understood that the amount which Sir William Macdonald intends giving to the new agricultural college at St. Ann's, Quebec, is $5,000,000.

THE BALLOT BOX CONSPIRACY

Frank Reilly Lays it Bare in the Witness Box.

W. J. SHIBLEY AND B. O. LOTT

These Were the Principals in It, Mad Bones Made—Lott and Shibley Met the Cost Between Them—Reilly, As Shibley's Tool, Got Them Shipped Across to Canada.

Belleville, Nov. 26.—Some substantial information was given to the public in the ballot box case yesterday. Phil Lott's astounding narrative of a week ago was considered in some quarters too unnatural to be true, and it is safe to say that very few believed that he would be corroborated in every important detail by one of the men whom he charged with complicity in one of the foulest conspiracies in the political life of Canada. Yesterday the record testimony stands thus: Phil A. Lott vs. Francis J. Reilly against the absent W. J. Shibley, a fugitive from justice, and Byron O. Lott, now under heavy bonds to appear when called. In a lot of small details the story of Phil Lott has been substantiated.

Reilly's Story.

Francis J. Reilly, the Regiopolis College professor, furnished a sensation even greater than that for which Phil Lott was responsible last week. He narrated in detail the circumstances leading up to the manufacture of bogus ballots for use in West Hastings and Frontenac. Summarized his evidence is as follows:

Two years ago W. J. Shibley told Francis J. Reilly that "a scheme was on" for election purposes. A week after Shibley and Reilly met in Watertown. They went to the tinsmith shop of Spratt & Corcoran, where one Carscallen was at work on a ballot box. They took the ballot box back to Kingston.

Shibley asked Reilly to borrow a genuine box, not saying what he wanted it for. Deputy Sheriff Assistine of Kingston, gave Reilly a box and Reilly took it to his boarding-house. Shibley inspected it there and took its dimensions to send to Watertown. The borrowed box was kept so long Shibley thought it would be unwise to return it. It was sent to Watertown for Carscallen. Reilly let some one else strip the box, as he commenced to feel he was incurring a personal risk.

Shibley's Appearance.

In July Shibley appeared again. A man from Boston or New York told him he was foolish to get beaten; that he knew of a "slick scheme." Shibley said he had fixed it up with Carscallen for a supply of ballot boxes on an improved plan. He mentioned something about the handle. Reilly fell. "My scruples were not very strong. I was easy." Meantime Carscallen had mentioned a man named Roof for the job. About the end of the first week of October Shibley brought Byron Lott to see Reilly. They met at the British America Hotel in Kingston. Lott wanted to go to Watertown to see the boxes, and asked Reilly to accompany him. At Watertown Lott registered under an assumed names. Roof said he had "something pretty slick."

Lott Not Satisfied.

This was the first time Reilly saw the bogus ballot box. Lott was not satisfied. The receptacle for the bogus ballots was not large enough, as the majority to be pulled down was pretty large. To dissipate this Conservative majority the tinsmith made the receptacle larger. Reilly went to Ogdensburg. The boxes were to be shipped there to Charles Cavanaugh. He wrote to a personal friend, T. E. Whalen, asking him to do him a favor. Whalen said he would. He is an inland revenue officer at Prescott. Reilly gave Whalen the names of the parties to whom the boxes were to be shipped. They were Phil A. Lott, Central Ontario Junction; John Brenner, Bancroft, and W. H. Carefoot, Kingston, the latter being a myth, as he did not want to involve anyone in Kingston. Whalen went to Ogdensburg, secured a launch and brought the boxes over, secreting them in his barn.

Wanted to Buy Him Off.

After the finding of the ballot boxes in Phil Lott's barn Reilly was summoned to Shibley's house. Lott offered him $500 in a lump and Shibley offered $25 a week if he would run away to the States. He refused. Byron drove him into Kingston and implored him to skip. Two or three days afterwards Byron went to Regiopolis College and tried a new tack. He said Phil Lott had turned King's evidence. Byron said he would deny everything; and tested Reilly as to his idea of the sacredness of an oath, especially if taken on a Protestant Bible. Reilly said if he kissed a block of wood he would consider the oath just as sacred. At the request of Byron Lott, Reilly wrote to the ballot box makers that Lott would pay them a large sum of money if they would stand by him.

Through a Terrible Ordeal.

Reilly was shaky and easily rattled. He passed through a terrible ordeal. It was a struggle with his conscience whether he ought to tell everything, but his conscience won out, and apparently nothing was held back. Even his near friends whom he had dragged into the case did not escape. Reilly looks like a man who would tell a straight story. He knows the difference between right and wrong.

Reilly was treated with every consideration by the prosecuting counsel. He had just come from his bed in the Hotel Dieu of Kingston, and though he looked well, his physical weakness was shown in the agitated manner in which he replied to some of the interrogations. He wanted to let the court know that he had a high sense of honor. He interjected this every few minutes.

Reilly Amused.

One of the amusing features of the examination was the amazement which Reilly exhibited at Phil Lott's astounding deception. Why Phil had actually represented himself at one stage of the negotiations as Mr. Hughes. After that gross deception Reilly believed that Lott was not a man to be relied on, and said so very plainly. Why Lott should move about in this mysterious manner was something that passed the comprehension of Mr. Reilly, who performed his part of the business in the broad light of day.

Henry Kelly's Tale.

Henry Kelly, agent at Central Ontario Junction, testified that one package was delivered to Phil Lott, and another transferred to Brenner at Bancroft.

George G. Thresher, Byron Lott's financial agent, swore that he sent $50 to W. J. Shibley without knowing what the $50 was for.

James Hurst was recalled, and W. J. McCammon continued the cross-examination. He had absolutely no financial interest in the present case. He had paid Phil Lott no money in this connection. He had no expectation of any money whatever.

No. 2 Frontenac.

Councillor Tapping of Ardoch, Conservative scrutineer at No. 2 Clarendon and Miller polling subdivision, Frontenac, was then called. This was the poll where Joseph Hawkeye, the Chicago wrestler, officiated as D. R. O. The genuine ballot box was produced. It was marked "Clarendon and Miller, No. 2.," and Mr. Tapping said this box was not used. Then Mr. DuVernet showed him the bogus box, and Mr. Tapping swore it was similar to the one used at the poll on November 3.

To Mr. McCammon he said he had been warned at noon to look out for bogus boxes and when the poll was closed he put his hand in and found it had a false side.

Package For Brenner.

John Collins, express agent at Bancroft, swore that on October 28 a package was received from Prescott for John Brenner and delivered to Mr. Brenner. Previous to the parcel being received, Mr. Brenner had called to inquire about it.

The evidence of Simeon Ashley, the deputy at No. 2, Huntington, was important. He said he was not a supporter of Byron Lott. Previous to the election Phil Lott asked him if he had heard of the new job on, and he said no, although he had heard of it from Col. Hallwell. He admitted telling the scrutineers that he could have had a box. Although he knew of the fraud, he did not disclose it to the returning officer. It did not occur to him that it was his duty to do so.

The Plebiscite Vote.

Ashley asked the protection of the court when Mr. DuVernet asked him for his knowledge of the plebiscite vote. "Were you there through the plebiscite, when they took the ballot box to Scott's Hotel at Stirling and counted it out?"

Ashley said he was not, and he did not remember being the deputy there. When Phil Lott told him about the box he said it was a foolish idea.

The court, after hearing some further evidence, rose at 6 o'clock and will continue to-day.

The Whalen Case.

While Magistrate Wood was listening to the evidence in a crowded court-room, Magistrate Flint was disposing of the conspiracy charges. T. E. Whalen's bonds were renewed for a week. Edward G. Ruttan was arraigned for conspiracy and locked up in default of bail. Byron Lott appears on Friday, if he does not do as many people believe he will, jump his bond. W. J. Shibley is still among the missing. No one expects to see him here. Several more witnesses will be subpoenaed. Thomas Sproule and Carl Taylor will be asked to tell what they know of the alleged exchange of the box used at the Ardoch poll for a good one. Other witnesses will be Bert Cook, who was with Ruttan on an important occasion, and Horan, the hotel-keeper at Prescott. The name of B. O. Lott was called in the criminal libel case yesterday, but he did not respond. He is not in the city.

A LIBERAL SWEEP.

Remarkable Result of Quebec General Elections—Only Six Opposition—Conservative Leader Refused to Fight.

Montreal, Nov. 26.—Having thirty-five supporters by acclamation to start with, Premier Parent, as a result of the elections yesterday in thirty-seven constituencies, will open the Quebec Legislature with a straight Opposition of only six.

The Liberals practically swept the entire Province, and the only Conservatives who were successful were Hon. P. E. Leblanc in Laval, J. N. Tellier in Joliette, L. P. Barnard in Shefford, A. W. Girard in Compton, G. M. Lafortuno in Maskinonge, and Lemay in Lotbiniere.

In the last Parliament the Opposition had seven members. The leader, owing to the outlook this time, called upon his followers not to nominate candidates, but thirteen straight party candidates were brought out.

The results give sixty-two Liberals, six Conservatives, four Independent Liberals, and two elections to be held—Gaspe and Magdalen.

Shooting Accident.

Newtonville, Nov. 26.—While a young man named Ogden, living north of here, was out shooting Thursday, he slipped and fell forward, losing hold of his gun, which in some way was discharged. Ogden received the contents near his heart. His recovery is doubtful.

Toronto, Nov. 26.—The appeal of Hon. E. J. Davis from the decision of Chancellor Boyd and Mr. Justice Teetzel, unseating him at the trial last September, was opened at Osgoode Hall yesterday afternoon and adjourned for argument until Tuesday.

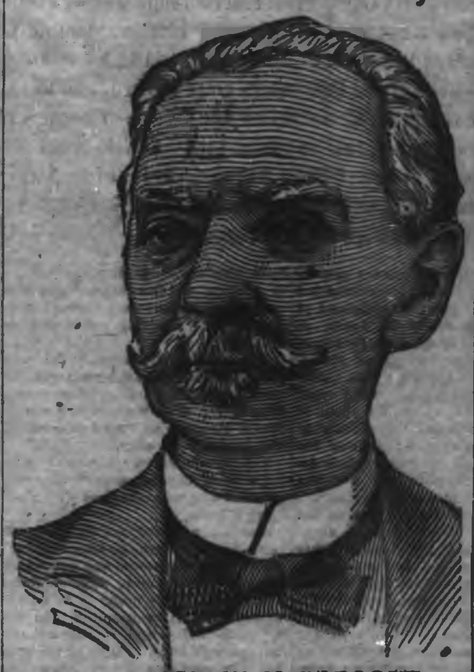
JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT

Was Alarmingly Afflicted With La Grippe. Cured by Pe-ru-na.



HON. W. H. PARSONS.

W. H. Parsons is Ex-State Senator and Ex-Special Judge of the Supreme Court of Texas, also Brigadier-General in Confederate Army. In a recent letter from 925 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., this prominent gentleman says:

"Upon the recommendations of personal friends and many strong testimonials as to the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grippe with which I have been afflicted for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment with this justly celebrated formula. I feel a decided change for the better after using it only one week. It is especially good in toning up the stomach and has had a decided effect upon my appetite. I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her Veteran Cavalry in a four years' war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merits of Peruna as a sense of obligation on my part for its wonderful efficacy."—W. H. Parsons.

Pe-ru-na cures more cases of la grippe than all other remedies combined.

There is no remedy in the world that meets the conditions produced by la grippe better than the remedy, Peruna. Peruna strengthens as it renovates, reaches the source of all diseases of the mucous membranes by its action on the vaso-motor system of nerves.

Every person who has had la grippe during the last year should take a course of Peruna. No one need expect perfect recovery unless they do so. The grippe has produced catarrhal inflammation of the whole mucous membrane, and good health is impossible until these are restored to a normal condition. This Peruna will do. A great many remedies have been suggested for this condition from time to time, but Peruna appears to be the only remedy that has any substantial value in these cases. It has never failed to give satisfaction during forty years' experience and still occupies the unique position of being the leading (if not the only) specific remedy for the after-effects of la grippe.

Henry Dietin, the inventor and maker of all the band instruments for the Henry Dietin Manufacturing Co., writes the following from 1661 South Ninth street, Philadelphia, Pa.:

"I had a bad attack of la grippe last December which lasted more than three months, and which left me with catarrh, and several of my friends advised me to try Peruna. I began with a bottle the first week in March, and it certainly did me a great deal of good. I was so well in about this I purchased another bottle and followed the directions, and can say that it has cured me."—Henry Dietin.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

A reward of $10,000 has been deposited in the Market Exchange Bank, Columbus, Ohio, as a guarantee that the above testimonial is genuine; that we hold in our possession authentic letters certifying to the same. Every one of our testimonials are genuine and in the words of the one whose name is appended.

Sale of High-Class Millinery.

Most unusual values in high-class millinery are offered to the ladies of Peterborough for the next two weeks. Miss Delaney has had to arrange for important alterations and improvements in her store that cannot wait for a more convenient season. In consequence, the stock must be moved out of the way of the workmen without delay. It has, therefor, been deemed expedient to reduce prices on all this stylish millinery to a point that will make a clearing sale do the moving, and do it quickly. Every hat in the show room has been re-marked down to about half former prices. They represent a diversity of the best styles of the season. Thinks a genuine sale and will last only two weeks. 2d

PETERBORO' PARTY IN TRAIN WRECK

A World's Fair Party Going From Peterborough was on Train When Boiler Exploded, Killing the Fireman Instantly and Hurling Fragments of Iron and Steel in Every Direction—None of the Passengers were Injured, and by a Miracle the Train Remained on the Track—Emergency Brakes Brought Train to Stand-still—A Wild Scene of Excitement—Piece of Steel Thrown 400 Yards Away and Imbedded in Oak Tree--Another Train Accident in Which Peterborough Persons Figured.

A despatch from a private source, from Windsor, gives the information that a party of persons, composed of Messrs. Jas. English, W. Lytle, A. Parker, and —. Hooper, of Peterborough, and Mr. Armstrong, of Keene, which left Peterborough last Saturday for St. Louis, was on a train which met with an accident about 70 miles east of Chicago. The boiler of the locomotive exploded, killing the fireman instantly, and completely demolishing the engine, the fire box being literally blown into atoms.

A large piece of steel was hurled 400 feet, and was embedded eight inches in an oak tree, and other large pieces of iron and steel were blown in all directions, but fortunately no one else was severely injured. The train by a miracle kept the track, although it was at the time of the accident travelling at the rate of about 50 miles an hour.

The train came to a very sudden stop, the separation of the engine from the train causing the brakes to operate automatically, and the emergency brake was released giving the party a pretty severe shaking up.

A new engine was sent for and after the track had been cleared the train proceeded on its way, carrying with it the dead body of the unfortunate fireman, who by the accident was hurled into eternity.

The passengers were considerably frightened, but as soon as it was found that the train was safe they quieted down.

Another accident which happened to a train on which some Peterborough persons were, was one which occurred last Sunday, west of Hamilton. The train broke in two by a supposed defective coupling, and beyond the delay and excitement, no damage was done. Both these parties will soon return to town, neither of them any the worse for their experience.

"FIGHTING THE WHITE PLAGUE."

Rev. P. Clifton Parker, M. A. Will Speak here To-morrow.

In Interests of the Free Consumptive Hospital in Muskoka—A Former Peterborough Pastor.

Rev. P. Clifton Parker, M.A., of Toronto, will preach in the Charlotte street Methodist church on Sunday morning and in the Murray street Baptist church on Sunday evening, in the interests of the Free Consumptive Hospital in Muskoka.

At the close of the church services on Sunday evening there will be a mass meeting in the Y.M.C.A. when Mr. Parker will speak on "Fighting the White Plague."

Mr. Parker, who formerly was pastor of the Murray street Church, but has been for the last thirteen years pastor of the First Avenue Church in Toronto, has laid aside his pastorate for a year in order to try and rouse public sentiment on the question of consumption. He has held meetings all over the province and been the means of considerable enlargement of the Muskoka Homes for the Consumptive poor. Some of the cities have built or are building pavilions for their own consumptives and some of the cities and towns are pre-empting beds as the result of this campaign.

It is hoped that as the result of his visit, there will be a branch of the National Sanitarium Association formed in Peterborough, and that efforts will be made to do something of a practical character on behalf of those suffering from this dreaded disease. Mr. Parker states that there is an average of 20 that die every year in this town from consumption; that during 1900 every second death between the ages of 20 and 30 years in Ontario was caused by the white plague; that one-seventh of all the deaths in the province are the result of tuburculosis, and as this is a parasitic disease there are no reasons only our carelessness, our indifference, and our neglect for this wholesale slaughter, as it is in our power to rid ourselves of every parasitic disease.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB'S SPLENDID LECTURE.

Mr. J. S. Willison Will Give Second in the Course.

Mr. J. S. Willison, editor of the Toronto News, has gratified the directorate of the Fortnightly Club, by consenting to deliver the second lecture of the course. Mr. Willison is not, strictly speaking, a lecturer, and he will accept neither a fee nor travelling expenses, but he considers he has a message to the Canadian people, and possesses marked ability. It is a matter for congratulation that he has consented to deliver this lecture. Professor Carruthers will give the third lecture, which will be on Greek Sculpture.

In such capable hands we may look forward to a delightful treatment of a fascinating theme. The club is negotiating with one or two other men of prominence and will wind up the season with an "Evening at Home." Mr. Willison's subject will be "The Independent Newspaper." Meanwhile the readers of the Examiner are reminded that Major Keeler opens the course on Monday night next with his lecture on "India." It is to be hoped that the club will be encouraged by a large attendance. Members only admitted; tickets for full course, 25 cents.

PRESENTATION TO WALTER BURRITT

His Associates of the Colts' Cricket Club Remember Him.

On Eve of His Departure for Guelph—Given a Handsome Gold Locket.

The members of the Colts' Cricket Club, of which Mr. Walter Burritt was a member and during the last season captained the team to many notable victories, last night surprised him at his home, and in view of his departure in the near future from town, made him a presentation of a handsome gold locket, as a mark of their appreciation of his services on behalf of the team, and as an evidence of their estimation of him as being a jolly good fellow.

About twenty of Mr. Burritt's young friends gathered at his home, their coming being a complete surprise to him.

During the evening those present partook of a banquet, Mr. Gladstone Main acting as toastmaster, and Mr. Garnet Greer on behalf of the members of the Club presented Mr. Burritt with the locket, upon which was engraved on one side his monogram, and upon the reverse, "C.C.C., 1904," after proposing the toast to the guest of the evening.

Mr. Burritt responded briefly, thanking the young men for the gift, and expressing his regret at severing his association with such an organization as that of the Peterborough Colts Cricket Club, with the members of which he had spent a great many enjoyable days. He assured them that their gift was one highly appreciated by himself.

The other members of the Club present each gave short addresses in which regret at Mr. Burritt's departure was expressed as well as wishes for his future success. Mr. Burritt will go to Guelph to enter the employ of the Bank of Montreal.

PETERBOROUGH BOY GOES TO THE TOP

Mr. James W. Kennedy Head of a $500,000 Company.

A paragraph appears in the New York Times recording the incorporation of the "Kennedy Typewriter Company," with a capital of $500,000. The Kennedy who gives title to the company, is James W. Kennedy, a former Peterborough boy, and son of Mr. A. H. Kennedy, 445 McDonel street. He was at one time an employee of the Canadian General Electric Company—in the tool making department—and made the model of the typewriter which the new company is formed to manufacture. He has been absent from Peterborough for about six years, and has evidently improved his time. He is chief mechanical director of the company, whose confidence he enjoys to a high degree.

THE OFFICERS WERE ELECTED

Organization Meeting of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company.

Hon. J. R. Stratton Elected President—Site for the Works not yet Chosen.

Last night the organization meeting of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company, Limited, was held in the office of the Solicitor of the Company, Mr. D. O'Connell.

All the shareholders were represented either in person or by proxy.

The minutes of the different meetings of the provisional directors were read, and the business done by them was approved, and the minutes in consequence were adopted.

The principal business last night was the election of the directors of the Company, which election resulted as follows:—

Hon. J. R. Stratton and Messrs. Alex. Elliott, Thos. Fortye, F. J. Jameson, W. Rudkins, Wm. Irwin, D. J. Lundy.

A subsequent meeting of the directors was held and the officers elected were:—

President—Hon. J. R. Stratton.
Vice-President—W. Rudkins.
Secretary-Treasurer—R. H. Fortye.

The authorized capital of the company is $50,000, and it was decided to issue $40,000 of this at once, and of this the whole amount is practically all subscribed.

The machinery has been purchased, and arrangements will be made for a site for the works of the company. If satisfactory terms can be made the site will be chosen in Peterborough, and as soon as it has been definitely decided upon, the company will at once proceed with the erection of the works, and the prospects are that it will be the nucleus of a very large industry, and one which will be a welcome addition to the already extensive iron industries of Peterborough.

DEATH OF MOTHER OF MRS. ELIAS BEAVIS

Late Mrs. Jane Armstrong was Highly Respected.

The death of Mrs. Jane Armstrong, widow of the late John Armstrong and mother of Mrs. Elias Beavis, of Douro, occurred at her home near Garden Hill on November 16th, after an illness of about two years and a half, at the age of 77 years. The deceased was born in Fermanagh, Ireland, and came to this country with her parents when about the age of four years, settling in Kingston city, where they lived. The deceased was a young woman, when they removed to Hamilton township, and the deceased lived there until her marriage with her late husband, when she removed to near Garden Hill, in the house where she died.

Deceased was a very highly respected Christian, though somewhat reserved, having always the confidence and respect of her neighbours and friends. She was a member of the Methodist church for 55 years, though of that broad and liberal mind who showed kindness and respect to all, as was also her kind husband whose death preceded her's six years. In the early days their home was always the home of the minister, considering it a privilege to entertain their pastor.

Mrs. Armstrong was a lover of flowers and books, being a great reader, and she had a wonderful memory to retain what she read.

She was the grand-daughter of a British officer, her grandfather having the proud distinction of having fought at Waterloo. He came to Canada, and took part in the war of 1812, and at the battle of Queenston Heights was beside Sir Isaac Brock when he fell. He was a valiant soldier and of good and noble qualities.

Mrs. Armstrong leaves four sons, Jas. R., of the homestead, near Garden Hill, and John, Isaiah and William, who reside in North Dakota, and three daughters, Mrs. T. D. Cole, of Plainville, Mrs. Elias Beavis of Douro, and Mrs. Halleran, of Regina. Her two sisters were present at the funeral—Mrs. Willis of Cobourg, and Mrs. S. Roddy of Fraserville, who was so lately bereft of her husband.

The bearers were two grandsons, Wilbert and Luther Cole, and four nephews, Harry and Jas. Roddy, and Isaac and William Lunney. Mrs. Armstrong was a lover of the Bible and enjoyed a great knowledge of the word of God, and though sorely afflicted for two years she retained her reason and died in triumphant faith and hope of Heaven.

The funeral which took place on November 19th, was largely attended.—Com.

MR. BOYD STILL A SINGLE MAN.

Coldwater Wife-Seeker has Failed up to the Present.

But he Hopes to Marry a Norwood Lady —What he Thinks of Lindsay—No More Chance for Peterboro' Ladies Either.

Mr. J. C. Boyd, the man from Coldwater, who has been trying to get into hot water by securing a wife, but who has up to the present time been unsuccessful, was interviewed this morning by a reporter of the Examiner. It was the first time the reporter had had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Boyd since the latter's interview with the "lady" in the Oxford House a few weeks ago which was recorded in these columns.

Mr. Boyd was still obsessed on the subject and talked freely regarding his mission for a wife. In Peterborough, he said, were some very pretty ladies many of whom would make him a splendid wife, he thought, but so far he had been unsuccessful in his matrimonial efforts.

"Have you many in view at the present time?" queried the reporter.

"Well I wouldn't like to say just how many, but to tell you the truth, I hardly think I will marry a Peterborough girl," he said.

"Not marry a Peterborough girl!" exclaimed the reporter, "I understood there were several only too willing to accept your offer, and that you had practically decided upon one in the East Ward."

"Well, I have changed my mind and yet granted I have one in view in Norwood," was the reply.

The reporter dropped the remark that there were some pretty nice young ladies in that village and Mr. Boyd agreed heartily.

"Have you been in Norwood," he was asked.

"No, but I met a lady from there a few days ago and I think she would make a splendid wife for me."

"How did you happen to meet her?"

"Oh, a gentleman introduced me to her in the National Hotel, where I was staying, and I had a quiet talk with her."

"What did she think of you?" ventured the reporter

"Well, from what I could judge she thought I was just about all right. But when I was through talking with her, the fellow who introduced me to her wanted $15.00 for his trouble, stating that it was his business to bring about matrimonial affairs."

"Did you pay him?"

"You bet, I didn't, and I decided that I wouldn't have anything to do with either him or the lady. But afterwards I met her brother who was boiling mad when heard about that fellow asking money. He asked me to go down to Norwood to see his sister again, and my chances there seem to be pretty good."

"You seem to be rather hard to please, Mr. Boyd. I understand you have visited Coldwater, Toronto, Orillia, Lindsay and Peterborough, and now you are going to Norwood," said the Examiner man.

"Yes, I guess I am; I would like a lady with some property, if possible."

"Would you live on your farm at Coldwater after being married?"

"No; I would sell that. I don't know just where we would live. Yes, Peterborough isn't a bad sort of a place in which to live. Perhaps we'll come here."

The reporter assured him that it was to be sincerely hoped that he would condescend to live here, as he would no doubt prove to be an influential citizen.

"You say you were in Lindsay. Didn't you see a girl there who would suit you?" Mr. Boyd was asked.

"Not a blessed one," he said. 'Orillia was bad enough, but Lindsay was the limit. I only stayed there one hour."

"When do you contemplate marrying if you are successful in your love making?"

"About the end of March would suit me first rate. I hope to close an agreement by that time," he said cheerfully.

"I saw something in the paper about an interview you had with a lady at the Oxford House a couple of weeks ago," said the reporter.

Mr. Boyd, who was not aware he was talking to the press representative who was present on the occasion referred to, said emphatically that no such interview took place.

"The newspapers are always making up yarns, and I may make it hot for them yet." The reporter remarked something appropriate to the occasion, and just then Mr. Boyd espied a friend of his across the street, and the interesting conversation had to be abruptly concluded.

The reporter, in wishing Mr. Boyd every success in his search, for a companion, asked if there was not the least hope for Peterborough ladies?

"No, I am through with them," he said, so it looks as if the last chance for our ladies has flown.

AN AMUSING INCIDENT.

A rather amusing incident was related to the Examiner in connection with Mr. Boyd. He was walking along the sidewalk in the East Ward not long ago when he noticed in one of the store windows a sign reading "Smart Boy Wanted." Mr. Boyd entered the store and asked the man at the counter:

"What do you want of 'Smith Bard.' He's a brother of mine?"

The sign was taken from the window, and Mr. Boyd was given an opportunity of making a closer inspection which revealed the fact that it was not his brother who was desired. Mr. Boyd stated his trouble and asked for recommendations but met with no success.

—As it is presented by the Berlin News-Record, beet culture is a profitable side of agriculture. An average crop in Waterloo is said to give a return of $60 an acre, and where extra care is exercised the tonnage can be increased and the cost of management reduced so as to produce $70 or $80 per acre. Adding to that the certainty of a crop in wet weather, and the assurance of $4 a ton for the beets, it is argued that it will be found as safe and profitable a crop as can be put into the ground.

—Morrison, one of the young men, who is confined in jail, at Cobourg, on a charge of assaulting a lady in Colborne, has been evidently in poor spirits since his crime has been exposed. He evidently tried to drown his remorse in the cup that cheers, for when arrested at Colborne on Sunday his neck was severely cut, as if he had tried to commit suicide. Morrison comes from Grafton, Collins his associate in the crime, was at one time a resident of Cobourg, being employed at Haynes' livery stables.

WHO PAYS FOR WATER WORKS?

A Suggestion That the Consumers are not Given Justice.

Surplus, According to a Correspondent Should be Used to Provide for Extensions and Repairs.

The suggestion that the Water Commissioners, may find it necessary in the near future to construct a new waterworks dam, at a cost of seventy or eighty thousand dollars, has raised an interesting question in connection with the management of the water works system.

A citizen of the town and one thoroughly conversant with the department managed by the Water Commissioners, has addressed the Examiner on this question, and his observations are such as to warrant full consideration on the part of the ratepayers of the town. This gentlemen stated that, contrary to the general impression held by the majority of people in town, the town as a whole is not paying the money used to purchase the water works from the old company, but the cost is being met solely by the consumers of water. This, in his opinion, is not as it should be, and he takes the ground that since the purchase of the water works was an act which will benefit the people of the town as a whole, it is an injustice to make only those who are consumers pay for the whole system.
